"The Austrians in retreat with the Germans on the roads below Radom, having received reinforcements, and profiting by the wooded and rolling character of the region, offered stubborn resistance to our offensive, which developed into an engagement of considerable dimensions. At that place we captured prisoners, cannon and rapid firers.

"Along the River San and south of Przemysl, desperate fighting continues. An attempt by the Austrians to turn the Russian left wing south of Przemysl failed, the Austrians suffering great losses."

It is declared that the nearest point to Warsaw held by the troops of the Kaiser and the dual monarchy is 40 miles distant from the Polish stronghold. Seemingly the Russian tactics in retiring to the Vistula and encouraging the Germans to attempt an assault on that city, have met with complete vindication. The invaders' lines are bent out of all semblance to a strong defensive, and both armies are declared reeling from the effects of Russian blows. The rejuvenated Austrian corps on the right wing are exposed to a particularly deadly fire and victory rests with Russian arms all along the front.

The steady advance of the cold season will greatly improve the position of the Russians. The Czar's troops are not only inured to cold weather of the worst kind, but actually joy in a temperature that would freeze the marrow of ordinary men. East Prussia, where it seems the next Russian drive will take shape, is a climate of exceptional hardship, and here the Germans will be called upon to face an advancing well provisioned and well satisfied army, in the rigors of an Arctic-like region.

A little brief authority or a few dried apples will puff a small man up to the limit.

THE WAR AND ITS FUTURE EFFECTS

At the commencement of the present colossal conflict in Europe, one of the best known publicists in the United States hurried across the Atlantic to watch events and to report back to America the effects of the strain on the nations concerned. France and England were the countries in his itinerary. He went to Paris. That delightful centre presented an unusual front to the visitors. The boulevards were deserted; the chairs at the cafe tables were unoccupied; trade and mirth were swallowed up in hostile preparations. He went to London. There, the first flurry over, life was as usual. The eye noted a certain restlessness in the street throngs and the ear detected an undertone new to London street traffic an undertone of singular determination. But shops were all open. Business was regular and regularly conducted. Britain had gone to war calmly. She was in for good or ill, and recorded her determination to see the thing through. There was no intention on her part to let war interfere unduly with business. The men at the front would do their part fighting the common enemy the men left at home would do their's in keeping the wheels of commerce well oiled, and in constant motion.

The American was astonished, and said so. He felt the pulse of England beat a little faster when the news came from the colonies and self-governing dominions, promising aid in whatever form it might be desired. He pondered over the vision of a worldwide Empire in spirit, concentrating for war, retaining a close grip upon its worldwide commerce and reaching out for more. The idea that a country like England could go to war with a highly organized and wholly prepared Germany, without fuss, and shoulder her chosen responsibility of keeping the lusty young dominions overseas supplied with a reasonable amount of development funds, and maintain open trade routes to all parts of the world where her citizens had accustomed themselves to doing business, was regarded as something new in national work. So it is. Yet it is merely England's way of emphasizing the fact that in the great scheme of the Empire of which she is head and front, war is but one problem. By demonstrating that it is only an incident in the general routine of Empire-running she has established, more firmly than ever before her commanding position among the nations of the earth.

The most important evidence of the sincerity of this broad British spirit, as far as Canada is concerned, has been given in the provision made for funds enabling the canadian Northern Railway to continue the prosecution of its trancontintinental enterprise. The bankers of Britain, despite the sheltering moratorium, took that decisive action because of their absolute confidence, generally, in the Dominion whose development they have fostered for so many years, and, particularly, in the Canadian Northern Railway, with its splendidly located lines, superior grades and development administration. As a result, the company has been able to actively continue its construction work, the strain of unemployment has been relieved, and confidence has been restored very largely throughout the country.

As a natural effect of the signing of the Treaty of Berlin it is expected that there will be a marked revival of world interest in Canada; and that the tide of immigration, temporarily suspended because of the conflict in Europe, will set Canada forward again. The war harassed people of the Old World will set their faces toward the west, and Canada, her own lessons learned, will profit immeasurably by the exchange. Tonnage will return to the railways, and, owing to that, prosperity will accrue to the nation as a whole. It is essential when that time arrives that the transportation systems of the Dominion be completed to the point where they can handle business more expeditiously. The wielding together of Canadian Northern steel into a continuous rail highway from Quebec to Vancouver is practically guaranteed by this signal act of British favor, and, as a finished network of lines through the most productive portions in Canada it will take its place in the march of Canadian and Imperial development. The line connecting the industrial east with the agricultural west has already been completed. It is expected that the Pacific coast section—Edmonton to Vancouver—will be linked up by the end of the year.

WHAT ARE THE FACTS?

There is much misapprehension as to what the law really is in respect to the teaching of the French language in the Public Schools. Certain of the French journals in the province of Quebec, notably among them La Presse of Montreal, are constantly charging the Conservative Government of Ontario with not only ignoring the demand of French parents to have their children taught the French language in the Public Schools, but forbid it being taught, both of which assertions are without the slightest foundation.

While the French are thus condemning the government there are others in Ontario who are equally strong in their denunciation of the recognition of the French language in the Public Schools other than is the Latin or German languages, forgetting that the Canadian Constitution recognizes the French language in one Province at least, and makes it imperative to print the laws and other documents in that language. True, that law does not apply to Ontario, but that is no reason why facilities should not be provided for the acquiring of that language when required. In England no man is considered educated unless he knows both languages.

The facts so far as Ontario is concerned are: "If a French child comes to a bilingual school it is taught for two years in French and at the same time gets lessons in English. In that time, in spite of the opinion of La Presse, it learns sufficient English to use that language for the remainder of its course. Thus it has acquired conversational ability in two languages. It speaks French at home and English at school. Meantime, as it proceeds in the higher classes one hour a day is devoted to teaching the niceties of French expression and the problems of French grammar. The result is that when the child leaves school it can not only speak both languages with correctness, but it can write a decent business letter in either. La Presse calls this persecution."

CLEARING THE SUEZ

It appears to be the purpose of Great Britain to clear the Suez Canal of German and Austrian boats because they have been using their privilege to anchor in its waters for improper purposes. By the Suez Canal Convention of 1888 it was established that the canal should "always be free and open, in time of war, as in time of peace, to every vessel of commerce or of war, without distinction of flag." This was agreed to unconditionally by all the Powers except Great Britain, who qualified her agreement by the reservation that these terms were not to fetter the full liberty of action of the British Government in its occupation of Egypt. It was by virtue of this occupation that passage of the canal was denied to Spanish warships during the war between the United States and Spain in 1898. But in 1904, by an Anglo-French agreement, Great Britain declared her complete adherence to the terms of the 1888 convention, and in the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-5 Russian warships were allowed the passage which had been denied to Spain. And by that convention all nations, whether belligerents in the present struggle or neutrals, are equally entitled to the full use of the Suez Canal.

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR POOR BLOOD

Mrs. Brunson of Bellefontaine, Ohio, Believes Vinol Is the Best Remedy in the World. Her Personal Experience.

Bellefontaine, Ohio.—"My blood was very poor and I was in a weak, nervous, run-down condition. I tried different medicines without benefit and one day my druggist told me about Vinol. In all I took four bottles and certainly got the results I was looking for. It built me up in every way, blood, strength and nerves, and I tell my friends it is the best medicine on earth. Many of them have used it and found it so."—Mrs. Earl Brunson, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

As long as the blood is impoverished, thin and poor you will be weak, pale and tired all the time.

Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, supplies iron to the blood, purifies and enriches it, while the cod liver elements contained in Vinol creates strength, and rebuilds wasting tissues.

Vinol is not a secret nostrum, simply the medicinal elements of the cods' livers, with the useless nauseating oil eliminated, and tonic iron added. Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not make you stronger, feel younger and give you an added interest in life.

THE GLOBE'S ATTITUDE

No longer ago than last autumn The Globe declared that "to speak of a Canadian army is absurd. Canada has no intention of withdrawing her young men from industrial life to make an army." Last year the British War Office advised as a precautionary measure the purchase by the Canadian Militia Department of cannon, howitzers, machine guns, rifles, uniforms and ammunition. Whereupon the Globe appealed to the voters of South Bruce, where a bye-election was being held, against the waste of money for such purposes.

Three months before this war broke out the Liberal organ called upon pacifist members of Parliament to oppose the Government's militia estimates. Again it accused the Minister of aiming at the preparation of 250,000 men "ready to take the field and provided with ample war material." It is a pity that was not his goal and a pity he did not reach it despite the ill-informed champions of Germany who blocked the way to adequate defence measures on the land as on the sea."—Toronto News.

Is it any wonder that a party with such a record fears an appeal at the present time to the electorate?

WHAT IS NEUTRALITY?

President Wilson says that United States houses may ship anything they like to belligerent powers. They may sells guns and food, copper and shells, goods contraband and otherwise, but the shippers must take all the responsibility and the risk. In other words, is a cargo of ammunition shipped by the United States to Germany is sunk by a British cruiser, it will not be the subject of diplomatic correspondence, but a matter for the shipper who took a chance and failed. At the same time, President Wilson has intimated his disapproval of United States bankers making loans to belligerent governments. This ban includes not only the Dominion Government but also the Canadian provincial governments. What is the difference, from the neutrality point of view, asks the Monetary Times, between a shipment of rifles by the United States to Germany and of a shipment of money from the United States to Canada?

THEY STILL EXIST

A paragraph from the Toronto Globe of the 24th inst. informs the public that the misnamed "Liberal" party held an "annual meeting of the local branch of Hastings Liberal Club," but it does not say when, and elected the following officers: Hon. President, Thos. Ritchie; President, F. E. O'Flynn; Vice-Presidents, E. J. Butler, D. V. Sinclair, J. O. Herity, J. M. Wilson, W. D. M. Shorey; Financial Secretary, J. H. Carr; Recording Secretary, Joseph Templeton; Treasurer, W. S. Smith.

President F. E. O'Flynn occupied the chair and outlined the work of the past year. What a loss to the curious not to be informed what that "work" was! The pleasing feature of the information was that more than $1,000 had been spent in decorating and furnishing of the clubrooms, and that every dollar of indebtedness has been wiped off. How happy the select few must have been when they knew that no other consolation was in store for them.

SUSTAIN THE PAYROLL

That circular message of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association—"Keep Factories Running"—means that for the sake of prosperity the wheels should be kept going and the payrolls sustained. It expresses the truth that the basic fact about prosperity is the payroll. It says nothing about profits or dividends. It recognizes the dynamic efficiency of one thing only—the wages of labor. It is a set aggressive purpose to maintain in a state of earning efficiency the hundreds of thousands of men, who depend on the factories of Canada for their livelihood. But unless the people who spend their money for goods made in Canada, the payrolls can't be maintained.

The merchants of this country need the dollars of the workingmen. Cut off the wages of labor and you close the doors of business. Keep wages going at full strength and the buying power of the country stays up. Buy the products of Canadian factories and you help keep up the payrolls, and to insure your own income. Buy foreign goods and you work against your own safety. The going factory is usually conditioned on the home market for goods made in the country. If its products are bought by the Canadian people, a Canadian factory can keep up its payroll. If not, it must shut down, lay off hands, or reduce wages.

As believers in practical economy practice the principle of self-preservation unless we buy goods made in Canada and keep the wheels of the great organism, sympolized by smokestacks and power-houses, running as near as possible to a peak load,

It's the going factory and the sustained payroll that keep the country united in a time of dislocation caused by a world war. It's the dollars of Canadians spent for goods made in Canada that guarantee the going factory, the substantial payroll, and a new era of prosperity to the whole country. And it's everybody's business, from the financial magnate to the man with the dinner pail, to see that the dollars of Canada are spent for this practical patriotic purpose.

Why Britain Is At War
The Causes And The Issues

"If war were prevented" the Russian Foreign Secretary had said just before the German ultimatum was received,—"it would be largely due to the British Government." The foregoing resume shows how persistently Sir Edward Grey had worked for peace. What he deliberately abstained from doing, no less than what he did, was governed by a desire for peace. At an early stage in the negotiations, the British Governmen was urged both by France and by Russia to make an immediate declaration of complete solidarity with them (July 24). The President of the French Republic repeated the request very strongly on July 30. Sir Edward Grey thought that he was more likely to be useful as peace-maker if this country maintained as long as possible an attitude of detachment. Moreover, the Government had no desire to intervene unless the honor and interests of the country made it unavoidable. At the same time intimations were given that it should not be assumed that under all conceivable circumstances England would stand aside.

The official documents thus show how unremitting were the efforts made by Sir Edward Grey to maintain the peace of Europe and by whom those efforts were frustrated.

They show also how slow the British Government was to commit Britain to any share in the war. That she ultimately became involved was due to causes which had nothing to do with the Balkans.

The German Proposal to England

The decisive day was the 29th of July, 1914. On that day the German Chancellor, who had just returned from the Emperor at Potsdam, sent for Sir E. Goschen, the British Ambassador at Berlin, and had a conversation with him which will always be memorable in history. The Chancellor's words revealed Germany was preparing to attack France through Belgium, and he proceeded to propose a bargain whereby Germany was to secure the neutrality of England in the impending war. The terms of this proposed bargain were these:—(1) First, England was to stand aside while France was crushed, on the understanding that Germany "aimed at no territorial acquisitions at the expense of France." Sir E. Goschen "questioned his Excellency about French Colonies, and he said that he was unable to give a similar undertaking in that respect." England was, behind the back of France, to be a consenting party to Germany's acquisition of the French Colonies, should France be defeated in the war. (2) Secondly, England, behind the back of Belgium, was to consent to Germany's violation of the neutrality of that country—a neutrality which both Germany and England had pledged themselves by treaty to respect. In return Germany gave a promise that "when the war was over, Belgian integrity would be respected if she had not sided against Germany." "The promise was given, be it observed—I am sorry to have to say it, but it must be placed on record—by a Power which was at that very moment announcing its intention to violate its own Treaty obligations and inviting us to do the same" (Mr. Asquith). (3) Lastly, the bargain above described were to form the basis of good relations between England and Germany.

This "infamous proposal" might, said the Prime Minister, "have been thrown aside without consideration and almost without answer"; but in the interests of peace, as already explained, the British Government answered it in language restraint: "His Majesty's Government cannot for a moment entertain the Chancellor's proposal that they should bind themselves to neutrality on such terms. What he asks us is, in effect, to stand by while French Colonies are taken and France is beaten so long as Germany does not take French territory as distinct from the Colonies. From the material point of view such a proposal is unacceptable; for France, without further territory in Europe being taken from her, could be so crushed as to lose her position as a Great Power and become subordinate to German policy. Altogether apart from that, it would be a disgrace for us to make this bargain with Germany at the expense of France, a disgrace from which the good name of this country would never recover. The Chancellor also in effect asks us to bargain away whatever obligation or interest we have as regards the neutrality of Belgium. We could not entertain that bargain either." Sir Edward Grey went on, as already stated to suggest other terms on which good relations between England and Germany might be secured.

The LAPSE of ENOCH WENTWORTH

"It's the bread line. Had you never seen it before?"

"No. Who are the men?"

"God knows!" answered the Englishman, with a thrill of compassion in his voice. "They are a lot of half-frozen, starving, human wreckage, who have been waiting there for an hour to get a loaf of bread."

Dorcas lowered the carriage window and gazed out. Oswald watched her. The girl's face mirrored her feelings so keenly he could feel what was passing in her mind. Her lips quivered and tears hung on her lashes. She could not trust herself to speak.

"I shall never forget how that pitiful line appealed to me the first time I saw it," the man continued, "although I had known the poor of London since boyhood. This homeless, famished, orderly column, growing and growing as one man after another comes creeping from his burrow to hold a place, was too much for me. I stood watching it from that corner," he pointed across the street, "night after night. I used to try to help. In a few cases I did manage to put a man on his feet. The task was generally hopeless, except that I could satisfy the hunger of the moment. During hard winters in New York I have seen the line grow till there were hundreds in it. Sometimes it goes down Tenth street and around the corner."

Dorcas turned to look at him. Tears stood in her eyes and her lips quivered.

"I understand," he went on. "You are wondering why we, well clothed, fed and sheltered from the wind, are here, and they are—there. I do not know. It is a problem as old as the world itself. All we can do is to help individually, man to man."

Dorcas' gaze went back to the bread line. Oswald sat in thoughtful silence.

"Don't think me sacrilegious, Mr. Oswald," she confessed, "but when I see such misery it makes me wonder if the Eternal himself has a conscience." She sat watching the line of patient, pallid men. Stragglers crept up to join it from every direction. "I simply cannot imagine a God who—Mr. Oswald!" She grasped his arm with a half-stifled scream and laid her trembling hand upon his.

"What is it?" asked her companion, rising. "What frightened you, Miss Wentworth?" He stared past her out into the street. The block of vehicles had begun to move. They were again driving slowly down Broadway.

"Nothing," she answered quickly, "nothing but a chance resemblance. I thought I—saw some one whom I once knew. It must have been a mistake."

The Englishman glanced at her curiously. She began to chat about the play and other things. She was trying to forget whatever had startled her. She said "Good-by" at the door of her home. Oswald realized that she was eager to have him go. As he drove away he tried to recall anything which could have happened. A woman of her poise would not be disturbed by a trifle.

Dorcas shut the street door and ran upstairs to her brother's study, where the 'phone stood. She searched distractedly through the directory for the address of a livery from which occasionally she called a cab. The name had escaped her. She stood for a moment trying in vain to recall it, then she rang the bell. Her wait seemed endless before the old servant appeared.

"Jason," she cried impatiently, "who is Mr. Wentworth's livery man?"

"Costello, missy."

"Stay here a minute," she said as she paused for central's answer. Then she stooped to the 'phone.

"Send a cab, please, to 26 Waverly place, immediately."

She turned again to the old servant.

"Jason," she asked, "you have waited on Mr. Merry when Enoch brought him here—sick—haven't you?"

"'Deed I has, missy. Many's de time Marse Enoch en I's done all sorts ob waitin' on him, when he's done been sick, puffectly missuble, missy. Yo'-all don't know how missuble."

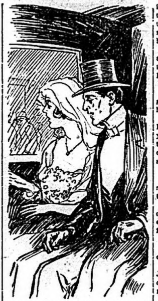
"Can you help tonight? I may bring Mr. Merry back with me—miserable."

"'Deed I can," cried the old man, with eager sympathy. "Yo' des leeb him to me. Lawdy! I t'ink ez much ob Marse Andrew mos' as I do ob yo'-all. He's been mighty good to me."

"Thank you," said Dorcas gratefully. "I am not sure whether he will come, but in case he does, be ready for him. He may want a hot bath and supper. Have a cheerful fire; it is bitterly cold outdoors."

She turned and ran downstairs when she heard the rattle of wheels on the street below.

"Don' yo' want me to go wid yo', missy?" suggested Jason. "Hit's powerfu' late fo' a lady to be goin' roun' New York alone."



"What Frightened You, Miss Wentworth?"

"No; I would rather have you here waiting for our return."

"Tenth and Broadway," she directed, as the cabman shut the door. He pulled up at her signal opposite the bakery. The place was closed, the bread line had dispersed, and the quiet gray of early morning had begun to creep over the street. Occasionally a cab dashed past or a trolley went on its clamorous way, but there were few stragglers to be seen. Here and there a man on foot walked briskly, as if a shelter waited him somewhere. On the sidewalk stood a tall policeman. Dorcas studied his face for a moment, then she beckoned him. He came instantly to the cab window.

"Is this your beat every night?"

"Every night this week," said the man in blue.

"The men in the bread line have dispersed. Do you know where they go?"

"Where they go, lady?" The policeman smiled. "I couldn't tell you no more where they go than if they were rabbits scurrying to their holes."

Dorcas shivered. "Are they absolutely homeless—on such a night as this?"

"A good share of them are." The man spoke with little interest. The misery in the streets of New York was an old story to him.

"Do the same men come to the line night after night?"

"A man has to be mighty hungry when he stands an hour or two waiting for a hunk of bread. If his luck turns he drops out. Still, I've seen the same faces there every night for a month. Are you a settlement lady?" he asked respectfully.

"No." The girl's face flushed. "I thought tonight when we were passing that I saw some one in the bread line I knew, somebody we can't find."

"That happens many a time."

"Do you think," Dorcas asked eagerly, "there would be any chance of his being here tomorrow night?"

"The likeliest chance in the world. If a man's wolfish with hunger—and you'd think some of them were wolfish the way they eat—there's a heap of comfort in even a mouthful of bread and a cup of coffee."

"If I should come tomorrow night—"

"I'll give you any help you want," said the officer kindly, as Dorcas hesitated.

"I don't believe I'll want help. The only thing is—I wish to do it as quietly as possible. It is altogether a family affair."

"I understand. You'll find me here."

"Thank you. Good night," said Dorcas gratefully.

"I didn't bring Mr. Merry tonight, Jason," she said, when the old servant opened the door for her; "but tomorrow night I think he will come."

The following day seemed to Dorcas the longest she had ever lived through. The weather was crisp and cold. She went for a long walk, treading for the first time a tangle of streets in the vicinity of the docks. It was a part of the city which belongs to the very poor. She searched everywhere for one figure. Poverty, famine, and hopelessness seemed to create a family resemblance among men, women, and children. Still—she found nowhere the man for whom she looked. When she reached home at noon she felt tired physically and mentally. She had spent an almost sleepless night. As she dropped off in a drowse she dreamed of finding Merry, of bringing him back to the world where he belonged, of setting his face towards fame, happiness, and an honorable life.

Not a thought of love—the love of a woman for a man—stirred in her heart. She had forgotten her brother's question. There was something singularly childlike about Merry. With his magnetism was blended a strange dash of childish dependence which a few men never lose. It had appealed to the maternal instinct in Dorcas the first time they met.

From morning till night she waited anxiously for news from her brother, but none came. She realized that he was on the wrong clue, but he had left no address, and Dorcas could merely wait. After her walk she lay down to rest on the library couch. A few minutes later she was sleeping peacefully as a child. When Jason came in he closed the shutters noiselessly and covered her with an afghan. The city lights were ablaze when she woke. She waited impatiently for the hours to pass. The policeman had told her it was of no use to come to his corner until eleven or later; it was past midnight when the bread was dispensed. The clock struck eleven when a carriage Dorcas had ordered stopped at the door. Jason hovered anxiously about her.

"You mus' put on yo' big fur coat, missy, please." He was trying constantly to manage her as he had done when she was a little girl.

"Jason, I don't need it; I'm perfectly warm."

"Yo' do, suro ez yo' breathin', missy," he pleaded anxiously. "Hit's grown bitter col' fo' November. Yo'-all 'll freeze ef yo' don'."

"All right," laughed the girl, and she slipped her arms into the wide sleeves. "Just to please you, Jason—remember that—not because I'm cold. Now," she added, "don't get nervous if it is an hour or two before I return. I shall be quite safe. Mr. Merry will come back with me tonight, I know. Have everything as cozy and cheerful as possible. And—Jason—I've got my key. I'll ring when I want you. Don't bother about opening the door." The girl's intuition told her that Merry might have fallen to such low estate that it would hurt for even the old servant to see him. The negro understood.

"I know, missy, I'll do des ez yo' say—but fo' de Lawd's sake do take care ob yo'se'f. What could I say to Marse Enoch if anyt'ing happened to missy?"

"Nothing's going to happen, good old Jason," cried the girl, as she ran down the steps.

The officer was waiting at the corner. He beckoned the cabman to pull up where an electric light would not shine into the carriage, then he stopped for a minute at the window.

"I'll stay near by and keep my eye on you. When you see your party, signal me. I'll give your cabby the order, and he can drive around a block or two and take you up Tenth street. Then slip out and get your—your—friend that way. There ain't no chance of him seeing you come up behind, as he would if you crossed the street."

"Has the bread line begun to gather yet?" she asked.

"Hardly, ma'am. There's a few stragglers hangin' round. Them that come first get the first chance, of course, only it's a nasty night to wait outdoors with an empty stomach."

Dorcas glanced at the handful of men cowering in a shadowed corner. A sudden fear seized her, the feminine terror of midnight streets.

"You don't imagine," she whispered, "that I shall have any trouble? It is possible I am making a mistake in the man. Are there dangerous characters among them?"

"Not exactly dangerous," said the officer slowly. "If they're dangerous it's from hunger. It ain't once a year you find a crook in the bread line. It's too easy to spot them, waiting as they do for an hour or two in that light."

"Thank you," said the girl. She crouched behind a half-drawn curtain in the shadow of the carriage, watching eagerly the gathering of homeless, hungry men. They began to creep toward the bakery from every direction, most of them with a shambling step that told of ill-shod feet or shamed reluctance to beg for food. The skies had been lowering for hours, and just before midnight the first storm of the winter came down. It began with keen, tiny needles of ice, but they stung and froze, for the wind drove them in merciless, piercing flurries. The loitering men crowded together and turned their faces sullenly from each furious cloud of sleet. Hunger was bitter enough without the storm. Dorcas watched through misty eyes. She wondered at the still patience of the throng. Below her in a basement a warm red light burned, and through an open door the wind blew the fragrance of boiling coffee across the street. She saw a man thrust a slim white-faced boy into a shelter between the wall and himself.

"If I were starving I couldn't be patient and courteous," she thought. "The smell of food would madden me. I would batter a door down."

She started suddenly, then for a moment she scarcely breathed. Down Tenth street slouched a tall, stooping figure. The man wore a shabby overcoat which covered his body almost to the feet; its collar was turned high about his neck and an old slouch hat shadowed his face. Dorcas could see little between but a bristling beard. The keenest detective searching for Andrew Merry would not have glanced twice at the figure; Dorcas' eyes followed it with grave perplexity. She had been startled into recognition the night before when the man pulled the shabby hat down over his face. She caught a glimpse of Merry's long, white, slender fingers and noted an impatient, peculiarly graceful gesture which was characteristic of him. Dorcas had seen it frequently, sometimes when he was on the stage, sometimes while he had talked with her.

He paused before facing the glare of Broadway and pulled the hat brim carefully about his face; it might have been for shelter from the stinging blasts of sleet or for better concealment. Then he seemed to gather himself together with energy born of despair. He stepped quickly forward and took his place at the end of the bread line. A hundred men stood between him and the beneficence of food. Others were closing in behind him. Here and there one man turned to speak to another; the man Dorcas was watching stood immovable. He thrust his hands deep in his overcoat pockets, his eyes were fixed on the whitening sidewalk beside him. Dorcas turned to the opposite window and nodded with an eager gesture to the officer. His hand went up. He spoke to the cabman in a low voice.

"Drive round through University place to Tenth—then up toward Broadway. Pull up half-way down the block."

The man turned his horse and moved down the street.

CHAPTER IX.

A Man of Honor.

Dorcas breathed a sigh of relief when her cab drew up beside the bread line. She had thought during her brief drive around the block of the possibility that the man might leave his place; but there he stood, motionless, with head bent defiantly against the stinging eddies of sleet. She stepped from the carriage and passed swiftly along the sidewalk beside the line of a city's poor. She hesitated for a few seconds when she reached the corner, then she stretched out her hand and laid it on the wet sleeve of the man before her. He turned and stared at her for one dazed moment. He did not speak. Instinctive courtesy reminded him that this was no place for a woman in a midnight storm, and his desire to protect her caused the hunger to be forgotten. He stepped quietly from the sidewalk and without a word moved beside her down the street. The movement caused a score of men to turn with quick curiosity, but suddenly a cry ran down the line: "The door's open!" Everything else yielded to the march toward food.

Dorcas swiftly led the way to the carriage. When she opened the door and beckoned Merry to enter he hesitated, the blood flushing into his wan face.

"What do you want, Miss Dorcas?" he asked quietly.

"I want to talk with you," answered the girl. "Do get in, please—out of the storm."

Merry handed her in, then followed and shut the door. "I cannot go home with you," he announced stubbornly.

"Enoch is away. He's in Montreal, and there is nobody at home except Jason and me. I have so much to say to you," she cried appealingly. "We can't talk driving through the streets on such a night as this."

Merry stared at her for a minute with dogged obstinacy in his gaze.

"Won't you come?" urged the girl impetuously. Her color deepened and an eager light shone in her eyes. "There is so much I want to say. We shall be quite alone. You can trust Jason. Afterwards you may go away—if you wish—and I will promise never to attempt to find you. I will try to forget you."

Merry stretched out his hand and touched her arm, leaning forward until his face was close to hers. "Miss Dorcas, don't say that. Since I left you that night on Juniper Point I have lived a lifetime of happiness and horror and remorse. One thing alone has saved me from going over the brink of the precipice, simply one thing." He lifted his eyes to hers. "The one thing," he repeated, "that I could not fling away was the memory that you trusted me, that you believed in me, and were waiting for me to make good."

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier left Ottawa for Quebec to confer with some of the leading men in his constituency. He will probably address at least one meeting.

The heading mill of the Sutherland-Innes factory of Chatham was completely destroyed by fire Saturday night, involving a loss of several thousand dollars.

Thieves entered the Lyons Tailoring Co. establishment at Chatham on Saturday night and stole a suit of clothes, an overcoat, a sweater and other small articles.

The death occurred Saturday of Elizabeth Sheldon Lyman, 81, one of Kingston's oldest residents. She was the relict of the late Theodore Lyman and was born at Bennington, Vt.

In sight of the marine observers at the mouth of Honolulu harbor, the Japanese battleships Hizen captured and sank the German steam schooner Aeolius, supposedly from the Marshall Islands.

The hotelmen of London are organizing to wage a strong fight against the campaign of the London Social Service Federation to reduce the number of licenses from 26 to 20 in January next.

Word is to hand that a brother and a nephew of Lieut. Brook of the London detachment of the Royal Canadian Regiment, have been killed in action in France. Both were attached to British regiments.

Anti-German riots occurred early yesterday in the Clapham district of London. A German baker's shop was wrecked, and police reserves were called out and dispersed the rioters, who numbered several hundred.

FLOUTS MONROE DOCTRINE.

German Ambassador Says It Cannot Stop Attack on Canada.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26. — Germany's right to land tropos in Canada, if possible, and thus secure at least a temporary foothold on the American continent, was upheld yesterday by Count Von Bernstorff, German Ambassador here, who declared this would not be a violation of the Monroe doctrine. The Ambassador suggested that, as Canada was sending soldiers to Europe to fight against his country, the United States should not consider it in any sense an infringement on the Monroe doctrine if Germany should land an armed force on Canadian soil.

Discussing his now much talked of note of Sept. 3 to the State Department here, explaining the attitude of the German Government towards the Monroe doctrine, and giving assurances that Germany was not contemplating any South American colonization scheme in the event of victory over the allies the Ambassador said only South America was referred to at that time because there had never been any question raised as to possible German attempts to seek colonization in any other part of the American hemisphere.

Must Behave In Antwerp.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The military commander of Antwerp, Maj.-Gen. Von Dodenhausen, has issued a proclamation which also bears the signature of Burgomaster Deves, instructing all German troops that they must not commandeer whatsoever, the privilege being confined only to officers, and may be used by them only in cases of military expediency. Soldiers are explicitly forbidden to break into shops or in any way abuse the populace. Antwerp, says the proclamation, was only surrendered on the understanding that the troops would not misuse their power.

Hon. Colin Campbell Dead.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 26.—Hon. Colin H. Campbell, formerly a member of the Manitoba Government, in which he was successively Attorney-General and Minister of Public Works, died on Saturday at 9.30 p.m., after a long illness.

SUBMARINE RAMMED.

German Craft Is Sunk By British Destroyer Badger.

LONDON, Oct. 26. — Official announcement is made that a German submarine has been rammed and sunk by the British destroyer Badger, Commander Charles Freemantle, off the Dutch coast. The Badger's bow was somewhat damaged.

Details of the ramming of a German submarine by the British destroyer Badger, indicate that the action was Homeric in character, and that the commander of the Badger acted with great presence of mind. It seems that the German craft appeared on the surface suddenly, but a short distance from the Britisher, Capt. Freemantle immediately swung his vessel to meet the foe bow on, thus reducing the probability of a hit by the German. Without waiting to train his guns on the submarine, Capt. Freemantle ordered full speed ahead and rammed the German before she could fire a projectile. The little craft sank like a log. Although the bow of the Badger was considerably crushed she made her base without trouble.

Millions Given To Fund.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The Prince of Wales' Fund has reached a total of $16,939,000. A great part of it being used for the relief of Belgian refugees, and the balance is to be devoted to the aid of soldiers wounded in the conflict and their dependents.

CANADIANS IN EGYPT?

Berlin Advices Say 14,000 Are Guarding the Suez Canal.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A despatch to Reuter's from Amsterdam says that the following message has been received at Berlin from Constantinople: "According to news received from well-informed quarters in Constantinople, the British Government during the last few days has sent numerous Canadian troops to Egypt. Fourteen thousand men have been stationed along the Suez Canal.

EMPIRE LOSES VETERAN DIES IN LONDON

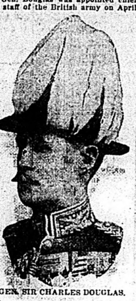
LONDON, Oct. 26. —Gen. Sir Charles Whittingham Horsley Douglas, chief of the Imperial General Staff and first military member of the Army Council, died yesterday.

Gen. Douglas was appointed chief of staff of the British army on April



GEN. SIR CHARLES DOUGLAS.

1 last, following the resignation of Sir John French, the present commander of the British expeditionary force on the continent. Sir Charles was born in 1850 and had served in all Great Britain's wars since the Afghan campaign of 1879. He had been inspector-general of the home forces since 1912, when he was made chief of the general staff.

LANDING PARTY SUFFERED.

Only a Few of British Sailors Got Back To Their Ship.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A despatch to The Evening News from Dunkirk gives heretofore unpublished details of the bombardment of the Germans on the coast of Belgium by British monitors.

"The Admiralty had stated previously that the British naval loss was slight, and the correspondent sustaining this says that only one ship was damaged, but adds that the landing party which the Admiralty statement referred to as going ashore with a machine gun, suffered severely, losing a lieutenant and a number of men who were picked off by German sharpshooters. The gun was of necessity abandoned and only a handful of the Britishers got back to their ship."

The correspondent states that the Germans placed guns in gaps between houses along the shore, adding:

"The British ships steamed down the coast at full speed, giving the Germans their starboard guns. Then they turned and came back, letting go their port guns. By the time they next came by the German guns were silent, and an ambulance had appeared and was picking up the dead and wounded."

LEARNING THE TRUTH.

Germans Beginning To Feel Despondency As Facts Are Realized.

LONDON, Oct. 26. — An Amsterdam despatch says: "Messages received here indicate that the fighting south of Ostend has caused depression and pessimism, which prevails not only in Berlin but throughout the German empire, the old boastful, cocksureness having passed away. From many quarters confirmation is received of the rumor that German officers have been advised to send their women folk from Brussels at once. Now that the troops are gradually learning that the Germans are not in Paris and that all news of victories supplied to them during the last few weeks was false, the feeling of despondency among the enemy deepens."

A telegram from Basel received here confirms the retirement of Gen. Helmuth Von Moltke as chief of German General Staff on Oct. 22. He requested Emperor William to be relieved from his post because of his poor health. His resignation was accepted, but it is not definitely known who will succeed him. Three candidates are seeking the position.

BOBS INSPECTS TROOPS.

Four Hour Visit Is Made Amid Almost Continuous Rain.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Lord Roberts made his round of Salisbury camps in almost uninterrupted rain. His stay extended over four hours, during which the officers of every brigade came under his notice, several battalions also parading for inspection. Before leaving camp the veteran soldier expressed his keen pleasure at everything that he has seen. He extended his congratulations to Divisional Staff Bishop Taylor Smith, chaplain general of the forces. On his visit to the camp, he was attended by Major Stacy, divisional chaplain.

Services were held at Bustard, west, down south, but owing to the wet, there was no parade, services being held in the marquees.

A noteworthy fact on the voyage to England was that holy communion was celebrated daily on those transports carrying chaplains.

Won Her.

"Do you know," he said, "that every time I look at you I have thoughts of revenge?"

"Why?" she gasped.

"Because," he answered, "revenge is sweet." Then she told him she thought tomorrow would be a good time to see papa.

BOTH SIDES SUFFERED

Fighting Around Lille of the Fiercest Description.

Black Watch and Royal Irish Have Been Hardest Hit In Struggle Near Lille, Where British Troops Are Chiefly Involved — German Supply of Men Seems Inexhaustible and Generals Are Desperate.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—The hardest engagement since the commencement of the war is now on from the coast down to Arras. The principal scene of conflict is around La Bassee, virtually dominating Lille, where the German troops threw themselves in masses against the allies. For the most part British troops are engaged here.

Both sides have suffered terribly. The Black Watch and Royal Irish Regiments have been in the thickest of the fighting, and the British casualty list is very great, although much smaller than that of the Germans, who encountered them in solid formation.

There has not been a minute's respite in the conflict since Friday morning except during the darkest hours of the night, but even then the artillery of both armies kept up a continuous duel.

The Germans appeared at this point to have an inexhaustible supply of men, whom they did not spare. Everywhere where one man fell two seemed to appear to fill the gap. The allies, however, have at their disposal fresh troops, and succeeded in repulsing the Germans whenever they pushed a formidable attack home.

All the transport arrangements of the allied troops are working splendidly and the men at the front are kept well fed and supplied with ammunition. The ambulance services are admirable; the wounded are not left long on the field, but are transported to nearby hospitals.

The Government authorities have been making special efforts to attend the wounded; all the railways have joined in the organization and have placed sufficient ambulance cars at the disposal of the authorities to carry 70,000 men, while many can be transported by the river canal barges, which are fitted with beds and supplied with surgeons and nurses.

The battle right along the Belgian frontier is of the most violent character, and, according to latest advices brought in by officers from the front, the allies are holding their own well and the general position is considered satisfactory. Near the coast the valley of the Yser has been inundated by the allies in order to offset the offensive of the Germans, who are not able to advance through the boggy land, which at one time formed an arm of the sea.

AUSTRIANS OUTFLANKED.

Montenegrin Force Inflicts Severe Blow On the Enemy.

NISH, Oct. 26.—(By way of London.) — The Servian War Office has issued the following:

On Oct. 19 a detachment of the enemy advanced from Modropolje, north of Kalinovik (Herzegovina), against the flank of the Montenegrin troops east position at Kalinovik. A Montenegrin detachment from Bovazitz perceiving the enemy's movement, attacked their flank and defeated them, capturing a mountain gun, nine caissons and a large number of rifles.

On Oct. 21 a battle took place along the Bosnian front, both Servians and Montenegrins taking part. The Balkan allies repelled all attacks and took 200 prisoners, including one field officer and four subalterns.

In view of the enemy's severe attacks, the Montenegrin troops have been compelled to fall back a little behind their positions.

An official statement issued at Vienna on Friday said that Servian and Montenegrin forces which had penetrated the southeastern Bosnian frontier, were defeated on Oct. 22, after a battle of three days.

CHINAMEN MURDERED.

Lee Yuen and Lee Duck Discovered Dying In Brantford Store.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Oct. 26. — A murder was discovered here yesterday afternoon at 14 1-2 Dalhousie street, in a Chinese store, where the proprietors, Lee Yuen and Lee Duck were found with their heads smashed in with a hatchet. Both were alive when discovered, but Yuen died on the way to the hospital and Duck has no chance of recovery. A blood-stained hatchet found in the sleeping-room, where the tragedy was enacted told the tale of an early morning struggle. The discovery was made by a friend of the pair who was making a Sunday afternoon call. It is believed that the murder took place early Sunday morning and that robbery was the motive. The people upstairs heard the cries of the Chinamen as they were being struck down, but dismissed the matter as a trivial incident and did not investigate the cause of the alarm.

Canadians Making Shirts.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—An order for one and a half million shirts for the British forces has been allotted among the various shirt manufacturers in Canada by the British purchasing agents now in Canada, acting in conjunction with the Canadian Government. The order will keep almost every shirt factory in Canada busy during the winter work.

Two More Bandits Killed.

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Oct. 26.—Two more of the five bandits who robbed the First National Bank of Sedro-Wooley of $20,000 last Saturday night, killing a boy and wounding two citizens as they fled, were shot and killed by officers early Saturday.

GERMANS CROSS YSER.

They Have Advanced Between Nieuport and Dixmude.

PARIS, Oct. 26. — The chief announcement of the day in Paris concerns the hard fighting which is going on near Dixmude.

The following official communication was issued by the French War Office last night: "The action has continued under the same conditions as on preceding days. A battle of a very violent character is in progress between Nieuport and the River Lys. The German forces have succeeded in crossing the Yser between Nieuport and Dixmude."

"To the west end and south of Lille, spirited attacks by the enemy have been repulsed.

"Between the Oise and the Argonne there is nothing to report, except several small advances by our troops to the northwest of Soissons and in the region of Craonne.

"On the heights of the Meuse there is an artillery engagement. In the Woevre region our heavy artillery holds to-day under its fire the road connecting Thiacourt, Nonsard, Brussels and Joinville, which is one of the principal lines of communications of the Germans near St. Mihiel.

"It is reported that yesterday in the Argonne region an entire regiment of German infantry was annihilated during an operation which was extended to the wood to the north of La Chalade."

The Sunday afternoon French official communication follows: "There is no change to report between the sea and the region around Arras.

"In the Argonne region our situation is maintained under the conditions announced yesterday.

"On the upper Meuse our field artillery has destroyed three more German batteries, one of which was composed of guns of heavy calibre."

The last previous French official statement, issued late Saturday night, said that from the sea to the region to the south of Arras violent attacks of the Germans had been everywhere repulsed, and that "west of the Argonne region we have carried the Village of Melzicourt, which commands the road leading from Varennes to the valley of the Aisne."

Should Breed More Horses.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26. — Reports to the Department of Trade and Commerce from England show that the food supply in some respects at least is not seriously affected by the war. In Manchester, the supply of fresh fruit and vegetables is obnormally large and prices are lower than in former years. One firm of fruit preservers is packing 40,000 pots, or 325 tons, every day for the soldiers at the front and in training. British authorities on live stock are advising the farmers actively to turn to horse breeding, because of the enormous sacrifice of horses in the war, and the great demand for them that is bound to continue after the war.

Long Honeymoon.

Marriage among Moslems in India is followed by other ceremonies. The bride, with the bridegroom, is taken back to her father's house after four days; then again she comes back to her husband's house after ten days' stay and then after a stay of twenty days returns to her father's house for at least six months. Thus instead of having a short period of honeymoon they make it last almost a year.

WHY NOT DONATE THE ARMORIES?

So great was the popularity of "The Courtship of Miss Canada" given in City Hall last week, that many who were unable to attend because of lack of accommodations, are anxious to have it repeated in larger quarters. As a portion of the net proceeds would go to the Patriotic Fund, it might be a good idea to donate the Armouries for the purpose, thus giving those desirous of enjoying the operetta an opportunity of attending. We feel sure that a third presentation would be well patronized, and the fund materially benefited. What say those in a position to grant the use of the Armouries?

SUDDEN DEATH OF CITIZEN

At Sturgeon Falls on Saturday, death came suddenly to Mr. Prosper Frechette, a well known resident of this city. Some two weeks ago deceased left here for Sturgeon Falls, where his brother resides. On Friday evening Mr. Frechette retired apparently as well as usual, but on Saturday morning was found dead in bed. Heart disease is given as the cause of death. In 1850 deceased was born in Quebec. When a young man he came here and engaged in his occupation as a hewer. For over 40 years he had lived in Belleville, where he was widely known and much respected. The body arrived here yesterday and was taken to Tickell & Sons' undertaking establishment, where it was prepared for burial, and subsequently taken to the family residence, 151 Church street. Mr. Frechette was a member of St. Michael's church. A widow, three sons and three daughters survive, also five brothers and two sisters. The sons are Joseph, Prosper and Clayton of this city, and the daughters are Mrs. W. J. Lynch, Mrs. E. Doyle and Miss May, all of this city.

RIFLEMEN FORM

Editor Intelligencer,—

The work of the Belleville Rifle Association this season has been so excellent, the attendance so regular, the earnest and capable coaching of the instructors so assiduous, that they deserve a word of public commendation. To those who realize the obect sought to be attained, the example sought to be given, the following stirring lines by Tennyson, written many years ago to "The Times," will strike a responsive chord.

Yours truly,
W. N. PONTON.

RIFLEMEN FORM

There is a sound of thunder afar,
Storm in the South that darkens the day!
Storm of battle and thunder of war!
Well if it do not roll our way.
Storm, Storm, Riflemen form!
Ready, be ready against the storm!
Riflemen, Riflemen, Riflemen form!

Be not deaf to the sound that warns,
Be not gull'd by a despot's plea!
Are figs of thistles? or grapes of thorns?
How can a despot feel with the Free?
Form, Form, Riflemen form!
Ready, be ready to meet the storm!
Riflemen, Riflemen, Riflemen, form!

Let your reforms for a moment go!
Look to your butts, and take good aim!
Better a retten borough or so
Than a rotten fleet and a city in flames!
Storm, Storm, Riflemen form!
Ready, be ready against the storm!
Riflemen, Riflemen, Riflemen form!

Form, be ready to do or die!
Form in Freedom's name and the King's!
Riflemen, Riflemen, Riflemen form!

ALIEN ENEMIES HAVE NO RIGHTS IN COURTS

An interesting alien enemy case was aired before Chief Justice Falconbridge at Osgoode Hall, Toronto on the 23rd. A motion for a stay of proceedings on behalf of his Austrian clients, Feko Dumenco and his wife, who are suing the Canadian Swift Company, in connection with the death of their son, was asked for by counsel for the plaintiffs. His Lordship, however, dismissed the motion, contending that although the action had been commenced before the war, plaintiffs haave since become alien enemies. This dismissal, however, does not act as a bar to subsequent action on the restoration of peace.

Value of the New Educational Helps

EVERY USEFUL FEATURE IS SHOWN IN A MOST UNUSUAL AND UNIQUE MANNER.

Find the best way to do a thing and then do it that way. This is indeed a good motto for anybody to follow. It seems to have been an established rule with the publishers of the New Illustrated Bible which The Intelligencer is now presenting to its readers.

The wonderful new educational helps contained only in this great work comprise exactly what everybody most needs and should have in a volume of this kind. Most of the topics are of purely historical character, taking up the peoples and the land of those days and touching upon geographical data and historical events of that time. These original instructive helps constitute a complete educational course that can be had from no other source.

The correct pronunciation of every proper name is indicated by a system of accents and diacritical marks, which will enable you to read with absolute certainty of pronouncing, with the utmost accuracy, even the most puzzling Scriptural names of people and places. The marginal references and varient readings are more profuse than in other editions.

The superb maps, in brilliant colors, were engraved especially for this edition and are not procurable elsewhere. They are remarkable for their accuracy and mechanical execution, being artistically printed from perfect new plates. The colors are tasteful and artistically blended.

Then besides the unique feature of illustrations printed in with the type where they belong, there are all of the best of the world-famous Tissot pictures. These are full-page plates in colors, and go to make this volume a rare work of art in every respect.

On the whole, this New Illustrated Bible which The Intelligencer presents to its readers is a modern volume in every respect, and the splendid illustrations alone make it superior to all other editions. Present six educational certificates and get this great work at once. To-day's certificate is printed on another page, where the entire plan is fully explained.

Snappy Basket Ball Game

Saturday afternoon the High School grounds were crowded with boys and girls eager to witness the basket ball games between the girls of Trenton High School and those of B.H.S.

In both the Junior and Senior games the Belleville girls were victorious, the score in the Junior game being 31 to 18 and in the Senior 19 to 7.

The line up for the junior game was as follows:

Trenton—Forwards, M. Shurie, F. Thompson; centres, V. Richardson, G. O'Rourke; guards, O. Smith, V. Stinson.

Belleville—Forwards, S. Collins, H. Manley; centres, S. Bonisteel, H. Coughlin; guards, E. Sayers, K. Mills.

The line-up for the Senior game:

Trenton—Forwards, D. Whittier, L. Young; centres, S. McGorman, E. Sweanor; guards, E. Powers, C. McGorman.

Belleville—Forwards, F. Curry, N. Elliott; centres, M. Yoemans, B. Sayers; guards, R. Sinclair, I. Boyle.

After the game the High School girls entertained the visiting teams at a banquet in the H. S. Building after which Mr. McLaurin proposed several toasts, to which all heartily responded.

CHIEF NEWTON MEETS WITH ACCIDENT

On Friday afternoon Chief of Police Newton of this city met with an accident which will no doubt confine him to his house on Ann Street for some time. The Chief was engaged in picking apples in his garden, and while thus occupied was standing upon a ladder, from which he fell to the ground with considerable violence, resulting in three of his ribs being fractured. Chief Newton also sustained painful bruises about the body.

WOMAN INJURED BY A SHOT GUN

Mrs. Jones, a resident of Rawdon township, near the village of Harold, was brought into the City Hospital here, on Saturday afternoon suffering from gunshot wounds in her ankle. On Friday night at 10 o'clock a gun was discharged at her window by some unknown persons with the probable intention of scaring Mrs. Jones. Unfortunately the discharge struck her in the foot. About 25 shots were removed. Amputation of the foot is not considered necessary.

MORE AUSTRIANS TAKEN

At Windsor Over Fifty Have Been Arrested; These Three Had $500.

WINDSOR, Oct. 26.—(Special.)—Three Austrians, with railway tickets and boat tickets to Europe, were taken off a Grand Trunk train here last night and turned over to the military authorities as prisoner of war. They will be held at the Windsor Armories for a few days, and will later be taken to Kingston prison until the war is over. They had $500 between them. More than fifty foreigners have been arrested since the outbreak of the war.

MOTHER BRITAIN AND HER SONS

The following written in England, exclusively for the Intelligencer, is published with pleasure.

We are coming, Mother, coming—we are coming home to fight,
To defend the Empire's honor, to uphold the Empire's right.
From the plains of Manitoba, from the diggings of the Rand,
We are coming, Mother Britain, coming home to lend a hand.
From the Islands and the highlands fast across the seven seas;
Look, where'er the sun is shining, and your flag is in the breeze.
We'll prove our breed in your hour of need, and teach the baby Huns,
Who strike at Britain, they must likewise reckon with her sons.

We are coming, Mother, coming—save a good place at the front;
Where the battle wages fiercest, let your children bear the brunt.
'Tis a long way from Australia, and we've earned the right to stand
In the first ranks, Mother Britain, have your orders when we land
From the islands and the highlands, from the outposts of the arth,
On a hundred ships we hasten to your side to prove our worth.
We've come to stick through thick or thin, and woe betide the ones
Who dare to smite the Mother-might, forgetting of the Sons.

We are coming, Mother Britain, we are coming to your aid.
There's a debt we owe our fathers, and we mean to see it paid.
From the jungles of Rhodesia, from the snows of Saskatoon,
We are coming, Mother Britain, and we hope to see you soon
From the islands and the highlands, just as fast as we can speed,
We are hastening to serve you in the hour of your need.
For, wherever peril calls abroad for loyal hearts and guns,
We'll show the foe, that weal or woe, we're Mother Britain's sons.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section, alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—30690 dtf

Bandit Fight Fatal to Four

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 24.—Two robbers dead, one dying and two yet at liberty is the list of casualties on the side of the enemy in the battle between the Austrian bank bandits and the authorities near the international boundary at Blaine yesterday morning. Clifford Adams, a young Customs officer, was the only official killed.

The five bandits who held up the Sedro-Woolley Bank last Saturday night attempted to cross the boundary into Canada yesterday morning. In the first fight with the boundary officials Adams was killed, while one of the robbers was also shot dead and a second wounded. The latter was taken to Cloverdale this afternoon. He was apparently disabled by the officers' shots and then probably fired at by his fleeing companions, for he is suffering from a scalp wound dealt by a revolver held so close to his head that his hair was singed. Just after noon yesterday another robber was wounded at Hall's Prairie. He drew his own revolver and shot himself while the officers raced forward to catch him. At dark the posses were still out, but it looked as if the remaining two or three had escaped. The country is, however, well policed not only by regular officers, but by members of the home guard formed since the start of the war. These amateur warriors rendered quite valiant assistance to-day.

Retreat is Now Becoming Rout

Enemy Panic-Stricken to Find Efforts Unavailing

DUNKIRK, Oct. 24.—"The Germans are running like hares. They know they are fighting a losing battle!" In these few words a French officer, who returned to Furnes in charge of a convoy of wounded, described to me the brilliant manner in which the Allies' forces are forcing the German right wing further back into Belgium. "The German retreat," he said, "threatens to become a rout. The Germans have been attacking the Allies near Nieuport with extraordinary violence, and now that they see their efforts avail them nothing, they are panic-stricken.'

It is said that seventeen hundred Germen dead have been buried near Nieport, while their total casualties in this region are said to exceed ten thousand so terrific has been the fighting in Belgium and northwestern France during the week. The large number of German dead and wounded is partly accounted for by the fact that a large portion of the reinforcements were raw and almost untrained recruits.

It is reported that thirty thousand Germans, who had strongly entrenched themselves between Ostend and Nieuport, have been hurled back on the former place. They are said to have left behind them in their flight a considerable number of guns, rifles and other equipment. It is also reported, though I have no confirmation of it, that in the recent bombardment of the German lines by the British fleet the enemy lost a convoy eight miles long, which was totally wrecked by the naval guns.

Canadian Soldiers In England

The fact that the Canadian Expeditionary Force is now under English command and will be accorded all the traditional rights and liberties of the Old Country Tommy, was made clear by General Alderson's promise to the troops this afternoon to abolish the Dry Canteen regulation which was in operation at Valcartier. Addressing the troops after review at Bustard and West Down camps, General Alderson stated that certain difficulties had been overcome with the result that within a few days the usual British canteens would be opened in the various camps. The prolonged cheers which greeted this announcement indicated it was one tending to make the new commander popular with the Canadians.

While the efforts of the Canadian Minister of Militia to avert trouble by adopting a drastic temperance policy have been appreciated on many sides the fact cannot be ignored that the long period of enforced abstinence in camp at Valcartier followed by a tedious sea voyage tended to a good deal of reaction when the troops arrived in England, examples of which were painfully evident soon after landing. At present the village saloons on the outskirts of the camp are being guarded by pickets.

The chief event among todays activities in the camps at Salisbury Plains was an informal review by General Alderson, of the Second and Highland Brigades. In full marching order the men marched in the afternoon from West Down South Camp to Bustard Camp, three miles away, encircling the latter. Although maintaining habitual reserve it was gathered from British officers that General Alderson was fairly well pleased with the first march out of the Canadians. The Princess Patricia Infantry was included in the march.

Mr. Richard Reid, agent general of Ontario, today paid a formal visit to the camp to welcome the regiments from his province. He was entertained at luncheon by Col. Currie, Col. Hill and Major Mackenzie. Among the men and officers the Ontario representative met many old friends.

Lieut.-Col. Pelletier, agent general of Quebec, Obed Smith, commissioner of emigration, and other Canadian officials are deferring a visit until the camps are complete.

The troops are anxious for Canadian newspapers. Then men of the Montreal regiments express their appreciation for The Gazettes which were supplied daily to them while at Valcartier Camp.

Referring to my cable on the lack of banking facilities for the Canadians, I find that the Bank of Montreal has sent special messengers to Salisbury Plain to cash Canadian currency. They are empowered to effect exchange at par; namely 4.86 2-3.

Today a number of the men obtained three days leave of absence. Most of the fortunate ones made for London and saw the Strand and Trafalgar Square densely crowded owing to the decorations on the Nelson monument in honor of Trafalgar Day. It is unofficially stated that on Sunday all leave of absence will be cancelled for a fortnight for certain reasons, probably in order to tune up the troops for the review of His Majesty and Lord Kitchener.

The members of the Canadian force today received more evidence of English hospitality when sixty-one residents in private houses at Salisbury offered the daily use of their baths for the troops. This is one faculty arranged by a local bookseller, Mr. Smee who has organized a committee to look after the welfare of the Canadians while they are in camp. While the men generally appreciate such offers as well as the efforts being made to supply books, magazines and papers they are inclined to resent any appeal on their behalf which smacks of charity.

The Canadian Pay and Record Office which has just opened at 36 Victoria street, Westminster, is in charge of the following officers of the Canadian Army Pay Department—Lieut.-Col. W. R. Ward, chief paymaster, Ottawa; Capt. C. Warne Ward, assistant, Toronto; Capt. C. M. Ingall, assistant, Ottawa. A small orderly staff is in attendance and will be increased as the occasion requires. All records will be kept and finances adjusted by this office, although the soldiers' pay will be distributed in the camps.

The nurses who came over with the Canadian force are being temporarily housed in St. Thomas Hospital opposite the House of Commons, and are already conspicuous figures in the neighborhood of Westminster.

The greater part of the Canadian artillery made the journey from Plymouth to Salisbury Plain today, and by tomorrow the Canadian camps will be complete.

Russians Join Canadian Forces

OTTAWA, Oct. 24.—Quite a number go with the second contingent. They are anxious to get into the fight to help their own countrys and as many find it impossible to get back to Russia they are taking this means of getting to the front. All those who come up to qualifications will be accepted, providing they take the oath of allegiance. It is stated at the recruiting stations of the G.G.F.G. and 43rd Regiment that there are more native-born Canadians offer to enroll with the second force than was the case with the first. Quite a number of French-Canadians are enlisting with the Guards and 43rd.

It is expected that the first detachment of volunteers from Ottawa for the second over-seas contingent will leave here on Wednesday, October 28, for Kingston to go into training.

There will be no drilling of the recruits here, but each night until next Wednesday they will parade at the drill hall.

Good Market For Canadian Potatoes

Old Country's Supply from the European Countries Will be Cut off

OTTAWA Ont., Oct. 26.—That there should be a good market for Canadian potatoes in England after January 1 is the opinion of Mr. J. E. Ray, Canadian trade commissioner at Birmingham, who has been investigating the question. All home requirements will be met by the British supply until the end of the year, but he believes that during the first half of the year 1915 there is certain to be a shortage.

Mr. Ray points out that last year Great Britain's imports of potatoes were valued at £2,589,038, and the purchase from Germany being £422,186; from France £55,487; from the Neverlands, £531,061; and from Belgium £108,385. The European war will thus compel Great Britain to import from other sources this season and Canada should be able to dispose of a large share of her surplus crop in the British Isles.

Mr. Ray points out that there is a big market in England for small woodware, formerly largely imported from Germany

Apple Shipments.

The possibilities of shipping Canadian apples to South Africa is dealt with in a report to the Trade and Commerce Department by Mr. D. M. McKibbin, commercial agent at Johannesburg. He relates the experience of one dealer who experimented for several years in Canadian apples. His first shipments made as long ago as the South African War was a complete loss, as were several later shipments but in recent years he has been more successful. The early shipments were composed largely of Northern Spies and Baldwins, but found they did not keep in the humid South African climate. Kings he found kept best and proved most popular, and his present shipment is composed of King, Gravenstein, McIntosh, Snow, Fameuse, Garnew and Swaar varieties. Greenings and Golden Russets were not popular as the South Africans wanted apples with bright colorings. It is pointed out that the South African apples are on the market in January and the Australian in July, so that during the fall the Canadians can secure an almost exclusive market.

AMERICANS IN LONDON HELP CANADIAN FUND

Dr. McNamara Has Unique Experience at Canadians' Camp

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Mr. Fred Salter, European manager of the Grand Trunk, who served many years in the United States, approached a number of American friends, inviting them to support the Canadian War Contingent Association. The result has been remarkable, not only in the generosity of the subscriptions, but in the expressions accompanying them for success of the British and the other allies. Several donors sent a hundred dollars apiece and with them are letters saying that while it is impossible to go beyond President Wilson's expression in his message, the best opinion of America is fervently with those now seeking to root out the German militarist policy. Many subscribers are German-Americans.

An amusing experience befell Right Hon. Dr. MacNamara, President of the local Government Board, who visited the Canadian camp yesterday. Despite the fact that he is a member of the British Ministry, he was stopped on arrival by the military police, being without a provost marshals pass, and was unable to go into the lines. Eventually members of the divisional staff came to his assistance. Dr. MacNamara is Canadian-born, being the son of a soldier who served in Halifax.

Woman Buying Arms for Europe?

American Woman Admits She is Buying Arms, But Won't Say Who For

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Much mystery is attached to the effort of Miss G. A. Lewis, a young woman stopping at the Hotel Lucerne, to purchase arms in wholesale quantity from a Wilmington, Del., company.

Miss Lewis to-day admitted she is trying to buy all the arms and ammunition she can get. She refused to affirm or deny the report that she is acting as the agent of a foreign power now at war.

COLONEL MARITZ WOUNDED REVOLUTION ABOUT ENDED

South African Rebel Unable to Cope With General Botha's Forces--Revolution Said to Have Experienced an Abrupt Ending

CAPE TOWN, via London, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—It is officially announced that the rebel, Lieut.-Col. Maritz, and his forces have been completely defeated at Kakamas, in the Gordonia district of Bechuanaland, By Union of South African troops. Lieut.-Col. Maritz was wounded in the engagement and fled to German territory, according to the statement.

Despatches of Sunday's date told of an attack by Maritz troops on Keimen, in Cape provinces, with more than a thousand men, including several hundred Germans, and artillery and machine guns.

A previous despatch from Cape Town said that in a battle on Oct. 22 a defeat was administered to the forces of Lieut.-Col. Maritz. The place at which the fight occurred was not named.

Last night's despatches would seem to indicate that the "rebellion" which Germany sought to raise in South Africa has ended in the fiasco that was confidently predicted by the South African Government and that the last had been heard of it.

LETTER FROM "PAT" YEOMANS

R. M. S. "Saxonia," 14/9/14
(Mailed from Davenport, Eng.)

Dear Mamma,—

Have you been fearfully anxious about us since getting our last letters? I suppose you got the ones I sent written on "Saxonia" stationery and since then we have not been able to write. We laid out in the river opposite Quebec for three days and on the fourth when all the boats were ready (thirty-five of the largest liners in all) started down the river in line. All the whistles were blowing and the shore was lined with people waving flags and cheering. We were going all night and next morning were out of the river and in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Our course was changed and we steered almost south until about four in the afternoon when we were stopped by a battleship and conducted into Gaspe Bay where we stayed for three days more. The liners were divided up into three columns and each boat was given its place in one of them. Each column was eleven ships in length and was headed by a battleship while a fourth battleship brought up the rear. The flagship, the "Charyodis," headed the centre column while the "Eclipse" and "Diana" headed ours and the left column respectively, and the "Talbot" brought up the rear. There has been absolutely nothing all the way across to change the monotony of the trip except our signalling shifts which have been excellent practice and have gotten us in fine as we have to signal from the bridge and so have gotten to know the ships officers and have gotten all news of every kind before any one else.

The weather the first few days was grand with a light wind blowing which blew up a swell gradually that got heavier and heavier until the boat started to rock quite hard. Many of the men were pretty sea-sick but I was fine, never felt so well in my life. Ted was a little sick, but not much, and Harry Wiseman and Bill Miller, the other two in our cabin were very sick. Once, coming across, a man fell overboard from the "Royal Edward," and stopped the convoy for twenty minutes but they picked him up and we went on again. They threw in about fifteen horses altogether that died but some of the other boats must have thrown in a lot more.

Yesterday a bad gale of wind came up and last night the waves were breaking over our bows and we were rolling to "beat the Dutch." The wind was so hard you had to grab hold of the railing to stand up properly and our shift last night was great fun.

The ocean is just about what I expected. The waves are larger and there is a froth that forms from the salt that doesn't form on fresh water but aside from that you would think you were on the lakes. We saw the black fins of a school of porpoises once and they followed us for a long time, throwing themselves out of the water every once in a while. Our drill was so regular that it tended to make the trip more monotonous but on the whole we had quite a swell trip. I learned a lot of new knots and rope work, but was surprised to find that most of the sailors didn't know as much about ropes and knots as I did. Ted and I also learned the International Signalling Code which is used for signalling from ship to ship. In it there are flags of different designs and colours, one for each letter and there is a lot to learn before one can use it. We were the only signallers that learned it and for that reason, I suppose, the ship's officers took an interest in us and would show us things and talk with us while they never bothered with the rest. We were shown through the wireless room, and the chart room, and I learned something of the use of a sextant, though I couldn't begin to use it.

When we were about a week out at sea two more battleships the "Majestic" and the "Glory" joined us and have been flank-scouts all the rest of the way across. This morning we sighted land and perhaps we didn't cheer. It was "Land's End," and very soon we made out Portland and Portland Jail. We have been following up the coast and are now lying in Plymouth Sound just off Plymouth City. There are battleships, torpedo-boats and destroyers lying all around us and their search-lights are playing all over the ship. It sure is a grand scene. I don't know where or when I am going to mail this, but will have it ready anyway. I suppose we will have a hard day ahead tomorrow unloading but I will not be sorry to hit the earth again.

I guess I'll have to close now for I have to go on watch again tonight from 12 to 2 and want some sleep first. I will send my address as soon as I possibly can but don't know when that will be. Meanwhile love to all and lots to yourself and don't worry for we are fixed beautifully in every way.

Your son,

PAT.

DROWNED IN THE LAKE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

SOUTH PORCUPINE, Ont., Oct. 27.—Mark Hanna, captain of Porcupine Pet mine, and an Italian named Carino, while at work repairing the mine yesterday, fell into Simpson's Lake and sank to death in the mud at the bottom. Two others were pulled out in time.

WANT CANADIAN TROOPS TO PARADE STREETS OF LONDON

LONDON Oct. 26.—The English people are very anxious to see more of the Canadian troops. Many of the men visited London on week end passes, but London desires to receive them as a whole. One correspondent of the Daily Mail echoes the general feeling when he writes today asking where are the Canadian troops.

"Can you or any other newspaper inform me why the people of England and the inhabitants of London have not been permitted to see them and welcome them? They have, I understand, being smuggled into this country as though they were contraband of war. There seems some danger that they may be smuggled out with the same secrecy without the nation being allowed to thank them by a great demonstration for the noble aid which they have brought to Great Britain in her hour of supreme danger."

The correspondent asks that the force, or representative units of it, might be marched through London when they would receive such a welcome as would echo throughout the world and show the British people's grateful hearts.

Asphyxiated By Escaping Gas

William Bruce of Kingston Suffocated While Sleeping

KINGSTON, Oct. 26.—William Bruce, the well known Princess street liveryman, who resided at 428 Brock street, was on Sunday morning found dead in his bed by his daughter Jessie. His death was due to asphyxiation, as it was found that the gas jet in his room was on one-quarter way.

As it customary at the week-end Mr. Bruce came home at a late hour and retired to his room. His place of retirement is practically a hall bedroom, and is situated at the end of the hall. His young son slept in the same room. At the further end of the hall is situated the bathroom and on Saturday night the window and door were open. In Mr. Bruce's room his window was up about three inches and the door was open until 6.30 in the morning. At that hour the little boy awoke and complained of pains in his stomach, and his father took him to his mother's room.

Returning to his own room, he closed the door and lay in his bed to get his usual Sunday morning rest. By closing the door he stopped the draft that was blowing through the room and thereby minimized the chances of the gas, which had been escaping all night, from getting out of the room. At nine-thirty his little daughter went to his room to call him and was horrified to find a strong odor of gas coming from her father's room, and in a short time found him in bed apparently dead.

The alarm was immediately raised and Drs. Day and Campbell were soon on the scene. An examination was made and it appeared that the man had been dead for about half an hour. The pulmotor was brought to the house but a half-hour's work failed to revive the man.

The Karlsruhe Held at Bay

NEW YORK Oct. 27.—(Special.)—A sharp naval engagement is reported to have taken place last night off the Virginia Capes, 240 miles south of Scotland Lightship, possibly the long-looked-for-battle between the German cruiser Karlsruhe and British warships, which have been patrolling the Atlantic coast.

At 8 o'clock the steamship Saratoga of the Ward Line, coming up from Havana off the Virginia Capes, reported by wireless that she had heard for about an hour the fire of guns of heavy calibre, and that the horizon was lit up by the flash of the searchlights. It was impossible to make sure of the identity of the combatants or the result of the battle.

The firing continued for about an hour. Before the Saratoga had gone far enough on her course to be beyond the sound of shots the firing had ceased, and it was presumed by the officers that the fight had reached a definite conclusion.

CANADIAN BILLS CASHED IN GERMANY

Torontonian, Just Returned, Had No Difficulty After First Two Weeks

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—One of the most remarkable statements in connection with the war is made by Mr. John Klees of 229 Roehampton avenue, who returned to the city today from Germany. It is to the effect that Canadian bank bills are accepted freely in Germany, though at a discount of 17 pfennigen (cents) on the dollar. This discount obtains on all American and Canadian money. Travellers' cheques are cashed at par. All foreign paper money was accepted in Germany after the second week of the war, he states.

BYE-ELECTION DATES IN WEST HAMILTON

Nominations Will be Held the Second Week in November

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—The Ontario Government on Saturday decided upon November 11th and 18th as the dates for nominations and polling for the riding of West Hamilton, unrepresented since the resignation of Hon. J. S. Hendrie, to become Lieutenant-Governor. Ernest F. Applebe, barrister, has been appointed returning officer.

The Government, out of respect for the memory of the late Sir James Whitney, has not taken up the question of a bye-election in Dundas. The vacancy will, of course, be filled before the Legislature meets.

KAISER COMMANDS THAT CALAIS MUST BE TAKEN

Is Willing to Sacrifice Life that the Strategic Plan of Germany be Carried ont--Consideration of Troops out of the Question--Orders Must be Obeyed

(Canadian Press Special Exclusively to The Intelligencer)

FRENCH STEAMER VICTIM OF EXPLOSION

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Chronicle says, the French steamer Admiral Ganteaume which was destroyed by an explosion on Monday afternoon while carrying 2,500 refugess from Boulogne to Havre, was the victim not of a mine but of an exploding boiler. The passengers were rescued by a trawler, torpedo boats and the British passenger ship, Queen. When the latter left the Gateaume she was still afloat. Thirty or forty passengers were killed by being crushed between the Ganteaume and the Queen, or drowned by falling overboard.

FIGHTING CONTINUES

PARIS, Oct. 27.—An official announcement this afternoon says the fighting continues particularly spirited between the mouth of the Yser and the region of Lens, where the Allies have maintained their positions. Between Ypres and Roulers they have continued to make progress. Artillery engagements between Sousennes and Berry-au-Bac were successful and resulted in the destruction of several batteries of the enemy. In the region east of Nancy the French have assumed the offensive and have driven the Germans across the frontier.

RUSSIAN CAVALRY PURSUING AUSTRIANS

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Reuter's Petrograd correspondent says the Russian cavalry still pursues the Austrians, whose losses continue to be very large, and south of the Stry river and along the railway tracks the ground is congested with Austrian corpses.

A NEW BRITISH GUN IN USE

The Times' correspondent in Northern France says the new British gun recently brought into use is most accurate and is proving a new terror to German airmen.

WILL SOON BE IN CITY OF OSTEND

The Daily Mail's Flushing correspondent says the general belief there is that the Allies will soon be in Ostend, which, like Bruges; Ghent and Antwerp, is now overflowing with German wounded.

DEFINITELY ABANDONS ADVANCE ON COAST

A Dunkirk despatch says it is reported that the Germans have definitely abandoned their advance along the coast. They are unable to hold any position along the shore owing to the continued shelling from the English fleet.

FAMINE CONDITIONS ALARMING AT BRUSSELS

Despatches from Brussels state that famine conditions are alarming. No flour, rye or coffee is left in the cities. The country districts are in a worse state owing to the destruction of the crops.

KAISER IS LEADER OF BOTH ARMIES

The Times' Copenhagen correspondent says the new military war agreement betwetn Germany and Austria makes Emperor William leader of both armies.

BATTLE FIELD IS A SLAUGHTER HOUSE

A despatch from Rome says the German losses average ten thousand killed and wounded daily. Seventy or eighty per cent. of these are not seriously wounded and return to the ranks in a short time.

ALLIES ADVANCING IN ARGONNE

LONDON, Oct. 27—Despatches from Paris last night state that the advance of the French in the Argonne continues. On the Yser the enemy are making no headway against the Allies.

KAISER'S SON IS SAID TO BE DYING

A despatch from Berlin says it is reported there that Prince Oscar, a son of Emperor William, is dying of paralysis of the brain.

CALAIS MUST BE TAKEN

LONDON, Oct. 27—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Times wires that Emperor William has commanded that Calais must be taken as vital to the German strategic plan, no matter at what sacrifice of men and war materials.

Churches in Fight Against Russellism

Those in Earlscourt District Unite in Combatting its Teachings

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—Several of the churches of Earlscourt are working together in an attempt to counteract the propaganda efforts in the neighborhood by Pastor Russell and his lieutenants. The Royal George Theatre, Dufferin street and St. Clair avenue, has been engaged for every afternoon this week in the interests of Pastor Russell and the photo drama of the Creation will be presented No charge is made and the churches feel that the attraction is certain to have a popular appeal in the Earlscourt district. The congregations are being warned against the teachings in question and advised to stay away from the photo drama of Creation and the addresses.

Yesterday the Plymouth Brethren and the Baptists distributed a large number of tracts and other literature de nouncing the new doctrines. More will be distributed during the present week. In the Earlscourt Baptist Church the congregations at both services heard strong-worded warnings against Pastor Russell and his teaching.

EARTHQUAKE AT MILAN

(Canadian Press Despatch)

MILAN, Oct. 27.—A earthquake was recorded in Milan this morning and considerable alarm was caused among the people but no casualties. The shock also was felt at Florence and panic resulted but no damage. There have been disturbances in northern Italy during the last 24 hours but no loss of life.

German Reservists Making Trouble

Efforts of a Number to Leave Here Keep Police on Look-out

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—In addition to the work created for the police by the German and Austrian reservists who endeavor to leave Canada to join their old regiments now fighting with the enemy in Europe, trouble has been given by several arrivals, of recent date, from the United States, who are apparently trying to quicken the desire of Germans living here to get back to their native land to assist the Kaiser's forces.

On Saturday afternoon twenty Germans and Austrians, who had been detained at Niagara Falls when trying to get across the boundary, were brought to Toronto and placed in Stanley Barracks. Among them were two men, German reservists, who had passed their word that they would not attempt to leave the country.

Detectives arrested two Germans on Saturday in a city store, who were purchasing cameras and other supplies. German papers a month old were found on them, one of which contained an article to the effect that the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau, which had been given harbor at Constantinople were still manned by German crews and intended attacking the Russian ships in the Black Sea.

According to the police, letters from Germany, found in the rooms of Germans resident here, convey the information to army reservists that it is easy to leave the United States by way of Philadelphia.

Wants Catalogues of Canadian Goods

Trade Commissioner in Melbourne Sends Request to Department

OTTAWA, Oct. 26—Mr. D. H. Ross, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Melbourne, Australia, has written to the Department of Trade and Commerce urging that Canadian manufacturers forward their catalogues to Canadian trade officials. Price lists and discount sheets should also be sent, as without these essentials the catalogues are of no avail.

The editor of The Weekly Trade Report adds: "In view of the Present opportunity for the extension of Canadian trade everything possible should be done to assist the Canadian trade officials in their work. It is to be hoped, therefore, that this appeal will meet with a ready response from Canadian manufacturers and that a material benefit will accure therefrom, not only to the manufacturers concerned, but also to Canadian trade generally."

PRINCE OF WALES' FUND NOW TOTALS $16,930,000

London. Oct. 26.—The private subscriptions being raised in Britain for war purposes have reached remarkable proportions. The national relief fund, known as the Prince of Waler Fund, today totalled more than $16,390,000. The Times fund for sick and wounded already amounts to more than $2,590,000.

Queen Mary's fund for providing work for women has reached nearly $400,000. The Daily Telegraph raised nearly $200,000 for the Belgians in shilling subscriptions. A fund for wounded needy Indian soldiers started a few days ago by people who formerly lived in India now amounts to $275,000. Prince Mary's appeal to purchase Christmas gifts for the men at the front has yielded nearly $90,000, and the readers of The Daily News have sent in $5,000 for Christmas puddings.

In response to Queen Mary's appeal to women for 300,000 belts and the same number of pairs of socks, 10,000 of each are being shipped to the front daily. The Grand Duke Michael's attempt to secure 250,000 pairs of gloves and mittens for British troop is meeting with equal success, as also is Lady French's request for mufflers.

ATTEMPT TO ASSASSINATE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 27.—An attempt has been made to assassinate General Francisco Villa by an agent said to be commissioned and paid by Gen. Pablo Gonzales, General Carranza's staunch supporter, according to a message sent to the Associated Press today by Luis Aguirro Benavides, General Villa's first secretary. The would-be assassin, Francisco Imugia, was executed after making a confession before the American consular agent.

MINERS ENTOMBED

(Canadian Press Despatch)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 27.—Two hundred and fifty miners are entimbed at Royalton, Ill., and thirty bodies have been taken out. A telephone message from the owner of the mine said that of three hundred men who entered the mine this morning, about one hundred escaped. Thirty or forty have been found dead and one hundred are known to be on a lower level which is burning.

BRITAIN BUYS PATENTS OF FLYING MACHINES

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—It is reported here that the British War Office has agreed to pay a huge sum to the Wright brothers for the use of patenta for flying machines, a fleet of which will be built in England at the Government works.

Patriotic Address and Tea Meeting

Holloway Street Methodist Church Filled With Young and Old--An Enjoyable Evening Resulted

In connection with the anniversary services at Holloway Street Methodist Church Ye old fashioned tea meeting was held last evening, which was in every respect a grand success. A large number were in attendance and the spread provided by the ladies was all that could have been desired. The tables, which were laid in the Sunday School rooms virtually groaned with good things.

After supper all present repaired to the auditorium, for the purpose of listening to an address by Dr. James L. Hughes, Inspector of Education, of Toronto. Rev. B. Greatrix, of Oshawa, was chairman, filling that position in a most acceptable manner. Dr. Hughes is a versatile and eloquent speaker and the subject he spoke upon, namely, "King and Kaiserdom," was a most timely one at the present juncture of affairs. The learned lecturer spoke at some length in a most patriotic strain, tracing up the inception of the war to the present time. His allusion to the allied forces, and their efforts brought for loud applause. It was apparent to all present that Dr. Hughes was not only thoroughly conversant with the topic he was speaking of, but is a thorough Canadian and British subject.

During the evening Prof. Cameron sang a suitable selection.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Dr. Hughes for his thoughtful and patriotic address.

The Red Cross

The workers of the Red Cross Fund expect to have two very busy days this week, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 30th and 31st. In addition to the Hallowe'en Festival, which is to be held in the Armouries, the ladies have undertaken a Flag Day. This is one of the means most of the Red Cross workers have used to raise money, and has proven a very popular one. The flag is very dear to the British heart and every one is anxious to possess and wear one especially at this time. The committee working for the Flag Day had intending holding it two weeks ago, but not wishing to interfere in any way with any other patriotic entertainment, very kindly consented to postpone their Flag Day and combine with the committee working for the Hallowe'en Festival. So Friday and Saturday will be gala days, when every citizen will have an opportunity of showing interest and sympathy in this great work.

SEMI-MONTHLY SESSION OF CITY LEGISLATURE

Alderman Wallbridge Presides in the Absence of His Worship Mayor Wills--Matters of Importance Discussed--Routine Work

At a regular meeting of the City Council held last evening the business transacted was purely of a routine nature. In the absence of Mayor Wills, Alderman Wallbridge was voted to the chair. Other members present were: Aldermen Panter, St. Charles, Woodley, Smith, Duckworth and McFee.

After the reading and confirming of the minutes of the last meeting, the Council went into committee of the whole on reports, communications, etc., Ald. Woodley in the chair.

The reports of the various committees recommending the payment of accounts, were passed and the following recommendation was disposed of:

"That in the opinion of the Executive Committee of the City Council, it would be very injurious to the locality and to the city to have the Children's Shelter located on the Dunnett property, and that any future aid from the Council will depend on the approval by the Council of the location of the said institution."—Adopted.

An account of $20.55 was passed to the St. Charles Omnibus Company.

A communication was read from the Toronto General Hospital, claiming $1 per day for one Hugh Oliver, who was admitted to that institution and was an indigent patient. Oliver claims he had been a resident of Belleville for some time.

On motion the matter was referred to ascertain who said Oliver is.

A report was presented showing what had been expended in a year by the ladies who dispense the indigent fund. The total expenses for the year amounted to $1,213.46.—Received and filed.

An account of $90 was passed to the Trenton Electric Company for a motor used at the rock crusher.

Mr. Evans, City Engineer, reported that it would cost $1,800 to place a water main on Moira street east from St. Charles Street to the railway bridge. Two hydrants should be put in if the main is installed. The report showed that all residents along the street were desirous of having services placed in their houses. Hydrants for fire protection were also badly needed in that locality.

Ald. St. Charles stated that residents in that locality had no fire protection whatever and he would support the report.

A motion prevailed that the report be adopted and that a water main be placed on the said street.

A petition signed by residents of Howard and Green streets was read, asking that the roadway on those streets be placed in a passable condition and also that some lights be placed on said streets.

The petition was referred to the City Engineer and assessor.

The committee rose and reported. The report was received and adopted.

ENQUIRIES.

Ald. Smith—Did the special committee attend to the matter of repairing some portions of granolithic walks on Bridge street and Victoria Avenue?

Ald. Wallbridge — The walk on Bridge street has been fixed.

Ald. Duckworth—Is it possible to place a cement floor in the basement of the city building?

Ald. Panter—The committee has already about used up their appropriation.

The matter was referred to the City Engineer to report what the cost would be.

Ald. St. Charles—When will the Trenton Electric Co. hand over the Front street lights to the city?

Ald. McFee—It is expected they will be handed over on November 1st.

Ald. McFee—Is it the intention of the Council to do anything for the members of the second contingent, who will leave the city in a few days?

Ald. Wallbridge—The special committee could look into the matter.

Ald. Woodley—Have the names of the 34th members who left the city been ascertained yet?

Ald. Wallbridge—Not that I know of.

INTRODUCTION OF BYLAWS.

Ald. Panter introduced a bylaw which he stated had been drawn up by order of the Board of Health in reference to connections on certain streets with drains.

It was decided to lay the bylaw over until the next meeting of the Council. Council adjourned.

WEST BELLEVILLE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The monthly meeting of the West Belleville Women's Institute was held in the assembly room of Queen Mary School, on Friday, Oct. 23. The President, Mrs. E. Post, occupied the chair. The minutes of the September meeting were read and approved. Mr. MacLaurin, Principal of the High School, gave a very interesting talk on education in general, which was much appreciated by all present. A vote of thanks was given Mr. MacLaurin, after which the meeting was open for discussion and question drawer among the members: the best way and means for making the Institute a success and having the members attend the meetings. We wish to impress the public that everybody is welcome to the monthly meetings. Mrs. Bonisteel, Mrs. Vandervoort, Mrs. Dyer, Mrs. F. Andrews were added to the programme committee, President, Mrs. Post, Secretary, Mrs. Woodley, were elected delegates to attend the convention at Toronto.

It was decided to send the treasurer of the Patriotic Fund a cheque for $50.00 Moved and seconded that payment for paint and painting be made. The meeting adjourned.

Guaranteed Relief From All Bowel Ills

If your bowels are out of order, instead of using some harsh salt or other physic, take a Rexall Orderlie tonight, and tomorrow you will feel great. They taste good and act so easily that there isn't a particle of griping or purging, nor the excessive looseness that follows the taking of salts and most pills. They soothe and strengthen the bowels, promptly relieving the constipation, making it unlikely to occur again.

We don't believe there is any other bowel remedy anywhere near as good, and at the same time so easy and pleasant to take as Rexall Orderlies. We know you will agree with us and believe you will thank us for telling you about them. If they don't satisfy you in every way, come back and tell us and we will give back your money without a word or question. You have no reason to hesitate when we give you the opportunity, as we hereby do, to try them at our risk. In vest pocket tin boxes; 10c. 25c. 50.

You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at The Rexall Stores and in this town only of us—The Rexall Store—J. S. McKeown.

LETTER FROM A SOLDIER BOY

Davenport, England,
October 15, 1914.

Dear Mother, Father, Sister and Brother:

I am dropping you a few lines to let you know that we have arrived in the Old Country at last. Everything is fine, and we also had a fine voyage across the sea. I am sending you a couple of souvenirs of the transport, Saxonia, the ship we came across on. We have had very good luck with our horses, that is, considering the way they were packed in. Out of 630 horses we only lost 13 horses. I was not the least bit seasick coming across and there were lots of the boys pretty sick. We got into the docks about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon and they are still unloading our stuff. The Germans would have a pretty hard time to get into the port to take the towns of Plymouth and Davenport, because there are 22 big forts within a radius of 16 miles of the south coast of England. As far as war news is concerned, all we know is that the Allied armies are having the best of it, and the navy has got the German navy bottled up in the Kiel Canal and the North Sea.

I don't know what our address is yet, but I will send it to you as soon as we are settled down, when I will write to you. There were over 300 refugees from Belgium came into Plymouth yesterday.

Well, I think I will close for this time, hoping you are well. I remain,

Your loving son and brother.

Gunner George E. Cronk.
B. Subsection, 1st Battery, 1st Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery, 1st Canadian Contingent.

P. S. I am getting as big as a mountain. I have gained 26 pounds since I left Belleville.

THE CANNING SEASON WAS A BUSY ONE

KINGSTON, Oct. 26.—Canning factories at Wellington, after a most strenuous season, closed Saturday. The pack of peas, tomatoes and corn is very large and evidently full up to requirements. It is estimated that there must be at least 150,000 cases of canned goods in Wellington, taking between 200 and 300 cars to move the cases.

NEW TAX TO CATCH SPECULATORS

The Hon. C. W. Cross, Attorney-General of Alberta, who is returning to Edmonton from Washington, where he has been in attendance at the Annual Meeting of the American Bar Association, was interviewed when in Toronto, and spoke hopefully of the future of Alberta, referring especially to the new tax law passed by the Alberta Legislature at its last session. "I regard," said Mr. Cross, "the passing of the bill providing for a tax upon wild lands as the principal piece of legislation arising out of the recent session of the Alberta Parliament. There are thousands of acres of land in our Province, as in all the other Western Provinces, which have been held for years, in many cases, by speculators and investors, and have not been improved in the least. We now say to these absentee landlords, 'You must use this waste territory in some way or pay a tax on it equal to $10 per quarter section, or about 6¼ cents per acre.'

"By legislating against absentee landlordism in the rural districts of Alberta to this extent," continued Mr. Cross, "the annual revenue of the Province will either be increased by nearly $1,500,000, or the agricultural area under cultivation will be extended with great rapidity. The idea is to encourage a movement of people to the fertile lands of Alberta who are going out to the farms from such cities as Edmonton in large numbers already."

Speaking of present conditions amongst the rural classes in Alberta, Mr. Cross said that no lack of prosperity and wealth was to be found in and around the smaller towns. "They are better to-day than ever," he said. "It is only the larger places which are feeling the pinch of poverty just now. The future of the west, although bedimmed at the present moment, is really as bright as it ever was.

"The hinterland of Alberta, lying north of Edmonton, will see," the Attorney-General prophesied, "a development equal to that which one can see now between Calgary and Edmonton. The next stretch north will be from Edmonton to Peace River Landing, which, I think, will be a city of ten thousand population within a very few years."

HUSBANDS NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR WIVES' UTTERANCES

An interesting case has just been tried in the Court of Review in Montreal in which the responsibility of a husband was tested for language used by his wife. One Judge held that he was, and awarded damages, which was reversed by other Judges.

"The case is a peculiar one. While in the Commissioners' Court of St. Adele, Madame Guitard called out loud, "Don't take any notice of his oath for it has already been refused by the parish priest and the mayor." At the time, a man named E. Templier was giving evidence. Guitard, the husband of Mme. Guitard, was also in the room, but there was no proof that he had in any way communicated with his wife.

"The result of the remark was that Templier sued Guitard for damaging statements made by his wife. Guitard denied responsibility and claimed that his wife's remark was not directed against Templier, but against someone else.

"The trial court awarded Templier $50 damages. This judgment the Court of Review has now reversed."

If husbands were responsible for what their wives say, and wives responsible for the language of their husbands, there would be plenty of business for lawyers.

AN ESSENTIAL OF NATIONAL DEFENCE

(Montreal Standard)

Before the Napoleonic wars, even as far back as the victorious campaign of Marlborough, now more than two hundred years ago, British infantry displayed its powers on the Continent and won the reputation of being the most effective force in Europe. It was never a large force, compared with those of the great continental nations, and in comparison with the forces now under arms it would be numerically insignificant. There was no million British army then, such as is now rapidly taking shape under Kitchener's magic-like power of organization. The British armies that Marlborough and Wellington led to victory are small in comparison with the armies of to-day, but the infantry that made up the backbone of those armies was as efficient, as deadly, as the British infantry now holding parts of that line of fire and steel that bars the Germans' way to Paris.

The wonderful efficiency of the British infantry of to-day rests on the same basis as did the efficiency of the British infantry of one hundred or even two hundred years ago—the accuracy and rapidity of fire. Its use of the bayonet has always been terrible, but before the bayonet was resorted to there have always been volleys so deadly in their accuracy that the enemy's ranks were thinned and disorganized before being put to the crucial test of hand to hand encounter with the men behind the cold steel.

British infantry has always known how to shoot so as to hit, and that is one reason for its having achieved on so many hard fought fields results seemingly disproportionate to its numbers.

This essential of national defence—efficient use of the rifle, knowing how to shoot straight—should be possessed by every young man in Canada, whether or not he wears the King's uniform. If he does wear it he is not able to wear it to much purpose, so far as the defence of the country is concerned, unless he knows how to use a rifle; and if he does wear that uniform but knows how to shoot he is a possible defender of his country already more than three-fourth trained. What is known as drill is important in the making of a soldier; but is easily acquired; whereas skill in the use of the rifle is absolutely essential to a soldier's usefulness, and can only be acquired by means of painstaking practice.

But with good sight it is wholly a matter of practice plus a little instruction; and to most young men in this country that instruction is available and that practice possible. Young Canadians can, therefore, obtain that skill in the use of the most common weapon of national defence that is essential to a good soldier, and that, in conjunction with qualities of brain and nerve, has made British infantry the best foot soldiers in the world.

The more Canadians there are who can shoot straight, the less danger there will be for Canada.

CURRENT COMMENT

Montreal News: "The action of the United States Government in cutting down the war tax on beer may or may not be a violation of neutrality. But it looks like throwing a sop to German reservists interned in the country."

---

A German paper publishes a personal letter alleged to have been found on a Belgian prisoner in which he says the Belgians intend to burn the cities of Germany. No wonder this horrifies the simple-minded Germans!

---

The Ottawa Citizen argues that this war has proved that submarines are of more use than battleships. The experts of the United States Naval department, who recently gave a contrary opinion unanimously, will be interested to learn this.

---

Toronto News: "In demanding a blockade of neutral European ports serving as sources of supply for Germany The Globe appeals afresh to British strength in the North Sea, to which it would contribute nothing while there was yet time."

---

The joint delimitation of the Alaska border by the United States and Canada begun in 1904, has at last been completed, the last metal monument imbedded in concrete having just been placed on Canada's portion. The United States part was completed last summer. The value of such demarkation in a country as yet, but slightly settled is evident as a preventive of disputes.

---

Toronto Globe: "All this talk of "youthful indiscretion" as an excuse for Mr. Blondin's anti-British outbreak four years ago is rubbish. The Minister of Inland Revenue was no fiery youth when he denounced the Laurier navy as conscription in disguise. The youth of six and thirty who is indiscreet is not likely to be a statesman at forty." That's right, start in with your slurs; like every other calf you will soon reach the end of your rope.

---

Ottawa Free Press: "Ottawa congratulates herself upon having been the home for three years of Major Rivers-Bulkeley, who has been killed in action. That she extends her sympathy to the bereaved family of the soldier need not be said. Major Rivers-Bulkeley's sacrifice was more than the ordinary one in war. He left a wife and young child to answer Britain's call. There was reason enough for him to have remained behind, but he placed country before all. So his death in action is one of double honor."

Why Britain Is At War
The Causes And The Issues

How Britain Became Involved

The historic interview between the German Chancellor and the British Ambassador, and the British Government's reply to the Chancellor's proposal, show how Britain was driven to take part in the war by honor, by obligation, and by the interests of self-defence. The case falls under two heads—France and Belgium, with which we will deal in turn. In the case of our relation to France, there was the call of honor and self-interest, but no direct obligation; in that of our relation to Belgium, honor, obligation and self-defence all combined.

The Case of France

In 1904, the Conservative Government concluded an Agreement with France, settling all outstanding questions between her and this country. In 1907, the Liberal Government concluded a similar Agreement with Russia. What is called the "Triple Entente" thus grew up between England, France, and Russia. It was often regarded as a balance against the "Triple Alliance" (Austria, Germany, and Italy). But so far as England was concerned, it was a friendly relationship, not a formal alliance. Except in the specific matters dealt with by the two Agreements, England was under no obligation to support either France or Russia. In 1906, when Germany was giving trouble to France on account of Morocco, Sir Edward Grey expressed the personal view to the French Government that if war were forced upon France in consequence of the Anglo-French Agreement, public opinion in this country would favor the giving of material as well as diplomatic support. In 1908, when the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria caused an international crisis (Russia protesting against the annexation and Germany in "shining armour" supporting her Austrian ally), Sir Edward Grey told the Russian Government that this being a Balkan affair, in which England had no direct interest or concern, nothing more than diplomatic support would be given by her. Thus each case was left to be decided on its own merits.

What, then, was the case as it existed in the critical days at the end of July and beginning of August? France, having no longer anything to fear from England, had concentrated her fleet in the Mediterranean. Her northern coasts were unprotected. Sir Edward Grey's opinion was, "that if a foreign fleet, engaged in a war which France had not sought and in which she had not been the aggressor, came down the English Channel and bombarded and battered the unprotected coasts of France," we could not honorably stand aside and see this going on practically within sight of our eyes, with our arms folded."

British interests pointed in the same direction. If England had declared her intention of remaining neutral, France might have withdrawn her fleet from the Mediterranean; and as we do not now keep a fleet there strong enough to deal alone with possible combinations, our trade-routes and inter-Imperial communications through that sea would have been in danger.

Accordingly, on August 3, Sir Edward Grey was authorized by the Cabinet to give an assurance to France "that if the German fleet comes into the Channel or through the North Sea to undertake hostile operations against French coasts or shipping, the British Fleet will give all the protection in its power."

This was not a declaration of war, but a contingent obligation to make war. The farther and final decision was caused by the action of Germany towards Belgium.

FIRST MATE'S STORY

H. M. Ryall, First Mate, S.S. "Boston." Yarmouth, N.S., writes: "Zam-Buk has been a boon to me. I had the misfortune to fall and badly cut my shins. The wounds did not give me much trouble for about a week, and then my legs began to swell and pain me very badly. The doctor told me that my clothing had poisoned the wounds. He gave me some salve and an antiseptic wash. I used these for a short time, but instead of getting better the blood-poisoning and the pain got worse. I suffered so much pain and was so reduced in consequence, that I had to leave the ship and go home. My legs were at that time swollen to almost three times their usual size, and the pain was so intense I could not sleep. Indeed my legs were in such a condition that I was afraid the doctor would advise amputation. Just at that time a friend recommended Zam Buk. My wife obtained a box and began applying it to the wounds. Almost from the first application I felt a change taking place. The throbbing, burning pain ceased, and gradually the swelling began to go down. I continued the Zam-Buk treatment, and after a few boxes had been used the wounds were completely cured and I was able to go back to work again. I certainly believe that Zam-Buk saved my legs, if not my life."

TAKE THIS ADVICE

If you sustain any cut, bruise, or injury, if you are suffering from any skin disease, ulcer or chronic wound, don't delay—try Zam-Buk.

Zam-Buk is something entirely different from ordinary ointments. It is purely herbal, contains no poisonous coloring matter, and is at the same time soothing, healing and antiseptic. It is the finest known remedy for children's sores, eruptions, rashes, etc. Try a sample.

A WOMAN'S WAY

Who says a woman's part is only "watch and wait"?

True, a woman cannot shoulder a rifle and go to the front, but there is a way in which she can help and which is just as important. That way is in supporting the prosperity of Canada.

Women do the buying. A million of them in Canada are buying, every day, most of the necessities and luxuries for eight million people, expending and influencing the expenditure of perhaps a billion dollars every year.

At present much of that expenditure goes for imported products.

Suppose it were all switched to Canadian-made goods. Think how many Canadian workmen would be kept busy supplying this enormous demand! Think what it would mean to Canadian industries! Think what an era of prosperity it would create!

This is a woman's way to help. To create prosperity for Canada, to lay forever the spectre of unemployment, to create resources to carry on the war.

It's very easy too, just

"I have used "Fruit-a-tives" for Indigestion and Constipation with most excellent results, and they continue to be my only medicine. Before taking "Fruit-a-tives", I took salts and other pills but the treatment was too harsh. I thought I might as well suffer from the illness as from these treatments. ## STORY OF A STORE

Tom Tasker had a corner store. He got it from his father who built up his trade from the farmers that spent their money for things made in Canada. Taskerville grew to little town of cement sidewalks and electric lights Tom's business grew and he got an automobile, a $10,000 house, and a big new store with plate glass, patent show-cases and a stenographer.

The blacksmith ship grew into a carriage factory; the local cabinet-maker became a furniture manufacturer. Tom sold goods to many of the employees of the factories as well as to the farmers.

A few years ago when a wide-awake man discovered that the country around Taskerville had the very best kind of soil and climate for raising tomatoes, cucumbers, field peas, corn and small fruits, and reckoned it a good stroke of business to start a canning factory in Taskerville, the farmers fetched their trucks to the factory which became as good a purveyer of canned goods as any in Canada. Its products were found in the mining camps and the kitchens of the wealthy that went to grand opera. But whenever any farmer went to the store of Tom Tasker, built up from their farms in two generations, they never could find a blessed tin of the Taskerville factory's goods on his shelves. When they asked him why he wouldn't encourage home industry and stock up with home goods, he said he reckoned he knew his own business.

Wherefore the farm folks round about Taskerville boycotted the Tasker store, and Tom made an assignment Which to most sensible folks' way of thinking was the only way to prove to the Tasker intellect that you can't expect both boots to fit the same foot.

This is a homely illustration and localized to Taskerville; but if it doesn't prove that it's the business of the retailer in Canada to keep on his shelves the goods made in Canada by Canadian workmen at a time when Canada is making the fight of her life to stay industrially efficient—then there must be something wrong with the argument. Think it over.

We cannot control the markets nor the expenses created by war but we can control the quality of "SALADA"; that is why it's always unequalled in the cup. Brown Label 35c, Blue Label 45c, Red Label 55c, and Gold Label 65c a pound.

DON'T JEER AT MAN

Doesn't He Furnish Woman Her Beautiful Adornments?

I notice that in a departmental store advertisement women are quoted as wondering how men can produce such excellent results with draperies. Moreover, one of the domestic "bromides' 'is this: "That's just like a man!"

Very sarcastic and wholly uncomplimentary to his sense of taste! But by the red covers of Baedeker is not the artistic sense of crude man quite equal to that of fair woman? I ask you to follow Baedeker to all the galleries and museums of the world and then answer me.

Who mixed the pigments for that Madonna? Whose chisel sculptured that Apollo? Whose hand traced the lines of St. Peter's? Who painted most of the world's great pictures, carved most of its statues, built its Parthenons and Taj Mahals?

Men, and not women. Who make most of the designs for all kinds of dress fabrics and laces? Men. Who blends the delicate dyes for the hundred shades that adorn milady? Some man.

Who put the figure in that $10,000 rug upon your floor? Just a man. Who even makes many of the most fashionable Parisian dresses and hats? Frenchmen who may now be at the front rtying to kill other men dressmakers and milliners from Berlin.

The masculine has quite enough to harry him, but lack of artistic sense is not the sex shortcoming.—Girard, in Philadelphia Ledger.

I trust you now," cried the girl, her voice breaking into a sob. "I am still waiting for you to make good. Won't you come home with me?"

The cab stopped in front of the Waverly Place home. Merry followed her reluctantly up the steps. She paused for a moment while she adjusted the key in the lock.

"Would you mind seeing Jason?" she asked hesitatingly. "He can help you with dry clothes. He will be as glad to see you as I am."

"Ring for him," answered Merry quietly. "Jason and I are old pals."

Half and hour later Merry walked into the library where Dorcas was waiting for him. It seemed as if the mere resumption of clean, comfortable clothing, even though hunger still marked him, had given the man fresh valor, new dignity.

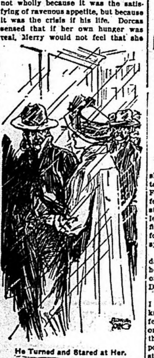
He laughed nervously. "It is a rejuvenation, isn't it?" he asked as he glanced at himself in the mirror. "Jason unearthed some duds I once left here."

Jason was an excellent valet, and a hot bath, a shave, and fresh raiment had made a man of Merry. The lock of fair hair which habitually fell over his forehead made him look almost boyish, although his face was pallid and careworn.

"I have eaten nothing since morning," Dorcas said. "I told Jason to serve supper here, on a little table beside the fire, where it is cozy and cheerful."

Merry dropped into a chair. He wondered if the intense enjoyment of the good things of life was pure sensuousness. The odor of hot coffee, the sight of a daintily set table, the radiance of a coal fire, the glow of red-shaded lights, and the storm shut outdoors brought a tingling pleasure which seemed like mere animal gratification. He shivered for a moment as he listened to the storm. He wondered what had made it possible for him to brave homelessness and hunger and squalor. Looking back on it he realized he had borne it as a man lives through pain under the power of an anesthetic. The misery of his mind had dulled the sordid wretchedness of mere existence.

To Merry that supper was a festival, not wholly because it was the satisfying of ravenous appetite, but because it was the crisis if his life. Dorcas sensed that if her own hunger was real, Merry would not feel that she was feeding a famished outcast. Jason beamed upon them in sheer enjoyment when he brought in full dishes and carried away empty ones. Dorcas was light-hearted and gay, as happy as they had been during their first acquaintance at the shore. For a moment, while Merry drank his coffee, the memory of a few horrible weeks intruded on the present.



He Turned and Stared at Her.

"Miss Dorcas," he began abruptly. "Why did you—"

She stretched out her hand appealingly.

"Don't bring in whys—now. We are so comfortable. I don't ask for an explanation—I don't want to give any. Can't you see I'm in Happy Valley for a little while? I am so glad to have you here again."

Merry smiled into her eyes. "I'll obey you, bless your gentle heart!"

The girl rose and reached to a shelf behind her for a box of cigars. Merry lit one, lounged back in a cushioned chair, and puffed rings of smoke towards the red fire. They sat in silence after Jason had carried away the dishes. Their quiet was broken when the clock struck one. The man started.

"Miss Dorcas, you wanted me here to talk. I cannot rob you of a night's sleep."

"I am as wide awake as a cricket. I slept all the afternoon."

"First of all," Merry asked gravely, "how did you find me? Scores of men and women passed me day after day, people I have known for years. Not one of them recognized me."

"They were not searching for you."

"You were?"

Dorcas nodded.

"How did you find me?" he persisted.

"Last night on my way home from the theater with Mr. Oswald our cab stopped in a block, and it was opposite where—that line of men stood. I was looking at them when I saw you pull down your hat. When Mr. Oswald left me here I drove back to Tenth street, but the line had dispersed. I went again tonight—just hoping."

"Who is Mr. Oswald?" asked Merry abruptly.

"Don't you know? Haven't you been reading the papers? Mr. Oswald is the man who is putting on your play."

"My play?" Andrew dropped his half-smoked cigar on the table.

"Your play," repeated Dorcas in a quiet tone. "They have been searching everywhere for you to play 'John Esterbrook.' Enoch is in Montreal now, looking for you."

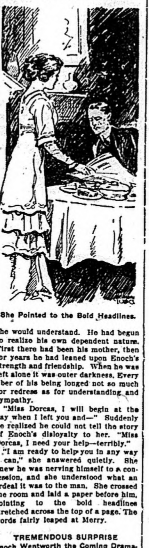
Merry laughed harshly.

The girl clasped her hands together. "Mr. Merry, tell me, are you and Enoch no longer friends?"

Andrew picked up his cigar and puffed it until the red spark revived. Then he laughed again. "We are not exactly friends. Has he told you anything?"

"Yes, he told me—only it seemed so strange, so hard to believe after our talk that day at the point, that somehow I cannot understand it."

Merry watched her keenly. He was throttling a temptation to tell everything that had come between him and the sunshine of existence. He felt sure of the girl's sympathy; he knew she would understand. He had begun to realize his own dependent nature. First there had been his mother, then for years he had leaned upon Enoch's strength and friendship. When he was left alone it was outer darkness. Every fiber of his being longed not so much for redress as for understanding and sympathy.



She Pointed to the Bold Headlines.

"Miss Dorcas, I will begin at the day when I left you and—" Suddenly he realized he could not tell the story of Enoch's disloyalty to her. "Miss Dorcas, I need your help—terribly."

"I am ready to help you in any way I can," she answered quietly. She knew he was nerving himself to a confession, and she understood what an ordeal it was to the man. She crossed the room and laid a paper before him, pointing to the bold headlines stretched across the top of a page. The words fairly leaped at Merry.

TREMENDOUS SURPRISE

Enoch Wentworth the Coming Dramatist.

He read on down through the column. Fellow journalists had banded together to give Enoch a royal introduction. Merry's name was not mentioned, though there was frequent reference to a famous star, who had the leading part in consideration. Oswald was referred to as a newcomer in the ranks of New York managers. His lavish production of Wentworth's drama was described in figures approaching prodigality. Merry read it through to the last sentence, then the paper fell to the floor and he buried his face in his hands.

While Dorcas watched, her heart ached for him. It was hard to hold in check the soothing touch she would have given to a woman or to a child.

"Oh!" she said in a piteous whisper, "it was such a mistake."

He did not answer or lift his head from his hands.

"I pleaded with Enoch. I told him it was all wrong, terribly wrong, for him as well as for you; that when you returned he must set things straight. I told him it was not even collaboration; it was wholly and distinctly your play, yours alone—"

"Collaboration?" repeated Merry perplexedly, raising his eyes.

"He told me everything," cried the girl hurriedly. She was trying to save him the full confession of his downfall. She did not wish to listen to it.

In The Adriatic

Some Experiences Told by a Member of British Squadron

(London Times)

An officer in the Mediterranean squadron writes on September 1:

We then turned our attention towards the Adriatic, and boarded several merchantmen, but have not succeeded in capturing any prize yet. Previously we had taken an Austrian Lloyd steamer and fired across her bows she at once dipped her ensign, and followed us for about 100 miles. I might say we had not been informed of the exact state of affairs as regards Austria, and so held her until we had orders to let her go, as war had not yet been declared. She very politely dipped her ensign and resumed her course, we having taken her about 150 miles out of her way.

On August 18 we received orders to combine with the French fleet under the command of the French admiral. This took place on a Sunday afternoon in the Adriatic. We had got wind that the Austrians were blockading Antivari in Montenegro, so we planned an attack at 8.30 the next morning. The cruiser squadron, consisting of Frenchmen and English patrolled one side of the Adriatic during the night and turned so as to be off Antivari at 8.30 next morning. The French squadron turned so as to be westward of us at 8.30 a. m. We had intended to look in at Durazzo on the way up, but as we were late we increased to full speed. The Austrians sighted us coming up from southward and so, being inferior, at once steamed north. Now I told you that the French fleet were in such a position that as the enemy went northward, they ran right into the arms of a huge fleet. I am sorry to have to admit that the Austrians were very inferior, having only two small cruisers and four destroyers. Certain heavy ships opened fire. The destroyers sank immediately; the enemy's cruisers returned the fire for about three minutes, when both ships caught fire and were a burning mass. All of a sudden there was a huge mass of dense black smoke, followed by an explosion, and the ships could be seen with their bows at right angles to the water. In less than a second both ships sank with all hands. Cheers went up from the fleet. We did not open fire, but followed closely in the rear. We then turned southwards and steamed out of it at full speed.

I am stationed at a searchlight during the right and work from 7.30 p.m. to 12 midnight and then from 1.30 a.m. to 4 a.m. All the searchlights are trained by midshipmen; by the word trained I mean operater, or sweeping. The ship is a perfect sight; all the wood has gone over the side—tables and chairs, pictures, chests of drawers, etc., and anything that is likely to cause fire. I have had to throw all my books overboard and a lot of old clothes. All the paint work is being scraped, and there is nothing but the bare iron. Every man in the ship has to scrape a square yard of pain t every day, including the officers. All the brass is painted over, and anything that will show up at night is also painted. I sleep in the dynamo fan casing on the upper deck. I have not taken off my clothes for a month during the night; in fact, I think my pyjamas have gone over the side.

7,000,000 FACE FAMINE.

American Minister to Belgium Says Only Two Weeks' Supply.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 27.—(By way of London)—Nearly 7,000,000 people in Belgium face famine unless they receive help from the outside at once.

The American Minister to Belgium says that less than two weeks' supply of food remains in the cities, while conditions in the country districts are even worse. Though Germany has seized the food in some cities for her soldiers, she still disclaims responsibility for feeding over 100,000 of the needy in Brussels. Families formerly rich are discharging their servants because they are bankrupt. Noblemen may be seen slipping into the soup kitchens.

Reports received by the United States Minister from Louvain, Liege and Namur say that the conditions in these cities are even worse than they are in Brussels. Louvain has only a four-days' supply of flour, while Liege has no flour at all.

The meat and milk supplies also have been cut off, the army having taken the cattle.

Belgians of all classes appear disheartened. Old women and cripples may be seen sitting near their shattered homes in Malines, nodding mutely at the cathedral with its shattered windows and tottering walls, damaged beyond repair by shell fire.

Similar conditions are found in the small villages between Antwerp and Brussels. Few stores are open. Those attempting to re-establish their homes find their roofs, which have been pierced by shells, no protection from the rain that is now falling every day. The villages that stood near contested forts were literally razed, yet many of the inhabitants remain living in rudely constructed sheds or tents.

Preparing To Retreat?

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The correspondent of The Times at Rotterdam sends the following:

"It is clear that the Germans are putting Antwerp in a state of defence. In most of the important forts the Belgian guns have been replaced with German fortress artillery of the largest type.

"The bridge between Antwerp and Pays de Waes, which the retreating Belgians damaged, has been repaired. Evidently the Germans are preparing a line of retreat from the Ostend-Dixmude line."

INDIANS TAKE A HAND IN BAYONET CHARGE

Regiment at La Bassee Held in Reserve Is Given Task of Recovering Lost Trenches, Says Daily Telegraph Correspondent—Masses of Enemy's Infantry Are Gaining Ground, But Can Be Checked.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A despatch to The Daily Telegraph dated "Northern France," relates the first instance of the British Indian troops coming into action.

"It was at La Bassee last week," says the despatch, "when by a great effort the Germans carried the British trenches, and the position looked dangerous. An avalanche of the enemy poured through, evidently supposing that the way was open to the coast. They had a rude awakening.

"The supports of the British line here were the Indian troops, who had been thirsting to prove their quality. It was a bayonet affair and the German advance was beaten and broken.

"The Indians ran through them, using the steel in their workmanlike fashion and thrusting the foe back to receive the right and left fire of the British infantry who awaited their coming.

"Not only did the Indians regain the lost trenches, but they pursued the enemy down the hill until their commanders recalled them."

At Ypres an unsuccessful German attack resulted in casualties of 3,000. At La Bassee they are apparently doing somewhat better. Their masses of infantry with heavy artillery seem at present to be slowly advancing in this section. Their progress is by no means alarming and can be firmly held should it become dangerous.

The heavy punishment inflicted on the German troops in the last few days has raised the hopes of everyone to a high pitch. An officer who flew over the enemy's lines yesterday morning says that the Germans now advance to the attack shouting like dervishes. The British are unperturbed by this noisy demonstration and wait until they come within 300 yards' range, and they give them 15 rounds and it is all over. But the German artillery fire is still very good.

DOMINION CHARTER ENOUGH.

Privy Council Gives Important Ruling In B. C. Case.

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—What is regarded in Great Britain as well as in Canada, as one of the most important constitutional decisions handed down by the Privy Council since Confederation was received in Toronto yesterday. It involved the validity of provincial company licensing and incorporation laws. The two appeal cases, Deere v. Wharton, and Deere v. Duck, on which yesterday's decision was made, were fought out in July before the Privy Council. They had to do with an application for a license in British Columbia by the John Deere Plow Co., which has been operating in different parts of Canada under a Dominion charter. The license was refused by the Province of British Columbia, and the question arose whether or not the province could exclude a Dominion company from carrying on business within its boundaries. The Privy Council in its decision gave the company the right to operate in the province without having a provincial charter. The decision will have a marked effect on provincial revenue.

CALLED HIM "GERMAN."

Mark Hambourg Sues London Daily Mail For Libel.

LONDON, Oct. 27. — Mark Hambourg, a famous Russian pianist, whom The London Daily Mail called a German, has sued the proprietor of that newspaper for libel. The case will be heard next Wednesday.

During a discussion before Justice Darling yesterday the defendant's counsel urged delay on the ground that "there is no reason why the plaintiff should be awarded damages on a rising market."

The judge refused to adopt the view that the Germans would be more popular in London at any time than they will be next Wednesday, and fixed the hearing for that date.

Professor Predicts Long War.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27. — Prof. Masao Kambe of the Imperial University of Kyoto, Japan, who is here on his way back to Japan after a trip around the world, was in Paris when the war broke out. Having visited Holland, Sweden and Denmark afterwards, and seen how Germany was getting munitions of war and other supplies from them, he says that he is convinced the war will be a prolonged one.

He stated also that Russia for some time had been buying large numbers of rifles, field artillery and siege guns from Japan.

Meadows Are Piled With Dead.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—"The position on the coast is stationary this morning," says a Daily Mail despatch from Flushing, Netherlands, under date of Sunday. "There is less firing and it is more to the southward.

"The German losses are frightful. Three meadows near Ostend are heaped with dead. The wounded are now installed in private houses in Bruges, where large wooden sheds are being rushed up to receive additional injured. Thirty-seven farm wagons, containing a convulsive mass of wounded, dying and dead, passed in one hour near Middlekerke."

Government Loan To Railway.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27. — Official announcement is made of a loan of $6,000,000 by the Dominion Government to the Pacific Great Eastern Railway now under construction from Vancouver to Fort George. The loan will tide the company over until the bonds can be sold in the old country. The railway is guaranteed by the Provincial Government, and the work is two-thirds completed.

Many Aliens Naturalized.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27. — When the High Court opened yesterday, the names of 143 aliens who are desirous of becoming British subjects were called, and there being no objections, they were declared eligible for naturalization. The list was longer than has ever been presented at an Ottawa court. A large proportion of the applicants were Germans.

Whether the British-American peace centenary plans proceed or not, it is becoming evident that Ghent was an unfortunate choice for the central celebration.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Accumulating supplies put the wheat market today under a good deal of selling pressure. As a result the close, altho steady, was at a decline of ⅛c to ⅜c net. Corn finished ⅝c to 1⅛c down, oats off ⅜c to ½c, and provisions varying from a loss of 20c to 20c advance.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a good demand, but the number on sale was limited, prices ranging from $60 to $90, the bulk selling at $70 to $80.

Veal Calves.

Receipts were moderate and prices easier. Choice veals, $10; good, $8.50 to $9; medium, $7.50 to $8; common, $6 to $7; inferior, $4 to $5.50.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts were moderate and priced about steady. Light ewes, $5 to $6; heavy ewes and rams, $3 to $4; culls, $2.50 to $3; lambs, $7.50 to $7.75, the bulk of the choice selling at $7.50 to $7.65; common lambs at $7 to $7.25; culls at $5.50 to $6.

Hogs.

Prices unchanged. Selected fed and watered at $7.50, and $7.75 weighed off cars, and $7.15 f.o.b. cars.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Oct. 26.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market, altho supplies of cattle were increased, a steady feeling prevailed at steady prices. Choice steers sold at $8, and picked lots at $8.25, but the bulk of the trading was done in good steers at $7.50 to $7.75, and fair grades at $7 to $7.50 per cwt. The demand for canning stock was good, bulls selling at $4.75 to $5, and cows at $3.75 to $4.50 per 100 pounds.

The demand was only fair for sheep, ewes selling at $4.75 to $5, and bucks and culls at $4.25 to $4.50 per cwt. Lambs were firmer, Ontario stock selling at $7.25 to $7.50, and Quebec stock at $6.75 to $7 per cwt. Heavy, grass-fed calves for shipment to the United States were in good demand. The demand for milk-fed calves was also good, and sales were made at 7c to 9c per pound, live weight.

A weaker feeling developed in the market for hogs, and prices, as compared with this day week, show a decline of 50c to 65c per 100 pounds, which makes a net reduction since the first of the month of $1.50. The supply today was [illegible] all requirements, and sales of selected lots were made at $7.75 to $8, sows at $5.75 to $6, and stags at $3.75 to $4 per cwt., weighed off cars.

Hogs—Receipts, 21,000 head; active; heavy and mixed, $7.75 to $7.85; yorkers, $7.60 to $7.70; pigs, $7.50 to $7.65; roughs, $6.65 to $6.75; stags, $6 to $6.80.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 17,000 head; slow; lambs, $5.50 to $7.85; yearlings, $4.50 to $6.50; wethers, $5.50 to $5.75; ewes, $2.50 to $5.25; sheep, mixed, $5.25 to $5.50.

Carpet Mystery Solved.

MONTREAL, Oct. 27. — Interesting revelations will, it is said, be made as a result of the successful efforts of the city detective department to trace the mysterious disappearance from the city hall, of a $700 carpet, which originally did duty in the council chamber. Detective Gagnon, who has been engaged on the case for the past few months, at the instance of Mayor Martin yesterday reported that the missing carpet has been found.

Brindilla Allowed To Sail.

LONDON, Oct. 27. — The British Government, satisfied after an examination of the innocence of the destination of her cargo, has ordered the release of the American oil tank steamer Brindilla, which will be permitted to proceed from Halifax to Alexandria. The question of the transfer of the vessel from the German flag to the flag of the United States will not be raised by the Government.

The Brindilla, which was carrying a cargo of illuminating oil, was seized by the British cruiser Carona on Oct. 19.

British Cavalry Exploit.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—According to the newspaper Cri de Paris, a naked detachment of British cavalry routed a Uhlan patrol near Noyon. The Britishers were playing water polo in the Oise when the approach of the Uhlans were signalled. There was not enough time to dress, so, quitting the water, they leaped into their saddles as they were and, dripping wet, chased the Germans five miles across country.

Hindus Horrified at Murder.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27. — Local Hindus here had a meeting with Dr. Ragunath Singh, protesting against the murder of Immigration Inspector Hopkinson. Resolutions were adopted by the 35 Hindus present expressing regret and horror at the tragedy

HE OBEYED ORDERS

A captain of hussars gave a dinner to the men of his squadron the night before they left for the front.

"Now, my lads," he said, "treat this dinner as you will the enemy." And they set to with a will.

After dinner he discovered one of the men stowing away bottles of champagne into a bag, and, highly indignant, he demanded to know what he meant by such conduct.

"I'm only obeying orders, sir," said the man.

"Obeying orders" roared the captain "What do you mean, sir?"

"You told us to treat the dinner like the enemy, sir, and when we meet the enemy, sir, those we don't kill we take prisoners."

Some people thirst for knowledge, even if it is dry.

Style is one of the principal ingredients in a dressmaker's bill.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items for Busy Readers.

REAR LIGHT NOT LIT

A citizen was this morning by Magistrate Masson fined $1 and cost for operating an automobile after dark without having the rear light on the machine lit.

DOORS INSECURE

The police last night during their rounds of inspection, found the front door of a prominent business place unlocked, and the back door of another place of business insecure.

NEW FLOORING

A new floor is being laid in a portion of No. 2 fire hall, by Messrs. J. Beckett and W. E. Schryver. The flooring is of two inch Georgian pine, which has been creosoted. It will no doubt prove to be an excellent flooring.

RIFLE FOUND

The rifle taken by the Kingston Penitentiary convict Symondski when he made his sensational escape from that institution, was found by a C.P.R. section man near Carleton Place, a few feet from the C.P.R. main line. The weapon was sent to Kingston where it was identified as the one taken by the convict.

BROKE HIS RIBS

Mr. Frank Meagher of this city, who was engaged on the cement work in connection with the new Government dock, had the misfortune to meet with a painful accident. He accidentally caught his foot in the wire netting and fell in such a manner as to break two ribs on his right side.

USED INSULTING LANGUAGE

Before Magistrate Masson this morning, Edward Snider was charged with using insulting language toward Edgar Craddock. The offence was proven, but as the accused has enlisted for the war he was not fined but ordered to pay the costs of the case.

MARY ANN ELIZABETH

On Sunday, Oct. 25th, 1914, the christening of Mary Ann Elizabeth Day took place at St. Thomas church by the Rev. Canon Beamish. The Godparents were Mrs. Riedler, Mrs. Simpson, and Mrs. Foster. The christening party took place at Mrs. Riedler's, 80 Foster avenue, at which twenty persons were present at supper and a joyful evening was spent until nine o'clock.—Com.

CAR CAME TO GRIEF

Yesterday morning an auto came to grief on the Trenton road at Avondale. It was being driven westward when it veered and ran into the ditch, with the result that an axle was broken. The machine, we are informed is the property of a resident of Trenton. Fortunately none of the occupants of the car were injured.

Frightens a Woman While Looking For Cows

Mrs. Thompson, wife of Mr. Thompson the guide, while out hunting her cows, had an experience which she will not soon forget. Wandering into the berry patch on Clark's Bay she was startled to see standing in front of her a monster bear and she was not in search of "bearies" either. Luckily she had her dog along, and he proceeded to engage the attention of Mr. Bear. At time he would rise to his full height and Mrs. Thompson was so terror-stricken that she was literally glued to the spot, but she managed to scream and scream she did. In fact she made such a noise that the bear calmly withdrew into the solitude of the quiet woods. Ever since that men have been prowling around the Burleigh shore with guns over their shoulders, in search of "the bear that walks like a man."—Bancroft Times.

INSURING GOOD DIGESTION

IMPORTANCE OF PREVENTING FOOD FERMENTATION IN STOMACH.

Good digestion usually means good health. So long as the stomach does its work properly disease can find no lodgment in the human system; the liver, kidneys and intestines will perform their work perfectly and remain in perfect health; but permit anything to interfere with the proper digestion of food, an unending train of troubles is set in motion. About the only thing that will upset the stomach and interfere with digestion is an excess of acid, usually caused by food fermentation. Food fermentation is due to chemical action in the food itself. This fermentation causes the formation of gas, or wind, as well as acid, resulting in the unnatural distention of the the delicate lining of the stomach.

Medicine and tonics cannot relieve this condition—they usually make it worse. The fermentation and acid are to blame and these must be overcome and prevented by taking after meals a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. Physicians recommend bisurated magnesia especially because it stops and prevents fermentation of food and neutralizes the acid instantly, making it bland and harmless, without irritating the stomach in any way. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist and try it the next time your food ferments and upsets your stomach. Note how quickly the acid is neutralized and how soon you forget that you have such a thing as a stomach.

Everybody Pleased When They See it

READILY SHOW APPRECIATION OF THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE BY ANY NEWSPAPER.

Those who started to clip certificates from Intelligencer a few weeks ago can now testify to the true merits of the great offer, for the Bible distribution started off with immediate satisfaction to all concerned. All who got their Bibles are proudly showing them to their friends, and commendations and congratulations are already pouring into this office.

The limp leather volume with overlapping covers is the most popular, although the one bound in silk cloth is just as serviceable and contains all the beautiful illustrations printed in with the type as well as the colored plates. There is also a Catholic edition, which contains the full-page colored plates, approved by the church, without the Tissot and text pictures, this is being ditributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books.

It makes no difference how many Bibles you may now have, you will want this one, anyway, for it is illustrated as no other Bible in the world is illustrated. The picture for each particular verse or subject taken up is inserted with the type, so that it corresponds with the accompanying text matter. The publishers expended $50,000 for this work alone, and besides they selected the most appropriate of the famous Tissot collection and these are reproduced in colors, and inserted in their proper places throughout the volume. The result is a grand work of art which cannot be surpassed.

If you have not yet started to save certificates, begin today and lose no further time, for you will never have another opportunity like this, and at the rate they are now going the supply will soon be exhausted.

To-day's certificate is printed elsewhere. Clip it at once or somebody else will get ahead of you.

WAR NOTES

Thirty-five thousand men from all parts of Ireland have joined the army since the beginning of the war.

According to the newspaper Cri de Paris, a naked detachment of British cavalry routed a Uhlan patrol near Noyon. The Britishers were playing water polo in the Oise when the approach of the Uhlans was signaled. There was not enough time to dress, so, quitting the water, they leaped into their saddles as they were and, dripping wet, chased the Germans five miles across country. Believe it if you like!

Overheard in Birmingham:—

First Native: I heard that Kynochs are supplying ammunition to the Germans.

Second Native: No; perfectly disgraceful! How do they manage to do it?

First Native: Through British rifles.

If people don't take the trouble to flatter you they have no immediate use for you.

WHO IS THE AUTHOR OF NATIONAL ANTHEM

Authorities Disagree as to Who Wrote the Words

The origin of "God Save the King" is a very obscure and disputed point. Some have attributed the music to John Bull, an English composer and organist, who died at Antwerp in 1628, and the words to Ben Johnson, who, so the story goes, wrote them specially for singing at a grand solemn entertainment given by the Merchant Taylors' Company to celebrate King James' escape from the Gunpowder Plot of 1607.

Others say that the real author was Henry Carey, an English poet and composer of musical farces, born near the end of the seventeenth century, who not only wrote "God Save the King," but also "Sally in Our Alley" his best known poem.

A third authority asserts that there is not sufficient ground for attributing "God Save the King" to Henry Carey, and asserts that the words were really written by Dr. Schuckburgh, an army surgeon, about 1755, soon after which, during the American Revolution, it came extensively into vogue. It would seem, therefore, that the author of our National Anthem has never really been discovered.

Incidentally it might be mentioned that "God Save the King" is the same melody as that of the German National Anthem, and similarly of the American "My Country 'Tis of Thee." Yes, and some Americans claim the authority of both words and music.

YOUTHS CARRY OUT A SUICIDE PACT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 26.—Beside a truck in the garage of the Milwaukee Casket Company, Alma Leopold, seventeen year old girl, and Fred Oehler, her sweetheart, carried out what the police believe was a suicide pact.

Employees broke down the locked doors of the garage and found the girl's body a bullet wound in her head, lying beside the truck. Sitting in the front seat of the truck, one lifeless hand still gripping the wheel, they found Oehler, who was an employee of the company. There was a powder-scarred bullet wound on the right side of his head. A revolver and a bottle of poison lay at his feet. Two notes, in different handwriting, were found on an order blank of the company. They read:

"Kindly notify Edward Straus, 'phone coroner. Thanks for this favor and for all past favors—Fred Oehler."

"Kindly notify Mrs. H. Leopold——Alma Leopold."

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

ROSS RIFLE FACTORY WORKING ON SUNDAYS

Has Contract from British Government to Supply One Hundred Thousand Rifles

QUEBEC Oct. 26.—For the first time the Ross Rifle Factory to-day started Sunday work besides working night and day week-days to get ahead with the contract for a hundred thousand rifles which it has juts received from the British Government, and which calls for complete delivery in the space of a year. There are now about 800 employes at the factory, and this number will be gradually increased until there are practically double that number, which will be shortly after New Years Day. The rifle demanded by the Imperial authorities is the same as was issued to the Canadian contingent. Extensive additions are being made to the factory.

DRIVEN WITH BAYONET

Germans Have Been Pressed Back 75 Miles From Warsaw.

Precipitate Flight of Kaiser's Armies From Capital of Russian Poland Continues and Many Guns and Men Have Been Captured By the Victorious Russians — Austrian Resistance Is Weakening.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—In the eastern scene of operations the Russians continue a successful offensive against the Austro-Germanic armies in Poland and Galicia. The flight of the Germans from before Warsaw and Ivangorod continues, and latest despatches indicate that the enemy has now fallen back seventy-five miles from Warsaw, driven with the bayonet from every place where he endeavors to check the Russian advance.

An official despatch from Petrograd, issued yesterday afternoon, says:

"The precipitate flight of the Germans continues. They are seventy-five miles west-southwest of Warsaw. They made an unsuccessful attempt to arrest the offensive Russian movement by clinging to positions at Sokhatchoff, from which, however, they were dislodged with heavy losses."

Last night the following Russian official despatch was received:

"The combats upon the routes leading to Piotrkow and Radom have assumed the character of a great battle, of which the front extends over thirty miles, from Rawa to Nowemiasto and Bialobrzegi as far as the mouth of the River Iljanka.

"The evening of Oct. 24 north of Rawa we attacked the Germans at the point of the bayonet, inflicting upon them considerable losses. In the village of Morchildo alone we buried over seven hundred Germans.

"In a bayonet combat near the village of Mazamerjeff we captured two batteries of machine guns.

"Our troops command the forest of Nemglovo, southeast of Rawa, where we took over 400 prisoners. In the forest between Radom and Kozenitz tenacious combats continue.

"We have progressed along the routes from Nova to Alexandria, where we captured numerous prisoners and cannon."

"The stubborn resistance of the Austrians in Galicia is weakening, and our troops are making vigorous progress in the region south of Sambor and Starnmiasto, where we took 11 cannons and many caissons.

"The entire valley of the River Spryne is covered with bodies of the enemy, estimated to aggregate at least 5,000.

"All attempts by the Germans to resume a partial offensive on the eastern Prussian front have been repelled."

An Austrian report from Vienna claims that northeast of Przemysl and on the lower San the Austrians have had several successes.

Germans Claim Victory.

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—An official report yesterday says:

"In the eastern theatre of the war our offensive on Augustowo is progressing. The battle near Ivangorod is favorable, but till now there has been no decision."

GERMANS GAIN NOTHING.

Every Attempt to Break Lines Results In Heavy Loss.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—The following official information was given out by the French War Office last night: "In Belgium, Nieuport has been violently bombarded, and the effort of the Germans has continued on the front between Nieuport and Dixmude, without, according to the latest advices, any result whatever having been reached.

"All the front comprised between La Bassee and the Somme has been equally the object of violent attacks at night, all of which have been repulsed.

"On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report."

The official communique of the French War Office, issued yesterday afternoon, says: "During the day of yesterday (Sunday) our front along the general line between Nieuport and Dixmude was maintained. The German force which crossed the Yser between these two towns has not been able to progress.

"Our front has held also in the region between Ypres and Roulers, between Armentieres and Lille, to the west of La Bassee and Lens, and to the east of Arras. This line is continued to the south by the line which already has been indicated in these official communications. During the fighting of recent days the enemy seems to have sustained considerable losses.

"In Russia, to the west of the Vistula and to the north of the Pilica river, the Germans have been captured at the point of the bayonet by the Russians.

"To the south of the Pilica, in the direction of Radom, there has been a lively engagement between the Russians and the Austro-Germans, who lost prisoners and cannon.

"To the south of Soleo, the Russian troops crossed the Vistula by main force, driving the Austrians back. On the River San, and to the south of Przemysl, there have occurred stubborn combats resulting favorably to the Russians. An Austrian column debouching from the Carpathians on Dolina (in Galicia, 22 miles to the south of Stry) was routed."

Hudson Bay Closes Without A Mishap All Season

Traffic Rendered Safer Through Improved Government Supervision by Steamers

PORT NELSON VERY BUSY

Six Hundred Men Will Have Constant Work There This Winter

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—The season of navigation in Hudson Bay closes this year without a single mishap or accident of any kind having occurred. This is in marked contrast with last year when there were several accident and wrecks. The splendid record this year has been made possible by the establishment of aids to navigation in the bay and strait. These have rendered the route practicable and safe for regular traffic.

Three Government steamers and several lighters have been voyaging constantly all season to and from Hudson Bay, and cargo was taken to Port Nelson right up to the end of September. Two steamers are making their way out now. These facts have demonstrated the practicability of the Hudson Bay route for freightage of grain from the Prairie Provinces to Europe.

Between five and six hundred men are at work at Port Nelson at present and will be engaged there all winter. One hundred and twenty men have returned. The population is kept daily in touch with news of the outside world, a bulletin service being sent by wireless from Le Pas.

The big Government dredge has been busy all summer clearing out the channel to the wharves at Port Nelson. There was some delay at the beginning of the season until some parts had arrived to replace those which were lost when the Carance was wrecked last year.

Millionaire Joins British Airmen

Mr. W. G. Trethewey Gives Further Aid to Cause of Allies

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—Special—A cable received in the city yesterday announced that Mr. W. G. Trethewey, the well-known Toronto millionaire mine owner, had joined the airmen's corps for service in the British expeditionary force.

Mr. Trethewey has taken a keen interest in aerial navigation. Some years ago his farm at Weston was the secene of the first airship meet held in this Province, Count de Lesseps being one of the aviators taking part. Mr. Trethewey has already given liberally in aid of war service. He was on his yacht in the Mediterranean when war broke out, and immediately placed the yacht at the disposal of the Admiralty. He has given liberally to various relief funds, and his house and grounds in Surrey, England, have been placed at the disposal of the Government for hospital purposes.

German Spy With Canadian Troops

Caught Out at Sea--Had Been at Valcartier for Weeks

QUEBEC, Oct. 28. — A letter received here today from a Quebec volunteer in the first Canadian contingent, says that out at sea, a German spy was caught on one of the transports.

The letter says that the man was disguised as a Canadian soldier, having been a the Valcartier camp throughout the whole length of the manoeuvres.

The letter comes from Georges Matte, local constable, who wrote the news to his wife here.

NO WORD YET OF THE SECOND FORCE

Major-General Hughes Will Probably Bring Back Details

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 27.—According to advices received at the Militia Department, Major-General Hughes, Minister of Militia will be back in Ottawa about November 10. As no word has been received from the British War Office as to the composition of the second force it is taken for granted now that Major-General Hughes, who has been in consultation with Lord Kitchener, will bring back these details himself.

GERMAN POSITION GROWS MORE PRECARIOUS DAILY

Enemy's Lines of Communication are Now Endangered--A Life or Death Struggle--End May Come at Any Hour

(Canadian Press Special Exclusively to The Intelligencer)

PARIS, Oct. 28.—Paris declines to accept any longer the grandiloquent German statements concerning the object of the "life and death struggle," as the Berlin press calls it, in northwest France. Dismissing scornfully the enemy's boast of waging a war on Britain from Calais The Temps says: "The truth is that the allied forces in developing between Arras and the sea endanger the German communications. Not only must they remove this danger at any price, but also is it necessary for them to repulse the army which is rapidly growing stronger, upon their flank. They cannot do either. The only result of their attacks is the thinning of their own ranks. In short, the situation in the German army becomes more serious daily without any visible possibility of improvement."

The opinion expressed by an authoritative French military critic, sums up the ideas current in the best informed circles here regarding the fighting on the Yser, which is considered really critical for the Germans, as their newspapers admit for reasons above advanced. Stories about the attack on Britain from the French coast are nothing but a flimsy pretext to prevent the German public from realizing the seriousness of the position.

FRENCH POSITIONS ARE MAINTAINED

PARIS, Oct. 28.—The French announcement issued this afternoon says that yesterday the German attacks between Nieuport and Arras were less violent. French positions everywhere were maintained and the French forces continued to advance to the north and to the east of Ypres.

SITUATION GENERALLY FAVORABLE TO ALLIES

LONDON, Oct. 28.—A despatch from Paris last night says the situation generally is favorable and advances are reported at several points. In the Nancy district the allies have forced the enemy back beyond the frontier.

KING MANUEL OFFERS FOR WAR

Failing in the acceptance of his services by King George, former King Manuel of Portugal has offered to serve with the Portugal Republican troops now being assembled to join the allies.

STEAMER STRIKES A MINE AND SINKS

The steamer Manchester Commerce, from Manchester to Montreal, struck a mine and sank off the Irish coast yesterday. Part of the crew were rescued. The captain and thirteen of the crew are reported drowned.

CANADIAN SOLDIER ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Corporal Wm. Ogden, 11th battalion Canadian Infantry, who was accidentally shot at the Canadian camp on Sunday, is dead from his injury.

BEAUTIFUL CHAPTER IN NATION'S ANNALS

French Newspaper Comments On Canadian Help in Struggle

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Times' Paris correspondent says that the imminent arrival of Canadian troops in France soon after the arrival of the Indians furnishes Le Tempts with a text or a comparison between the treaties concluded between France and Great Britain and France and Germany. The annexation of Alsace-Lorraine could not be forgiven by France but the loss of India and Canada has not inflicted a lasting blow to French dignity and equilibrium. Today, thanks to British fair play, the two nations live equalling in Canada and French and English Canadians are fighting for the allied Mother Countries. There is no more beautiful lession, perhaps no more beautiful chapter in the annals of civilized nations than this definite reconciliation after centuries of quarreling. It was prepared by the equal parallel development of two liberal civilizations, whereas, Germany, ensaved by feudal Prussia, militarizing her universities and worshipping force has retrograded towards barbarism."

Prophecies As To Kaiser's Death

Madame Thebes Says She Killed Him Once, But He Still Lives

PARIS, Oct. 27.—Mme. de Thebes, the French professional "prophetess" who vainly prophesied the kaiser's death a month or so ago, on her return to Paris from her country home denied the authenticity of various prophecies about the German emperor attributed to her recently.

"I said, and I say again," she went on, "that France will issue from this trial more powerful than ever before. We are still, up to March 20th, 1915, under the double terrible influence of Mars and Saturn. Consequently the war will be a long and bitter contest, bloody to the very end, but final victory, crushing and thunderous, is to crown our efforts, for destiny is favorable to us.

"We can count henceforth on having more wounded than dead. We will not see again the hecatombs which marked the commencement of the war."

Asked if she had ever read the Kaiser's hand, she said:

"His living hand, no. But ten years ago a German woman of high rank brought to me a plaster cast of a right hand. The study of its lines interested me. The line of the head was broad and well marked. It spoke of rare intelligence, but at the same time it indicated a disordered imagination and immeasurable pride.

"This line turned off suddenly two-thirds of the way down to the mountain of the moon, which is an evident sign of insanity. She then took from her reticule two pictures of William II.

"You have been studying," she said, "the hand of the German emperor."

"William II will die mad and a physical wreck. The crown prince will die by the hands of an assassin. I have seen photographs of the casts of his hands and they bear undoubted signs of a violent death. The day and the hour he was born are both under fatal influences.

"These two deaths will end the Hohenzollerns."

HOUSE BURNS WHILE OWNER BRINGS FUEL

Wind Fanned Flames and Much Damage Was Done

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—There was no need for Mr. George Jones, who has a house just west of Woodbine avenue north of Danforth, outside the city limits, to gather more wood to pile on the fire in his stove, for when he returned to the house early to-day with a large bundle of twigs in his arms, he found that the fire in the stove had ignited the whole kitchen. He managed to get his family out safely, but by then the wind had fanned the blaze and all hopes of saving the building had gone. Owing to the distance the house was from the city it was some time before the reels put in an appearance. However, the firemen managed to save a lot of the furniture. The damage was over a thousand dollars.

SERIOUS CASES IN HAILEYBURG ASSIZES

HAILEYBURY, Oct. 28.—(Special.)—Chancellor Boyd at the Assizes here to-day, addressing the Grand Jury, said that he saw by the calender that while there were not many crimes to come before them they were of a serious character, as was usual in new communities where a large proportion of the population were foreign.

The most serious was that of the murder of James Knowles, the South Porcupine lawyer, who at the last meeting of the court was in attendance. Another of perjury, in which the Provincial police force was involved, a very gross case of alleged criminal assault and one of attempted suicide.

Today the court's time was taken up with damage suits against mining companies. In the case of Johnson v. Crown Reserve Mining Company, the suit was settled out of court, the company agreeing to pay the widow $2,100.

Drexel To Be War Chauffeur

Wealthy Man Starts from London for the Front to Follow His Son's Example

LONDON Oct. 27.—Anthony J. Drexel left here a few days ago for Paris. His intention is to join his son, J. Armstrong Drexel, at the front as a chauffeur, but his friends in London do not know whether he has succeeded as yet in doing this.

John R. Drexel is at present staying at the Fitz, awaiting the arrival of his daughter Alice G., from Munich, where she has been with friends since the war began.

J. Armstrong Drexel is on of Gen. French's chauffeurs.

Anthony J. Drexel, who succeeded his father as head of Drexel & Co., bankers of Philadelphia, was born in Philadelphia and was closely associated with the late J. P. Morgan. His London home is one of the most elaborate in the English capital. One of Mr. Drexel's sons, Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., married Miss Marjorie Gould, daughter of George J. Gould. J. Armstrong Drexel has achieved much fame as an amateur aviator.

Kingston Police Walk The Carpet

"Unlicensed Places" Should be Cleaned up--The Beat System Is Not an Efficient One

KINGSTON, Oct. 27.—The police system of Kingston was "ripped up" by Ald. Nickle at the City Council meeting Monday night. Some time ago this alderman asked the mayor to present to council a statement from the police commission with regard to the inspection of licensed places and about the beat system. This report was handed in Monday night by the mayor, and Ald. Nickle made some pointed remarks upon it.

"The report is not a credit to the police commissioners," declared the Sydenham war representative, who referred to the unsatisfactory method of inspecting licensed places, and went on to speak about the lack of attention given the "unlicensed places" of the city.

"Give the police a free hand, Mr. Mayor, see how long it will take them to clean up these places," exclaimed Ald. Nickle, with finger pointed at his worship.

When the mayor intimated that surely there were no such places in Kingston, Ald. Nickle expressed great surprise, declaring that there was a regular system in the city.

"Go and ask the police, Mr. Mayor, and they'll tell you."

Dealing with the beat system, Ald. Nickle stated that it was not right. There was no police protection during the changes of beats on the even hour, and it was then that robberies had taken place. The MacKay fur robbery some years ago occurred on the even hour. So did the robbery of the street railway office. The burglars knew just when the police were off the streets and took advantage of it.

"It is high time we got some efficiency," said Ald. Nickle. "The policemen cannot do any more than they are ordered to. It is the duty of the mayor to see that we get sufficient police protection. It is your duty, Mr. Mayor, as a police commissioner, to do so."

The mayor stated that he would look into the questions raised by Ald. Nickle.

FRENCH BREASTPLATES ARE BULLET-PROOF

Infantry in the Argonne Region Make Gains By Using This Device

PARIS, Oct. 28—Special—The Journal of Information states that the French Infantry have recently gained much ground in the Argonne through the use of a steel breastplate, which, though unable to resist a bullet point-blank, nevertheless is impenetrable at a range which permits the troops to pause before the last rush with the bayonet.

The Journal du Rennes announces that the Russian Government decided to adopt the breastplate at the outbreak of the war, and placed immense orders with the factory at St. Hilaire de Harcouet, which has the exclusive manufacturing rights. The French Government also ordered vast quantities. It has released the reservists employed in the factory, which is busy night and day.

BRITISH FLEET AGAIN ATTACK GERMAN LINES

Bombardment of German Trenches at Ostend is Resumed--Crossed Yser Many Times--Allies Take Thourout

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Special—A despatch to the Daily Telegraph says:

"The guns which were silent yesterday were again firing today. The British ships have resumed the bombardment of the German trenches at Ostend.

"The Germans have again and again crossed the Yser Canal, but each time they have been driven back by artillery and machine gun fire and the bayonet. The battle continues to rage indecisively on the Yser and between Dixmude and Ypres.

"In severity and in losses the fighting exceeds that which occurred on the Nethe and the Meuse. The shells from the warships play havoc in the German trenches. The Germans have brought up more artillery, some of which has been posted on the sea at Heyst and other places.

"The number of wounded continually brought into Bruges is very great. All the public buildings and monasteries have been transformed into hospitals.

"The allies captured Thourout Monday after it had been occupied by a large force of Germans from Bruges. Thourout is north of Roulers and ten miles east of Dixmude).

"The allied forces remained hidden while the Germans entered the town and then fell upon them suddenly and by a swift attack drove them out. The Germans left hundreds of dead and wounded behind them."

Crossed Yser on Bridge of Dead

Germans Were Mowed Down by Rifle Fire as they Advanced Toward the British Lines Across the River

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(Special.)—The correspondent of The Daily Mail, describing Sunday's fighting on the River Yser, says in part:—

"There were 2,500 German bodies in the Yser Canal this morning after the fighting in the Yser Canal this morning after the fighting in the night. Many of them were drowned and others were bayoneted. The very water itself was bloody, while Dismude's streets were strewn thick with the dead.

"The night was a hell from dark to dawn. At almost every point of the line man opposed man, sometimes at few hundred yards distance, but more often in close grips. Face to face men even wrestled and died by drowning each other in the canal's waters. The Germans had had orders to get through that night, cost what it might.

"Probably 5,000 of them gave their lives last night. They could not give more, yet they failed, but not because the Germans did not literally obey their orders. They crossed the waterway all right as they were bid, but once through they could not make good. They were mowed down with rifle shot, torn into human fragments by shells and bayoneted back, yard by yard, over their own dead into the waters of the canal. It is believed that some 5,000 Germans crossed the River Yser, but hardly one of them got back. Those to the north and northeast of Dismude, probably 2,000, were met by a fine rally of the Belgian infantry and of the cavalry who had tethered their horses and were driven by main force at the bayonet's point to the River Canal and into it.

STOCK EXCHANGE AND LLOYD GEORGE

An Announcement Regarding Loans Difficulty May be Made To-day

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Special—It is believed that Mr. Lloyd George tomorrow will make an important announcement regarding the arrangements made under Government supervision to clear up the Stock Exchange loans difficulty. Careful secrecy is observed concerning the details.

The Government annoucement, however, will not entirely meet the Stock Exchange situation, some details being left to the committee, who, it is rumored, disagree on certain matters. Anyway, the reopening date is still probably remote, though the distance will be lessened when the Government announcement comes.

HOPE TO REBUILD ANTWERP

Architects Busy and English Capital Will Help.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—On the initiative of the directors of the Antwerp People's Bank, according to an Amsterdam despatch to The Daily Chronicle, there has been formed an association which will lend money to Antwerp house-owners to help them rebuild. Important British interests are concerned in the negotiations. An architects' commission is already making a complete survey of the damage done to the city.

Struck By Wagon And Jaw Broken

Driver of the Rig is Charged With Negligence

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—William Powell, aged 16, of St. Clair Avenue Square, was seriously injured yesterday morning by being knocked down by a wagon at the corner of Dundas street and High Park Avenue. He was removed to the Western Hospital in the police ambulance. He is suffering from a broken jaw and other injuries. His condition is critical. The driver of the wagon, Gordon Gooderham, 72 Ossington avenue, was placed under arrest on a charge of criminal negligence. He appeared in the Police Court yesterday and was remanded for a week. The accident occurred about 7.30. Powell was riding his bicycle up High Park Avenue and in turning on to Dundas street was knocked down by the wagon, which was traveling eastwards.

Refuses Citizenship To Aliens Applying

Chancellor Boyd Criticizes Actions of Germany and Austria

HAILEYBURY, Oct. 28.—Special.—Addressing the Grand Jury at the opening of the Assizes here, Chancellor Sir John A. Boyd said that he saw that there were a number of German and Austrian citizens who were applying for naturalization papers. The Germans and Austrians were carrying on war in such a manner that he did not believe that these applications should be refused. The applications were refused, but a large number of Finns, Russians and Italians were granted.

TO DETHRONE KAISER IN JANUARY NEXT

Emperor Must Abdicate by That Time is Latest Prediction

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—"Germany will be driven out of France in a decisive battle to be fought between November 5 and 7; the Kaiser will be forced to relinquish his throne by the middle of next January; the Russians will be in Berlin in April and the present European war will last about two years.

These are some of the predictions which were made in a lecture by the Rev. Dr. A. Z. Stevenson, Professor of the Astrological Society (incorporated). Dr. Stevenson had an enlarged chart of the Kaiser's horoscope which he dissected with a skill and nicety that called forth much applause.

FROM BERLIN TO BERLIN IS MOTTO OF DETACHMENT

BERLIN, Ont., Oct. 28.—Special—One of the biggest and most enthusiastic demonstrations ever witnessed in this city was tendered twenty-five members of the second detachment from Berlin and Waterloo. Addresses were delivered by Mayor W. D. Euler, W. G. Weichel, M.P., and C. H. Mills, M.P.P. The hope was expressed that the contingent would march through Berlin, Germany, as victors before they returned to their home town. The members of the contingent were recipients of ten dollar gold pieces from the City Council and five dollar bills from Miss Glick of this city, the presentations being made by Mrs. W. D. Euler, and also well-filled "kits" supplied by the Daughters of the Empire, together with flag emblems pinned on the coats of members by Miss Jackson, Regent, and Mrs. H. Krug.

Eleven Spies Found Among 48 Doctors

Wore Red Cross Uniforms when Captured by the French at Amiens

ARMS IN THEIR CONVOY

Suspicions Confirmed When They Evaded Medical Discussion--Test was Arranged

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Special—So many stories have come from France that the Germans systematically misuse the Red Cross Service that a narrative supplied by a correspondent of the Daily Telegraph is of compelling interest.

The story he tells of the discovery of 11 spies among 48 German officers in the Red Cross uniform who were captured by the French in the reoccupation of Amiens, and of their exposure and execution, contains the elements of a great drama.

The forty-eight were captured by cavalry and taken immediately before the French general commanding at Amiens. He received them with the courtesy and consideration due to their position as Red Cross doctors. They were told that they would be sent to Geneva to await exchange for an equal number of French doctors. In the meantime they were invited to dine with the French medical corps.

Border Towns Fear Germans

BRIDGEBURG Ont. Oct. 28—Special—Residents of Fort Erie are much exercised over the possibly of an attack on Canada by German and Austrian sympathizers from the United States. Over 200,000 Germans are residents of Buffalo, and for this reason it is expected that in case of an invasion of Canada from the States, Fort Erie would be the first place attacked, just as it was by the Fenians in 1866. At a meeting of the Fort Erie Board of Trade last evening the question of the organization of a home guard was considered, and it is expected that some further action will be taken at a meeting of the local patriotic league to-morrow. W. M. Dougall, president of the board, stated that the Buffalo police had had great difficulty in preventing organization of raiders in that city within the last two weeks. There have been several pro-German mass meetings in Buffalo, and one, the first was held in a hall owned by the city. Reeve Dougall said that, in his opinion, the Government had been very slack in not stationing a protective force along this section of the frontier. Niagara Falls has guards at the power houses which are a measure of protection to the whole city. But this district is absolutely defenceless, the nearet militia men being stationed along the Welland Canal, 18 miles from Bridgeburg and Fort Erie. It is probable that the militia authorities will be asked to station at least one company of volunteers at that point.

Reached Objective In Three Hours

GALT, Oct. 8.—(Special.)—Three hours after the whirlwind campaign started this morning by twenty teams under Chairman R. O. McCulluch to raise funds for the Canadian Patriotic Fund the total stood at $30,000, the sum placed as the objective of the committee in charge. The response to the call has been so liberal and spontaneous that it is fully expected that before the campaign closes on Thursday evening $50,000 will be obtained. The two largest subscriptions are $10,000 from the Gore Mutual Fire Insurance Company, and $4,800 from the town, payable by instalments of $400 per month.

A Story For Labor Day

By SARAH BAXTER

"Talk about the dignity of labor," said Helen Forsythe to her friend, Lois Gregory. "I don't see any dignity in it. No one can do manual labor without getting dirty hands, chapped hands, misshapen hands."

"There are worse things than dirty hands," replied Miss Gregory.

"What, for instance?"

"A dirty soul. How many rich men's sons who have not the incentive to labor have become worthless and contemptible?"

"I dare say, my dear, there is truth in what you say, but for me I would rather marry a poet than a mechanic."

"Even a poet has his uses, but for me he is altogether too ethereal. I would prefer an engineer whose profession deals directly with labor. What is there more splendid than the spanning of a river by an enormous bridge, the building of a cathedral, the tunneling of a mountain?"

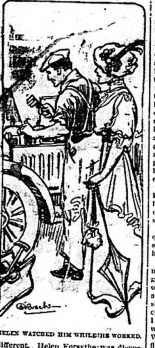
"These are planned by one brain."

"Granted, but of what use would that brain be without the workmen to carry out its plan?"

"Well, Lois, marry in the field of labor if you like. I prefer the fine arts. Give me an artist."

"I shall marry the man I love, whatever be his occupation."

These young ladies were both of the well to do class, but they were very different. Helen Forsythe was disposed to begin where her father left off. When he had been experimenting in overalls she was too young to know much about what he was doing; now that he was living on the royalties he received from a machine he had contrived, with all the refinements a fine income brought, she had little sympathy with what had produced his good fortune.



HELEN WATCHED HIM WHILE HE WORKED.

Lois Gregory, on the contrary, had never known either wealth or poverty. A laborer herself, she sympathized with the cause of labor. She made her living by teaching, and being accustomed to using her brain constantly it became stronger with exercise, and she was enabled to distinguish between what was of intrinsic and what was of fictitious value. She had come to the conclusion that the attaining was intrinsic, the attainment fictitious. In other words, there is no stimulus in an accomplished work except to produce something better.

The country seat of the Forsythes was situated in a beautiful valley, through which ran a stream that afforded a fine water power. A mile below the place was a large factory. One day Helen Forsythe's automobile broke down, and a request was sent to the factory to send a man to fix it. He appeared in overalls with a bag of tools, and Helen took him to the car to show him the break.

There was something about this man that arrested Miss Forsythe's attention. He was some twenty-two or three years old and strongly built, and character was plainly written in his face. Helen pointed out the break, though this was unnecessary, for the young man was a skilled mechanic and took it in himself at once. Helen watched him while he worked, asking him questions about the trouble, how serious it was and how long a time would be required to make the repairs. She noticed a British intonation to his speech, but not the misuse of the letter "h" common with the English lower classes.

"Do you like mechanical work?" she asked.

"I certainly do. I was born with a taste for it," was the reply.

"But don't you think it very dirty?"

"Not as dirty as some other kinds of work."

"You mean shoveling earth, I suppose?"

"Oh, no. I love to dig in the dirt."

"You mean handling ashes?"

"There's dirtier work than that. My brother does it every day."

"Your brother!"

"Yes. He's in politics."

This quite took Miss Forsythe's breath away. Surely this young man was very odd. She presumed the brother he referred to was a political heeler in a district where the people were of the lowest class.

"Tell me," she said presently, "what it is that interests you in mechanics."

"I like to fashion things. The mechanic, if he is a good one, may always find a field in his labor for more or less use of the inventive faculty, and the mechanic is free to exercise it. Besides, there is an opportunity in mechanics for a man to climb the ladder that leads up to fortune without using dishonorable means. No man need be happier than the laborer who has all the work he can do. His mind is on what he is doing, and he has no time to worry about imaginary griefs. When he has finished his day's work he enjoys his leisure. How much better off he is than the man whose time is all leisure, who never experiences the comfort there is in rest because he is always at rest."

Miss Forsythe was surprised to hear this from one whom she considered doomed to a life of toil. She was about to inquire of him where he, a laborer, had picked up such ideas when he finished his job, gathered up his tools and, putting them in his bag, bade her adieu and went away.

And yet for Miss Forsythe he did not go away. He was with her the rest of the day as if he were still working on her auto and she listening to his words. "I can understand," she said to herself, "Lois marrying a man like that. There is a healthfulness of body and mind about him that positively rests me. He doesn't seem to be striving for anything. I do believe that he wouldn't give up his present work in exchange for a fine social position, while I—why, if I'm not invited to every swell function I'm miserable."

It was not long before some of the water pipes in the Forsythe house got out of order, and Miss Helen, being, on account of her father's absence and her mother's bad health, the director of the establishment, telephoned to the factory asking for a man to repair them and requesting it to send, if possible, the workman who had repaired her car. He came with his bag of tools, and Miss Forsythe, as before, showed him the break. She left him, but now and again returned to see how he was getting on. When noon came he had not finished, and she invited him to partake of a luncheon she ordered to be prepared for him. While he was eating it she asked him:

"How is it that you, who have never known what is called high life and have no experience as to the cares and disappointments it brings, are so well satisfied with your humble lot?"

He had finished eating when this question was propounded and, rising, stood facing Miss Forsythe, looking at her intently.

"You seem to be interested in this matter," he said, "and I am going to give you a confidence I have given no one else in America. I am the son of an English gentleman. My father designed me for the army or the church. My brother is in parliament. I have watched that silent revolution which is bringing labor to the front. We see it everywhere. People of refinement are sensible of it. Whereas a hundred years ago to make money in manufacture or trade was not considered respectable, now titled persons are going into both.

"My preference is for a life in manufacture. I have no confidence in attaining success in manufacture without ever having been a manufacturer myself. I have preferred to begin as any other laborer begins. If any of them beat me in the race it will not trouble me. If I become a leader I prefer to know the feelings, the necessities, of the men I manage. As to wealth bringing me happiness if I attain it, I have no confidence that it will. My happiness is in my daily labor. I believe that I get the same pleasure in repairing the pipes in this house that the manager of a large factory derives from his more extended duties."

Miss Forsythe was astonished. She had been surprised to meet a laborer who realized that he was happier in his work than if he were a globe trotter, but this man, who was born with a silver spoon in his mouth and had voluntarily stepped on the lowest rung of the labor ladder to climb or remain a fixture, as the case might be, was something more than she could at once understand. Nevertheless she was deeply impressed.

It occurred to her to invite him to dinner to see how he would appear. He accepted the invitation and with clean hands. He was invited again and again, and a year after Miss Forsythe had first met him she wrote Miss Gregory that she had been converted to her friend's ideas as to the dignity of labor and had been induced to marry a laborer.

The bride endeavored to persuade her husband to accept capital from her father with which to start a factory of his own, but he declined. He said that the happiness he derived from labor was in labor and not in management. Nevertheless he was rapidly promoted in the factory where he worked and made a manager in spite of himself.

Each of the girls who conversed upon the subject of marriage failed to do in the matter what they said they would do. Miss Forsythe, who said she would marry an artist, married a laborer. Miss Gregory, who declared that she would prefer one who builds material structures, married a literary man.

Copeland's Cure For Consumption

WINS CONFIDENCE BY ITS WONDERFUL CURATIVE POWERS.

MR. W. R. COPELAND,

Dear Sir—Now that I am well and strong again, I write to state that the fact I am alive today witnesses to the merit of your medicine.

My doctor, a specialist, said that I had the worst kind of consumption and that it was impossible for me to live. He gave me only eight to ten days before the disease would terminate fatally. He also said that it was no use in treating me, as I was too far gone.

I was left to die, but a friend of mine told me about your medicine and procured me a bottle. Without much hope, I tried it. It did wonders. First the weakening perspiration stopped and the food I took stayed in the stomach. After a second bottle, I commenced to regain my appetite and was up in a few days of the time that the doctor said I should die. Five weeks later I was at work and have been working ever since.

I wish everyone could know the worth of your medicine, especially those afflicted with consumption as I was, for I undoubtedly owe my life to its use. I will at all times cheerfully answer any correspondence, and you are at liberty to publish this letter if you think it will help to recommend your medicine to others. I remain, Gratefully yours,

DAVID WARNOCK, Street Car Conductor,
202 Withrow Ave., Toronto.

The remarkable power of this medicine marks it as one of the greatest discoveries of this century. Its work is only just started, but it is safe to say that its reputation will grow world-wide.

It is a blessing, as all who have used it testify. To the real "down-and-out" consumptive, the chronic sufferers from bronchial and lung troubles—it is something more than a blessing. To them it means the difference between happiness and misery, and sometimes life instead of a grave.

It is a medicine that is honest. No false claims are made for it. It is good, most beneficiently good for the ailments specified above. These, even consumption, it will tackle, fight and OVERCOME. If you have a bad cough or cold—take this medicine. If you are a consumptive—take this medicine, for a greater medicine for consumption has NEVER BEEN KNOWN. If you are troubled with bronchitis and can't sleep at night for coughing—take this medicine. Your trouble will become a memory. If your throat or lungs are in any way weak or sensitive—take this medicine—and they will become strong and normal.

Cavities heal under its benign influence. Congestion is freed by its action to remove phlegm until the lungs are clear and work naturally without pain or distress. Emaciation, night sweats, poor appetite, inability to retain food in the stomach—all these effects of disease are hindered and the system built up under its curative and nourishing powers.

Ask your druggist, or send direct to us. Price, $1.00 per bottle. Testimonials of many others can be had on request. 2-14

Local Legal

Appellate Court before Mulock C.J., Maclaren J.A., Clute J. and Reddell J.

Wright v. White—E. G. Porter, K. C. for plaintiff. F. E. O'Flynn (Belleville) for defendant. Appeal by plaintiff from judgment of County Court of Hastings of July 11, 1914. Action to recover $500 damages for alleged misrepresentation of defendant in cancelling lease. At trial judgment was entered for plaintiff on his claim for $250 and for defendant on his counterclaim for $500. Each party to pay his own costs. Appeal argued and dismissed with costs.

Parks v. Daker.—W. N. Ferguson, K. C., for defendants. E. G. Porter, K.C. for plaintiff. Appeal by defendants from judgment of County Court of Hastings of September 15, 1914. Action for declaration that plaintiff's subscription to capital stock of Mohaw Skewer and Dowell Co. is null and void and that certificate of stock issued to him be cancelled on ground that same was obtained on untrue statements and representations in prospectus and for return of $100 paid him therefor. At trial judgment was entered against all three defendants for $100 and costs. Appeal partly argued but not concluded.

A TRIBUTE TO A BELLEVILLE AUTHOR

The Canadian White Ribbon Tidings in a review of "Marriage and Sequence," of which Rev. A. Hubly, of this city is the author makes the following complimentary reference:

Its five chapters are devoted to Sweethearts; The Betrothal; The Marriage Ceremony; Husband and Wife, and Father and Mother.

The keynote of all is: "To be carnally-minded is death." There is so much froth written on these subjects and so many shafts of vulgar wit levelled against them, that the reverent manner of treatment in this book, and the bed-rock foundation of truth therein laid, is like a draught from a spring of life and health to one environed by a miasma-ladened swamp.

WANTED ON A SERIOUS CHARGE

Ernest Taylor, chief of police of Thorold, holds a warrant for one Joseph Foster, charging that he on the 20th of October, 1914, at Thorold, did unlawfully take, or cause to be taken, Grace Johnson, an unmarried girl under the age of sixteen years, out of the possession and against the will of her father. Foster is Italian by birth, but does not look like one. He is of fair compelxion, blue eyes, brown hair, 21 years, 5 feet 7 or 8 inches, 160 pounds. He is a chauffeur, was wearing a blue (white striped) suit, curly blue chinchilla overcoat and cap, tan button shoes. He carries a red leather grip and revolver. The local police have been notified to be on the lookout for Foster, who it is claimed, came eastward with the Johnson girl.

WEDDING BELLS

PULKER—JENKINSON

B. Pulker and Emma Jenkinson were quietly married at West Belleville parsonage on Monday, and departed West on their honeymoon. On their return they will reside in this city.

BUCKLEY—NETTERVILLE.

St. Michael's Church was this morning the scene of an interesting wedding when Miss Anna Netterville and Mr. Francis Vincent Buckley were united in marriage by Rev. C. J. Killeen.

The bride was given away by her father and wore a smart tailored suit of blue serge with hat to match, and wore a corsage bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Ursula Buckley, sister of the groom, assisted as bridesmaid, wearing a pretty dress of blue crepe de chene and taffeta with black velvet toque, and wore pink roses.

Mr. M. O'Flynn, cousin of the bride, supported the groom.

As the wedding party entered the church the organist, Mr. H. E. Ingram played the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin," and at the conclusion of the mass, Mendelssohn's Wedding March. At the offeratory Mr. Eddie Brown sand Holden's "O Salutaris."

The groom's gift to the bride was a substantial cheque, to the bridesmaid a ring set with pearls, to the best man a set of gold links. Being the recipients of many beautiful gifts goes to show the esteem in which they are held.

After the ceremony the happy couple left for Detroit and points west.

For Sore Muscles, Strains, Sprains Bruises

Run in a few drops of Absorbine, Jr. and you will be agreeably surprised at the prompt relief. It reduces inflammation and swelling—allays pain and soreness.

Used as a Rub-down after violent exercise or physical exertion it puts vim and energy into jaded muscles, limbers the joints and gives the body the glow of health. Rub-down made by adding one ounce Absorbine, Jr. to a quart of water or witch hazel.

Absorbine Jr is more than a liniment—it is a positive germicide and therefore its uses and efficiency are doubled. Applied to cuts, wounds, sores, it kills the germ, makes the part aseptically clean, and promotes rapid healing. Economical as only a few drops are required at an application.

Made of herbs and safe to use anywhere.

At all druggists, $1.00 per bottle or postpaid. Manufactured only by W. F. Young. P.D.F., 475 Lymans Bldg., Montreal, Can.

SPEAKS VOLUMES

A correspondent writes: Am sending this letter thinking it would be a comfort to other mothers who have given up their sons for their country and hoping your paper would publish it:—

Washington, Nov. 21, 1864.

To Mrs. Bixby, Boston, Mass.

Dear Madam:—I have been shown in the files of the War Department a statement of the Adjutant General of Massachusetts that you are the mother of five sons who have died gloriously on the field of battle. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any word of mine which should attempt to beguile you from a loss so overwhelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the republic they died to save. I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavment, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.

Yours very sincerely and respectfully.

Grand Trunk News Bureau

SHORTENS MAIL ROUTE TO NORTH PACIFIC COAST BY MORE THAN TWO DAYS

Residents in the busy little city of Prince Rupert, British Columbia, are enjoying this week for the first time the benefits of a direct mail service with the East. Postal service over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway between Edmonton and Prince Rupert has just been inaugurated and a great saving of time is being effected. Hitherto the mails have been taken from Prince Rupert and other coast points to Vancouver by steamship and then sent east by rail. Under the new arrangement of direct service over the G.T.R there will be a clear saving of two, and possibly there days time. A letter posted in Montreal or New York should be in Prince Rupert within five days. Via Vancouver it would have taken at the very least seven days.

Prince Rupert is destined to be an important stopping place on the shortest route around the world, for any scheme that has for its ultimate object the swift circling of the Globe must reckon the city on its right of way. The distance from Liverpool to Yokohama by this route is 10,085 miles as against 10,858 via New York and San Francisco. Moreover, ships sailing from the land-locked harbor to the high seas, and begin their journey across the Pacific 500 miles nearer the East than a ship would by sailing at the same time from any other Pacific port.

ADVANCE NEAR DIXMUDE.

French Night Communique Reports Some Progress.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—A very brief official statement was issued last night by the French War Office regarding the great battle which is in progress in Belgium and northern France. The text follows:

"There is nothing to report except some progress on our part in the region to the south of Dixmude."

The official communique issued yesterday afternoon, says:

"The fighting continues to be particularly spirited between the mouth of the Yser and the region of Lens. In this part of the front, the allied forces have at no point drawn back and they have continued to make progress in the region between Ypres and Roulers.

"In the general region between Soissons and Berry-au-Bac an artillery engagement resulted to our advantage and in the destruction of several batteries of the enemy.

"In the region to the east of Nancy, between the forest of Benimskq, the forest of Bezange and the forest of Parrey, we have assumed the offensive and driven the enemy across the border.

"On the River San and to the south of Przemysl, the Russian offensive is becoming more accentuated."

Resistance Admitted.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Berlin headquarters under date of Oct. 27, announces:

"The battle on the Yser Canal, near Ypres and southwesterly from Lille is proceeding with the same stubbornness. Yesterday the German troops made progress.

"On the other battle front in the western theatre, no important events have occurred.

"To the west of Augustowo, the attack of the Germans is slowly proceeding. To the southwest of Warsaw our troops have repulsed all the attacks of strong Russian forces. North of Ivangorod a new Russian army corps has crossed the Vistula."

LIEUT.-GEN. FRANKLYN DEAD

Leader of Third Division of New Army Passes Away Suddenly.

LONDON, Oct. 28. — Lt.-Gen. Sir William Edmund Franklyn, who commanded the third division of Kitchener's new army, died suddenly last night.

Lt.-Gen. Franklyn, prior to assuming the command in Kitchener's army, was military secretary to the Secreatry for War, which post he had held since 1911. He was born in 1856 and served with distinction in India and other countries. He was director of the adjutant-general's department of the War Office in 1904-06.

A casualty list issued last night, dated Oct. 23 reports 16 officers killed, 35 wounded and 23 missing. Among the wounded are Brig.-Gen. C. T. McM. Kavanagh and Lt.-Col. E. B. Cook, First Life Guards; Lt.-Col. A. F. H. Ferguson, Second Life Guards, and Lt.-Col. B. E. Ward, Middlesex Regiment.

Capt. John Jacob Astor, First Life Guards, son of William Waldorf Astor, was wounded in a battle in France.

The 60th Prussian casualty list, with accompanying Saxon and Bavarian lists, was published in Berlin yesterday. The list is headed with the name of Lt.-Gen. Frederic of Saxe-Meiningen, who was killed in a battle near Montigney, Aug. 23.

VON BESELER A SUICIDE.

German General Who Took Antwerp Has Slain Himself.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—A startling development of the day is the suicide of Gen. Hans von Beseler, the conqueror of Antwerp, who, according to late advices shot himself at his headquarters in Bruges and died almost instantly. This information comes by way of Rotterdam on what appears to be good authority. No reason is assigned fr his act.

Gen. von Beseler is the second high commander of the Kaiser's forces to take his own life since hostilities opened, of which information has reached the public. The first was the leader of the army which besieged Liege.

Sends Kaiser Photos Of Work

Owner of Chateau Looted by Von Kluk's Staff

PARIS, Oct. 27.—Jefferson Davis Cohen's Chateau de Chamant, near Semlis, is said to have been occupied by General Von Kluck's staff during the battle of the Marne. Last week Mr. Cohen obtained permission to see whether it had been damaged by the German occupancy.

In this chateau Mr. Cohen once entertained the Kaiser's sister, Princess Charlotte of Saxe-Meiningn. He also has been an intimate friend of Prince Henry of Prussia, who several times was his guest on his yacht. He also was entertained by the Kaiser at Kiel.

As a result of the trip to the chateau he has sent the Kaiser a bundle of photographs of the place as it is to-day, which show loot and destruction. Mr. Cohen, explaining sending the pictures to the Emperor, said:

"I have drunk beer with him; I have been the host of his brother and sister. Perhaps he will not try to deny the pictures I sent him are true."

The most damaging photograph shows the wall of a saloon from which the priceless tapestries were torn, and the names of a dozen Prussian officers written there in chalk, including the name of the general. Mr. Cohen refused to say whether it was Von Kluck.

All the tapestries were stolen, Mr. Cohen said, and servants testified that officers took two new waggons from the barn, packed them full of tapestries and other valuables and sent them to Berlin.

Chamant is also the seat of Mr. Cohen's racing stable. He said the Germans had taken $250,000 worth of horses, including yearlings and brood mares. He said:

"I do not blame them for taking cows, pigs and sheep during the war. They need such animals as food, but to take yearlings and brood mares is criminal thievery."

The pictures all show rooms despoiled. One bedroom shows a large screen with the tapestry cut out. Other pictures show drawers, bureaus, and a desk broken open, and the contents strewn about the floor. In the room, which it is alleged Von Kluck used as an office, the table is scarcely visible under champagne bottles and glasses. The wine cellars are completely exhausted.

Photographs of the boudoir once used by the German Emperor's sister show a mass of overturned furniture, lying in heaps about the floor.

No Nurses Wanted From Dominion

Movement to Raise Money for that Purpose Should Cease

OTTAWA Oct. 28.—(Special.)—The Canadian Relief Committee which met in Ottawa yesterday, came to the opinion after considerable discussion that it was inadvisable at present that any movement be initiated in Canada having for its object the raising of funds for sending nurses from Canada to the scene of war. No nurses are wanted from Canada, at least not at present, and none will be sent to England or the continent unless the Department of Militia decides to send ambulance units with the second contingent, in which case the usual complement will go.

Applications from qualified nurses all over Canada to the number of 1,800, which is far in excess of the number required in such an event, are already on file in the office of the army medical authorities in Ottawa, and it is stated that further applications are only a waste of time and energy.

The Canadian Relief Committee meeting to-day was represented by the medical branch of the Militia Department, the Canadian Red Cross Society and the St. John Ambulance Society.

It was stated at the meeting that a movement was in contemplation by Canadian women having for its object an appeal to the Canadian people for funds to provide for the equipment and expenses of a considerable number of nurses to be sent to England. "Apart from the undesirability of such a movement being started," the association concluded, "which would inevitably tend to duplicate the work now being done by the A.M.S., the Red Cross Society and the St. John Ambulance Society, it appears from reliable information that there is not any demand for further nurses from Canada at present."

One of the things that makes a man conceited about his wisdom is the lack of it.

THE WEALTH THAT COUNTS

Those who claim to be in a position to know, are of the opinion that the present great European conflict will be of comparatively short duration, the end being brought about by economic exhaustion rather than contention in the field.

Estimates made by various financiers show that the war is costing each of the five great warring nations in the neighborhood of $5,000,000 per day, which, to express it mildly, is a tremendous drain upon the resources of the various countries.

In 1870 the war between France and Prussia cost $150,000,000 a month for both countries, which is but a small amount compared to the present gigantic slaughter of human lives. Taking as a standard the relative wealth of the nations which are behind the allied forces against that of Germany and Austria, one has but little doubt as to the final results. The latest estimate places the national wealth of the four nations at $194,000,000,000, as against $85,000,000,000 for Germany and Austria, the figures being as follows:—

|---|---|
| Great Britain | $80,000,000,000 |
| France | 65,000,000,000 |
| Russia | 40,000,000,000 |
| Belgium | 9,000,000,000 |
| Germany | 60,000,000,000 |
| Austria | 25,000,000,000 |

And yet this does not illustrate intelligently the substantial ground-work of the combined wealth of these nations. It is the steady income from [illegible] investments that tells the story in the long run. Take Great Britain, for instance. Each year she receives from her investments at home and abroad the sum of $12,000,000,000, a sum almost sufficient to finance her forces during the conflict. France receives in the neighborhood of $7,000,000,000 a year. The amount received by Germany is considerably less than that received by Great Britain, and at the same time Germany cannot carry on her trade with the world nor collect the interest which is due her. Great Britain can bring in raw material for her factories, can export her finished products, can remain the great carrier nation and carry on business very much as usual, all of which is denied to Germany. The latter cannot import raw material nor export her finished goods, and what is still more, cannot import foodstuffs. In brief, her whole economic system crumbles to the ground because of Britain's control of the sea, and economic exhaustion will shortly put an end to Germany's resistance. It cannot come too soon for the rest of the world.

CONSCRIPTS AND COMMANDMENTS

Whatever Teutonic Moses wrote the Ten Commercial Commandments of Germany, he surely knew the German people. Some parts of the decalogue contain reasons why. Most of the commandments are—just commandments. They are orders given to a conscript nation, to buy German goods—wherever possible. The code is as candid as the German ethics of war. The only reason for commanding the Germans to buy German goods is that to do so helps Germany.

THE DOW ALES AND PORTERS ARE THE BEST

FOR SALE AT YOUR LEADING LIQUOR STORES

Canadians' being free people and citizens of a great liberty-loving Empire, need no commandments to induce them to buy the goods made by their fellow-citizens. All they need is to recognize the situation. If ten commercial commandments were drafted in this country by any Canadian Moses, Canadians would tear them to tatters without being in the least degree rebellious. Canadians know that the war has precipitated an industrial crisis in which it is every nation's business to hang together as strongly as possible. The Empire and therefore Canada is engaged in a struggle that tests out the national character of every country under the British flag. Canada's response to that test is twofold, sending men to fight the battles of empire, and buying goods made by the factories of the Empire. Every dollar spent on Canadian-made goods now is as good as two before or after the war. Canada needs the co-operation of Canadian citizens—now. One volunteer dollar spent to help along a great movement is worth ten conscript dollars based on commercial commandments.

LETTING THE INDIANS LOOSE

There has been no little curiosity on the part of the watching world to know what manner of field fighters Britain's Indian contingent might prove to be if let loose in battle. The time came in the fight near La Bassee on Monday, when, hard pressed by the Germans, and for the moment driven out of their entrenchments, the British brought up the Hindus, who had been acting as reserves, and gave them a definite task to accomplish, namely that of driving back the middle of the German line in hand-to-hand work, while the British used their rifles on the flanks. Here was an opportunity for the kind of exploits in which the Ghoorkas excel. They joyously leaped to the attack, and with their peculiar weapon, the kukri, which is a kind of a flat broad knife curved somewhat like a sickle, such deadly execution did they deal that the enemy reeled and rolled back. British rifles completed the discomfiture, and turned the assault into a rout, the Hindus being with difficulty called back from the pursuit. This incident will be at least a reminder to the Kaiser of the mistake he made regarding the attitude of India, and of the extent of British resources, not only in money but in men.

CURRENT COMMENT

Journal of Commerce: "Canada has now borrowed £545,546,000 in the British market. The interest on this borrowed money amounts a very tidy sum each year, and if Canada is going to make the progress she should make, it will be necessary for her to produce more and develop her natural resources to the fullest possible extent. There is no excuse for this country not being able to pay its interest with the products of our farms, forests, mines, fisheries and factories. More than at any other time in our history there is need for us to adopt Carlyle's advice and produce."

Hamilton Herald: "A bye-election campaign in this city is near, and as a matter of course the Hamilton Times conceives it to be its duty as an old campaigner to begin sniping at the Herald." What's the matter with the Herald taking a "snip" at the Times?

Toronto Globe: "An Ottawa dairy has decided to sell milk at cost so as to lessen the war pressure on customers. This is a refreshing announcement in the midst of complaints about the men who seize the opportunity to despoil their fellow-citizens."

The Liberals have decided not to oppose Hon. T. Chase Casgrain and Hon. Pierre Blondin, the new Ministers, in the bye-elections in Quebec county and Champlain. A conference of Liberal leaders, it is understood, was held recently when this decision was reached. In this they have shown their good sense, knowing they would be ignominiously defeated.

New York Journal of Commerce: "Before the war Germany's foreign trade had reached the annual total of $2,200,000,000, of which 70 per cent., or, in round figures, $1,500,000,000, was sea-borne trade. Of this 25 per cent., or about $375,000,000, was carried in German ships. Both of these divisions of her foreign trade Germany stands to lose."

Official announcement is made of a loan of $6,000,000 by the Dominion Government to the Pacific Great Eastern Railway now under construction from Vancouver to Fort George. The loan will tide the company over until the bonds can be sold in the Old Country. The railway is guaranteed by the Provincial Government, and the work is two-thirds completed. The money will be furnished through the Union Bank.

The Germans are now threatening Holland, and reminding them that from now on the German watchword is "Who is not in favor of us, is against us. No other way out exists, and the countries around Germany will have to choose between German culture and German anger." We hope Holland's answer to this will be the opening of the dykes.

Hollanders have a system by which the pulling of a lever in Amsterdam will open every dyke and dam in the country, and flood immense areas in the space of a few hours. This would be a fine way of disposing of a few million Germans. A sea bath might wipe out a few stains such as those of Louvain and Rheims.

WAR NOTES

Hamilton Herald: "Lord Charley Beresford is quite too free with his assertions of what must be done when Germany is beaten to her knees. Germany is not nearly whipped yet, and it's going to be a long, long way to Tipperary." And yet there is an end of the road leading to Tipperary. And when it is reached ——— !!!

Apparently the unfortunate Count von Bernstorff, so far from soothing public opinion in the States by his patronizing remarks about the Monroe Doctrine and Canada, has succeeded only in "getting in wrong" again, to judge from criticism in the New York papers. The Kaiser's representative at Washington is playing in pretty hard luck. He might try the effect of absolute silence for a while.

PATRIOTISM BEGINS AT HOME

It so happens as a matters of history that while the Canadian soldiers were mustering at Valcartier, the first contingent for the aid of the Empire landed in London. Much as the offer of Canada to send thousands of men, horses and guns to the front thrilled the seat of Empire, this quiet arrival of the first contingent struck the first practical note in the business of Imperial co-operation. It landed as silently as Kitchener landed his expeditionary force at Boulogne. And it got to work even more quickly.

The first news of this contingent appeared in the British press to state that since the arrival of the first cargo of the million bags of flour given by Canada to Great Britain, the price of flour had stopped going up.

If an army marches on its stomach, surely a nation at home in a time of war depends on its supply of food. The million bags of flour donated by the Government of Canada to England as a gift of war meant more to England than the gift of three million bushels of wheat that it takes to make the flour.

Why? Because a million bags of flour represent the labor of 1,000 Canadians for 50 days at $2.00 a day. It keeps a milling industry that cost $5,000,000 busy for 50 days. It keeps 1,000 Canadians homes from facing the problem of unemployment. It represents the most highly skilled labor and the best organized enterprises in that particular industry, working on the best raw material of that kind produced in Canada. And when that million-bags-of-flour contingent arrives at the docks of London, it means as much for the cause of England as the gift of fighting men.

A gift of three million bushels of wheat would have been just as simple and quite as easy. It would have been much less patriotic. Now and then we naturally get weary of the man who is always preaching patriotism without putting it into practice, but there has been brains enough in our patriotism in this case, to make a gift to the cause of the Empire that at the same time puts honest labor and well-earned wages into the hands of its people. We have discovered that patriotism, like charity begins at home. The man that can help himself while he helps somebody else is doing more for the cause of civilization than the man who takes money from Peter to pay it to Paul.

Did Not Recognize His Haberdasher

HERE IS ANOTHER AMUSING YARN ATTRIBUTED TO THE GREAT LINCOLN FUND.

Many and various are the amusing stories attributed to Abraham Lincoln, and like all good story-tellers he became the butt of many funny yarns himself. It is told of him that at one of his early public receptions a man came up and shook his hand. The man proved to be his shirtmarker, but Lincoln did not recognize him, and told him so.

"Oh," said the man, "I made your shirts."

In the noise and confusion, Lincoln did not exactly understand him, but with his usual desire to make everybody feel welcome he turned to his secretary, who stood near, and said:

"Here, Mr. Hay, I want you to meet Major Shurtz."

It was some time before Mr. Lincoln could be made to understand that the man did not claim to be Major Shurtz but that he had said, "I made your shirts," which sounds very much the same.

It was Lincoln who said that the most important book in the library is the Bible. Lincoln was a great student, and much of his learning came from what we term "every day" books. The Bible is one of them, and now that The Intelligencer offers such an opportunity, everybody in Belleville should get the New Illustrated Bible. See the display announcements from day to day and you will at once recognize the necessity for coming into possesison of one of these beautiful volumes. Then turn to the certificates on another page of this issue and you will find out just how you can get this magnificent work on practically your own terms.

Don't lose another minute—they are going fast. Clip the certificates and present it with five others.

FAITHFUL CANADA

By. W. J. Savage, 3. Stone Street, Belleville, Ont.

You have heard of the call to Arms, Sir,
Of Canada, loyal and true,
To fight for the Mother Country
Under the Red, White and Blue.

And you notice how well they responded,
The bravest of Canada's sons
Were Ready, Aye Ready, when called for
And anxious to carry their guns.

Unmindful of what lay before them,
On battle fields over the foam;
They decided to fight for Old England
And forfeit the comforts of home.

They came from the town and the country,
To make one fine, glorious stand,
For liberty, justice and freedom,
The pride of their native land.

'Twas a sight that would fill you with pride, Sir,
To see the brave boys go away,
To the camp at Quebec where they drilled them,
And got them in shape for the fray.

Each heart was as light as a school boy;
Not a sign of regret did they show,
When a boy shouted, Are we down hearted
From each one came the answer, No.

But see, on the platform is standing
A mother, with face drawn and sad;
Her heart brimming over with sorrow
As she bids a goodbye to her lad.

Good-bye and God bless you, she whispers
Although it is breaking my heart
To see you go off to the battle;
'Tis duty; and so we must part.

Wives, sweethearts mothers and sisters
All gather to wish them God speed,
And the train steams away; There's a sample
Of Canada's heroes, indeed.

And just a few weeks have elapsed, Sirs,
Since we bid them a last farewell;
When they went to the camp for training,
And I think they have done real well.

For to-day there are in Old England
Waiting the word to go;
All willing to do their duty
And ready to meet the foe.

Some people would have us believing
That it's loyalty Canada lacks,
And that her desire is to sever
Herself from the Union Jack.

But just let that man come before me,
That ever dare raise such a kick
And in less than no time he'd be nursing
A lump on his head from a brick.

For, Sir you can rest with assurance
That Canada's aim is to do,
The same for the dear old Homeland
As the Homeland has done for you.

As a daughter will stick to her mother
And meet trouble hand in hand;
Just so will our fair Dominion
Stick to the Motherland.

More and more it is being demonstrated that Canada has a big place to fill in feeding the Empire, and yet large proportions of some crops waste for want of harvesters and a market. It's a queer old world.

Why Britain Is At War
The Causes And The Issues

The Case of Belgium

Belgium was constituted "an independent and perfectly neutral State" by treaties of 1831-2 and 1839. To those treaties, Germany as well as Great Britain was a party. At the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian War in 1870, the Government of Mr. Gladstone proposed a treaty to Prussia and France, providing that if the armies of either violated the neutrality of Belgium, Great Britain would co-operate with the other for its defence. Both countries assented. To this action "Mr. Gladstone then and always attached high importance." "We do not think it would be right," he said, "even if it were safe, to announce that we would in any case stand by with folded arms and see actions done which would amount to a total extinction of public right in Europe." "I do not think we could look on while the sacrifice of freedom and independence was in course of consummation." "There is also this further consideration, the force of which we must all feel most deeply, and that is the common interests against the unmeasured aggrandisement of any Power whatever."

The same question confronted Mr. Asquith's Government in 1914, and they took the same view of it. On July 31, Sir Edward Grey—in view of existing treaties, asked both France and Germany "whether they were prepared to engage to respect neutrality of Belgium as long as no other Power violates it." On the same day he "assumed," in a communication to Belgium, "that the Belgian Government will maintain to the utmost of her power her neutrality." Belgium in reply "expects and desires that other Powers will observe and uphold her neutrality which she intends to maintain to the utmost of her power." France immediately gave Sir Edward Grey the desired assurance. Germany gave no answer.

On August 3 Germany addressed an ultimatum to Belgium saying that she would be treated as an enemy unless she consented to violation of her territory. Belgium "categorically refused this as a flagrant violation of the law of nations," and the King of the Belgians appealed in the following terms to King George: "Remembering the numerous proofs of your Majesty's friendship and that of your predecessor, and the friendly atitude of England in 1870 and the proof of friendship you have just given us again, I make a supreme appeal to the diplomatic intervention of your Majesty's Government to safeguard the integrity of Belgium."

On August 4 the British Government addressed an ultimatum to Germany saying that unless by midnight she gave a satisfactory reply to the quesion asked on July 31, "His Majesty's Government feel bound to take all steps in their power to uphold the neutrality of Belgium and the observance of a treaty to which Germany is as much a party as ourselves." Germany gave no reply except by the forcible violation of Belgian territory, and Britain accordingly declared war.

The LAPSE of ENOCH WENTWORTH

By ISABEL GORDON CURTIS

COPYRIGHT, 1914, BY F. G. BROWNE & CO.

"Everything!" repeated Merry incredulously.

"Yes, everything. Oh! if you had come back only two or three days ago things would have been different."

He rose abruptly and crossed to the window.

"Miss Dorcas," he did not turn to look at her, "what was the worst thought you had of me when Enoch told you—what happened?"

The girl paused for a minute before she answered. "I thought you were—weak."

"Weak!" The man repeated the word as if trying to comprehend its meaning.

"You should not have allowed Enoch to stand as the author of your play, no matter what the circumstances were. He is not happy over it today. His nature seems to have changed. He is not easy to live with even. Oh, I wish it had never happened!"

Merry waited in silence.

"Things must come right, even if this lie has been told." She pointed at the paper which lay at her feet. "There is one way. You can play the convict so wonderfully that people must realize that you yourself created the part."

"I shall never play the convict." Merry's voice was slow and resolute.

"Oh!" cried Dorcas, "who can! Why, I thought your heart was set on the character."

"It was—once."

"I cannot understand."

The man did not attempt an explanation.

"Andrew Merry," she hesitated as if searching for words which would not wrong her brother, "did Enoch do you any—any injustice?"

She waited for an answer during an infinitely long silence, so it seemed to her. Then the actor spoke abruptly.

"No. As I look back on it now, I went into it with my eyes open. I simply learned that there is no way to gauge human nature."

Again there was a silence. Dorcas was trying to understand, trying to be loyal to her brother, even while her heart, aching with unspoken sympathy, turned to Merry.

"Why don't you want to play 'John Esterbrook'?" she asked quietly.

"I don't suppose I have a decent reason, except that when I—gave up the play I lost all interest in it. 'John Esterbrook' is no more to me today than 'Silas Bagg.'"

"Oh!" cried the girl aghast. "How you have altered!"

"I have." Merry spoke in a hoarse whisper. He returned to his chair by the fire and bent to warm his fingers by the blaze. There was another long silence. Dorcas was the first to break it.

"Even if it were against your inclinations, would you do something to make some one very happy, some one who believes in you—who cares a great deal for you and about your future?"

Merry spoke gently. "Miss Dorcas, I'm afraid you are mistaken. There is nobody in the world to care."

She rose to her feet and, leaning on the mantel, glanced down at him with eyes from which embarrassment had suddenly fled.

"One person—cares very much. I do. I have set my heart on your success. You have a great future—won't you work for it? Besides, I am selfish." Her eyes shone with eagerness. "I want to play 'Cordelia.' Mr. Oswald has offered me the part. I have studied it. I could play it tomorrow if you would be my teacher."

Merry turned with a quick gesture as if to push temptation away from him. "Don't!" he cried. "Ah, Miss Dorcas, don't go into stage life!"

An Easy Way To Get Fat And Be Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomachs or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This master-stroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through its re-generative, reconstructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body. You can readily picture the result when this transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. J. S. McKeown's drug store and other leading druggists of Belleville and vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

Caution:—While Sargol has given excellent results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles it should not be taken by those who do not wish to gain ten pounds or more.

"I shall go into it sooner or later." She spoke with quiet determination. "I feel sure I can play 'Cordelia;' besides, it would be so much easier to make a beginning with Enoch and Mr. Oswald and you."

Merry rose and paced for a few minutes about the room, then turned to the window and gazed out at the deserted city. The sleet of midnight had changed to a raging storm. The wind drove the snow in sudden flurries, piling it in drifts across the square.

"Miss Dorcas," he said, "come here."

The girl crossed the room. "Why," she cried, "it is a fearful night!"

"Yes. It's a fearful night for the homeless. Do you know where I might have found shelter tonight if it had not been for you? Perhaps there's a hallway somewhere that I could have slipped into, and for an hour or two the police would have left me undisturbed. I might have found an empty bench on a ferryboat, or—the Bowery missions are open; only before one can make up his mind to seek a lodging there, they are filled to suffocation."

Dorcas shivered.

"If I had known during these weeks that anybody cared—or believed in me—perhaps I should not have gone so far down the hill. I did not dare even to hope that you thought of me again."

"Andrew," said the girl, "I care so much that I cannot tell you. Some queer strain in my nature makes me happiest when I have some one to care for. Girls at the convent used to come to me in all sorts of difficulties; the ones I loved best were the ones who needed me most. They called me 'Little Mother.'"

"'Little Mother,'" repeated Merry; then he laughed huskily. If the girl had known men she would have seen absolute famine for love, for sympathy and human understanding in the eyes that were bent upon her.

"I take back what I said a few minutes ago, Miss Dorcas, about the stage being no place for you. Women like you are needed there."

"Thank you," she said with a happy smile. "Won't you come back? Such an opportunity is waiting for you. Besides, I could never play 'Cordelia' with anyone but you, and you must be my teacher."

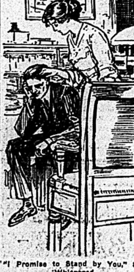
Merry did not answer immediately. Dorcas had grown accustomed to the long pauses in their conversation and waited quietly. When he looked up their eyes met—his pleaded with her during one speechless moment for all his shortcomings, for shirked responsibilities and failures.

"Miss Dorcas," he said, "when a man has lost hope, ambition, his faith in human nature and everything that makes life worth while, if he has gone down into the depths and still has the desire come to take up life again, is there any quality left that will help him?"

"Yes," Dorcas moved as if by a sudden impulse and laid her fingers upon the man's arm; "he has honor. So long as one is a man of honor, there is no end of a chance."

"A man of honor!" As he repeated the words his face paled suddenly. It was the same attribute which Enoch had accorded to him.

Dorcas watched him intently, her eyes full of eager anticipation. She could see him undergo some strange mental struggle. When he looked at her his face had changed. Instead of apathy there were lines of grim determination about his mouth.



"I Promise to Stand by You," She Whispered.

"Miss Dorcas," he said slowly, "make 'Cordelia' the woman you are yourself. I am weak and broken now, as 'John Esterbrook' was; still a chance came to him at the end. I will do the best I can—if you stand by me."

Dorcas stooped for a second. With a caressing touch she swept the lock from his forehead. "I promise to stand by you," she whispered. "Good night."

CHAPTER X.

Zilla Paget.

"Do you mind if I am atrociously frank with you?"

It was Grant Oswald who spoke. Enoch Wentworth and he sat far back in the darkened orchestra at the Gotham, watching a rehearsal.

Wentworth nodded, but turned a startled glance upon the man beside him.

"Simply because I know how powerful your play is, I want to suggest a touch that will make it stronger."

"What?"

"Understand, this is not criticism. If you don't think well of it we'll never mention it again." Oswald approached the subject diplomatically. He had begun to discover a strangely uneven temper in Enoch. There were days when he stood upon the heights of triumphant anticipation, then came intervals when everything and everybody were at odds.

"What did you think of changing?"

"It is not changing," Oswald spoke thoughtfully. "What I have in mind is elaboration. You have made 'Cordelia' a loyal, tender woman, but the mother ought to be more of a foil to her. She is cruel now, vain, selfish and deceitful, but—she is not bad enough. When it can be done, I believe in choosing an actress who has something in common with the role she is to play. Character comes out every time, even in acting. Don't you agree with me?"

"To a certain extent."

"Of course, in cases of downright genius it is different. There is Merry. If we except tragedy, I believe he could portray any character from gayest comedy to intense emotion. I predict for your sister's 'Cordelia' a success that will stir New York to enthusiasm, but she could never play anything but a sweet, true-hearted woman. No matter how hard she tried, she would fail in the part of a false, unscrupulous adventuress. Do you see what I am driving at?"

"I think I do."

"When you read your play to me and 'John Esterbrook's' wife took shape before my eyes, Zilla Paget came to my memory. I asked you then to reserve the part for her, because, if I can judge human nature, she is the woman's prototype."

"Miss Paget must be a fiend incarnate if 'Mrs. Esterbrook' is not bad enough for her."

"I'm not as merciless as that! Let me tell you what I judge her by. Season after season she was cast in London companies for women of the lower type or of bad morals. Sometimes she was a cold-blooded, scheming adventuress, or a creature so cruel, so heartless and unwomanly that she seemed a defamation of the sex. Miss Paget was making a name for herself when an idiotic manager cast her as a sweet, refined, home-loving woman. I never sat through such a pitiful failure. She played it for two nights, then she was thrown aside. She had a long run of hard luck. Managers forgot how remarkably she had played bad woman. The failure as a good woman was laid up against her."

"I thought she had a tremendous success last winter."

"She had. She came in, after drifting through the provinces in small parts, and chance threw in her way one of the most dastardly female parts ever put on the stage. She made it so real that, blase old theater goer as I am, I longed to throttle her. One night I happened to meet her socially. Zilla Paget assured me that in one case at least my theory was right. She was everything she portrayed on the stage, and beyond this, she was absolutely drunken with vanity."

"Are you sure she is so bad?" Enoch spoke coldly. "She is one of the most beautiful women I ever saw in my life."

"That makes her more dangerous. I have actually doubted whether I did right when I brought her to a new country and put her among decent people."

"Have you anything against the woman except—theories?"

"Merely scraps of her history, which are authentic. She came from the lowest stratum of factory life in Leeds and married above her. The young husband was devoted to her. A baby came, a little boy who was blind. To that sort of woman neither child nor husband is a tie. She broke loose, a year or two after her marriage, and lost any self-respect she had ever had. The husband shot himself, she abandoned the child and left for London. Then she went on the stage.

"There was nothing then actually criminal in her career?" asked Wentworth. He was conscious of a certain absurd irritation.

Oswald hesitated. "Not actually criminal, I suppose. The law has not made so fine a point as to indict a woman when she drives a man to suicide."

"What do you think of changing in her part?" asked Wentworth brusquely.

"I was going to suggest you make 'Mrs. Esterbrook' coarser, more flamboyant, more heartless. Do not give her a solitary trait of motherhood. She is the very opposite of 'Cordelia,' with her love and tenderness for a broken father."

"How do you account for a woman of that sort having such a child?"

"Really now, Wentworth, that's up to you; both of them are your creation!"

"Yes, certainly," Enoch laughed grimly. "Still it is an anomaly you don't often see in real life."

"It is," assented Oswald. "Here's Miss Paget—watch her in the scene I've mentioned."

The eyes of both men followed the woman as she moved slowly across the stage. She dropped into a chair and waited for her cue. She did not look the traditional adventuress. She had a curiously pale, transparent skin, into which, during excited moments, the blood flushed rosily. Masses of yellow silky hair were brushed back in simple waves from her forehead. She used little make-up or artifice of any sort. Her eyes were intensely blue. There was a lovely cleft dimple in her chin. Although well along in the thirties she retained her girlish face and figure.

Wentworth turned to Oswald with a flush of irritation. "It doesn't seem fair to make a degenerate of such a woman; she doesn't look it."

"That's where the mischief lies," answered Oswald quietly.

The rehearsal went on. Miss Paget took her cue. Both men watched her critically. Wentworth drew a long breath when the scene with "Cordelia" in the second act was over. The woman certainly could act!

"She'll do," said Enoch heartily. "Only," he added after a moment's hesitation, "how does Dorcas strike you? Is she strong enough? It doesn't seem to me as if she saw all the possibilities of 'Cordelia.'"

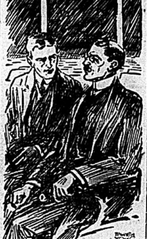
"Wentworth, your sister is going to surprise you. Take my word for it. She is nervous now, but—"

"It's a devil of a risk. 'Cordelia's' such a big part and Dorcas has had no training."

"She does not need training—the conventional training you have in mind."

"If she fails it puts me in a nasty light with the public—producing a play simply to exploit my sister." Enoch's tone was curt.

"She won't fail." Oswald spoke with quiet assurance. "Think over my suggestion about 'Mrs. Esterbrook's' part. It is there where 'Cordelia' leaves her—the mother knows the daughter well enough to realize it is good-by forever—that you want to cut out every spark of motherly feeling. Once or twice she almost pulls on the audience for sympathy. When 'Cordelia' shows her contempt for the mother and shatters her every ambition, there could not be a solitary throb of pity, remorse or love—it is not in her."



"Are You Sure She Is So Bad?"

Oswald dropped the subject. Wentworth began to twist his hands nervously, a habit he had when disturbed.

The Englishman sat back in silence, watching the rehearsal intently. Merry stood leaning against a stucco pillar. In this act he did not appear, but occasionally, against the sharp commands of the stage manager, his voice rang out in brief, concise suggestions.

AWFULLY SICK BUT HAD TO WORK

Was So Worn Out Had to Get Help or Die. Everything Failed to Help Until He Got Vinol. Read What He Says.

Atlee, Va.—"I was rapidly losing flesh, was weak, run-down, had no appetite, my blood was poor and I could not sleep nights. I am a farmer and truckman, so had to keep about my work, but I was so weak, tired and worn out I knew I had got to get help or die.

"Doctors gave me medicines and I tried everything that was recommended but I failed to get any help until I tried Vinol. I am now taking my third bottle, my appetite is fine, I sleep well all night, my blood is good and I am much stronger, in fact I feel like another man. Vinol is the best medicine I have ever taken."—ORLANDO W. BORKEY, Atlee, Va.

"What a remarkable conception Merry has of every character," whispered Oswald. Enoch did not speak. "Gilbert resents my orders—in a fashion," continued the Englishman. "I told him to act on any suggestion that Merry offered. Gilbert would not say a word if you went back and threw in an idea here and there; a stage manager expects that from the author. I should think you would do it occasionally."

"It isn't in my line." Wentworth spoke sullenly. "Every move is put into the manuscript as plain as a pike-staff."

"Yes, but—" Oswald glanced at his companion curiously, then he dropped the subject. "It strikes me Merry has changed. The night I spoke to him on the L he was like a boy with some grand secret up his sleeve. Today he takes nothing but a half-languid interest in the whole thing. He is going to give a remarkable portrayal of 'John Esterbrook,' but when he's not acting he seems to have no interest in life. What do you lay it to?"

"Don't ask me," mumured Wentworth. "He's a man of moods. I gave up trying to understand him years ago."

"Even when it came to the question of salary he didn't show any interest. He wouldn't set a figure. I don't know yet if he thinks the price I named was right. He closed with my first offer, signed the contract, then walked out."

"It's the biggest wad he ever drew."

"He'll prove himself worth every ha'penny of it."

Wentworth rose and pulled his hat from under the seat.

"Don't you want to see the rehearsal out?" asked Oswald suddenly.

"No, I'm going home. I may put your suggestion into shape while it is fresh in my mind."

Enoch paused in the theater to light a cigar. A newspaper man, who was an old friend, approached, full of eager inquiry about the progress of the play. Wentworth brushed him aside quickly and strode out to the street. A moment later he felt a twinge of remorse. The man's congratulations had been heartfelt. He could not shake off the memory of a startled astonishment that came into his face at the brusque reception. He was a good fellow, there had been pleasant companionship with him in the old days. The old days seemed ages ago, further back than the gaiety of childhood.

He left Broadway, walking with quick, nervous strides until he found himself far over on the East side, wandering aimlessly through wretched streets, populated by the drift from nations. The sidewalks were thronged with children. Occasionally Enoch swore beneath his breath as he escaped tumbling over them during his hurried, headlong progress. When he turned a corner he found his way blockaded by a huge safe that was being hoisted into a warehouse. He glanced at the street, it was ankle deep in slush. Suddenly the odor of hot bread was wafted to him from a little restaurant cavern below the sidewalk. He remembered he had eaten no breakfast, and it aroused a sudden sense of hunger. He ran quickly down the steps. The small dining room was remarkably clean. He sat down with a sense of satisfaction which seemed alien to such a place.

Hearing Is Restored To Deaf

Without Mechanical or Artificial Hearing Devices. Deaf hear With Their Own Ears. A Wonderful English Discovery.

Thousands of people suffer from catarrhal deafness or poor hearing, who having tried specialists, advertised treatments, artificial ear drums, ear phones, electric vibrators and various mechanical appliances without success have at last resigned themselves to a "world of silence thinking that nothing can ever restore to them their normal hearing. Yet their case is not hopeless. A remarkable scientific treatment discovered a little more than a year ago in England is making people hear after years of deafness and is also unequalled for quickly stopping the distressing head noises that are so often the companions of defective hearing. This discovery is called Parmint and has attracted wide-spread interest throughout Europe where reports of the remarkable results it has given to deaf people have come in by the hundred.

The effect of Parmint it seems is by tonic action to reduce all inflammation, swelling, enlargement or thickening of the organs of hearing and to stimulate the entire auditory tract.

Parmint is now being sold by many leading druggists in Belleville and vicinity and a speedy trial is urged upon all who suffer from catarrhal deafness or headnoises in any degree. Ask the druggist for 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength) and take it home and mix with ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day and you should soon find a remarkable improvement in your hearing.

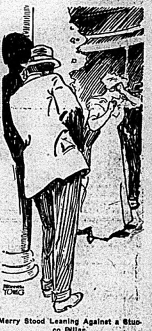
"Bring me coffee and a steak, a first-class steak done rare," he ordered. "Cook it carefully."

He was alone in the small room. It was quiet except for the shrill voices of children on the sidewalk. He had not known a moment of peace or solitude for months. All his life he had scoffed at nerves as a delusion. He wondered if he had been wrong, whether nerves might not be a stern reality. If they were, he had them. His mind went flashing over the events of the past fortnight, since the night when, weary, harassed, and hopeless, he returned from Montreal to be met by Dorcas with the news that Merry had returned and was ready to begin rehearsals. It still exasperated him when he remembered how stubbornly she had refused details of Andrew's home-coming. All he learned was that the actor had seen Oswald and was rehearsing from morning till night.

A few days later, in the foyer of the Gotham, when he came face to face with Merry, the plan of their future intercourse was determined instantly. Wentworth had been in a mood to welcome reconciliation and friendship; Andrew was cold, courteous, and singularly unapproachable. Enoch's warmth was chilled and his pride aroused. He plunged fiercely into work, scarcely snatching time to eat or sleep. More than once Oswald had remonstrated; he could see that the man was working beyond the limit of human capacity. Work was the only thing that would whip retrospection from his mind. Drink had never been a temptation to Wentworth—it was nothing but a side issue to sociability—so he did not take to it now. He realized he was losing old friends; he had tossed one of them aside today.

The intuition which is bred by a guilty conscience began to play strange pranks with him. He felt as if Oswald had guessed his secret and was driving him into a corner by the suggestion that he remodel the play. He saw Dorcas each day grow colder and more suspicious. Merry at one glance had thrust him outside the pale of acquaintanceship. Within ten days "The House of Esterbrook" would have its first production.

Enoch shivered with apprehension as he thought of it. A queer thing had loomed up in his mind during the past few days. A decade ago a club friend with a fad for palmistry had insisted on reading his hand. The man prophesied a physical and moral downfall in the course of 12 years. Wentworth laughed at the idea, forgot it completely, then one night the memory of it came to him like a shot. He would have given all he possessed to return to the morning when Merry burst in upon him full of gaiety and hope. He could not go back; it was like unsnarling a tangle of string when one found no visible end where the task could be commenced.



Merry Stood Leaning Against a Stucco Pillar.

Germany Had No Intention of Attacking Dominion Says Ambassador.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Although Germany contends that Canada, by sending troops against Germany, has violated the spirit of the Monroe doctrine, Germany has no intention of attacking Canada nor attempting to colonize the Dominion, according to this statement issued here yesterday by the German embassy:

"The German point of view is that by joining in a European war Canada has put herself outside of the pale of the Monroe doctrine. But Germany has not the intention of attacking Canada, nor colonizing Canada."

The statement was in amplification of the view expressed by Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, that by taking part in the war, the Canadians had justified an aggressive campaign against themselves.

ALL EFFORTS FUTILE

German Advance Along Channel Proves Waste of Men.

Invaders Are Held at Every Point and Allies Make Substantial Gain Near Dixmude—Unconfirmed Report Says Force of 5,000 Germans Has Been Annihilated—Advance Made Against Crown Prince.

LONDON, Oct. 28. — From the mouth of the River Yser at Nieuport in Belgium, to Lens, in France, which constitutes the allied line opposing the German advance along the channel, all efforts of the invaders were yesterday frustrated. Despite the orders of the German war lord that Dunkirk and Calais must be taken immediately and without consideration of the cost, the situation remains the same. The pick of the German troops, more than 300,000 in number, are being thrown away in a vain struggle to cut through the defence. The heaviest fighting of the day is understood to have taken place between Ypres and Roulers. To the southwest of Dixmude the allies not only held their positions but made substantial gains.

Although the Germans now have their big Howitzers in action, the guns which demolished Liege, Namur and Antwerp, these powerful weapons are proving much less effective against mobile forces than in siege operations. The allied commanders have adopted a policy of constant manoeuvring. Large forces never remain in the same place very long and the destruction from the German pieces is negligibly small. Another factor which is counting against the Germans is the character of the country along their route of advance. The land is extremely flat and entirely unsuited to intrenching on the scale carried out along the Aisne. This compels the German infantry to come forward in close formation across open plains and the execution of the allied artillery is described as terrible in the extreme.

Advices from the neighborhood of Ghent state that the city has been practically evacuated by the German garrison, their place being taken by Austrians. Heavy reinforcements continue to come up on both sides.

The naval contingent is checking all efforts of the Germans to advance directly along the coast. The three monitors which rendered such splendid service in the early days of the fighting and which are said to have been damaged by fire from shore batteries, are understood to have returned yesterday and resumed their play on all German positions within reach.

An unconfirmed report says that a portion of the German army, numbering 5,000 men was annihilated west of the River Yser by a large force of French. The Germans attempted to storm the French trenches and were allowed to approach very near their objective when they suddenly found themselves subject to an enfilading fire. Only a few hundred of the attacking column escaped.

A notable success of the French is reported from the east end of the 300-mile front. A drive in the vicinity of Nancy threw the Germans over the French border into Lorraine. From Pont-a-Mousson to Pagny, the entire country is freed of the invader.

St. Mihiel is in the hands of the Crown Prince despite all efforts to dislodge his forces. But east of that town the French are making splendid progress and the enveloping movement against his position is expected to reach an early and successful issue. North of Metzicourt, the town in the heart of the Argonne forest, taken Monday, the Germans lost additional ground yesterday.

There was renewed activity on the centre yesterday morning when a bombardment from French guns drove the Germans from fortified posts between Soissons and Berry-au-Bac. Several German batteries are said to have been blown to bits. At all points the German offensive appears to have reached a critical stage. They must either go forward or backward. The latter eventuality seems most unlikely and military authorities predict a general retirement all along the front within a few days. On the other hand reliable reports say that the Kaiser was in Belgium on Sunday and gave emphatic orders that Dunkirk and Calais must be captured, laying special stress on the importance of the latter port.

Along the old front, stretching from the River Oise to the Meuse, from which the Germans withdrew their best troops to strengthen the army which is attempting to advance along the coast, the French have been taking the offensive, and to the north of Soissons have been engaging in an artillery duel with the Germans in which they have destroyed several of the German batteries. They seem to have been playing at this game for some time, for the last three reports from Paris have announced the destruction of German guns.

Further east, the offensive tactics of the French have driven the Germans, who were threatening Nancy back across the frontier. The Germans, however, are so strongly entrenched along the long line that it is believed they are preparing to remain for the winter, holding their positions until their present objectives, the northern ports of France have been attained.

Predicts Brilliant Victory.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—Ex-Premier Briand, who now holds the portfolio of justice in the Viviani Cabinet, in an interview published in Le Temps yesterday gives his impressions of a visit to the battlefront at Verdun and the frontier and declares that he brought back the conviction, calmly reasoned out, that the battle will result in a brilliant victory for the allies.

M. Briand says that the Germans have been blinded and rendered maladroit by fury owing to the checks they have sustained.

DEWET LEADS REVOLT ASSEMBLES PRO-GERMANS

Official Statement of Governor-General of South Africa Says That Preparations Have Been Made For Rebellion By De Wet and Beyers, Both Irreconcilables of Late War—Several Commandoes In Revolt.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—It is officially reported that a number of burghers of the Orange Free State and in the western Transvaal have made preparation for rebellion.

The burghers of the Orange Free State are under command of Gen. De Wet, while those in the Transvaal are under Gen. Christian Frederich Beyers.

The Union Government is taking measures vigorously to suppress the uprising.

The Governor-General of South Africa informs the Colonial Office of the deep regret expressed by the Government of the South African Union that certain prominent individuals, including a number of burghers in the northern Orange Free State and in western Transvaal have been misguided enough to defy Governmental authority and launch into preparations for an armed resistance.

Although aware of these preparations for some time, the Union administration, says the Governor-General, has spared no effort to preserve peace without bloodshed, while at the same time taking adequate steps to meet any situation that might arise. The Government now learns that burghers in north Orange Free State are commandeering supplies for military requirements under the authority of Gen. Christian De Wet, and in the western Transvaal under the authority of Gen. Beyers.

Several rebellious commandoes are now in existence. The town of Heilbronn has been seized, and officials of the Government made prisoners. At Reitz a train was stopped and armed citizens on board, members of the defence force, taken from the train and disarmed.

"Under these circumstances," continues the Governor-General, "the duty of the Government is made clear, and it has been determined to deal firmly with the situation. All essential steps are now being taken.

"A very great majority of the citizens of every province are thoroughly loyal and resent the idea of rebellion. When they are thoroughly informed of the situation the Government is confident that they will give every assistance in restoring order.

"In order to not encourage the movement in any way, the support of all citizens has been especially requested. They are advised that a special alertness must be exercised and information given the Government at the earliest possible moment which will help put down the rebellion.

"Citizens who for any reason have been guilty of disobedience under the Defence Act need have no fear of any action against them by the Government so long as they remain quietly at home and abstain from acts of violence against the constituted authorities."

Gen. De Wet in the South African war was commander-in-chief of the Orange Free State forces. He was commandant at Ladysmith and was sent to relieve Gen. Cronje as second in command. After Gen. Cronje's surrender he received full command. He was one of the signatories of the Vereeniging peace conference, and was appointed Minister of Agriculture in 1907.

Gen. Beyers was a prominent figure in the South African war and was chairman of the Vereeniging peace conference. Last September he resigned as commandant of the Union defence force because of his disapproval of the action of Great Britain in sending commandoes to conquer German Southwest Africa.

PORTUGUESE EXCITED.

Government Is Buying Uniforms and Mules For the Army.

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 28.—Portugal is excited at the possibility of taking part in the war as an ally of Great Britain under the treaty which requires this country, if asked, to supply a contingent of at least 10,000 troops.

The Portuguese army is equipped with Schneider-Canet artillery which, it is said, Great Britain will be glad to have. The Government, anticipating a winter campaign, has ordered 18,000 thick uniforms and is buying great numbers of mules.

Independence Day, Oct. 5, was not observed with the usual festivities, but the money that would have been spent upon fireworks and public shows was contributed to the Belgian sufferers from the war. Addresses of sympathy were presented to the Belgian and British Ministers by a committee, at the head of a procession of 50,000 people.

Captured German Banner.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—In the fighting around Arras, George Andre, noted French athlete, outdistanced his comrades in a bayonet charge and suddenly found himself well within the German lines. He seized a banner from the hands of a nearby colorbearer and bootballed his way through the Germans surrounding him. They were so astonished at his conduct that he succeeded in regaining the French line, although wounded in the foot.

Anti-Swearing Box Did Well.

LONDON, Oct. 28. — Salvationists who have friends among the Canadian contingent will learn with interest that four members serving in one company introduced an anti-swearing box, one cent per swear being the penalty imposed. Between Saturday and Monday the box received ten shillings.

Dr. G. A. Platt, son of ex-Warden Dr. J. A. Platt, of Kingston Penitentiary, has received the degree of F.R.C.S. at Edinburgh, where he is studying.

Among those at Winnipeg who have volunteered for active service is Rev. C. W. Gordon (Ralph Connor), the novelist. He expects to go to the front as chaplain with the second contingent.

On the initiative of the directors of the Antwerp People's Bank, there has been formed an association, including British interests, which will lend money to Antwerp house owners to help them rebuild.

The authorities of Hong Kong and of other British possessions in China yesterday issued orders for the expulsion from British territory of German and Austrian subjects, except those of military age, who will be detained.

To the naval vessels coal is as much a munition of war as powder.

Anyhow, those European standing armies aren't standing any longer.

MARKET REPORTS

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Oct. 27.—There was a fair demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat today, but it showed a decline of 3d to 6d per quarter in the late trading. The export trade in oats is quiet and prices bid today were 4½d lower. The local demand for coarse grains was limited and the market is quiet, but the feeling is firm. The demand from foreign buyers for spring wheat flour was better and especially for shipment to France and sales of 10,000 sacks were made. The local demand is quiet and prices show no change. Millfeed is quiet and prices are irregular.

Butter is steady with a fair local trade passing. Cheese is more active with a better demand for English buyers. Eggs active and firm.

Contract Awards Non-Partizan.

OTTAWA, Oct. 28. — Sir George Foster, Hon. J. D. Reid, Hon. J. C. Doherty, Hon. Louise Coderre, and Hon. J. D. Hazen, the sub-committee of the Cabinet engaged in allotting contracts for military supplies required from Canada by the allied powers, met yesterday.

Most of the contracts have been awarded for the present order of supplies. The contracts are being distributed impartially, giving all localities a share and without reference to political leanings, but with the broad view of restricting unemployment as much as possible and of securing delivery in the shortest possible time.

BIG DRIVE A FAILURE

German Advance in Flanders Peters Out at Yser River.

Franco-British and Belgian Forces Are Holding Them Sternly In Check at Nieuport, Dixmude, Roulers and Ypres, and Germans Have Nothing to Show For Immense Loss—Desertion of Ostend Likely—Allies Succeed Elsewhere

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The allies still hold their positions along the line between Dixmude and Nieuport, and are effectually resisting the German offensive north of Ypres.

The crossing of the Yser has apparently marked the end of the German advance there, although a battle is now going on in that region, and both sides have rushed reinforcements there.

Reports from Holland indicate that the Germans are preparing to evacuate Ostend, and are making extensive preparations in Antwerp, as though anticipating a siege there.

The allies have been successful in fierce fighting in the vicinity of Lille.

That the German advance along the Channel coast is well over the Yser river at a point between Dixmude and Nieuport, but has been unable to make any further progress, is the result of the great German drive in Flanders. Reports from other parts of the 300-mile front are entirely favorable to the allies, and it is said now that the French have succeeded in throwing large masses of troops into the Argonne forest, penetrating as far as the Village of Metzicourt, effectually splitting the armies of the German crown prince on the east of the Argonne and the forces of the Duke of Wuertemberg on the west.

In spite of the Homeric efforts of the Kaiser's armies, the drive southward from Flanders to Dunkirk and Calais seems destined to perish midway after a terrible loss of life, and with nothing to show for the enterprise, not even a moral advantage. First the Belgians and latterly the Belgians supported by British and French have frustrated each new attempt to strike a decisive blow. The Flanders coast line from Ostend to the French border, for a distance of three miles inland, is free of the Germans, driven away from the ocean's fringe by the tremendous fire of the allied warships. But the invaders have planted artillery that commands every available approach for a flanking force from the naval contingent, and for the present a landing will not be attempted.

After ten days of the most stubborn fighting the Germans forced a passage of the Yser in the district lying from six to ten miles inland, and they are believed to hold the allied side of the stream for a stretch of about five miles. This, of course, was sufficient to permit bringing troops across the river in force. The final and successful assault of the Germans on the Belgian lines, when great masses of infantry and hundreds of heavy guns co-operated, is understood to have occurred early on Sunday morning.

With the Belgians falling back in good order and contesting every foot of the way, British reinforcements reached their lines by noon Sunday, when the defence immediately stiffened and halted. A few hours later French infantry arrived in large numbers, and a re-offensive movement was started that has completely checked the German drive, and which has hemmed them in on two sides, with the River Yser behind and a solid defensive before them. A part of their forces are said to have been cut off by flying columns of French infantry, with a tremendous loss of life and many prisoners to the Germans. In fact, the number of killed and wounded in the great Flanders contest is far greater than either at the battle of the Aisne or the Marne. Sunday's conflicts were characterized by many bayonet charges, in which the French and British more than sustained their reputation, never failing to gain ground after their heartbreaking rushes in the face of a destroying fire from rifles and machine guns.

From Ypres to Roulers an action only less violent than that between Dixmude and Nieuport is under way. It is significant that all four of the towns named and all cardinal points, are held by the allies.

Lille is another vortex in the kaleidoscopic battle front. Here the Germans have fought with desperate resolution to hold the French advance but without reward. British and French troops hold many points of vantage around the city and every attempt to upset their progress has so far failed.

Armentieres also remains securely in the hands of the Franco-British and the Kaiser's commanders are fuming fruitlessly in an attempt to dislodge them. The town commands communication lines vital to the Germans and its occupation by the allies has stopped troop movements of vast importance.

German Casualties Heavy.

ROME, Oct. 28.—According to official reports received here the German casualties daily average 10,000 men in killed and wounded. All of those slightly or not gravely wounded, an average of from 70 to 80 per cent. return to the ranks after a relatively short time.

VON FALKENHAYN IS CHIEF.

German War Minister Takes Place of Count Von Moltke.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Rome correspondent of the Havas Agency says that according to despatches received in Rome from Berlin, Major-General Erich Von Falkenhayn, the German Minister of War, has been appointed chief of the General Staff, succeeding Gen. Helmuth von Moltke, who is ill.

Advices from Amsterdam state that Gen. Helmuth von Moltke, chief of the German General Staff, is in a dying condition, and has been started for his home in Berlin on a litter.

GEN. VON FALKENHAYN.

Whether or not this is the reason for the change in staffs is open to doubt, but circumstantial stories have been current for some time to the effect that Von Moltke has been suffering from a grave affection of the liver ever since war broke out, and that campaign conditions have brought about complications which make his life a matter of weeks.

ICE-BREAKER RE-NAMED.

Lady Grey Now Owned by Russia Is Called the Canada.

OTTAWA, Oct. 28.—The Government steamer Lady Grey, the icebreaker, used on the St. Lawrence river and in the Northumberland Straits, which has been sold to the Russian Government, is now at Archangel, where she will be used to keep that northern port open for general traffic and the transportation of war supplies during the winter. The privately owned breaker J. T. Hearne of Port Arthur, has also been delivered to Russia for the same purpose.

A cable from M. Timasheff, Russian Minister of Commerce, was received by H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught as follows: "I beg Your Royal Highness to accept the respectful expression of profound gratitude which I hasten to present in the name of all interested in the Archipelago sea route, for the valuable aid given by Canada in providing the fine icebreaker, which has now arrived safely at Archangel. It is renamed the Canada, in commemoration of the assistance rendered by the Canadian Government."

ANGOLA INVADED.

Action of Germans Forces Portugal Into the Conflict.

PARIS, Oct. 28. — In a message from Lisbon, sent by way of Madrid, the correspondent of the Havas Agency says:

"Despatches received here say that German troops have forcibly invaded the Portuguese province of Angola, West Africa.

"Preparations are being made to despatch immediately warships, and troops from Portugal to Angola."

Angola lies north of German Southwest Africa and borders on the Congo State, which, of course, belongs to Belgium. By traversing Angola and the Congo State the Germans would establish communication between their East and West African possessions. Recent despatches recorded the sending of 10,000 Portuguese troops to Angola under the escort of British warships.

LEIPZIG CAUGHT?

Report Is Current In Vancouver of Capture of German Cruiser.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 28. — Rumors are again floating around regarding the mystery ship the German cruiser Leipzig. This time it is said, on what appears to be good authority, that the Leipzig was towed into Esquimalt harbor yesterday by a Japanese warship, presumably the Idrumo, which has been on this coast for some time, and that she is in a battered condition.

From the statements which have been made in Vancouver there must have been a fierce engagement somewhere in the Pacific, as the Leipzig had a large number of wounded, who are now being attended. Beyond this statement, no confirmation can be obtained of the story.

Switzerland To Stay Armed.

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 28.—The triennial election for members of the Swiss National Council resulted yesterday in the change of only eight seats. The standing of the political parties in the council now is: Radicals 110, Conservative Catholics 39, Socialists 18, Liberals 13, Social Reformers 1, Independents 2.

The Government has spent $10,000,000 upon the mobilization and maintenance of Swiss troops guarding neutrality. The decision of the Administration has been that it would not be safe to disarm at the present time.

Cargo of Merchandise.

MONTREAL, Oct. 28.—The Manchester Commerce was 3,444 tons net, and was owned by the Manchester Liners, a British shipping corporation. She carried a crew of about 43 men. Her master, Captain Paine, is well known and highly respected in Montreal shipping circles. The lost steamer was one of the large freighters plying regularly between Montreal and Manchester, and she left Montreal for the last time on Oct. 3.

RINGING DOOR BELLS

Shortly before midnight last night the police were called to Mill street in the vicinity of Canifton Road, it being reported that some one was ringing door bells and decamping before the occupants were able to answer the call. It is surmised that boys were responsible for the act. The police made every effort to detect the party but were unable to do so.

Melville Notes

After a lingering and painful illness, there passed into eternal rest on Saturday morning, Oct. 24th, a highly esteemed resident of this locality in the person of Mr. Cornelius Smith. The deceased was a man of quiet, unassuming manners and had, by an upright Christian life, won the respect of all who knew him. The funeral service was conducted in the church at Melville on Monday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Harston officiating. Interment was made in the Bowerman cemetery, the bearers being Mr. James Morton, John Morton, John Stewart and Thomas Kinnear and Frank Zufelt. He leaves to mourn, beside a widow, one son, Lee, at home, and one daughter, Mrs. James Bowers, North Lakeside.

A young son has come to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Weese.

Mrs. Lizzie Morton, Belleville, is visiting friends in Melville.

Mrs. Gerow of Wellington spent last week as attendant nurse on Mrs. Belnap, who still remains very ill.

Rev. A. H. Hoare, B.A., of Ameliasburg, was a caller last week at W. H. Anderson's.

Mrs. W. H. Anderson is recovering her usual health after a severe attack of la grippe.

Several relatives from Melville attended the wedding on Wednesday, Oct. 21st, of Miss Mabel Wood and Mr. B. Fox. The wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wood of Ameliasburg, Rev. A. H. Hoare, B.A., officiating. Miss Jennie Wood, Toronto, was bridesmaid, while Mr. Fred Morton, Melville, ably supported the groom. After the ceremony and congratulations, the guests, numbering about fifty, enjoyed an elaborate luncheon, after which the happy couple left on their honeymoon for Toronto and other western points.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Pyne, of Crofton, spent the week end the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Weeks.

Mr. Percy Chase and Miss Annie spent Sunday the guests of Miss A. Reddick, Salem.

Mr. Richard Jones, a prominent farmer, South Lakeside, had the misfortune to fall on the cement floor of the stable, sustaining a complicated fracture to the leg below the knee, beside a badly crushed ankle. The injuries are such as to necessitate the attendance of a physician daily.

Despit unfavorable weather conditions, the Harvest Thanksgiving Supper on Friday evening was a decided success, both socially and financially. Following the supper a programme conducted by Rev. E. Harston, was much enjoyed. Addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Archer of Wellington, Rev. C. Williams, Consecon, and Rev. A. H. Hoare, Ameliasburg. The vocalists of the evening were Mrs. C. H. French and Rev. Mr. Archer, the latter in the popular soldiers' song, "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary," receiving rounds of applause. Mayor Adams of Picton was also present but, owing to the threatening storm, was obliged to leave before he could be called upon for an address, much to the regret of all.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Weir recently visited friends in Hastings.

Miss Lois Locklin is engaged as teacher in one of the Trenton Public Schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McVeen returned to Charlotte, N.Y., last week after spending several weeks with friends here.

Mrs. F. Wessels and Mrs. W. Wessels, Wooler, spent the week-end the guests of Mrs. A. Curley.

The usual quiet of our village was broken on Saturday by an exciting runaway, when a young horse, driven by Master Harry Chase, became frightened and unmanageable, throwing Miss Edna from the rig to the ground and inflicting severe bruises but no serious injury. Master Harry, the plucky young driver, stuck to the rig and finally succeeded in stopping the horse by turning it into the ditch against the fence with no further damage than a broken wheel. Considering that the young driver had possession of only one rein, the escape of the occupants seems miraculous.

Melville relatives of the late Gideon Anderson, of Cherry Valley, were shocked and grieved on receiving notice of his death, which occurred at his home on Thursday, Oct. 22nd. Mr. Anderson was born on the old homestead, South Lakeside, where he spent the days of his boyhood and youth and consequently was well and favorably known in this locality. Of a large family, only one brother, Mr. Samuel Anderson, Belleville, owner of the old homestead at Consecon Lake, survives.

A large number from Melville spent Saturday in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Davidson enjoyed a motor drive last week to Picton with Mr. and Mrs. E. Mastin, Belleville.

Private Polly Presented with a Wrist Watch by Royal Templars of Temperance

Having heard that Private Polly, of the 15th Regt. had volunteered and was accepted for active service, the members of the Belleville Council of the Royal Templars of Temperance (of whom Private Polly is an active member) decided to present him with a small memento in honor of the occasion. Accordingly, last evening, a number of the members of the R. T. of T. met at the home of Brother Polly, with this end in view. Mr. S. Way, as Select Councillor of the order, on behalf of the members, complimented Bro. Polly on the step he had taken, wished him good luck and Godspeed, and then asked Mrs. Anderson, Past Select Councillor, to present Bro. Polly with an extremely neat and serviceable wrist watch. In making the presentation Mrs. Anderson hoped Bro. Polly would be spared to wear the watch until it was worn out, which met with hearty applause on the part of those present.

Bro. Polly, to whom the gift came as a great surprise, in thanking the members said he was only doing what every able young man should do—his duty.

Mr. and Mrs. Polly, who were also present, were congratulated on giving such a sturdy son to help on the fight for England and liberty.—Com.

A Letter From Dr. C. A. Hodgetts

The ladies of the Red Cross Committee of the Belleville Patriotic Society this morning received this communication from Dr. Chas. A. Hodgetts, the Red Cross Commissioner for Canada.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 26, 1914

Having learned that the good people of Belleville were making a special effort on behalf of the Red Cross Fund, I take the opportunity before leaving for England, to write you a few lines in explanation of what my duties will be as Canadian Red Cross Commissioner.

The special function of the Red Cross is the giving or aid to the sick and wounded only, and in no way does the Red Cross dispense comforts to the healthy soldier. Under these conditions as laid down in the Geneva Convention, will it be my special duty, acting under the British R. C. Society, to dispense the gifts placed in my charge by fellow citizens of Canada. To do this it will be necessary to follow up all of our loyal Canadians who may suffer from illness or become wounded in battle, no matter where they may be located and I can assure you it will be my earnest endeavor to represent, so far as I am able, the many thousands of sympathetic men and women of Canada who have a interest and who may contribute to this laudable object.

I go forward with the one object of striving to represent you and will to the best of my ability discharge the great trust placed upon me.

Believe me, Yours very sincerely,
(Signed) Chas. A. Hodgetts
Canadian Red Cross Commissioner.

FIGHTING IN PRUSSIA

Russian War Office Announces Success on Right Wing.

Fierce Attacks In Region of Bakalarzewo Have Been Repulsed and Convoy of Prisoners Taken at Gombin — Germans In Retreat at Novo In Russian Poland — Warsaw Affair Puzzles Russians.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 28.—The following official communication from the Russian General Staff was issued here last evening:

"Fighting has begun on the front in eastern Prussia. We have repulsed fierce German attacks in the region of Bakalarzewo. We took at Gombin, on the left bank of the Vistula, a convoy of prisoners.

"The battle front on Oct. 26 extended from Koutno through Tezow, Rawa, Nowemiasto, Bailbezegi and Glowaczew to the mouth of the Ilzanka.

"Among the German troops there were many recruits.

"The fighting was especially fierce around Tezow and Rawa, where we captured portions of the enemy's positions.

"We won a victory that was essential toward Novo, Alexandria and Zwolen (Russian Poland). The enemy there is in retreat. We took about 50 officers and 3,000 men, several machine guns and eight cannon.

"South of Solec our troops, after crossing the Vistula, took eight officers and 300 men and some machine guns.

ed as far on the railway as Nowemiasto and Surkas."

Reliable information received here from Warsaw, giving a detailed history of the attempted German advance in Russian Poland, says that the Russian generals are absolutely at a loss to explain what they call a German error in delaying a night attack until the opportunity was lost.

For unknown reasons the Germans suddenly decided to delay the attack until morning, which allowed the Siberian and other Russian reinforcements adequately to protect the city. Papers found in the possession of German officers indicate that the general plan was to attack Warsaw that night. One explanation for the change in the plan is that the Germans failed to secure the assistance of the Polish element upon which they had counted.

The Russians are now engaged in a constant succession of hand-to-hand battles with the columns falling back from the Vistula. The main strength of these now extends over an irregular line from the Radom woods westward in the direction of Piotrkow and upwards into the woods south of Rawa.

The bulk of the heavy casualties comes from bayonet fighting in the deserted villages where the Germans are seeking to establish themselves. From the nature of the operations now in progress it is foreseen that there would be several days of appalling casualties.

The Russians greatly outnumbered the retreating columns, whose wings are constantly threatened by the approach of Russian troops.

Those Dreadnoughts and super-Dreadnoughts and other terrible ships of war appear to be having fairly good luck in keeping out of each other's way.

Would Wind Up Trust Company.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 28.—A petition was filed yesterday in the Supreme Court asking for the winding up of the Dominion Trust Co. The petitioner is A. J. Maxton, a capitalist of Calais, France, who claims to be a creditor to the extent of approximately $130,000. His agent in Vancouver is J. M. Mathers, the first president of the Dominion Trust Co., who now holds no interest in the concern. Quite a legal battle may take place in the winding-up process. The directors have called a meeting of shareholders to present a plan for voluntary liquidation.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS

The sole head of a family, or an male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Preemption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G.,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorised publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—64388.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY.
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—30690. dtf

DOOLEY OUTSHONE AS A HUMORIST

London Papers Wonder if Brensdroff Invasion Will Come from Breweries

LONDON Oct. 27—Discussing Count von Bernsdorff's statement that because Canada is sending troops to fight for the Motherland, Germany would be justified in disregarding the Monroe Doctrine and landing troops in North America, the Daily Express this morning declares the German Ambassador to the United States has replaced Mr. Dooley as a humorist, adding that possibly that Count will find a way to invade Canada by enforcing conscription in the Milwaukee breweries and descending upon the Dominion with forces led by Herr Ridder, Bartholdt, Munsterberg, Schiff and Speyer.

BERLIN CALM AND GAY

Dr. Sexton Says Its People Do Not Hear of German Defeats

FLUSHING, Holland, Oct. 27.—Last evening I came across the Rev. Dr. Sexton, Rector of Cork University, who was taking post-graduate course Berlin at the outbreak of the war. He now benefits under the ararngements permitting an exchange of physicians and clergymen who were prisoners of the belligerent powers. He left Berlin on Friday night.

He says Berlin is gay and calm; that the people are still fed with news of German victories, and know nothing of the reverses on the Vistula.

The German military authorities are convinced that they must win. German statisticians, who take a similar view, are busy preparing an estimate of the financial reckoning which England will be asked to pay when the German flag floats triumphant over land and sea.

Dr. Sexton says that the American Ambassador and consular officials are exhibiting much sllicitude toward British military prisoners and stranded British civilians.

ARE IN THE WAR

The Bishop of Kingston's Brother and Nephew Fighting

KINGSTON., Oct. 27.—The Bishop of Kingston has just received word. in a letter from England, that his brother, Major R. F. Bidwell, second in command of the 101st Grenadiers. (late first Bonbay infantry), of Bangalore, India, is on his way to the front, and has perhaps arrived there by now. He is only just convalescent from a severe attack of typhoid fever or would probably have gone earlier. The same letter also informs him that Lieut. J. F. B. Watson of the Loyal North Lancashire regiment, who is the eldest son of the bishop's youngest sister, has been recalled from India, and is also on his way to the front, if he has not already arrived there.

UNIVERSITY ASKS FOR $70,000 GRANT

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—Premier Hearst and the members of the Cabinet this morning received a deputation of the Governors of Toronto University, including Sir Edmund Walker, Mr. Eric Armour, Dr. D. Bruce Macdonald, and Mr. W. K. George. The object of the deputation, as stated, was to obtain from the Government the $70,000 shortage in the ordinary revenue of the university, which occurred last year. The Premier promised that the Government would take the matter into its consideration.

CANADIAN NURSES ARE ALREADY BUSY

Have Been Assigned to Duties in London Hospitals for Present

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 27.—The hundred old Canadian nurses who went with the first contingent will not have to wait until the Canadian army reaches the front before they get to work. They have been assigned to the London military hospitals, and are nursing already. There will be a hospital at Salisbury Plains for illness or accidents to the Canadian troops, and a number of the nurses will be sent there. The base hospital for the Canadian force will likely be in England, so that the majority of the nurses may never see the continent or at least not until the war is over.

SUBMARINES WAITED FOR CANADIAN SHIPS

Orders to Turn Into Plymouth Were Given by Wireless

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—That the landing place of the Canadian transports was changed at the last moment from Southampton to Plymouth, owing to the discovery of a flotilla of German submarines off the Isle of Wight is the information which has been received at Ottawa. There is no doubt that the original plan was for the Canadians to land at Southampton where all preparations were made to receive them. Advices from the old land, and they are confirmed by reports from Canadian officers at Salisbury, are to the effect that German submarines were discovered off the Isle of Wight lying in wait for the Canadian ships. The Admiralty got in touch by wireless with the flotilla of Canadian transports and they were directed to proceed to Plymouth where they unexpectedly slipped into the harbor.

PARLIAMENT NOT TO MEET TILL JANUARY

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—Unless something unforeseen happens which will compel an emergency meeting of Parliament, the House will not be summoned until January. It is understood that this was decided by the Cabinet before Sir Robert Borden left for his holiday in Virginia. There was sufficient at the emergency session to carry the Government over the New Year and it was decided that it was not necessary to summon Parliament until January.

School in the Sixteenth Century.

School life at Shrewsbury in the sixteenth century was a strenuous affair. Mr. Percy Addleshaw in his "Life of Sir Philip Sidney" has an interesting account of the school at that time. "The school year," he writes, "was divided into halves. From Lady day to All Saints' day the hours of attendance were from 6 o'clock in the morning till 11, the dinner hour. In the afternoon the boys studied from 12:45 till 5 o'clock. Prayers were recited at the beginning and close of the day. If a holy day occurred in the week it was a play day, but usually the weekly day for games was Thursday. One custom then begun is still observed. * * * At the earnest request and great entreaty of some man of honor, of great worship, credit or authority an extra holiday was granted to the boys. The judges of assize, when visiting Shrewsbury, are still accustomed to ask for and obtain this boon."—Westminster Gazette.

Emerson as a Vocalist.

As a student at Harvard Ralph Waldo Emerson did not give much promise of his future greatness. His dissertation was spoken of as "a very good one, but too long to give much pleasure to the hearers." He was class poet, but only after seven others had been successively elected and had successively declined the honor. A story told by Arthur Stanwood Pier in "The Story of Harvard" goes to show that Emerson's musical efforts were even less appreciated.

Singing in the yard was a popular diversion, and early in his freshman year Emerson, wishing to have a share in the fun, went to the singing master, who said to him, "Chord."

"So I made some kind of a noise," said Emerson, "and the singing master said: 'That will do, sir. You need not come again.'"

Hidden Ability.

Old Washington White and young Calhoun Clay entered a dancing competition. But age was against Wash, and his boots, a pair of cowhides six or seven sizes too large, were against him too. The prize was awarded to the younger man.

"Look-a-yere, Misto Empire," Uncle Wash growled, "whaffor yo' give de prize toe him?"

"Kase he done mo' beats 'n yo' done."

"Go long, man!" said Uncle Wash. "I done a lot o' steps in dese yere big boots what yo' never see!"—New York Tribune.

Useful Kitchen Set.

Something just imported and useful for kitchen work is a set of imported wooden utensils. It consists of a bread board, two scoops, two smaller spoons, a meat pounder—useful also as a potato masher—two whirls, useful in baking, and a butter former. These, carved of smooth white wood and bound carefully on the bread board, are only $1 a set.

HOW CANADIAN TROOPS CROSSED THE ATLANTIC

Magnificent Force of First Contingent Landed at Plymouth--Reported Danger from German Submarines at Last Moment--Graphic Description of Voyage

(BY WILLIAM MARCHINGTON)

But for the extreme vigilance of the British navy, some Canadian troopships, with their precious cargo of human lives, might have been sent to the bottom of the sea. Shorty after sighting the famous Eddystone lighthouse, Oct. 14th, the great fleet of transports received sudden orders to steam full speed ahead to Plymouth. At the time this command reached the Admiral the flotilla was proceeding towards Southampton. Why this sudden change was made in the port of debarkatoon no one had the slightest idea, but it had transpired since our arrival here that the very morning the Canadian soldiers sighted Britain a number of German submarines were discovered lurking in the neighborhood of the Isle of Wight, only a few miles from Southampton.

This information comes from a most reliable source, and the fact that Plymouth has not facilities for the handling of large numbers of troops shows that the Admiralty's plans were changed. Thanks, therefore, to the increasing activity of the navy, every man and every ship is perfectly safe, and once inside Plymouth Sound it was impossible for hostile snips, whether above or below the sea, to make any approach.

Story of the Journey.

Plymouth, England, October 14.—Canada's striking force was landed at Plymouth to-day without the loss of a single man. It was the last stroke of success given by the finished workmanship of the Royal Navy to the stupendous undertaking of convoying across the Atlantic Ocean the largest single force that ever crossed these waters. We who have been under the care of Britain's sea power during this long and arduous voyage of fifteen full days carry away for her navy's efficiency a respect that shall never fade. At no time during the voyage were more than six warships of moderate speed and effectiveness within sight simultaneously, but from such information as leaked out it was apparent that there were within reach an overwhelming force of magnificent British ships sufficient to adequately acount for the strongest fleet which Germany could possibly put into these waters. From first to last there was aboard the troopship an air of ease and even gaiety which told its own tale—that every man had complete confidence that Britain's naval power would see them through.

Slipped Down the St. Lawrence.

October had just dawned when the headquarters ship of the Canadian transport fleet slipped from her mooring at Quebec and silently stole down the St. Lawrence. Most of the ships had left the night before, and the Franconia was among the last to go. When she cast off the dock was almost entirely deserted and the scenes which usually mark the departure of an ocean liner were lacking. When the Canadian contingent left for South Africa many glistening eyes followed the prow of the troopships. But it was different in this case. There was no one to weep. Some longshoremen called "Good-Bye" and "Bon voyage." Most of those on board had gone to bed hours before. None had the faintest idea what time the voyage would commence but all had retired with the ardent desire that when they woke up they would be on their way. Some were impatient. They had wearied of the daily round and common task at Valcartier, and there was great joy among the men when they found themselves aboard the transports.

Assembling at Gaspe.

After an uneventful trip down the river the flagship dropped anchor in Gaspe Bay, which had been chosen as the rendezvous. This was one of the places visited by Jacques Cartier in the sixteenth century. Here all the ships had been ordered to assemble preparatory to the epoch-making trip across the Atlantic, and it was at that point that Admiral Weymss took control of the expedition. When the Franconia rounded the cape and took up her position in the midst of the fleet some thirty troopships were already anchored in the beautiful bay, and everything combined to make it a scene of grandeur, the like of which has never been witnessed in Canada before and probably never will be again. Indeed, so much of beauty and magnificence was crowded into the picture that one would have to journey a long way before it could be surpassed. In some respects the spectacle reminded the onlooker of the visit of King George to Liverpool some years ago, when the stateliest of Britain's merchant ships, lined up in the Mersey, were reviewed by His Majesty. Alongside the troopships looking glum and businesslike, lay four British cruisers. Just outside the bay larger warships patrolled the gulf. "In the background stretched the picturesque countryside, dotted with quaint churches and the pretty cottages of the fisherfolk. Away in the distance could be seen the shores of desolate Anticosti. There was scarcely a ripple on the beautiful blue water of Gaspe Basin, and a more peace-ful-looking place surely does not exist. It would be interesting to know what were the emotions of those lonely fisherfolk as they beheld the sight presented to their view that morning. It was indeed enchanting, and one could gaze all day upon the picture without tiring of it.

During the day a farewell message was received from H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, and the great fleet was reviewed by the Minister of Militia. Colonel Hughes did not board any of the ships, but waved a "Good-bye" to the troops from the deck of the steam yacht which had brought him to Gaspe Copies of a appropriate message from the Minister to the men were distributed on each of the transports.

The Canadian troopships were joined at Gaspe by the steamer Canada, with the Lincolnshires, and English regiment, on board. The Lincolnshires had been on garrison duty in Bermuda where they were relieved by the Royal Canadian Regiment. They were given a warm reception by the Canadian forces assembled at Gaspe, messages of welcome being conveyed to them by signallers stationed on the top decks of the troopships.

The Last Mail Delivery

One of the unique features in connection with the stay at Gaspe was the distribution of mails by the postal corps with the contingent. Over 40,000 letters were delivered to troops on board the various ships. It was the last opportunity Canada's soldiers had to receive news from home until they reached England. The postal detachment, in charge of Lieut. Kenneth, A. Murray of Woodstock, Ontario, was on board the headquarters ship, and had been working late and early sorting letters that had come to hand just before fleet sailed from Quebec. When Gaspe was reached Postmaster Murray spoke to Colonel Williams regarding the distribution of mails. The Commandant communicated with the Admiralty, who placed a steam launch manned by an officer and several tars at the disposal of the postoffice department. The work of distributing the letters was done with characteristic British thoroughness. In addition to the postoffice officials three of the ship's officers stood at the head of the companion-ladder and kept account of the sacks as they were transferred from the liner to the launch which was to deliver them to the various troopships.

Last View of Homeland

It was on the afternoon of Saturday October 3, that the great fleet sailed out of the harbor of Gaspe and headed towards Britain. Night fell soon afterwards, and Canada's soldiers got a farowell glimpse of their country as the ships ploughed into the darkness. The historic voyage had commenced. Not since the days of Christopher Columbus has the old Atlantic seen a voyage of such signficance. Never has a larger single force been moved across any ocean in one convoy. Cheer after cheer burst from the men came as the signal came to move off. Bands played patriotic airs and there was happiness everywhere. The grandeur of the scene was far more impressive than was the mobilization of the fleet at Gaspe. Fifteen miles of ships figured in the convoy, and there must have been between forty or fifty thousand men on board, counting the crews of the warships and the transports. In addition to the Lincolnshire Regiment, the Canadian soldiers, numbering some 31,000, were joined at sea by the Newfoundland troops, about 650 strong. These were on board the Florizel. The total tonage of the whole fleet was officially estimated at half a million tons.

Immediately after leaving the rendezvous the ships formed into three columns as follows:

Formation of Convoy:

Column Z—H.M.S. Eclipse, transports Megantic, Ruthenia, Bermudian, Alaunia, Ivernia, Scandinavian, Sicilian, Montezuma, Lapland, Cassandra, Florizel.

Column Y—H.M.S. Diana, transports Caribbean, Athenia, Royal Edward, Franconia, Canada, Monmouth, Manitou, Tyrolian, Laurentic, Tunisian.

Column X.—H.M.S. Charybodis (flagship), transports Scotian, Arcadian, Zeeland, Corinthian, Virginian, Andania, H.M.S. Glory, transports Saxonia, Grampian, Laconia, Montreal, Royal George.

H.M.S. Talbot.

This formation was kept until the fleet was within a few hundred miles of Britain. In lines one and a half miles apart the transports were half a miles eastern of each other so that the area occupied by the contingent was over fifteen square miles in extent. Before Newfoundland was sighted larger warships joined the convoy, these including the Suffolk, the Glory and the Niobe. The Suffolk was several miles in front, and was not seen by the soldiers until mid-ocean was reached, when the warship returned to American waters. "Good-bye, good luck," signalled Rear-Admiral Craddock of the Suffolk, as his ship steamed past the lines of transports. The Niobe of Canada had already returned. The day after the Suffolk left the Queen Mary, one of the latest battle-cruisers, appeared, and took up a position several miles to the north of the fleet of troopships, where she remained for several days. Before departure she passed through the lines, and the soldiers had a good opportunity of seeing her at close range. The Glory, which acompanied the ships all the way across the ocean, occupied a position several miles distant on the starboard side, while two armed cruisers sailed ahead of the convoy to keep the coast clear. In adition to these, the Royal George and the Laurentic, two of the fastest of the troopships were used as scoutships.

The First Scouts.

When the fleet was within easy reach of England two of the ships bearing the Army Service Corps and allied units were allowed to push ahead, in order that those on board might disembark first and make preparations for the fighting forces. They were escorted by the cruiser Diana, whose place at the head of the "Y" line was taken by the battleship Majestic.

The greatest posible secrecy was maintained with regard to the location of the fleet of transports as they stole across the Atlantic. No ships were allowed to pass near their course.

There was considerable excitement on Wednesday, October 7, when two inquisitive strangers were chased by the British cruisers leading the convoy. These were quickly laid by the heels and ordered to follow the convoy for a good part of the way, which they did. They were given their freedoom when it was too late for them to divulge information that might have been of interest, if not assistance, to the enemy. Some days later two oil tank steamers, the Iroquois and the Navahoe, broke through the lines. One of the cruisers was quickly on their track, but what happened to them no one was able to learn.

Precautions at Night

All sorts of precautions were taken. At night all windows were blanketed and the ships sailed along with only sidelights and sternlights showing. While the wireless apparatus was not dismantled, the wireless operators were not allowed to send or receive mesages unless ordered to do so by the Admiral. The only messages received by the transports were transmitted by means of flags by day and Morse lamps by night. The wireless men were at their posts during the whole voyage but not once were they called upon.

The ships sailed three abreast all war across the Atlantic, and the three lines were so regular than one would have thought the transports had been chained together. Only once was the columns broken, and that was when a young Scotsman by the name of Thos. Moore fell overboard from the Royal Edward in mid-ocean, but he was quickly recovered.

One of the notable features in connection with the voyage was the calm bright weather which prevailed almost throughout the entire journey. On one day only was there any rain, and there was scarcely a suspicion of fog on any occasion, a fact which made the passage a memorable one, even for the navigating officers, who declared that for years past they could remember no occasion when such a similar spell of weather was experienced.

Drill on Shipboard.

At certain periods during the day physical culture courses were given, and many forms of amusement were indulged in by the troops. For hours each day the men marched around the decks to the strains of the bagpipe and mouht-organs, and at intervals these exercises were varied by others of a not less strenuous character. On Monday a series of boxing bouts were arranged on the after deck, and the various contests were witnessed by an enthusiastic throng of soldiers and nurses. The evenings were spent in various ways, and some interesting concerts, which took place in the sergeants' mess added greatly to the enjoyment of large audiences. Many of the officers were much immersed in a useful series of military lectures given largely by Imperial officers, and the nurses attended seven lectures delivered for their particular benefit and instruction during the voyage.

Veteran Nurses on Board.

It is a matter of interest to mention that five of the twelve Canadian nurses who went through the South African war are here with the Canadian contingent, namely, Miss Macdonald of Nova Scotia, matron; Miss Scott of Toronto, Miss Margaret Smith of Ottawa, Miss Marcella Richardson of Woodstock, Ont., a daughter of Judge Richardson, who sentenced Louis Riel, and Miss Violet Nesbitt of Ottawa.

Religious services were conducted every Sunday on board the various troopships. Those officiating on board the headquarters ship were the Divisional Chaplain, the Rev. Mr. Stacey of Ottawa, the Rev. A. W. Woods of Winnipeg, both Anglican, while Major the Rev. Father Jolicoeur of Valcartier and Capt. the Rev. Father Workman of Montreal ministered to the Roman Catholics.

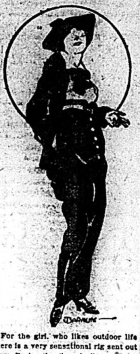
Paris Sends Apache Costume For Outdoors



For the girl who likes outdoor life there is a very sensational rig sent out from Paris—the "apache."

The costume, to be strictly in the fashion, is made of corduroy with a perfectly plain peg-top skirt with hip pockets. It is form-fitting at the waist like a man's trousers and it is further held by a leather belt, also of masculine design.

A simple white silk shirt with turn-over collar and a soft tie is worn with this skirt. The coat is a conventional box with plenty of patch pockets.

With this costume may be worn the student's beret, an Apache flat cap, or a "long backed tam," although the "beret," which is the hat shown in the picture, is the most picturesque.

A Daring Aviator

CHAS. F. NILES

Until recently almost unknown among airmen, Chas. F. Niles took rank among the world's most daring flyers in feats he performed at the Garden City aviation field, near New York. Wearing a leather harness to keep him from spilling out of his machine, Niles flew half a mile upside down, his engine stopped, dependent on the air pressure from below to throw up the tail of his descending monoplane till it became vertical, and the gasoline flowing into the mechanism, made the motor hum again.

Another Winter Racing Centre

Work Progressing Rapidly at The Oriental Park, Havana, Cuba, For Opening

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 27—Work is being rushed along by the Cuba-American Jockey Club at its new course at Marinao and a horde of men are busy grading about the grounds where the stables will be erected. The track proper at Oriental Park was completed a couple of weeks ago and most of the framework on the spacious steel grandstand is already in position. The track has been built in a saucer shaped valley and the grandstand is elevated twenty feet above the track. This insures a perfect view of the entire course. The soil of the new track is a black loam and it should be as fast as any in the States. The plans call for a model plant and the better class in Cuba will be catered to, which will insure a good patronage.

General Manager Brown's reputation of doing nothing in a half-handed way will be lived up to and Oriental Park will be vastly superior to City Park, New Orleans; Moncrief Park, Jacksonville; or Laurel Park, in Maryland, all three of which were constructed by him. The plant will be a high class one and the meeting will be conducted in a high class manner. This has been made evident by the list of officials which have been announced.

The close of winter racing in California was one of the severest blows dealt the turf. The ideal climate, the pleasant surroundings and the wonderfully successful meetings at Los Angeles and San Francisco made winter racing really enjoyable, and they were looked forward to with pleasure not only by horsemen but race followers as well. In the meantime other winter racing points sprung up, but none had the advantage of the California courses.

California never had anything on Cuba in the way of climate and the latter has come honestly by its soubriquet of the "Pearl of the Antilles."

The surroundings in Havana are pleasant. The city is scrupulously clean; there are three different trolley lines running from Havana to Oriental Park: also a splendid automobile boulevard; there are numerous hotels in the city, large and small, and the cost of living is moderate. The water is piped from springs in the hills seventeen miles back of the city and is as clear as crystal.

Havana has a population close to 500,000. The people are a sport and pleasure loving race who like plenty of excitement and racing should appeal to them strongly. The plans of the Cuban-American Jockey Clubs are to provide high class sport and with this end with this end in view twenty stakes will be given during the sixty days of racing at the new course. Purses unheard of before in winter racing will be hung up. The smallest will be $1,500 in value and the largest $15,000. The conditions are framed to suit all sorts of horses from the sprinter to those that fancy going a route. The list of stakes is certainly attractive enough to warrant the owners of some of the large stables campaigning their string at the Cuba track this winter.

Marianao is a suburb of Havana and is about a fifteen minute car ride from the city. The track is in a very picturesque location and is surrounded by hills. It is an ideal location and when completed will rank with any in the United States.

A liberal policy will be followed by the management in regard to the wants of horsemen. The feed store and kitchen privileges have been eliminated, which means that horsemen can board their help and purchase their feed where they choose. The proprietors of several kitchens have already announced their intention of coming over to set up their establishments either on the track or adjacent to the course. Havana is easy of access. It is only about five hours from Key West and those who prefer shipping that way can load their horses at any point in the United States and unload them at Oriental Park. Two large boats have built by the East Coast Railway to ferry trains from Key West across to Cuba. It is only a three days' sail from New York and about twenty hours from Tampa. Boats also run from New Orleans and Galveston, Texas.

WHERE HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS SUFFER AND PERISH

Major Louis Livingston Seaman is not only a military man, and a medical man, but a traveller and journalist of international repute. His work in the Balkans and elsewhere in connection with the Red Cross movement has made his name familiar all over the United States. He went to the front some weeks ago as special correspondent of the New York "Independent," one of the liveliest weekly journals in that great city. In view of the statements written by him concerning German atrocities in Belgium, the publication of which the pro-Germans in the United States considered as a virtual breach of neutrality, Major Seaman was requested by the authorities to explain his action, as it is contrary to regulations for an officer of a neutral country to express himself definitely as a partisan in favor of either combatant.

On the day of the Zeppelin massacre at Antwerp, Major Seaman sent the following letter to President Wilson:

"My dear Mr. President:

Preferring liberty of speech to military or other service where it is denied, especially when silence would be a crime against humanity, I herewith tender my resignation as a member of the Medical Reserve Corps of the United States Army."

The following correspondence, within the limits imposed by the censorship, ints at the pitiful sufferings of which Major Seaman has been a witness, and which impelled him to take this action.—The Editor.

"I am writing from the Hotel de la Paix in Ghent, the city whose people for two thousand years have done so much to wring from their rulers the concessions upon which constitutional government is founded. In feudal days it was one of the first of the Free Cities of Europe, and its historic monuments bear witness to the part it played during the Reformation. I believe no city on earth has contributed more to the development of civilization than Ghent. Here, the 24th of December next it was the purpose of representatives of Great Britain and the United States to celebrate in the old Convent des Charteux the one hundredth anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Peace between England and America. Two months ago in the Royal Casino and Palace de Fete the international exhibition of flowers was held. France sent many roses of rarest hue and variety, many of which still adorn the extensive exhibition grounds, and in the Palais de Danse, the French Opera Company made gay music.

But what a change! The Palais de Fete is now a Palais de Misere, transformed almost in a night. Fourteen thousand desolate peasant women and little children, refugees from the country near Louvain, Malines and Termonde, whose husbands or fathers or brothers had been butchered or driven to parts unknown, their homes pillaged and burnt, their crops destroyed, their only possessions the clothing on their backs, have been, or are now, being sheltered here. Could the reader but hear for himself the tales of suffering and horror that come from every mouth, or see the ghastly wounds of many, even among the little children, that testimony to the agonies they have undergone, his indignation would know no bounds.

I HAVE PARTICIPATED AS AN OFFICER OR OBSERVER, IN EIGHT CAMPAIGNS, IN ALMOST EVERY COUNTRY IN THE WORLD, BUT IN NONE HAVE I EVER WITNESSED SUCH EXHIBITIONS OF ATROCIOUS BARBARISM AS THIS WAR IS FURNISHING.

Tank, heaven there is another side to this dark picture. In that Palais de Fete, now the Palace de Misere, the Red Cross is doing a noble work of rescue and mercy. Refugees are carefully treated clothed and housed. Many had not tasted food for two days preceding their arrival here. M. de Bruyne, who so ably represented the Burgomaster at the meetings of the International Peace Celebration, some fourteen thousand in number, in a systematic way, is sending them to suburban villages where houses are open to them, shipping them to England, and so distributing them that they may eventually be rapatriated. I was informed at Ostend that children under fifteen would not be received in England as refugees, but I have since learned that the Government is welcoming all.

The work of the Red Cross in Ghent cannot be too highly praised. It has many hospitals (ambulances as they are called here) under its direction, and is working most efficiently and in perfect harmony with the military authorities. The most severely wounded are sent to the military hospital while others are distributed to the hotels, schools, convents, private houses and private clinics which have been thrown open for them. At present comparatively few of the severely wounded remain, the majority having been transferred to other cities in anticipation of the coming of the enemy. Thousands of empty beds, with attendants and nurses from the most aristocratic and highly cultured families in the land, are waiting the arrival of more, ready to care for them with gentleness and skill, German and Belgian alike, in surroundings of elegance such as the majority of them never dreamed of.

Many of the shrapnel wounds are terrible, chattering bony structure and causing extensive laceration of tissue. A very large proportion of the bullet wounds are found in the legs and feet, showing that the Germans, who shoot from the hip, are firing low. The Belgian shoots from the shoulder. Dr. Dulet in Anvers, has a dum-dum ball which he extracted from a wounded Belgian. Many of the invalided suffer from extreme exhaustion, after their three days' incessant fighting, but they soon rally and beg to return to the collors.

The three characteristics of the Belgian people that have most deeply impressed me during the past month are their patriotism, their bravery and their gentleness. In the military, civic and Red Cross hospitals of Bruges, Ostend, Ghent and Antwerp, over forty of which I have visited, the wounded German soldier has always received as careful surgical, medical and nursing care as the Belgian whom he came to murder, for this most unjust war was deliberately planned for conquest and extermination.

Whatever may be the outcome of this monstrous holocaust, the justice and honors and the humanities belong to Belgium. When the victorious allies make their triumphal entry into Berlin (and I believe they will) the Belgian should have the line, and royal restitution should be made for his sacrifice, in memory of Liege, Malines and Louvain. All honor to little Belgium.

MET WALL OF TROOPS.

German Passage of the Yser Availed Them Little.

PARIS, Oct. 27. — The smashing tactics of the Germans along the North Sea coastline continued incessantly, when the big guns were turned on Nieuport, and the allies had to withstand constant attacks of masses of troops. Very little progress, however, was made by the Germans yesterday, who were faced with the strongest resistance.

Sunday's crossing of the Yser apparently had only a moral effect as the Germans were confronted by solid lines of allied troops, and were prevented from advancing without overwhelming efforts further toward the Channel ports. The character of the country prohibits a rapid movement as the land is cut up by canals, and two strong series of defensive works separates them from Dunkirk.

The German infantry executed a number of night attacks, not only on the extreme wing but also in the vicinity of Lille, where they encountered a most obstinate resistance. The allies are displaying wonderful energy in this region. The commanders are sparing their men many hardships and are able to give constant reliefs to the troops on the firing line.

When they come from the frontier for a rest the troops are accommodated in the numerous villages scattered in the rear, where they seem to throw off all feeling engendered by the critical situation and play cards, dominoes and other games in the cafes until the bugles call them together for a further spell of fighting. Then they go forward cheerily to the inferno, where they must face the shrapnel and machine guns, bidding "so long" to their comrades, whose places they are taking.

A Page Of Interest to Women

From Girlhood

THE change may be critical and cause untold suffering in after-life. The modern young woman is often a "bundle of nerves"—"high strung"—fainting spells—emotional—frequently blue and dissatisfied with life. Such girls should be helped over this distressing stage in life—by a woman's tonic and nervine—that has proven successful for over 40 years.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

is a keen enemy to the physical weaknesses of woman. A medicine prepared by a regular graduated physician of unusual experience in treating woman's diseases—carefully adapted to work in harmony with the most delicate feminine constitution.

It is now obtainable in liquid or sugar-coated tablet form at the drug store—or send 50 one-cent stamps for a trial box, to Buffalo.

Every woman may write fully and confidentially to Dr. Pierce and his staff of physicians and Specialists at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and may be sure that her case will receive careful, conscientious, confidential consideration, and that experienced medical advice will be given to her free.

DR. PIERCE'S PLEASANT PELLETS regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar coated, tiny granules easy to take as candy.

Woman's World

Mme. Bertha von Halbach, the Woman Behind the Guns.

MME. BERTHA KRUPP VON BOHLEN UND HALBACH.

A woman is, after all, dictator to the armed powers of Europe. She is Mme. Bertha Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, heiress of the great gunmaker, Friedrich Krupp, who left the bulk of his fortune and his great armament manufacturing plant at Essen, Germany, to his eldest daughter, Bertha. She owns the steel and gun works, with the shipyards at Kiel and the famous gun and armor works at Madgeburg.

In 1906, when she was nineteen years old, she married Gustav von Bohlen und Halbach, who was sixteen years her senior and had a successful career as a diplomat. They have two sons and a daughter. There is American blood in the veins of Von Bohlen und Halbach, although he is a subject of the kaiser. His father fought on the northern side in the civil war.

She not only is the richest woman in Germany, but she is perhaps the most powerful woman in the whole world. By her whim or will nations may be made or destroyed. If she chose to do so she could shut down the vast gun works and refuse to supply the munitions of war to some nation that must have them or cease to exist.

Her father had no son and educated his daughter, Bertha, to take his place. She has been trained in every detail of the business and takes personal charge of it.

It is said to be the war aspect of her work that interests her most. The manufacture of locomotives, steel girders and other products of her factories is all humdrum to her. The earliest toys of her childhood were absolutely perfect working models of every battleship and gun constructed at the factory.

She has made a careful study of every detail of battleship construction, the secrets of rapid firing guns and the composition of shrapnel, dynamite bombs and other death dealing ammunition.

For Ivy Poison.

This time of the year children or grownups going through woods are liable to get into poison ivy. Some children pull it up without knowing what it is. So here is a remedy that will often make it disappear after the first application:

Dissolve one ounce of sugar of lead in two ounces of sweet spirits of niter, add one pint of water that has been boiled, but must be added after cooling. Use only externally. Don't leave where children can handle it. This is to be rubbed on affected parts.

SOME THEATER BORES.

Haven't you been annoyed at the theater—

By the enthusiastic friend who nudged you when there was an especially funny or telling point in the play?

By some one who insisted on telling the plot to a companion while you were listening to the actors on the stage?

By the man or woman in front who dodged about so you could scarcely get a glimpse of the stage?

By the criticisms or explanations of some one who had seen the play before?

By persons who came bustling in late, making you miss the opening of the play?

By the stranger who borrowed your opera glass or insisted on loaning you his or hers against your will?

If there wasn't so much mis-placed confidence there would be fewer breach of promise suits.

Much discontent comes of planning how to spend money that one hasn't and which is not in sight.

The film companies are now so well supplied that Mexico may not be asked to make any more war for them.

When a knife blade loses its temper it becomes dull, but when a woman loses hers she becomes cutting.

Culinary Notes

When Preserving Fruit.

The secret of preserving fruit is simply the killing of ferment germs and bacteria by intense heat and the exclusion of air.

Fill jars brimful—this excludes air—then see that the lids are screwed down just as tight as possible. After screwing the lids on tight place the jars upside down until cool. Any leak caused by cracked cup or faulty sealing rings will be instantly discernible.

Be sure your jars are well sterilized—that is, heated through and through by placing in hot water and let come to a boil. This sterilizes and also toughens the jars, so they are not so apt to break when filling with hot fruit.

Don't take any chance of losing your fruit by using sealing rings from the previous year. Rubber is very susceptible to climatic conditions and rots very easily. Provide yourself with new rings each year.

If jelly does not "set" well a few days in the rays of the hot sun will improve it.

To seal jellies pour melted paraffin over the jelly in each glass. Fruit jars may be sealed in practically the same way. After filling jars with fruit screw lid on as tight as possible, turn upside down till cool, then dip tops in melted paraffin, using care that the caps and rubber sealing rings are completely covered.

Fruit may be kept several years in this way.

SERGE STREET FROCK

Many adaptations of the basque dress for early Autumn wear are being shown in the shops and the favorite materials are serge and satin, usually in combination. There are fewer materials than serge this season, but so far none has supplanted it, and many of the prettiest frocks of the year have been of dark blue serge in combination with black satin. Collars and cuffs are of white pique.

OSTRICH IS POPULAR.

Many Uses Have Been Found For It This Season.

BLUE OSTRICH BOA.

Ostrich is to be one of the fashionable trimmings for hats. Likewise it will be used in the fall for many other decorative purposes. One of these ways is suggested by the illustration which shows a dainty little boa of blue ostrich with blue ribbon shaped ornaments and streamers at the ends. This little boa is secured by concealed snap fasteners.

The Red Haired Girl.

Ruddy locks are a delight to the eye, a feast of artistic color, full of lights and shades, but they are often a sore problem to their possessor. She feels at a loss for guidance in the wearing of color, especially in the matter of jewelry.

These few simple hints may prove useful, for they have been tested time and again:

An auburn locked girl with brown eyes should wear gold, pale coral, amethysts, topazes, pearls and garnets.

Red hair accompanied by gray or even greenish eyes should choose pale amber, amethysts, pearls and topazes.

If the eyes are really blue, then amber, amethysts, topazes, green chalcedony or chrysoprase and emeralds are allowable.

The somewhat sandy haired type with light eyelashes and eyes, will find becoming pearls, amber, gold, onyx and jet.

OCCUPATIONS FOR WOMEN.

Great Increase In the Number Which They May Enter.

Miss Mary S. Snow, research secretary of the New York intercollegiate bureau of occupations, says that many occupations are open to women where once upon a time there was only teaching.

She says that some form of social work seems to be the most attractive occupation for the college graduate. Many girls want to go into libraries, and curator of museums is a rather new occupation for women.

Other occupations open to women are that of laundry overseer, landscape gardener, dieticians, social secretaries, farm managers, interior decorators and assistants, photographers, chemists and bacteriologists.

When to Drink Water.

Water taken half an hour before eating has been found most beneficial. It dissolves and helps to carry off any mucus or other matter in the stomach, the presence of which is prejudicial. This mucus mixes with the food, covers it over and keeps the gastric juice from it for a short time.

The general opinion is that it is not wise to drink too much at mealtime. A moderate quantity of fluid taken does no harm, but if it is used to wash down the food before mastication it does a positive injury.

It may be stated that very cold water at mealtime ought not to be taken by delicate persons, though they may take it in small quantities at a time when the stomach is empty.

Hot water will be found very beneficial to dyspeptics a half an hour or so before eating. It warms the stomach, brings more blood to it, cleanses it of foul matter and mucus and in many ways produces a good effect.

Gospel Truth About Zutoo

We tell you truthfully and conscientiously that one of our little tablets called ZUTOO, harmless as soda, will cure your headache sick, nervous or neuralgic in twenty minutes and always leave you feeling good.

We tell you further that these tablets will break up a cold, will relieve indigestion and the monthly pains of women.

Every user of ZUTOO will tell you the same thing. So will every druggist and dealer who sells them.

Generally you accept what everybody says as being so, but we don't ask you to take anybody's word about ZUTOO tablets. Try them. Know for yourself what these remarkable little tablets will do. 25c at dealers or by mail postpaid. B.N. Robinson & Co., Reg'd Coaticook, Q.

DAINTY EVENING WRAP.

Satin Garment to Wear Over the Popular Lightweight Costume.

WRAP OF WHITE SATIN.

This charming evening wrap is of white charmeuse, with frills of lace at the neck and sleeves. Lightweight wraps of this kind are useful to wear over the fluffy evening costumes which are now so popular. The net, lace or mousseline blouses of many of these gowns are so frail that the heavy velvets or brocades of other seasons would seriously injure them.

THE NEW SILHOUETTE.

It Is Made Up of a Combination of Straight Lines.

The first point of importance is the new costume silhouette, which makes or mars the entire creation.

The quickest way to get an idea of what this is is to draw a figure outline entirely in straight lines. First the collar, generally flaring in straight angles; then the coat or wrap, also flaring and falling in straight lines which terminate anywhere between knee and ankle; then the skirt, as straight and scant as trousers legs in effect. Elaborate dress varies this with looped drapery and long, sweeping folds, but even in these the new edict is apparent, and the keynote of the straight line marks the new from the old rounded "pegtop."

The next feature of importance is the great coming vogue of tailored styles. The smart woman will have many strictly tailored suits this fall, with a favor for blue serge in plain styles and for mixed fabrics or wool and silk for dress. Plain and striped fabrics will continue their present vogue, and plaids will hold a prominent place, especially large figures in dull colors.

An item of extreme importance is the coming use of braid in tailored models. All widths are used, from 1½ inches for binding to six or eight for bands, and there is a trend toward the use of plain mohair or silk. Narrower widths in parallel rows are well spoken of, but this is not as yet authenticated. Plain buttons are to form the finish of this style of trimming.

The two newest items of established favor are the wide and daring use of yellow, both as trimming and as fabric, and the use of sleeves of different fabric and color. There is a strong tendency toward the tight "glove" sleeve.

Dark colors will be favored for tailored costumes, with the almost equal favor of daring colors in the same class. And orange, mustard, pumpkin and tarnished gold will be seen in corduroy, broadcloth, the rough faced and pile fabrics. Black velvet is to be the first favorite as a finishing touch, but in black and dark colored costumes any brilliant color will be good. Almost invariably the neck is finished with white in some tailored collar effect.

GOOD DRESSING.

Neatness Is an Important Factor In Its Accomplishment.

Proper care of one's clothing plays an important part in good dressing, for a really well dressed woman is, first of all, neat. Not only are her clothes spotless, but every article is adjusted with infinite care as well, and the clothes in reserve are as well looked after as those in use.

No one may be considered well dressed who has a button off, a seam ripped or a spot in evidence. To deserve the title of well dressed there must be no gaping division of belt and skirt or shoes run over at the heels.

A systematic overhauling at stated periods of all clothing in use is absolutely necessary, and all clothing in reserve should be cleaned thoroughly before being put away.

After Blacking the Range.

Kerosene will clean your hands better than anything else after blacking a range or stove. Pour a little in the water, wash your hands in it, then wash them in tepid water and finally with plenty of soap and a stiff nailbrush in hot water. Finish up by rubbing the hands with lemon juice, rosewater or glycerin.

Roasts retain their natural flavor—bread, cakes, puddings, etc., baked in a McClary's Pandora Range always come fresh and sweet from its perfectly ventilated oven. See the McClary dealer in your town.

Queen of the Belgians Heads Country's Red Cross Work.

QUEEN ELIZABETH OF BELGIUM.

Women of rank and wealth have volunteered to aid the wounded in hospitals or on the battlefield during the war in Europe, but that a queen should step down from her throne and join the ranks of ministering angels is scarcely to be expected. Elizabeth, queen of the Belgians, is, however, no ordinary queen. She is a regularly graduated physician. When it was announced she would head the Red Cross work in Belgium those who know her best hinted that it was work more to her liking than the keeping of royal state in the palace at Brussels.

She is a daughter of the famous royal oculist, the late Duke Charles Theodore of Bavaria, and a niece therefore of the murdered Empress Elizabeth of Austria. She is also a niece of the ex-queen of Naples.

In the present trouble the queen has thus to take sides against her royal relatives, the king of Bavaria and the emperor of Austria-Hungary.

In addition to being a duly qualified physician and trained sick nurse, Queen Elizabeth is a fine musician, excels as a violinist and, like the late empress of Austria, possesses a strong influence over horses and, in fact, over most animals.

She is the mother of three children, two handsome boys and a very pretty little girl.

Her labors as a sick nurse in the Belgian capital have endeared her to rich and poor alike. One of her many good works before King Albert's accession was the founding of the Albert-Elizabeth dispensary for the consumptives of Brussels. She was often in daily attendance at her dispensary, giving personal attention to the patients. Indeed, her goodness of heart and philanthropic disposition have earned for her the title of "the people's queen."

A Spade and an Acre.

I believe in a spade and an acre of ground. Whoso cuts a straight path to his own living by the help of God, in the sun and rain and sprouting grain, seems to me to be a universal workingman. He solves the problem of life, not for one, but for all men of sound body.—Emerson.

GRACE IN COLLAR LINES.

Striking and graceful in line are many of the new autumn collars. Note the specimen illustrated. It is an eccentrically shaped new collar of handkerchief linen trimmed with two lines of hemstitching designed to wear with autumn coats or trotter frocks of serge or mohair.

GIFTS TO GIVE THE INVALID

A canary would chirrup many a weary hour away.

A pretty, lacy boudoir cap would be appreciated by a woman.

A pine or rose petal pillow would afford refreshing fragrance.

An electric flashlight within reach at night is almost indispensable.

A tea wagon to wheel up beside the bed would vary the meal service pleasingly.

A food warming plate such as is used for babies would keep a cup of bouillon warm.

An Indian blanket would keep off many a draft and make a varying temperature unnoticeable.

An attractive rose bowl or long stemmed vase would lend its charm to the invalid's bouquets.

The sick person appreciates many changes of cheery bath robes, negligees and dainty fancy slippers.

A night bottle with a glass tipped over it and a spoonful of cordial in the stopper would be handy in case of a chill.

A prettily lined and ribbon bedecked box, filled with the patient's favored toilet preparations, is practical, dainty and very acceptable.

One of the new cache nightgowns of chiffon would be very convenient to slip into to take a meal or when an unexpected guest arrives.

A vacuum bottle would bring comfort, and some hot water bags have such beautiful covers that they are pleasing as well as useful.

HER FIRST EXPERIENCE.

Mistress — Dinner won't be ready for two hours! Good gracious, Norah, what's the delay?

Norah—Why, mum, you said you wanted split pea soup, and, faith, it's taken me two hours and twenty minutes to split 300 peas, and there are 479 to split yet. Oi counted 'em myself.

Mrs Newlywed says—

PASTOR RUSSELL

Oct. 25. — A splendid congregation listened spellbound to Pastor Russell as his address inquired into the reason why in God's providence the world is being ushered into "a Time of Trouble, such as was not since there was a nation." What special sins call upon Justice for extraordinary penalty? The Pastor's text was, "And the nations were angry, and Thy wrath is come"—Revelation 11:18.

After some introductory comments upon his text, the speaker read a number of corroborative Scriptures—Isaiah 34:1-6; Jeremiah 25:15, 16, 27-38; Isaiah 66:15, 16; Luke 21:24, 26; Revelation 6:9-11; 2 Thessalonians 1:3-10. Commenting on these Scriptures, the Pastor claimed that their united testimony referred to the present, mistranslated the end of the world; properly interpreted, the end of this Age, lapping upon and inaugurating the New Age—"the world to come."

The Pastor declared that the whole world are Gentiles, according to the Scriptural presentation, except the true followers of Christ and the loyal-hearted Jews, who are still God's people under their Law Covenant. In classing the great mass of Jews and of professed Christians as part of the world the Pastor meant no unkindness; but declared that to understand God's dealing in the present time, nominal Christians, or mere professors, must not be confounded with the "little flock" who have responded to the Gospel Call, "Gather My saints together unto Me saith the Lord; those who have made a Covenant with Me by sacrifice"—self-sacrifice. (Psalm 50:5; Romans 12:1.) If we shall recognize these saintly Christians of every nation and denomination as being the one true Church, "whose names are written in Heaven," and if we shall recognize all others as Gentiles, we shall be getting the eyes of our understanding into true alignment with the mind of God as expressed in the Bible.

Thus seen, God is not merely calling nations to war, to battle, as nations; but in a more particular sense the call is to this Gentile class irrespective of national boundaries. And it is worthy of note that throughout the Scriptures the great masses of India, China, etc., are comparatively ignored. Because they have not come into particular contact with God's Messages they are not so particularly included in the judgments, chastisements, troubles, foretold to be coming upon the earth at the close of this Age. In other words, unintentional ignorance of God is not a crime to be punished, but a defect to be corrected in due time by the blessings of Messiah's Kingdom.

When thinking of the wrath of God coming upon the world, we are not to think of the Almighty as having exercised great patience for centuries and finally losing His temper and wreaking vengeance upon His creatures. Such a thought might be gathered from some of the expressions of the Scriptures, because of adaptation of language to human comprehension, and more or less loss of the true sentiment in translating and through the mental gloss of the translators.

In any event let us remember that this wrath of God and the judgments coming upon the world are wholly different from the legends—namely, eternal torture at the hands of demons, taught us by our creeds. Instinctively, a part of the dread we have of death in every form—by war, famine and sickness—is the fear of that eternal torture nightmare thrust upon us from childhood, inculcated by all the creeds of Christendom, but without Bible foundation when the latter is properly translated and rightly understood.

Furthermore, we should remember that while God has foretold the troubles of the Day of Wrath for centuries and indicates that He will have to do with their precipitation upon the world, nevertheless elsewhere He also shows us that these troubles really come from ourselves, that they are the outgrowth of human wrongdoing, and that these dire penalties of sin would have wrecked our social and religious fabric long, long ago, had not Divine Providence forfended us—holding back the storm of human passion and avarice, and permitting it to come only now, in the end of the Age, at the time when Divine Providence has Messiah's Kingdom in full readiness to take control. Just so soon as the storm of human passion shall have taught humanity its needed lesson and shall have liquidated the long standing accounts, Messiah's Kingdom, with a clean slate, will be inaugurated.

In Jesus and in His saintly followers throughout this Gospel Age, the world has had God's Cause, the Cause of Righteousness and truth, more or less clearly manifested. Every persecution against these members of the Body of Christ is a crime against God and against righteousness. Of such sufferings the Apostle says, "If any suffer as a Christian, let him glorify God on this behalf; for the spirit of glory and of God resteth on such."

As a blessing rested upon all the Lord's faithful people who have suffered unjustly, so correspondingly a Divine curse, or penalty, has rested upon all persecutors of these, their responsibility being gauged by the degree of their knowledge, and their punishment proportionate. On the books of Justice, however, God represents that the lives of all His faithful ones cry out for vengeance; and that while mercy comes to all mankind through the sacrificial death of the Saviour, this does not alter the fact that Justice calls for punishments for crimes more or less wilful and therefore not included in the Saviour's atonement.

Thus it was in the end of the Jewish Age, which may serve us as a pattern, or illustration of the ending of this Age. St. Paul, writing of that time, says, "Wrath is come upon this people to the uttermost, that all things written in the Law and the Prophets concerning them should be fulfilled." Notice, however, the vast difference between these Bible judgments and the eternal torment judgments falsely declared by every one of our creeds, which indirectly tell us that every Jew at death goes to eternal torment because he is not a Christian.

But the Scriptures declare that the punishments upon the Jews which culminated in the destruction of Jerusalem in A. D. 70 were, some of them, for sins committed long before. Notice Jesus' words; "The blood of all the Prophets, which was shed from the foundation of the world, shall be required of this generation; from the blood of Abel unto the blood of Zacharias, who perished between the Altar and the Temple."—Luke 11:50, 51.

Wherein was the justice in exacting all that of the people living in the close of that Age? We reply that those people had far more responsibility than all who preceded them. They had a great Light amongst them, shining from Jesus and the early saints. In their treatment of these lightbearers, crucifying them and variously injuring them, upon that last generation of the Jewish Age, "wrath came to the uttermost."

The Bible intimates that similar aggregations of punishment are to be expected in the end of this Gospel Age. The great Time of Trouble, or Day of Wrath, is the "recompense of the controversy of Zion"—the saints, the true Church. For eighteen hundred years has Jesus prophetically declared that the Kingdom class would suffer violence; and the violent have usurped the place of the true by force.

All the while, the violent have outwardly been posing as the True Church of Christ, while the saints of God in every epoch and in every century have suffered—"as deceivers and yet true; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, yet possessing all things." (2 Corinthians 6:8-10.) "Heirs of God and joint-heirs with Christ" (Romans 8:17), they have been counted "the filth and offscouring of the earth," "of whom the world was not worthy."

But the sin of their persecutors must be liquidated, even though the persecutors themselves will all eventually be forgiven. From this viewpoint, the "Time of Trouble such as was not since there was a nation," and which is now beginning gradually to be consummated, will be the squaring of God's accounts with the world, preparatory to handing the Kingdom over to Messiah for the blessing of all.

As illustrative of this principle, note the lesson of Revelation 6:9-11: The cry is, "How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost Thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth?" The message for all these martyrs of Jesus was, Wait a little season, the vengeance will come, but not until all of this class shall have experienced their share of "the sufferings of Christ."

To these martyrs the sufferirng brought polishings of character, testings of faith, Divine approval and an increaesed glory on the spirit plane as members of the Bride of Christ—the blessings to be given to them in the First Resurrection—the chief Resurrection, referred to by our Lord in Revelation 20:6. Then will be accomplished the binding of Satan; and then Messiah's Kingdom, with all its blessed and uplifting influences, will bless the whole world with the long-promised "Restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all the holy Prophets since the world began."—Acts 3:19-23.

We do not say that the persecutions of the last members of the Body of Christ will be by literally cutting their tongues out, by literally burning them at the stake, by literally crucifying them or beheading them, as was done with some of the other members of the Body in the past. In our day there is a more refined process often used. Some are gibbeted by the pulpit, some are "roasted" in the public press, some have their tongues cut out in the sense that their words are misrepresented, and that they are denied a hearing. And yet there are things in the Scriptures which seem to imply that there may be a literal assassination and destruction of God's faithful people in the end of this Age, as well as a figurative one. But the Lord's grace will be sufficient for them; and the more they shall suffer for His sake, for the Truth's sake, the greater will be their glory and station in the Kingdom.

Who shall be punished for these crimes against the Saints of God? We answer, Babylon; and Babylon signifies what is to-day known as "the Christian world"—a very anomalous term; for the world has no identification with Christianity nor Christianity with the world. The so-called "Christendom" of our day corresponds exactly to the Jewry of Jesus' day. Then Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, were banded together with the Sadducees and the Herodians, the worldly and infidel politicians. Their object was one, namely, the perpetuation of their own institution, regardless of God's arrangement. So here, the civilized world, misnaming itself "Christ's Kingdom," is intent upon the preservation of the great Babylon which it has constructed, and willing to do anything to avoid its foretold destruction.

Taking into account the persecutions endured by God's saints throughout this Gospel Age, there must be a heavy account on the book of Justice to be settled. Saintly Catholics, saintly Presbyterians, saintly Baptists, saintly Methodists, saintly people in and out of all denominations have suffered; and Jesus' words still stand true—namely, that whosoever would give to the least of His followers even a cup of cold water would not fail of reward, and that injury to even the least of these would be punished.

Are we asked what are the special sins of our day? We reply that here, as in Jesus' day, hypocrisy is the greatest of all sins. There were thefts, murders, adulteries, and injustices of various kinds in Jesus' day; yet while denouncing all these in spirit, He practically ignored them all in His denunciations of the hypocrisy of the religious rulers of His time. We believe that His judgment of so-called "Christendom" to-day is the same.

There was a time when the world ignorantly thought that the kings of earth were ruling as part of Christ's Kingdom. There was a time when men really believed that their everlasting destiny was in the hands of the clergy, Protestant and Catholic, and that unless they had the good offices of these in baptism, marriage, funerals, etc., they would be eternally tormented; but that day has passed—a more enlightened day has come.

Our Bible is better understood; the clergy are no longer deceived. They know that the word Sheol of the Old Testament and the word Hades of the New Testament represent the state or condition of death, into which the whole world goes—good and bad. They know that these words could not represent torture or fire in any sense of the word. They see God's character more clearly; they perceive that the kingdoms of this world are merely political institutions permitted for a time, waiting for the glorious epoch of Messiah's Kingdom to bring in the New Order of things.

But notwithstanding this knowledge, the Divine character is still blasphemed. The kings of the earth, told during the "dark ages" that they were the sword of the Lord and servants of the Church, have not been undeceived. Hence the Czar of Russia, the Head of the Greek Church, believes he is working out a Divine destiny; the British under King George are equally convinced that they are working out a great destiny as God's Kingdom. The German Kaiser is similarly deceived into thinking that he is the sword of the Almighty, as indicated in his reported proclamation to his army in Poland.

These false doctrines of the "dark ages" are bearing a terrible fruitage in the present war. Similarly the teachings of eternal torment, misrepresenting and blaspheming God's character, are bearing an evil fruitage. Millions of people are being turned away from faith in a God of Love and from faith in the Bible as His Message by the most monstrous blasphemies of the "dark ages." I charge the responsibility of all this against the sects and creeds of Christendom.

A great fraud, a great hypocrisy, you say? I answer, Yes; the most astounding the world has ever known. Two hundred thousand professed ministers of God and Christ are standing before the world to-day telling the legends of the Dark Ages and seeking to hinder the people from coming to a knowledge of the Truth, meanwhile receiving the people's money and reverence. Does not such hypocrisy, such blasphemy against God, such deception of the people, such keeping of them in darkness, deserve a great punishment?

What shall we do, do you ask? I answer: Be honest! Be true! Come out of Babylon. Stand free from all such slandering of the Almighty God and His gracious provisions. Stand for the Bible, the Truth, the God of Love and Wisdom, Justice and Power. "Come out from among them, and be ye separate, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you."

$5.00 Illustrated BIBLE

Our big Bible shipment has arrived, and we are ready to present to each of our readers one of these handsome Bibles—illustrated as never before attempted—in exchange for six free certificates of consecutive dates and the amount expense items as stated under the illustrated Bible Educational Certificate printed daily on another page.

It is possible to embellish a book without actually illustrating it. This Bible is not merely embellished; it is truly and accurately illustrated. Some Bibles contain pictures; but there is none by which the individual texts are actually illuminated, as though in the touch of inspiration. Comparison is impossible, for our new Bible stands alone—there is no other kind. Therefore, praise of this superb new book means no disparagement of the many excellent editions published heretofore.

600 Text Illustrations - 16 Colored Plates

This Bible is not a mere picture book. It is a genuine high art production, worthy of the 20th Century. In addition to the world-famed Tissot pictures in color, there are 600 illustrations, all exact copies of original paintings and drawings, which constitute the most wonderful gallery of Scriptural art in existence to-day. To this branch of the work, and at enormous cost, were called the greatest of living artists, and it is to their intelligent conception of the work, and to their masterly skill in the portroyal of Bible scenes that the superiority of this Bible over any yet produced is mainly due. Every picture is an eloquent sermon on these everlasting truths.

Either of the Bibles Offered Will Be Free Certificates, the Amount Set Opposite the Style Selected and 23 cents Mailed to Any Address for the Six Extra for Postage.

matters not how many Bibles you may now have, you will also need this ILILLUSTRATED BIBLE, which Illuminates—i.e., "throws light upon" —the particular text selected for illustration, and is, beyond doubt the most beautiful edition of the Bible ever published.

Magnificent Illustrated $5 Edition of the Bible (like illustration) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world-famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin Bible paper, flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. Six Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount Expense Items

The $3 Illustrated BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5.00 book except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. Six consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount Expense Items

ALSO AN EDITION FOR CATHOLICS

Through an exclusive arrangement we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

BASQUED FIGURES.

Fall Fashion Designers Find In Them Much That Is Attractive.

The basque is individual, distinctive, though borrowed from the past. And in its loose, semifitting lines fall will find her most popular expression. It is not designed for the slender woman alone. Surprising lack of figure line is achieved in its quaint though strictly up to date simplicity. But those who have accepted it in its summer adaptation have already resorted to the close fitting brassiere (preferably of strong net), in accordance with its demands.

Now the corsetieres are providing corsets which measure a height of at least five inches above normal waist line—quite a change from the one or two inches or perhaps no inch at all of the past season.

These new corsets not only differ in this respect, but for the stout woman there is quite an ample spring over the hips. No longer is she doomed to the impossible straight lines so alien to her figure, and by allowing the latter a natural freedom she obtains most commendable results in comfort and appearance.

While high and at first uncomfortable, the best corsets will still retain the elastic top, so that a snug fit may be insured with sufficient comfort.

Some of the newest models are slightly fitted in at the waist line, though this is as yet rather a threat than a likelihood.

MIXED METAPHOR.

A Choice Bunch of "Bulls" From the House of Commons.

There is no place like the house of commons for a "nice derangement of metaphors." It will be a long time before we have a "mixture" equal to the outburst of an effusive orator who said, "The British lion, whether it is roaming the deserts of India or climbing the forests of Canada, will not draw in its horns or retire into its shell."

It recalls the famous "bull" made by Sir William Hart-Dyke, the Unionist ex-minister, who caused uproarious laughter in the house of commons one day by remarking: "The right honorable gentleman has caught big fish in his time. He has gone to the top of the tree to find them."

Alluding to an item of £2,000,000 in the army estimates one year, a certain member described it as "a flea bite in the ocean," while another, advocating an increase in the European troops employed in India, remarked, "You may depend upon it, sir, the pale face of the British soldier is the backbone of the Indian army."

An Irish member speaking of suicide said, "The only way to stop it is to make it a capital offense, punishable with death." It was the same member who assured the house that "as long as Ireland was silent under her wrongs England was deaf to her cries," while it was during a debate on the scandal of packed juries during the Irish troubles that a member in support of the government exclaimed, "By trial by jury have I lived, and, by the blessing of God, with trial by jury I will die."

There was a wild howl of delight, too, when some prosy member was careless enough to remark, "The time has come and is rapidly arriving," which is equal to the cry of the member who wished a motion was "at the bottom of the bottomless pit."—London Tit-Bits.

WHAT WAR MEANS.

Wanton Destruction May Mark the Progress of an Army.

"All is fair in love and war," runs the old saying, and Mr. E. A. Vizetelly in his volume of reminiscences, "My Days of Adventure," proves the truth of it. Referring to the appearance of the railway station at Nantes during the Franco-German war, he says:

"Never since have I seen anything resembling it. A thousand panes of glass belonging to windows or roofing had been shivered to atoms. Every mirror in either waiting or refreshment rooms had been pounded to pieces, every gilt frame broken into little bits. The clock lay about in small fragments; account books and printed forms had been torn to scraps; partitions, chairs, tables, benches, boxes, nests of drawers, had been hacked, split, broken, reduced to mere strips of wood; the large stoves were overturned and broken, and the marble refreshment counter, some thirty feet long and previously one of the features of the station, now strewed the floor in particles, suggesting gravel. It was indeed an amazing sight, the more amazing as no such work of destruction could have been accomplished without extreme labor.

"When we returned to the inn for dinner I asked some questions.

"'Who did it?'

"'The first German troops that came here,' was the answer.

"'Why did they do it? Was it because your men had cut the telegraph wires and destroyed some of the permanent way?'

"'Oh, no! They expected to find something to drink in the refreshment room, and when they discovered that everything had been taken away they set about breaking the fixtures.'"

Steam Power.

The name of the first man to discover the power of steam will never be known. As early as 180 B. C., at Alexandria, Egypt, we hear of "Hero's engine," a sort of steam using engine. From the time of Hero to the seventeenth century the subject is unheard of. About 1601, Giovanni Battista della Porta wrote a treatise on the steam engine. The great name in the history of steam and its application is James Watt, 1763.

A Wonderful Gorge.

Yosemite valley, in the southern part of the Yosemite National park, is a great gorge about seven miles long and three-fourths of a mile wide, with a level park like meadow in its center. The great cliffs which form the wall of the valley rise almost vertically to a height of about 3,000 feet, and in many places are beautiful waterfalls which have a vertical drop of from 900 to 900 feet.

Our Daughters.

"I say, dad. I've just accepted Charlie Brown. He's in the drawing room, and if you've a minute to spare you might pop in and see him and talk it over, but please be quick; we've got to rush out and see about the banns."—London Opinion.

Divided.

"Do you have any differences of opinion in your family?"

"Terrible! Why, it couldn't be any worse if we were all members of the supreme court."—Life.

The joint delimitation of the Alaska border by the United States and Canada begun in 1904, has at last been completed, the last metal monument imbedded in concrete having just been placed on Canada's portion. The United States part was completed last summer. The value of such demarkation in a country as yet, but slightly settled is evident as a preventive of disputes.

The present conflict has proven that if we sow the seeds of war we shall reap war in all its awfulness.

Don't try to convince a mule that he is stubborn. He knows it.

THE CLOWN'S CODE

How It Was Overcome by a Woman

By THOMAS L. MASSON

Copyright by Frank A. Munsey Co.

It was dusk when the old clown came in from his walk and slowly mounted the long stairs, which creaked mournfully with his weight. The fire in the wood stove had almost gone out. He put on another stick, turned on the draft and sat for some moments in silence, rubbing his attenuated hands.

Aided by long years of constant makeup, time had done its deadly work upon his face. The result was a network of involved lines—lines that crossed and recrossed and ran into one another, presenting a sort of curious facial puzzle. At a short distance these lines seemed to resolve themselves into a picture, in which, like a composite photograph, all the scenes of the man's life had left their traces.

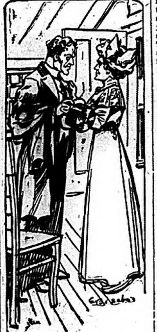
He went over to a battered leather trunk in the corner, opened it, took out a huge scrap book and began reading from its yellow pages. It contained the history of his many triumphs. It told in clippings—varying from a single sentence to pages with his picture in the center—the story of his stage career. These were some of the headlines:

"Flaubert Outdoes Himself."
"Flaubert, the Prince of Clowns."
"Flaubert Funnier Than Ever,"
"The Inimitable Flaubert."
"Little Jimmie at His Best."

How many times had Flaubert read all this! Now, in the long obscurity of age that had come upon him, it was his only consolation. Once more he lived in the arena or on the immense stage of some hippodrome and performed his delightful antics, while blue eyed children clapped their hands in glee and childlike grownups forgot their dignity and renewed their youth.

The old man, absorbed in his occupation, read on and on, at times stopping to brush his cheek or blow his nose with a tattered silk handkerchief.

Suddenly his ears were greeted by an unfamiliar sound. He raised his head.



"DO YOU STILL LOVE ME?"

To one who lives in solitude an unusual trifle is always an object of curiosity. He listened intently.

A cab had driven up and stopped in front of the house. There was a pause. A bell had been rung. Steps were coming up the stairs—slow—as slow as his own. There was a knock—once, twice—

He opened the door. A woman stood without. She, too, was old, but her eyes gleamed still like diamonds in the frosty air of the hall.

"Little Jimmy!"

"Good heavens! You, Josephine!"

Like two old French generals who meet long after their wars, they embraced each other impulsively. Josephine Tucalion, the prima donna, whose name, now obsolete in the annals of the stage, had once been a household word, and Little Jimmy Flaubert, whom a whole generation could not think of without a smile, once more stood face to face in the last quarter of life—when the sun sinks low in the heavens and the shadow of a long, uncertain night slowly gathers.

M. Flaubert handed his guest the only wooden rocker in the room. She sank into it, loosened her furs from her neck and toasted her feet on the stove rim.

"Ah, my dear, what a search I have had for you! I went to Halbert, the son of your old manager. He did not know your address. He sent me to an agency. They had a record of the place you had lived in a year ago. From there I came here. Let me see. It must be twenty years since I have seen you."

For a time, like two voluble children, they disputed about dates. Then he said gently:

"But tell me of yourself, Josephine."

"Do you remember the night the emperor, carried away by his enthusiasm, invited me to his palace? And now it is all gone. A younger generation has come up, and those I lived with have all passed away. But you, Little Jimmy—you were foolish. Why did you not save your money? I lost much of mine. Still I have enough to live upon."

The clown smiled gayly.

"I am quite comfortable. It does not matter."

"Tut! You can't deceive an old friend. I suspected something. I"—

He betrayed an air of alarm.

"You did not come," he said, "for that, I hope—to—to"—

"Nonsense! I see you are the same as ever, as proud and vain as a peacock!" She rose suddenly. "Come, Little Jimmy; let us go out to dinner!"

He rose with her. There was anxiety in his voice.

"Oh, no, thank you," he said. "Really, Josephine, I cannot. I have another engagement this evening."

"Nonsense!" she repeated. "Come, Jimmy! You must!"

"I cannot. I"—

She put her hand up to his cheek and turned his face toward hers.

"See here, Little Jimmy," she said. "Do you still love me?"

"I have always loved you!"

"Of course; you cannot help it. That is why I came. We are two old people left alone in the world. Our triumphs are past. Our work is done. Our friends are dead. Why should we sit apart and mope? Come now! Be a good boy!"

"I cannot. I"—

Then, with a change as swift as lightning, the artist in her—all the combined impulsiveness and dramatic force of her nature—came over her.

"How dare you say that?" she said. "Who are you, pray, to refuse an invitation to dinner? Have I not often dined with you? Well, now you are to dine with me. You understand. Come. Where is your coat?"

She sprang to the tumbledown wardrobe, pulled out an old ulster and pressed it over him. Then, with an imperious gesture, she waved him out of the room into the hall, holding his faded silk hat in her hand.

He obeyed her without a word. Only in the cab he said:

"Dear me, Josephine, the years have not changed you, have they? I ought not to be doing this! Why, my dear, I have never dined as the guest of a woman in my life. It has always been a part of my code not to do so."

"Nonsense! You are too old now to have any code. Young sports like us no longer need a code. It is high time that some one took you in hand. Besides, I am not doing it for you. Don't you know that I have always been selfish? You are a good companion. There is none better, I am sure. And am I not all alone and lonesome? It is I, therefore, that you must blame. I need you."

The lights in the restaurant, the laughter, the sudden return to a long vanished existence, acted upon Flaubert like a tonic. His face grew ten years younger. They sat in a far corner, remote from the music. No one knew them—two artists who once had ruled their world.

Her old habit came back upon her swiftly. She ordered the dinner without looking at the card—a thin soup, a small duck, a salad, a bottle of wine from the sunny vineyards of the Rhone.

It was wonderful, under the spell of their surroundings, to see them both relax. Story after story came from him. His observations of life, like old wine, had a flavor all their own.

At last she lifted the glass, half empty, to her lips.

"Come," she said; "let us drink to ourselves!"

"I drink, mademoiselle, to your wit, to your beauty, to your genius, for these are to me as fresh as ever."

"And I drink to the artist Flaubert, than whom there is none greater; also I drink to"— She looked at him steadily, fixedly, with that wonderful light in her eyes which yet remained undimmed at nearly threescore and ten. "Little Jimmy," she said, "I drink to us two. Let us never part again on earth!"

He lowered his glass.

"You know, my dear," he said, "I am quite poor."

"I have enough for both."

He laughed.

"Really, mademoiselle, I could hardly pay the clergyman."

"Dear me! I know one who will be pleased to do the slight service for nothing."

"You are in earnest?"

"Surely. And you consent?"

She put forth her hand.

"Josephine, I have always loved you. But"—

"Your hand."

He gave it under the spell of her eyes. They arose from the table. They threaded their way out of the restaurant. The attendant helped him on with his shabby ulster. The door was opened for them. They stood for an instant alone in the vestibule.

He bent over her.

"Josephine," he said, "promise me one thing. I know—I am weak. I guess I'm growing old. But promise me that you'll never hold it up against me!"

"Don't you see that if I should it is you who could hold it up against me, for am I not the temptress? Tut, tut, my dear, it is just as it should be. It was my fault in the beginning. It was I who delayed matters."

Then he stooped and kissed her.

As he put her into the carriage with all the ease and grace of the Flaubert of old he turned to the coachman.

"Home," he said proudly.

HARDNESS OF WATER.

Solid Streams at High Velocity Are as Rigid as Iron.

In the American Magazine a contributor gives a most interesting description of the resisting power of water. He says that a solid stream of water shot out of a hose at tremendous velocity is just as powerful and destructive as a rod of iron. An extract from the article giving an idea of the hardness and resisting power of water follows:

"Here is a fact which is probably novel to the average man who has not spent much of his life thinking about motor speed boats. This is what we may call the hardness of the water when a boat is running at speed. Water at fifty miles an hour is not the limpid liquid we are accustomed to bathe in. If you put your arm overboard from a hydroplane running at fifty miles an hour and strike a wave crest the probability is that you will break your arm or wrist, because at that speed the water has not time to give, not time even to change shape, and striking it is like striking so much metal.

"In the great hydraulic mining nozzles, where a stream of water under enormous head is used to wash down hillsides, a swordsman, in attempting to cut into one of these streams, will shatter the sword without being able to penetrate the water. The stream is like a bar of iron. The fact that water at relative speed is so hard—or that its inertia is so great, to be a little more accurate—is the reason why a skipping stone travels over the surface and is the reason why a hydroplane boat slides over the surface instead of plowing its way through.

"The picture we must have in our minds, then, of a speed boat is that she is traveling not in water, as we ordinarily understand it, but over the surface of a semisolid, very much as a sled travels over snow."

FREAKS IN BASEBALL.

Apparently Clever Plays May Sometimes Be Pure Luck.

Freak plays make baseball humorous, if not interesting. Some of these plays are said to be the result of quick thinking; but, as a matter of fact, most of them are simply luck.

Curious things happen. A ball fell into a tin can, and, it being impossible to get it out in time, can and all were thrown to the baseman. Another ball hit the end of a nail driven through the opposite side of a fence and could not be got down until all the runners scored.

A swift hit glances off the pitcher's hand, is snapped up by an infielder and thrown to first, putting the man out.

Red hot liners or grounders sometimes hit the first or third base bag and glance away for singles or even two baggers.

The shortest two bagger known was when the ball grazed the bat, shot up a few feet and fell in front of the plate. As the catcher reached for the twirling ball it glanced from his glove and bounded back to the stand, and the batter made second easily.

A center fielder saw a mit in the way of the shortstop and walked about sixty feet in to move it out of the way when he heard the crack of the bat and saw a hot ball coming straight at him. He could do nothing but try to catch it and did to his surprise. But he was given credit by the crowd for being a great student of batters.—Arthur Macdonald in American Physical Education Review.

Corpuscles In Normal Blood.

Normally there are approximately 5,000,000 red blood corpuscles in the cubic millimeter. The number is temporarily diminished during fatigue and after the ingestion of much fluid. Fasting and profuse sweating increase the number of red blood cells by concentrating the blood. In high altitudes the number is also increased. There are 5,000 to 10,000 white cells in the cubic millimeter, the ratio of white to red cells being about 1 to 500. In health the blood amounts to about one-thirteenth of the body weight.

Two Speeds In Same Wheel.

The top of a carriage wheel in passing along the road moves more quickly through the atmosphere than the bottom. This sounds absolutely foolish, but it is absolutely sound. It is due to the movable axis, or axle. The top of the wheel has forward motion plus forward revolution. The bottom of the wheel has the same forward motion minus backward revolution.—London Saturday Review.

Mastery.

A man must challenge the world at its own games and win before he can show the world that there are finer games to play. He cannot stand above the mists and call the crowd to him, but many will follow him up through the mists.

"Fifty-fifty."

"I think, William, I'll ask those new people next door to take dinner with us tonight."

"What for?"

"Well, the butcher by mistake left their meat order here, and it seems only fair."—Life.

Vain Hope.

He—I wish I had as much nerve as the chimney. She—What on earth do you mean? He—Then I'd smoke in spite of you.

Promises Not to Invade Canada

German Ambassador at New York Anxious their Attitude Shall Not be Mistaken

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Count von Bernstorff, German Ambassador, gave Evening World today official declaration of his Government's attitude toward the Monroe Doctrine, as follows:

"If the United States Government desires we should give assurances that in the event of victory, Germany will not seek expansion of colonization in North America, including Canada, as well as in South America, we will do so immediately. Germany has not the faintest intention or desire to violate the spirit of the Monroe Doctrine. I say this as emphatically and distinctly as I can, so that there may be no possible opportunity to mistake our attitude in the future. We have already laid before the United States Government an official note stating that Germany would not seek expansion in South America. North America was not included, because it never entered our minds that anyone could conceive that we had the slightest intentions toward this continent. But now that the question has arisen we will give the assurance in any form desired.

Canada's Position

"Discussion on this point arose from publication of something I did not say in a Washington interview, and erroneous references drawn from what I did say. Referring to our declaration about South America, a newspaper correspondent asked: 'How about Canada?' To this I merely replied that Canada itself had violated the Monroe Doctrine by making war on Germany, and had thus placed herself beyond the protective influence of that doctrine

"I did not say, and I had no thought of conveying any inference that Germany might seek to take advantage of this fact and dominate Canada if the victories of war would permit. I make this announcement so that the American people may thoroughly and clearly understand the attitude of the German Government.

Von Edelsheim a Fake.

"There is one other subject going the rounds of the public press that I wish to stamp emphatically as false. References are being made to a General von Edelsheim, alleged to be a member of the German General Staff, and author of a book entitled 'Operations Upon the Sea,' in which attacks upon the United States are proposed. This book is a fake. There is no such man as the von Edelsheim described in Germany. I have made official inquiries and I can emphatically stamp the author as unknown and his book as false. I can imagine it to be an English product, deliberately designed to deceive, and to arouse in America public opinion hostile to Germany."

NOT TO FIGHT AS SEPARATE UNIT

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The refusal of the War Office to sanction the presentation of colors to regiments of the Irish Nationalist volunteers has aroused intense feeling in Ireland and among the Irish in England.

The Nationalists charge that Lord Kitchener is behind the order, and say that recruiting in Ireland has been hampered by the Field Marshal's unwillingness to have the Irish brigade fight as a separate organization, commanded by Irish officers.

It is known that the Irish Nationalist leaders feel that the British War Secretary is antagonistic, but the military men say that Lord Kitchener's attitude is due to his unwillingness to sacrifice brave soldiers under untrained leaders, insisting that their officers be picked men, versed in the science of war. The matter seems certain to be aired when Parliament meets.

This it what might be expected. These Redmondites will be satisfied with nothing less than the treatment meeted out to a foreign nation, which is an ally. Redmond in addressing his followers always refers to Ireland as a "Nation," not as an integral part of the British Empire, which is significant in itself.

FINDS AND MARRIES WIFE WITHIN WEEK

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Lieutenant Jack L. Williamson, a popular officer of the Canadian contingent now encamped at Salisbury Plains, has created an interesting record of discovering and marrying a wife within a week. His young French bride, is Charlotte Suzanne Josse, whose father is serving at the front. The couple met for the first time at Plymouth about a week ago and were married at St. Andrews, Plymouth, on Monday.

INTERN THE DANGEROUS IS GOVERNMENT'S PLAN

Provision Will be Made for Maintainance--Not to be Imprisoned, Wives and Children May Remain with Them--Those Not Likely to Aid Enemy May Leave Country; and Others Given Limited Liberty

OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—Special—The Government has announced a plan for handling the Austrian and German residents of Canada. The presence of a large number of these, many of whom are army reservists, has caused considerable anxiety. Under present regulations Germans and Austrians who attempt to leave Canada are liable to arrest. Many of them are without means and employment, and with winter coming on, there plight is desperate. It is feared that they may abandon the law-abiding attitude they have maintained as a rule up to the present.

The Government has therefore decided to intern those who might become useful to the German or Austrian armies should they leave Canada, and those who it is decided would not become dangerous will be allowed to leave.

To give effect to this plan the Government announces that "where persons of alien enemy nationality may be found in considertble groups regular offices shall be established and registrars appointed." Within a month after proclamation that such offices have been opened it is made the duty of such persons to report themselves, and the registrar will inquire as to their "nationality, disposition and intentions, and their power to provide for their maintenance."

When satisfied that there is no danger of a person "aiding the enemy," he may "grant to such person a permit to leave the country." Those to whom he feels it would not be safe to grant such permits, but who are in a position to maintain themselves and appear willing to behave, may be allowed liberty subject to the obligation of reporting regularly to the authorities.

Those whom the registrars find cannot be safely allowed to leave Canada, or to have liberty within the country, or if given liberty would not be in a position to maintain themselves, "are to be interned as prisoners of war." But "such persons while under guard are not to be imprisoned in any penal institution, and provision will be made for their maintenance. In case of men of this class who have wives and children dependent upon them, the latter will be permitted to remain with them if they so desire, and will be provided for in the same manner."

The Dominion Police will have charge of registration, and the militia of internment. Aliens desiring naturalization will have to obtain the approval of registration officers. The order will be gazetted at once.

CLUNG TO ZEPPELIN 6,000 FEET IN AIR

Artificer Sawed off Propeller Damaged by Shells of Antwerp --Decorated with Iron Cross

BERLIN, (via The Hague and London.) Oct. 28.—Artificer Luickhardt of a Zeppelin airship has been decorated with the Iron Cross, first class. While the Zeppelin was dropping bombs on Antwerp recently it was detected by a searchlight in the town and a battery showered shells around it. One of the shells shattered the framework of a propeller, the damage threatening to disable the airship.

Luickhardt, when he realized this danger, volunteered to saw off the propeller, which task he accomplished in half an hour while clinging to the shattered framework 6,000 feet above the guns of the fortress.

Later, when the dirigible got under way and was speeding at the rate of forty miles an hour, Luickhardt repaired a long rent made in her hull by a shell.

SUES THE CITY FOR DEATH OF HUSBAND

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—A number of tearful women in black sat in the Non-Jury Assize Court to-day to hear the evidence given in the suit against the city of Toronto, brought by Mrs. Elizabeth Marriott, on account of the circumstances in which her husband was killed.

Mrs. Marriott claimed that it was because city workmen had left a stump in the travelled roadway on Woodbine avenue that her husband lost his life on May 6th, 1914. She says that he had been driving a waggon along this road at 10.30 in the morning and that he struck the stump, was thrown from the rig and sustained injuries to his head and neck which caused his death.

The case was adjourned till 10.30 tomorrow morning.

TORONTO BOY IS WOUNDED IN ACTION

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—Lieut. C. F. F. Mackenzie, who was wounded in action at the front, according to official word received by his father, Mr. H. Gordon Mackenzie, of 31 Walmer road, is an officer in the Royal Scots Fusiliers. He is twenty-four years of age. After graduating from Upper Canada College he took a course at the Royal Military College, Kingston. Four years ago he joined the regiment of which he is now a member. The last word received from him by his parents was a cablegram sent from Gibraltar on September 2nd, in which he stated that he was leaving for the front.

CONSERVATIVES IN LANARK AMALGAMATE

Officers of Association Elected and Provisional Constitution Adopted

CARLETON PLACE, Ont., Oct. 28—A representative meeting was held here yesterday of North and South Lanark Conservatives for the purpose of forming an amalgamated organization. Carleton Place, Almonte Perth and Smith's Falls were represented as well as each township. A provisional constitution was adopted and the following officers elected:

President, J. A. Stewart, Perth; vice presidents, J. S. L. McNeely, of Carleton Place, and J. S. Gould, of Smith's Falls; secretary-treasurer, W. H. Stafford, Almonte. Mr. A. H. Birmingham, organizer, of Toronto and the Hon. Dr. R. F. Preston, M. P. P., North Lanark, were present.

SIR WILLIAM FLOATS ANOTHER 15 MILLION

OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—(Special.)—It is confirmed here in official circles that Sir William Mackenzie, head of the C.N.R., has been successful in realizing upon the fifteen million flotation of Government guaranteed bonds, underwritten by Lazard Freres of London, just before the war broke out. This piece of financing is considered to be one of the best, under the circumstances, ever made by Canada's wizard of finance.

There will be no cessation in the work on the company's main line, though no branch line work will be proceeded with in the west.

Paul is Choice of Conservatives

Lennox and Addington M. P. Endorsed at Napanee Convention

NAPANEE Ont., Oct. 29.—(Special.)—A convention of the Liberal-Conservative Association was held here yesterday at 10 a.m., and the meeting was very representative of the whole riding. On motion of Mr. G. F. Ruttan, K.C., seconded by D. H. Smith, Mr. W. J. Paul, M.P., was by a unanimous vote returned as the party standard-bearer at the next Dominion elections for Lennox and Addington. Mr. Paul being called upon, in a very eloquent speech thanked the electors and gave an account of his work at Ottawa during the last three years, enumerating the dredging of the Napanee River, the new armories now being built here and other good things he had been instrumental in obtaining for the county.

Probably the mind makes the man, but it is the pickpocket that gets action on the same.

DEATH OF LABORER COST CITY $2,500

Jury Awarded That Sum to Widow and Children of Guiseppa Iacono

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—The jury in Judge Latchford's court to-day decided that the death of Guiseppa Iacono, a city laborer, was caused by negligence on the part of the city of Toronto, that this negligence consisted in lack of proper supervision; that the deceased by proper care could not have avoided the accident; that the system employed by the city in the construction of the sewer in which Iacono was employed when he met his death, was not a safe system; and that the deceased had not known fully what risks he took; and on these grounds they awarded the widow $1,000 damages, and the three children $1,500.

Guiseppa Iacono, who for two and one-half years had been a laborer on the city pay roll, on 9th of May was placing pipes in a sewer which he had helped dig on Balsam avenue, near 111, when the tunnel collapsed and buried him beneath a large mass of sand and earth.

The case was brought against the city by Iacono's wife and three children. They asked for $5,000.

Another U. S. Ship Seized By British

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The American ship Kroonland, from New York bound for Naples and Greece, with a cargo of copper, has been detained at Gibraltar by British authorities, according to a report to the state department today from U. S. Consul Sprague.

Consul Sprague did not report the reason for the detention of the Kroonland, but as copper is listed by the British foreign office as conditional contraband, it is assumed that the British Government's attitude would be similar to that in an American ship which carried copper to Holland. In that case when the Dutch government gave assurances that copper cargoes would not be reshipped from Holland, the British government withdrew its objection.

The state department has asked Mr. Sprague for a fuller report on the circumstances attending the detention of the Kroonland and action will be deferred pending receipt of all of the facts. Officials think that should Great Britain be assurred that the Kroonland's cargo amounting to between 1,400 and 1,500 tons of copper, will not find its way through Italy or Greece, to Germany or Austria, the question can be adjusted with little difficulty.

Official word was received today of the release by the British government of the American tank steamer "Sun" at Falmouth, England, last Sunday in compliance with the request of the American government. Her case was similar to all other oil ships recently seized and released by England.

OTTAWA CITY TO BUY APPLES

Council Decides to Try Experiment Suggested

OTTAWA, Oct. 28.—Acting on the suggestion of Mr. Dan Johnston, Fruit Commissioner, that municipalities should organize to secure apples direct from the farmers to sell cheaply to the consumers, the City of Ottawa has decided to try the experiment. The City Council will secure as a trial a carload of apples from Western Ontario. The apples will be purchased loose for about 45 cents a barrel and loaded into the car with hay padding to protect the apples. Counting freight and all, it is figured that the apples can be retailed in Ottawa for about $1.25 for two bags. If the plan works well and the apples arrive in good shape, the city will purchase several more carloads.

GENERAL CARRANZA OFFERS TO RESIGN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—The United States Government was officially informed to-day by the Minister of Foreign Relations at Mexico City, that General Carranza had submitted his resignation to the National Convention at Auguas Calientes on the condition that Generals Villa and Zapata resign their posts in the Constitutionalist army and retire to private life.

General Carranza's action, it was stated, was taken purely in the interest of domestic peace.

No word was received of what action was taken by the convention.

SAVE MANY WOUNDED BY BLOOD TRANSFUSION

Volunteers Offer Their Blood to Save Soldiers in Response to French Medical Appeal

PARIS, Oct. 29.—Special— The London Standard's correspondent telegraphs: The military medical authorities at Lyons have issued the following appeal to the population:

"There are wounded who are so exhausted from loss of blood that the only chance of saving their lives is by the prompt transfusion from the veins of a healthy, strong, living man or woman. Those who wish to offer their blood for such transfusions are invited to give their names to the Hotel Dieu."

No sooner had this notice appeared in the local press than volunteers presented themselves, and Dr. Carril, the famous Franco-American surgeon, chief of the Rockefeller Institute, and now at the head of one of the Lyons hospitals, was able immediately to save several patients. Three days ago there already were 120 names at the Hotel Dieu, representing rich and poor, and all classes of society to aid. Women were conspicuous in the list.

If the fight in Flanders turns out to our advantage one of the consequences will be the transfer of several large Red Cross hospitals to the frontier, or thereabouts. The Duchess of Westminster's ambulance left Paris yesterday for Boulogne, and I believe the British base hospital at Versailles will be shifted very shortly. Few, if any, more British wounded will be brought to Paris, being all sent straight back now to England from seaports, which are so close to the battlefields as to render this comparatively easy and convenient.

LENNOX AND ADDINGTON DOING WELL FOR FUNDS

Large Quantities of Supplies for Belgians and Troops--Lives Insured

NAPANEE, Oct. 29.—Special—The Patriotic Fund Association of Lennox and Addington has raised so far nearly $8,000, exclusive of $1,000 raised by the local Red Cross Association and large quantities of supplies sent forward for the Belgians and the troops at the front. Forty volunteers from this county have gone with the first Canadian contingent. The Patriotic Fund Association is now giving each a war insurance policy of $1,000, for the benefit of his family.

Dynaminte Plot Discovered in Time

Haileybury, Oct. 29.—It has just been learned here that a quantity of dynamite has been found under a theatre at Timmins. It is significant that a firemen's ball, at which large numbers of people would have been present, was to be held to-night in the place threatened by the contemplated explosion. The amount of dynamite found under the building was, it is stated in a message which reached a Timmins resident, sufficient to have entirely wrecked the theatre. It has not yet been ascertained by whom the powder was set, but it is believed probable that it may have been Austrians, as there have been a large number of them out of employment since the war broke out.

GERMANS IN AUTOMOBILE

Passed Through Kingston Early On Tuesday Morning

KINGSTON, Oct. 28.—Three Germans passed through the city in an automobile very early on Tuesday morning, is the story told by W. Marshall, a chauffeur in Poritt's garage. About two o'clock on Tuesday morning Mr. Marshall was awakened by a tourist party below who asked for gasoline. The three men were dressed in heavy coats and the car looked as if it had been driven a long distance. As the tank was being filled one of the men said to the other in German that he would like to see some of the fellows in the fort. The other answered that if he did not keep quiet they would have him over there. Only one spoke English and it was very broken.

FROM THE WAR ZONE

( SPecial Press Despatch).

GERMANS RETIRING FROM LA BASSE TO SEA

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Advice received here last evening from Paris reports that the Germans are falling back all along the line from La Bassee to the sea.

An Amsterdam despatch says the Germans are hurriedly entrenching between Bruges and Ghent.

A despatch from Vienna says all foreign insurance companies have been placed under the supervision of the Austrian Government.

It is announced that Prince Maurice of Battenburg, brother-in-law of the King of Spain, a cousin of King George, and an officer in the first King's Royal Rifles, is dead of wounds received in action in France.

PROGRESS MADE ALONG THE LINES

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The following is this afternoon's official announcement:

"During yesterday we made progress at several points along the line of battle, but particularly around Ypres and to the south of Arras.

"There is nothing new on the front between Nienport and Dixmude.

"Between the Aisne and the Argonne we took possession of some trenches occupied by the enemy, and not one of the partial attacks undertaken by the Germans resulted successfully.

"We advanced also in the forest of Apremont."

ENEMY'S CRUISER WITH JAPANESE FLAG

TOKIO, Oct. 29.—The British Embassy hears that the German cruiser Emden, flying the Japanese flag and disguised by the addition of a fourth smokestack, entered Penang, British Straits Settlements, and fired torpedoes, which sank the Russian cruiser Jehtchug and a French destroyer.

ANOTHER STEAMER SUNK OFF NORTH COAST

FLEETWOOD, Eng., Oct. 29.—Word has been received through a trawler which arrived here Wednesday night that another steamer had been sunk off Malin Head on the north coast. No details.

Trenton Generous To Its Volunteers

Wrist Watches, Kits, Purses of Gold and Insurance Policies for Each

TRENTON, Oct. 29.—Special—Trenton's 16 volunteers for the second contingent were given a grand send-off in Weller's Opera House here last night, when a monster patriotic meeting was held, presided over by Mayor Kidd. Hundreds were unable to gain admission. The boys were presented with wrist watches and kits by the Governor of Simcoe Chapter, Daughters of the Empire; purses of gold by Mr. Robert Weddell, and the Trenton Patriotic League, and insurance policies of $1,000 each by the latter organization, which means the citizens of the town. The Municipal Council will equip the four or five officers who go from Trenton with field glasses, compasses and pistols. Presentations were also made to two ex-pupils by the pupils and staff of the High School. The speakers last evening included, besides Mayor Kidd and Mr. Robert Weddell, Messrs. A. E. Cuff, Dr. McLean, P. J. O'Rourke, G. W. Ostrom, ex-M.P.P., and the Revs. Wilkins, Rogers, Foster, Armstrong and Bunner. Patriotic songs were sung by hundreds of school children. The boys left this morning for mobilization at Kingston.

A poor author is like a cheap printing press; he wastes a lot of ink, but never succeeds in making a good impression.

Kills Thirty in Five Minutes

Terrible Effective Work Is Done Against Germans Near Lille

NORTHERN FRANCE, Oct. 28.—(Special.)—At a town near Lille a Dragoon marksman was stationed at a swing bridge with two comrades to load for him. It was important that the enemy should be held back without the bridge being blown up. The marksman hid behind a fence sixty yards from the bridge. When two Lancers appeared he shot them, then three and he shot them, also five Uhlans came up together. He brought down every one. Altogether, he killed thirty Germans in less than five minutes and retired with his comrades. A great pile of dead men and horses in the narrow roadway on the opposite side of the bridge protected it from the approach of the enemy during the day almost as well as a mitrailleuse would have done.

Found Guilty of Stealing Money

Chicago ManConvicted at General Session on Two Indictments

TORONTO, Oct. 29.—(Special.)—Patrick J. Welsh of Chicago was found guilty in the General Sessions yesterday of receiving stolen money and forgery. Welsh was arrested at the Woodbine last May and was found to have in his possession a number of bills that had been stolen from the Bank of Montreal at New Westminster B.C., about three years ago. The identification of some of the bills had been changed.

When arrested Welch had in his possession about 1,500 in money.

It was claimed that the bad bills found on Welch were some that had been stolen from the Bank of Montreal in New Westminster some three years ago. About $600 of the bills found on Welch were stated to be bad. The Bank of Montreal sued the accused for the full $1,500, although as Mr. Robinette pointed out, only $135 could positively be identified as coming from the bank.

Welch had been a railroad man in Chicago. He left his job for his health, and after travelling about the States, came to Canada for the apparent purpose of "playing the races." He had won a considerable amount of money in various places and he claimed that the changed bills had unwittingly come into his possession in this manner.

Number of gentlement, among whom were State Senator Gorman, brought from Chicago, testified to Welch's good reputation and character. The fact that the money found on him was divided into four piles, all the good money being together and separate from the rest, seemed, however, to be incriminating evidence.

Mr. Robinette, on behalf of Welch, will appeal the case, contesting that the mere changing of the identification marks on the bills did not constitute a violation of the criminal code.

MEAT IMPORTATION FROM STATES PROHIBITED

Also use of Hay and Straw for Packing Owing to Spread of Disease

WINDSOR, Oct. 29.—(Special.)—Because of the spread of food and mouth disease in the States of Michigan and Indiana, an order has been issued by the Canadian Department of Agriculture prohibiting importation of all fresh meats from the United States. The use of hay and straw for packing purposes is also prohibited.

The new order went into effect this afternoon, after Dr. W. Perdue of Chatham, Government veterinary expert, returned from a tour of inspection in the affected area. A special officer has been detailed for duty at the ferry dock here.

FIVE MILE TUNNEL THROUGH THE ALPS

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 28.—A five-mile tunnel through the Jura Mountain from Moutiers, France, to Grenchen, Switzerland was pierced yesterday after three years of uninterrupted work. The tunnel will shorten railway communication between Paris and Berne and Paris and Milan.

The cost of cutting the tunnel through the mountains was $5,000,000. Of this sum the eastern railroad of France contributed $3,000,000.

It is possible that the exploding of the theory that two can live as cheaply as one is responsible for a good many divorces.

LITERARY NOTES.

THE CANADIAN MAGAZINE for November contains a spirited impression entitled, "The Cynic at Valcartier," by Newton MacTavish, with a large number of illustrations of the great Military camp, which will soon be occupied again with our second expeditionary force. There is also an arresting article by Britton Cooke, "Is This True?" the question referring to the charge that in many instances we discriminate against Canadian-made goods. "Self-Government in Canada," by G. G. S. Lindsay, K.C., is a valuable historical article, and there are contributions also by the Honorable William Renwick Riddell, John Stuart Thomson, L. M. Montgomery, A. Wylie Mahon, Lindsay Crawford, Virna Sheard, and others.

GALT'S CAMPAIGN FOR THE PATRIOTIC FUND

At the End of the Second Day the Total Reached Was $40,000.

GALT, Oct. 29.—(Special.)—At the end of the second day of the campaign in Galt for the Canadian Patriotic Fund the total stands in the neighborhood of $40,000. The exact figures were not available last evening, but reports at the noonday luncheon showed $38,562 collected.

NIGHT ATTACKS FAIL.

German Efforts at Dixmude Are Repulsed By the Allies.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The official communication issued by the War Office last night says: "In Belgium two night attacks attempted by the enemy at Dixmude have been repulsed. The German effort on the front between Nieuport and Dixmude appears to be moderating. Our offensive continues to the north of Ypres.

"Between La Bassee and Lens there has been slight progress on our part.

"On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report."

The official communique of the French War Office, issued yesterday afternoon, describes the situation in the following terms:

"During the day of yesterday (Tuesday) the German attacks in all the region between Nieuport and Arras were less violent. Our positions were everywhere maintained, and we continued to advance to the north and to the east of Ypres. We also made some progress between Cambrin, to the southwest of La Bassee and Arras.

"Further information continues to confirm previous reports that the German losses in dead, wounded and prisoners have been considerable in the northern region.

"On the right bank of the Aisne the Germans attempted at night a very violent offensive movement in the region of Craonne. On the heights of the Chemins Des Dames they have been repulsed.

"In the Woevre region our troops have continued their advance in the forests between Apremont and St. Mihiel, as well as in the forests of Le Pretre."

HOLLAND IS UNEASY.

Discovery of Cement Gun Bed Is Among the Causes of Anxiety.

ROOSENDAAL, Oct. 29.—Holland is feeling the pressure of the war almost as much as if she were engaged in it. The report that the Germans are massing large numbers of troops on the eastern border is causng great uneasiness throughout Holland. The alleged discovery of a tennis court with cement nine feet thick on the property of a German in the vicinity of Arnheim and statements that German spies have been active near Arnheim and at other points close to the German border seem to intensify the anxiety of the Hollanders.

A Dutch army of over 300,000 trained men is scattered at strategic points along the Belgian and German borders. Roosendaal is the principal troops centre, as it is the only gate to Belgium that is now open. Hundreds of military automobiles leave here daily with messages and supplies for the border troops.

The mouth of the River Scheldt and all the canals are heavy guarded. A large garrison at Flushing is guarding the docks and railway stations in order to prevent any attempt to violate the neutrality of the Scheldt. The river is heavily mined and Dutch cruisers and torpedo-boat destroyers are lying at its mouth to give any necessary co-operation to the land forces.

BRITAIN IS GRATIFIED.

Eagerness of Canadians To Enlist Elicits Favorable Comments.

LONDON, Oct. 29. — The greatest gratification is expressed here at the reports from Canada of anxiety to enlist in the second contingent. Comment is frequent on the fact that Canada is offering better terms of enlistment than are offered for the home army. The Liverpool Courier, for instance, says that Canada has spent enormous sums on emigration propaganda, and perhaps she is a little nervous lest the attractions of the old world should prove too strong for her newer sons, when they find themselves back amongst their English friends and relatives. The Courier asserts that each man is promised a grant of land on his return to Canada.

A promising response is being made to Sir Edward Ward's appeal for gifts of books for the troops at Salisbury Plains. Fifty thousand volumes are asked for, and these will certainly be quickly obtained. Col. Ward has been appointed by the War Office generally to advise Lord Kitchener in regard to matters affecting the overseas contingents. His idea is to organize a lending library at Salisbury camp.

WILL GIVE GUARANTEE.

No Illegal Exports From Denmark Will Occur Says Premier.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 29. — (Via London.) — The question of British warships seizing steamers on the way from America to Denmark was raised in Parliament Tuesday when a member asked whether the Government could guarante that corn and foodstuffs imported from America were not re-exported to Germany.

The Premier replied that the Government was ready to guarantee to the British Government that no illegal exports from Denmark should occur, and he promised to introduce a bill in a few days providing penal clauses against incorrect statements of the destination of cargoes. The Premier added that investigation proved that recent rumors of illegal re-exports were unfounded.

Belfort Preparing for Attack.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A despatch to The Times from Berne, Switzerland, asserts that the Germans are receiving large reinforcements in Alsace, and that the French are making great preparation to repulse an attack on Belfort, which is powerfully entrenched.

A Word To the Talkative.

MANAGER TRANSFERRED

Mr. Walter Kennedy, who for over a year has been manager at Griffin's Opera House, received orders to report at the Toronto office for which city he left this afternoon, where a new field will be alloted him. During his sojourn in Belleville Mr Kennedy has made a very creditable business record, and won hosts of friends, by whom he will be greatly missed. It is understood he will be succeeded by Mr. McArthur. In recognition of Mr. Kennedy's popularity his friends presented him with a handsome club bag, which gift is highly appreciated by the recipient.

Rules of the Branch: position and object of the Society.

The Canadian Red Cross Society hereinafter called "The Society," was first established in the year 1896 and acted throughout the Boer War. It was subsequently incorporated in the year 1909 by an Act of the Dominion Parliament. The British Red Cross Society acting under the charter given by His Majesty King Edward VII, is the parent Society and represents the British nation under the International Treaty of Geneva. The Canadian Red Cross Society is in affiliation with it. The principal aims and object of the Society are to collect funds and material and to provide assistance to the sick and wounded in time of war, supplementary to that furnished by the Official Naval and Medical Department.

This local branch hereinafter called "The Branch," is organized in the Central Council of the Society and the following shall be the rules for the guidance of the Branch until altered by the Central Council.

GERMANS ARE MASSING

They Will Fight Every Step of the Way to Ostend.

Heavy Artillery Is Being Put Into Place on Coast—Attempt of the Kaiser's Armies to Advance Between Ypres and Dixmude Is Repulsed and French Gain Ground—Crown Prince Gives Up Positions.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The scene of the fighting shifted slightly yesterday. Instead of the Germans continuing to direct their main assaults on the line between Nieuport and Dixmude they essayed a major operation further east, between Ypres and Dixmude. Two French columns operating from Ypres met the brunt of this new movement, and not only stopped the Germans, but actually gained considerable ground. One column advanced east and the other directly north, the latter meeting the sternest resistance. A bayonet charge finally dislodged the Germans from several lines of trenches.

The fire of the French and British warships has effectually prevented the Germans from operations along the coast line of Flanders, but it now appears that a new phase of the campaign is setting in as the heavy artillery of the invaders is being brought into position. At Zeebruge, just east of Ostend, five train loads of artillery are reported to have arrived. A hurried movement is under way to fortify the whole Belgian coast line from Heyst to Knocke. The Germans are turning to account every sand dune, wall and village commanded by their forces, and it is certain that any attempt of the allies to penetrate toward Ostend will result in a heavy loss of life. Judging from present reports, the Kaiser's leaders intend to contest every foot of the ground which the allied tacticians deemed impossible of defence.

In a battle for control of the line of canals leading from La Bassee to the sea, the French and British yesterday won a most important victory. The engagement opened with an onslaught by the Germans, which was frustrated and followed up with a counter attack of the allied forces. This action came as the culmination of ten days' fighting, in which the Germans strove to win La Bassee. They met progress for several days, but have now lost that advantage and been compelled to retreat toward Arras.

Between Roulers and Ypres fierce combats have taken place during Tuesday and Wednesday. The advance rests with the allies. Roulers has been taken and retaken many times, and the latest manoeuvre of the Germans comprehended an advance westward.

The correspondent of The Evening News, wiring from "northern France," says: "The Germans are falling back all along the line from La Bassee to the North Sea."

The correspondent at Sluis of The Amsterdam Telegraaf reports that remarkable quiet prevails along the coast of Belgium. The German garrisons at Bruges, Heyst and Knocke, he says, are not very numerous.

The Duke of Wuertemberg's army has lost heavily in the north of France, according to a despatch received by the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Paris.

The Germans, the message adds, lost 2,000 in killed and wounded in an ill-fated night attack on Craonne, and the regions mentioned in yesterday's French official communication. The French casualties numbered 100.

From all sources reports favorable to the allies reached here yesterday. Evidently the attempt of the French to drive the crown prince's army out of St. Mihiel is about to reach a successful issue. On both sides of the town new ground was won as the result of Tuesday night and Wednesday's operations. Between Apremont and St. Mihiel the Germans lost several miles, and the French gained positions on high ground, which are expected to be of immense value to their artillery. In the forest of Le Pretre, in the same zone, the crown prince's command likewise ceded ground.

In the region of Craonne, on the right bank of the Aisne, the Kaiser's forces have shown renewed activity. A long artillery duel was followed by a charge of German infantry. This was met with French reinforcements and turned back after great loss to the foe.

On the heights of Chemin Des Dames, also on the centre, another attack in force was thrown back by the French.

Seven times the Germans have crossed the Yser, and seven times they have been thrown back, fleeing across human bridges of their own dead in the last retreat. French and Belgian artillery has made it impossible for anything animate to remain on the allied side of the river, which the Germans gained after such desperate valor on Saturday last.

Cooking Fresh Vegetables.

Some cooks use a little vinegar with green beans, spinach or cabbage to soften the cellulose. A small onion sliced and cooked with peas is the method employed by another cook. But it is very necessary that the water be soft, and therefore in case you must use hard water a very tiny bit of soda may be boiled in the water. When peas are cooked in the soda water, after fifteen or twenty minutes pour off this water and finish with fresh boiling water. A few green mint leaves added at this time will increase the palatableness of the peas.

Survivors of Steamer Landed.

FLEETWOOD, Eng., Oct. 29.—(Via London.)—The trawler City of London arrived here early yesterday with the survivors of the British freight steamer Manchester Commerce, which struck a mine late on Monday night off the north coast of Ireland, and sank. Capt. Payne and thirteen of his crew were drowned, while thirty others were saved by the trawler.

OFFICERS ENLISTED IN SECOND CONTINGENT FOR THE FRONT

The Various Regiments Report Number of Men who Have Offered--Forty-Seven Signed up from 14th Regiment

The call for the enlistment of a second Canadian contingent has met with a ready response from the officers and men of the different corps of the 3rd division. Although the officer commanding the division sent out orders only a few days ago for each corps in the division to enlist seventy-five men, who would be sent to the front, about the end of December, some of the recruiting officers have secured that number already. In some cases the enlistment has not been as brisk as in other places, but it is expected that the required number will be secured at an early date.

The following list has been handed out by the militia department of officers and the number of men who are anxious to go to the front.

Governor-General's Foot Guards—Major D. H. McLean, Capt. C. H. Payne, Capt. R. T. M. Scott, Lieut. S. A. Dion and Lieut. A. W. Black. Number of men not reported.

Deseronto Notes

Rumors Current of New Industry --Personal Mention and Social Doings About the Town

October 28, 1914.

Mrs. Bell and Miss Florence Bell spent a few days last week with relatives in Napanee.

Miss Jennie Dryden was in Napanee on Thursday.

Mrs. Rockwell Lockwood of Picton, is visiting her sister Mrs. W. H. Richardson.

Rev. George Davidson of Albert College, Belleville, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kitchen and family returned home last Thursday after visiting relatives in Brockville.

Mr. Wm. Stewart of Hamilton, is visiting his father, Mr. Stewart, Thomas Street.

A number of our young people drove out to the concert at Empey Hill on Friday evening, and after the entertainment drove to Napanee and had supper at the Chinese restaurant there.

Mrs. Rendell is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Gould of Mount Pleasant.

Mr. Fred Frost of the Standard Bank, Belleville, spent the week end with his brother.

Various rumors are current these days as to the final winding up of the Rathbun estate and company. It is said that representatives of the Massey Harris Co. and the Canadian Northern Railway have been in town negotiating with the firm, but no definite information can be obtained. A number of our citizens are also quite sanguine as to Deseronto being the divisional point of the C.N.R.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Dryden spent Sunday with relatives in Shannonville.

Miss Glendine Clement of Kingston Model School spent the week-end at her home here.

Mrs. Lake is in Belleville, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. F. Henry, who is ill.

Mr. Ernest Hoag of the Bank of Montreal staff, was in Trenton on Monday evening.

A couple of our citizens were rather badly scared one day last week. They were in one of our well known stores and in a friendly conversation with the proprietor, a question came up for argument, for the settling of which the owner of the store left the building for a few moments. During his absence his small son, who was in the shop, discovered a loaded revolver in an open drawer, and taking it out pointed it at one of the men and pulled the trigger. The shot went through the crown of the man's hat and into the wall. As someone afterwards remarked "it was a close shave." The child was badly scared and fortunately dropped the gun before further damage could be done.

Mrs. Ernest Moyer and child of Toronto, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain, Mill street.

Mrs. Hartman of Montreal, is a guest of relatives in town.

The High School staff and some of their friends were entertained at the home of Mrs. Millar, across the bay, on Tuesday evening.

The ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loft on the Indian Reserve was severely injured one day last week, when a heavy ram waggon ran over her, inflicting injuries to her chest. Dr. Vandervoort was at once called, and while the child is still very ill, she will likely recover.

Mrs. Archer was in Napanee last Thursday.

Miss Lena Warren was in Napanee last week attending the Teacher's Convention.

PATRIOTIC GATHERING IN LOCAL CHURCH

Last night was Patriotic Night with the A. Y. P. A. of Christ Church. The evening opened with the singing in chorus "It's a long Way to Tipperary." Miss Jane Bishop then gave a recitation and Mr. Burke a solo.

Col. Ponton delivered a patriotic lecture in the fore part of which he lamented the fact that we have not yet fully realized the danger with which we are threatened in the present war; after which he showed a number of slides in which the world-embracing nature of the Empire was strikingly illustrated. After the lecture presentations were made to the members of the A.Y.P.A. and St. George's Sunday School who have enlisted in this contingent. Gloves were presented by the A.Y.P.A. to four members, namely, Messrs. Cecil Bowyer, James Varley, Philip Pauley, Geo. Johnston, also on behalf of St. George's Sunday School, Bibles were presented to James Varley and Cecil Bowyer. The presentations were made by Rev. Mr. Blagrave, who wished them in behalf of the Church Godspeed in their undertaking. The evening closed with the National Anthem. collections were given to the Red Cross Society.

There are some men who are so conceited they imagine they are the whole parade every time they go for a walk.

WAR NOTES

LONDON—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Times learns from Berlin that under the new military agreement between Germany and Austria, Emperor William undertakes the leadership of the united armies.

PARIS—In a message from Lisbon sent by way of Madrid the correspondent of the Havas Agency says:—

"Despatches received here say that German troops have forcibly invaded the Portuguese Province of Angola, West Africa.

"Preparations are being made to immediately despatch warships and troops from Portugal to Angola."

ROME—An official statement given out at Cettinje says that a general attack on Cattaro has commenced from land and sea. A few Austrian forts still reply to the fire of the enemy, but forts Lustica and Vermaz have been abandoned.

ATHENS — There is considerable friction between the German military men in Turkey and Turkish soldiers, according to reports received here. At Adrianople Turkish troops came to blows with German officers. A protracted fight ensued. Several cars filled with wounded were sent to Constantinople.

A new British gun, used for the first time during the last few days, has provided a fresh horror for German airmen, who, up to the present have avoided every opportunity to combat with the airmen of the Allies unless escape without reply was plainly impossible. A Taube flew toward the headquarters of the British general staff on Friday, scattering bombs, promiscuously, but its owner was abruptly stopped by a shot or two from the new gun which found its target with little difficulty.

FALSEHOOD GALORE

Some one who has little regard for truth, but much for mischief, has been writing letters to the Buffalo Express, no doubt for the purpose of creating among the German population of the United States a feeling of hostility against everything British. The style of his letters portrays the character of the writer. He purports to write from Hagerville, Ontario, and signs his letters "Englishman," a misnomer, for no Englishman would write such lying letters as this correspondent of the Express has written, and then skulk behind his own utterances, by asking the publisher not to "publish his name."

An extract or two from his letters will show what liars men can be when they desire to create mischief, and mislead the public.

He begins by telling readers of the Express that "Americans are thoroughly detested in Canada," and then proceeds, as he says, after ten years' experience, that "there is no earthly chance of either getting any justice or legal redress from any judge, magistrate, Crown attorney or any single person having to do with law and justice in the whole Dominion." After quoting a scurrilous local publication in proof of the assertion that Canadians are not enlisting in any considerable number, and that the first Canadian contingent is made up largely of Indians and men born in the British Isles, he goes on to say: "The whole of Canada is governed under one gigantic system of graft and robbery, not alone confined to the Government, but also to every local corporation. The United States is portrayed as nothing, only graft. All I can say is the bulk of the Canadian people have the people of the United States skinned miles at this game. An honest man has no chance with them whatever. Both myself and my wife have come to the conclusion that it is the undoubted infusion of Indian blood into so many families and generations that is the cause of the treachery and chicanery everywhere prevailing here. I kindly ask you not to publish my name, as I have had enough trouble with them, all of which has not yet finished."

The Editor of the Express evidently puts little faith in the charges brought against the Canadian people by this bogus "Englishman" for he says "The Express might add that having done much business with Canadians we have found nothing to justify the censure contained in this letter."

If evidence were necessary to prove the malicious lying ignorance of the scribe it is to be found in the sentence that "both himself and his wife have come to the conclusion that it is the undoubted infusion of Indian blood into so many families and generations that is the cause of the treachery and chicanery everywhere prevailing in Canada." This alone is sufficient to stamp the character of the man, who, like all lying cowards fears to have his name made public, knowing as he well does what would be the result.

In these days of German espionage, which has been carried into private families through servants of both sects, is this letter writing not of a character having for it object the poisoning of the minds of the German population in the United States, in the hope that they might create trouble on this continent? There appears from what has already transpired and from what has been discovered that there has been in the past and still exist secret influences of every iniquitous character that human depravity can devise to weaken British influence in every section of the civilized world. Watch and be on guard, must be the motto of every man who desires the overthrow of German intrigue and military tyranny.

A COMPARISON

The Toronto Globe compares Sir Wilfrid Laurier to Premier Botha, the Boer leader. Why this unfair aspersion upon the patriotism and Empire Loyalty of General Botha?

When at the Imperial Conference of 1911 Laurier was preaching the perfidous theory of colonial neutrality, declaring that Canada did not conceive it her duty to take part in all of England's wars," General Botha mercilessly punctured the vicious doctrine with this concise and splendid declaration:—

"If it is to the advantage of the Empire to have a number of its colonies neutral, obviously it is to the disadvantage of the enemy. The enemy decides whether any part of the Empire is to be left alone."

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador at Washington, who has in the past been somewhat officious and outspoken in his condemnation of everything British, has now been giving his interpretation of the Monroe doctrine by affirming that by taking part in the war the Canadians had justified an aggressive campaign against themselves.

To further explain the reason that caused the German Government, in a formal note delivered to the State Department on September 3 by Count Bernstorff, voluntarily pledging Germany not to attempt colonial expansion in South America, no matter what the outcome of the war, the Embassy said:

"The note was written at that time because Winston Churchill has said, in his message to the American people, that if Germany were victorious in the present war she would attack the Monroe doctrine."

Notwithstanding the declaration on the part of this German Ambassador that the Germans had no intention of attacking Canada, past experiences and declarations by Germans in authority, would lead thinking men to the conclusion that the Count's denial was the best possible evidence that they did intend making a raid upon Canada, particularly as "Count Bernstorff, the German Ambassador had hinted that part of the German plans included an attack upon Canada, with the intimation that no such attack could be considered as a violation of the Monroe Doctrine, since it would affect a country which was already a part of a European empire. While this was taken merely as part of the press campaign which Count Bernstorff has been waging in the United States on behalf of Germany, it aroused a good deal of speculation as to what the Germans really expected or hoped to do, leading many civilians to ask why, when Canada was at war, the Canadian militia had not been placed on a war footing—that [illegible], increased from a strength of 70,000 to 120,000.

When the invasion is attempted Canada will not be backward in doing her duty. It is just possible that the Home Guard may have to assist in defending their homes against the invader. Is it not therefore fitting that rifles and ammunition should be supplied them?

A telegram from London of the 27th inst., refers to the Ambassador's utterances as "German Designs upon Canada." "Another Indiscretion by Count Bernstorff," which are typical headlines applied to the Count's latest emission.

An English diplomat, discussing the situation, says:—

"Of course Bernstorff is right. Canada is at war with Germany in every sense of the word. Germany has as much right to land troops in Canada as Canada has to send troops to Europe against Germany, but the Canadians are not likely to lose their sleep. Bernstorff's two words, 'if possible,' mean so much.

"If Germany cannot think seriously of landing troops in England how can she hope to evade the British fleet upon the Atlantic?

"But putting together the statements of Bernstorff and Dernburg what other conclusion can Canadians draw about German policy than that if British sea supremacy once is overthrown, it will be upon Canada and not South America that Germany will set the most covetous eyes.

"As the great Bernhardi said years ago, Germany dreams of overseas territories nearer home than Brazil and climatically better suited to German settlers. Dernburg kindly promises Canada immunity because of the Monroe Doctrine, but, after all, a purely national declaration like the Monroe Doctrine is a far smaller scrap of paper than the solemn international treaty such as guaranteed the neutrality of Belgium.

"Bernstorff is much more likely to be reflecting the real German intentions, wholly vain though they are."

A state of neutrality requires only that every man shall attend to his own affairs and respect the rights of his neighbors to do the same thing.

Why Britain Is At War
The Causes And The Issues

What We Are Fighting For

Thus, by an instructive coincidence, a crisis which began by the determination of Austria (backed by Germany) to apply brute force against the independence of a small State in South-eastern Europe came to a head, so far as Britain is concerned, by the determination of Germany (in alliance with Austria) to ride rough-shod over the neutrality of a small State in North-western Europe. "Gentlemen," said the German Chancellor in the Reichstag (August 4), "we are now in a state of necessity, and necessity knows no law. Our troops have occupied Luxembourg, and perhaps are already on Belgian soil. Gentlemen, this is contrary to the dictates of International Law. . . Anybody who is threatened and is fighting for his highest possessions, can have only one thought—how he is to hack his way through."

"If I am asked what we are fighting for," said the Prime Minister in the House of Commons (August 6.) "I can reply in two sentences. In the first place, to fulfil a solemn international obligation—an obligation which, if it had been entered into between private persons in the ordinary concerns of life, would have been regarded as an obligation not only of law, but of honor, which no self-respecting man could possibly have repudiated. I say, secondly, we are fighting to vindicate the principle, in these days when material force sometimes seems to be the dominant influence and factor in the development of mankind, that small nationalities are not to be crushed, in defiance of international good faith, by the arbitrary will of a strong and overmastering Power. I do not believe any nation ever entered into a great controversy—and this is one of the greatest history will ever know—with a clearer conscience and stronger conviction that it is fighting, not for aggression, not for maintenance of which is vital to the civilization of the world, and with the full conviction, not only of the wisdom and justice, but of the obligations which lay upon us to challenge this great issue."

The Issues at Stake.

"I ask the House," said Sir Edward Grey (August 3), "from the point of view of British interests, to consider what may be at stake. If France is beaten in a struggle of life and death, beaten to her knees, loses her position as a great Power, becomes subordinate to the will and power of one greater than herself—consequences which I do not anticipate, because I am sure that France has the power to defend herself with all the energy and ability and patriotism which she has shown so often—still if that were to happen, and if Belgium fell under the same dominating influence, and then Holland and then Denmark, then would not Mr. Gladstone's words come true, that just opposite to us there would be a common interest against the unmeasured aggrandisement of any Power?

"It may be said, I suppose, that we might stand aside, husband our strength, and, whatever happened in the course of this war, at the end of it intrevene with effect to put things right and to adjust them to our own point of view. If in a crisis like this we ran away from those obligations of honor and interest as regards the Belgian Treaty, I doubt whether whatever material force we might have at the end it would be of very much value in face of the respect that we should have lost. At the end of this war, whether we have stood aside or whether we have been engaged in it, I do not believe for a moment—even if we had stood aside and remained aside—that we should be in a position, a material position, to use our force decisively to undo what had happened in the course of the war, to prevent the whole of the west of Europe opposite to us, if that had been the result of the war, falling under the domination of a single Power, and I am quite sure that our moral position would be such—" (The rest of the sentence was lost, says the Times, in a loud outburst of cheering.)

PROHIBITION IN RUSSIA

The suppression of the vodka traffic in the Russian army is one of the wonderful results of the great temperance movement in Russia inaugurated about a year ago by the Czar's order for closing the Government liquor shops. In pursuance of that decree the Russian governor of Galicia has issued orders threatening with death anyone giving liquor to soldiers. Such strict enforcement of abstinence is in remarkable contrast to the conditions that existed among the Russians in the Japanese War in 1905. Writing afterward about it General Kuropatkin, the unfortunate head of the army in Manchuria, said that the Government was largely responsible for the Russian defeat, because it had sold liquor to the troops to raise war revenues. The national budget that preceded the war was the "Drunken Budget." Said General Kuropatkin: "Such an indecent and disgusting picture as that presented by the transport of drunken reservists to the front was never before seen in all history. When the military authorities asked to have the dram shops closed upon the route followed by the troops, they received a categorical refusal. It was a 'drunken mobilization.' "

The vastly improved efficiency of the Russian troops in the campaign against the Germans is partly to be credited to the regime of temperance that has coninued in Russia for the last year or so. It is reported that Russian troops marched 125 miles from Jaroslaw, in Galicia, to a position near the Vistula in six days, and took the Germans by surprise in the rear. The whole social and economic fibre of Russia has improved with the passing of the vodka monoply. It has been easier to enforce abstinence in a Russian liquor-using population than it would be among Anglo-Saxons, because the Russian is accustomed to subordinate his personal liberty to those in authority. He is much more easily controlled individually. But Russian autocracy has, in this respect, been a signally good thing for the Russian people, and incidentally good for the other allies, and ominous for Germany.—Mail and Empire.

CURRENT COMMENT

Toronto News: "The Liberal politicians would not have such mortal fear of a general election if they could forget their action on the emergency naval proposals."

An Ottawa dairy company, it is declared, has decided to reduce the price of milk delivered to its customers. The action, it is said, was taken in view of economic conditions. The specifications of management of Ottawa milk companies should be interesting to study. They are evidently drawn on different lines from those of the combinaiton which Bellevillians have to sustain.

The Grain Growers' Guide says: "A year ago everybody shouted to the farmers 'You must get into mixed farming;' to-day these same advisers shout 'You must grow more wheat.' " Well, what fault is there to find? Surely mixed farming is the sound permanent policy for Canadian farmers, just as during the war farmers will increase their own profits and strengthen the Empire by increasing grain production. The war, as The Guide might have said: is the difference.

President Poincare of France, has signed a decree modifying the moratorium proclaimed on August 31 and providing for a gradual return to normal financial conditions. Bank depositors will be allowed to draw 1,000 francs ($200) plus 40 per cent. of the balnace in November and this percentage will be increased to 50 per cent. in December. The collection of commercial debts except those of mobolized soldiers may be prosecuted after December 1 in case the debtor invokes the moratorium in bad faith.

Borrowed Books.

To have a book that one has lent returned in a thumbed and dog eared condition makes you "see red," more especially if you afterward find that it has been handed round among the friends of the borrower. It's such a cheek to lend a book belonging to another person!

It is bad form to treat a book badly, no matter whether it is yours or not. Even with a library book don't turn down pages. It is so easy to mark one's place in some other way.

The LAPSE of ENOCH WENTWORTH

By ISABEL GORDON CURTIS

Author of "The Woman from Wolvertons"

COPYRIGHT, 1914 BY F. G. BROWNE & CO.

He was aroused by a clatter of dishes. The waiter set the breakfast before him. As he ate he laid a morning paper on the table and began to read; there had been no chance earlier in the day to glance at it. The first thing his eye fell upon was a column about "The House of Esterbrook." The public seemed to await the production with unusual anticipation. Merry had the enthusiastic following which is so often bestowed upon an erratic, lovable genius. Wentworth's fame as a journalist was of long standing, and Oswald, Englishman as he was, had already won friends among newspaper men. Wentworth read it quickly, then he turned to the news of the day. Nothing interested him—the sparkle had gone out of life as the bead dies on champagne. He drank a second, then a third cup of strong coffee, which acted upon him as whisky does on some men.

When he climbed the uneven steps of the sidewalk the world had grown sunnier; there was a future before him, fame, riches, and the applause of millions. He reached Third avenue, ran up the stairs to the elevated, and, puffing slowly at a cigar, gazed on the rush of life below. He was deliberating how it was best to approach Merry on the subject of changing that second act. Oswald was a keen critic, and Enoch had seen the necessity of it himself; it was the one weak spot in the play. From the moment when he burned the labor of half a lifetime he realized his own incapacity for playwriting. He himself could do nothing to the drama, but he felt a chill of terror at the thought of speaking to Merry on the subject.

CHAPTER XI.

The Volks.

A city's electric lights were beginning to blaze through the twilight when Wentworth knocked at the door of Merry's dressing room.

"Come!" cried the actor sharply.

As Enoch entered he felt a throb of longing for the old warm friendship. Andrew's face paled for a moment as he looked up at his visitor. He nodded but did not speak. Kelly, who acted as Merry's valet during his prosperous seasons, lifted a heap of garments from a chair and set it before Enoch, who took it in silence. Andrew sat staring into a mirror while he experimented with a make-up for the broken-down convict in the third act. He dashed line after line into his face, blending each lightly into the grease paint. Nobody spoke—even Kelly seemed to have fallen under the spell of quiet. He knelt on the floor polishing shoes with stolid industry. Enoch wondered curiously what the keen old Irishman was thinking. He had known nothing between them but a most fraternal friendship. The silence became oppressive. At last Wentworth spoke.

"Are you going to be alone soon, Merry? I want to have a talk with you about business."

Andrew did not look up while he answered carelessly, "I'll be alone in a few minutes. Kelly has an errand to do at the tailor's. You may go now," he added, nodding to the valet; "there's no hurry about the shoes."

When the old man shut the door behind him Andrew did not turn his gaze from the mirror. The reflection of Wentworth's face was close beside his own. He could see that his visitor was ill at ease.

"Well?" he said interrogatively.

"Can't you turn round and face me while we talk?" asked the elder man impatiently.

Andrew wheeled about and his eyes met Wentworth's calmly. "Certainly, I can face you."

The red surged into Enoch's face, then hard lines wrinkled about his mouth. His mood had changed. He spoke with brutal conciseness.

"Oswald and I have decided that there ought to be a few changes made in the text of—the play."

"Of your play," corrected Merry.

"There is one weak point in it," Enoch went on deliberately. "'Mrs. Esterbrook' draws on the sympathy of the audience for a few moments when 'Cordelia' leaves her. A woman of that caliber could have no such feeling."

"No?"

"No," Wentworth repeated the word almost furiously. He began to twist his hands.

"I suppose that act ought to be rewritten."

"Not rewritten, simply elaborated. Strike out some lines, put in others."

"Why don't you do it?"

"Why don't I do it?" Enoch jumped to his feet shaken by a sudden impulse of rage. "That's a nice question to ask me."

"It has never seemed to me there was anything particularly nice in the whole situation." Andrew's tones were on a calm level.

"We'll leave that out of the question—altogether," growled Wentworth. "I should never have intruded upon you but for this reason. You can see the exigencies of the case. You've got to retouch the play."

"I will not lay a pen to the play." Andrew turned as if the conversation were at an end and began to pencil careworn wrinkles on his cheeks.

Enoch tipped his chair back against the wall, put his feet on the rungs, and began to think. Nobody knew so well as he that one faced a barricade with Merry in a doggedly obstinate mood. Inwardly he was at white heat; the blind groping hope for reconciliation was at an end; still he knew if he ever needed diplomacy it was now. If he were to precipitate a storm, Merry was capable of flinging over his engagement at the last moment.

"Let me explain," began Wentworth laboriously. A tap at the door interrupted him. It was opened and Oswald stepped in. He seated himself on the edge of a trunk.

"Have you mentioned to Mr. Merry the suggestion I made about the second act?" he asked, turning to Wentworth.

"We were discussing it when you came in."

"What do you think of it, Merry?"

"I really have not had time to give it a thought." Andrew looked uninterested. "Besides, you know I do not come into that act, and I have scarcely seen it rehearsed." He picked up a towel and began to wipe the make-up off his face.

"It is simply this. 'Mrs. Esterbrook' is an utterly heartless woman. Dead to conscience as she is at the beginning, she comes out of her life's tragedy calloused beyond all redemption. It strikes a false note to have her repent for even a second. She does not know what mother-love or love of any sort means. With her last exit she ought to leave an audience hating and despising her. Now one feels a sudden touch of sympathy. She must be irredeemably bad. Then, too, it is not only true to the woman's character, but 'Cordelia' shines whiter against it."

Merry nodded. "You're right, I fancy. Wentworth has only to change a few lines to throw the whole thing plumb. You can do it in half an hour, old chap."

When Oswald turned to Wentworth he caught a look on the man's face that puzzled him, a flash of impotent rage, hate, and apprehension. Enoch realized he had revealed his soul for a moment. He picked up his hat and spoke brusquely. "You two finish talking it over, I have a thousand things to tend to."

"Is Wentworth—is [illegible] touchy? Did he feel that I was criticizing his play?" asked Oswald anxiously when the door closed with a hasty rap.

"I don't think it's that." Merry spoke slowly, then he dashed to another subject. "I want to consult you about changing one of the people in the cast, little Katie Durham."

"Oh, the child in the first act?"

"She's a bright enough youngster. She tells me she once got a hundred dollars a week in vaudeville as a toe dancer." Merry laughed. "A toe dancer scarcely fills the bill for the small 'Cordelia.'"

"She struck me in rehearsal this morning as lacking in something."

"She is lacking in everything. She's a stilted, grown-up, little brat; there's nothing childlike about her. When she clings to my neck shrieking, 'Father,' in that ear-splitting baby pipe of hers, she jars every nerve in my body."

"Let her go. Only it is a problem where to find a sweet, natural stage child."

"I can lay my hands on one immediately," said Merry quietly. "It's a youngster who has never been behind the footlights in her life."

"Could you do anything with her in ten days?"

"I should like to try. She's a gentle, refined, sweet-voiced little girl; besides, she has dramatic blood in her—that always tells. Do you remember George Volk?"

"George Volk! Why, of course," cried Oswald after a moment's hesitation. "What ever became of the man? Did he die?"

"Nobody knows." Merry's voice had a bitter tone in it. "Better for some people if he had died. This little Julie I want a chance for is his child."

"Where is Volk?"

"I can't tell you. If he's alive he must be far down by this time. He was a wretched sot when I saw him last."

"By Jove! what an impetuous stage lover he did make! I saw him in a big production the first time I came to America, then in London. He was the handsomest man that ever stepped on the stage."

"A handsome piece of beef! Ten years ago he married one of the sweetest, most loyal women I ever knew. She was on the stage, but she never won much notice. Her work was so quiet and delicate that she appealed to the few. She was in a company with me for two seasons. How Volk made her suffer! The beast!"

"Is she alive?"

"Yes. I hadn't heard of the Volks for years. I was going home last night when a woman touched me on the arm. She was lame and looked ill. A little girl clung to her. I did not know her. 'I'm Alice Volk,' she said. I put them in a cab and took them up to Harlem, to the best old woman in the world."

"Are they in want?" asked Oswald

"They were starving, in rags and shoeless. The child pulled at my heart strings. She isn't quite seven and small for her age, but the way she cares for the poor, crippled little mother—" Andrew laid a gray wig upon his knee and began to brush it vigorously. "I don't want to throw this Durham youngster out of a job, though, simply because I can't endure her. She's common as dirt, but she can't help it. Have you seen the mother?"

"Yes," said Oswald gravely.

"What feazes me is how we could delude an audience into believing that this sharp-nosed, uncanny-looking shrill-tongued little ape could develop into Miss Wentworth's 'Cordelia.' They're different breeds entirely."

"You're right." Oswald's voice was emphatic. "I don't know why I did not see it. Perhaps because the child has little to do except to follow her father about."

"It's that following the father about which I mean to make the strongest point in the first act."

"Engage the child immediately."

"I'll have to do diplomatic work to get her."

"How?"

"Alice Volk would rather starve than let her child go on the stage. She has been hoping we might find a small part for herself which she could play—crippled."

"Poor soul."

"I hinted that we might give the little Julie a chance. She snatched the child away as if she thought I meant to kidnap her. When a woman has seen the seamy side of life as she has—you understand."

Oswald nodded gravely. "We must find a way to get around her."

Merry sat writing a letter in the manager's office the next afternoon when Oswald entered, accompanied by Dorcas.

"I want you to tell Miss Wentworth of it about the little Volk girl," said the Englishman. "I have enlisted her sympathy. If the mother felt that some woman here would be interested in the child she might change her mind."

"I'll do anything I can," said Dorcas heartily. "I am glad you are making a change. It will improve the first act wonderfully to have the child sweet and real. Then," the girl laughed in a half-embarrassed way, "did you ever look at a picture of yourself when you were at the tadpole age and wonder if it could have possibly been you? That has been my frame of mind since I laid eyes on the little 'Cordelia.'"

"I don't blame you," Oswald smiled. "I can't imagine why we made such a blunder. Merry puts it just the way you do."

"Thank you, Mr. Merry." Dorcas turned to the actor with a grateful smile. "I am ready to go with you any time to see Mrs. Volk."

Dorcas had a new insight in Merry's character when she found how his friends held him in esteem. There was not a touch, in Mrs. Billerwell's greeting, of hero worship or deference to the man who had won fame. It was merely a droll blend of loving devotion and motherly tyranny.

Merry jumped to his feet when Mrs. Volk entered, with Julie clinging shyly to her gown. Dorcas felt instantly a throb of sympathy and warm friendship. Merry had told her something of the pitiful story on the way uptown.

"You said once, Miss Dorcas," he reminded her, "that you were never so happy as when you had some one to mother. Alice Volk needs mothering. I doubt if she has a friend in the world except Mother Billerwell and myself. Mrs. Billerwell is pure gold, but Alice needs a woman like you."

Half an hour later they waited on the platform of an L station for a downtown train. They had scarcely spoken since leaving the Harlem house. Merry realized how deeply the girl's heart had been stirred. They entered the train and took a seat together in silence. She sat gazing at the city below. Then she turned suddenly.

"Little Julie is to begin rehearsals tomorrow morning," she said. "The mother made only one condition: they are to be known under another name. She is in terror lest her husband finds them."

"That's all right, but do you think the child can play the small 'Cordelia?'" asked Merry anxiously.

"You can do anything you wish with that child. She has a soul and sweetness, and she understands. There is something in her—we call it magnetism in older people—which will reach across the footlights and grip every man and woman in the audience. The child will help me wonderfully. Now I won't have to create a new 'Cordelia' when I come on the stage. My 'Cordelia' is simply the little girl grown older and wiser, with more love for her father and a larger knowledge of life."

"You understand perfectly."

"You and I ought to understand 'Cordelia' if any one could."

Dorcas sat in silence while they rushed over the lighted city with its insistent glimpses of sordid life. Merry saw her chin tremble once and her eyes grow misty; then she spoke suddenly: "She must have lived through awful experiences."

"Alice Volk has seen the very depths. She suffered more than misery and neglect; there was actual brutality. I knew her before Volk came into her life. She played with the first New York company I was in. She was the gayest little creature then you can imagine—a whimsical, laughing, carefree, happy child."

"Gay!" Dorcas spoke incredulously. "The gaiety has gone."

"It has been wrung out of her."

"I never had a real woman friend except the sisters at the convent," said Dorcas. "I think Alice Volk and I will be friends. We can help each other."

"Each other? I had not thought of it in that way. Your friendship will mean a great deal to her. It is like reaching out a hand to some one who is drowning."

"Alice Volk is different from any one I ever met. When little Julie ran out to speak to you, I followed her. The mother laid her hand on my arm, drew me back into the room, then she closed the door and kissed me. She did not say a word. Any other woman would have kissed me while I was saying 'Good-by,'—before you and Mrs. Billerwell. She does unexpected things that cannot help drawing one to her."

"Poor soul!" said Merry.

The conductor entered, shutting the door behind him with a crash. "Twenty-third street!" he called.

"Let us get off and have dinner somewhere," suggested the actor. "I want to talk to you—for hours."

CHAPTER XII.

A Prima Donna of the Past.

Dorcas and Merry paused for a moment before a flight of steps which led up to what had once been a fine private residence. Its exclusive days were past; it was beckoning with a garish blaze of light to every passer-by. Through the open door came strains from the overture to "William Tell."

"What a queer place," said the girl.

"You can't realize its queerness until we are inside. The crowd that gathers here is as motley as any you find in New York."

For Hair Health

If Rexall "93" Hair Tonic does not improve the health of your scalp and hair, we will pay for what you use during the trial.

We could not so strongly endorse Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and continue to sell it to the same people if it did not do all we claim. Should it not prove entirely satisfactory our customers would lose faith in us, we would lose their patronage, and our business would suffer.

If your hair is falling out or you suffer any scalp trouble, we believe Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will do more to eradicate the dandruff, give health to the scalp, stimulate new hair growth and prevent premature baldness than any other human agency.

We want you to make us prove this. We ask you to risk no money whatever. Buy a bottle of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic, use it according to directions for thirty days; then if you are not entirely satisfied, come and tell us and we will promptly hand back the money you paid us for it.

We won't ask you to sign anything, nor even to bring the bottle back. We won't obligate you in any way. We will take your mere word. Could anything be more fair? Could we do anything more to prove our belief in Rexall "93" Hair Tonic, and our honesty of purpose in recommending it to you?

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is as pleasant to use as spring water and has but a faint, pleasing odor. It comes in two sizes of bottles, 50c and $1.00.

You can buy Rexall "93" Hair Tonic in this community only at our store:

TORTURED BY CONSTIPATION

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured Paralyzed Bowels and Digestion

ST. BONIFACE DE SHAWINIGAN, QUE.
Feb. 3rd, 1914.

"It is a pleasure to me to inform you that after suffering from Chronic Constipation for 2½ years, I have been cured by "Fruit-a-tives". While I was a student at Berthier College, I became so ill I was forced to leave the the college. Severe pains across the intestines continually tortured me and it came to a point when I could not stoop down at all, and my Digestion became paralyzed. Some one advised me to take "Fruit-a-tives" and at once I felt a great improvement. After I had taken four or five boxes, I realized that I was completely cured and what made me glad, also, was that they were acting gently, causing no pain whatever to the bowels. All those who suffer with Chronic Constipation should follow my example and take "Fruit-a-tives" for they are the medicine that cures".

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. or sent postpaid on receipt of price, by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

A little brief authority or a few dried apples will puff a small man up to the limit.

If people don't take the trouble to flatter you they have no immediate use for you.

One of the things that makes a man conceited about his wisdom is the lack

A Great, Big, Capable Stove

YOU don't buy many stoves in a lifetime. Many people buy but one. A stove is an important purchase. It involves considerable money.

A stove that's not capable makes cooking a dread and a drudge—but still, meals you must have 3 times a day the year round. So choose your stove carefully. What has the Gurney-Oxford Stove to offer? First of all, it's a big, heavy, capable stove. It has the lasting qualities of an heirloom. It's a capacious stove, the top is broad and deep, the ovens are high and wide and deep. The grates of the Gurney-Oxford give the fire every chance to breathe. The combustion is perfect: this means the most heat from the least coal—in other words, economy. The heat goes all around the oven in flues, not over it and up the chimney to waste. There are no cold corners in a Gurney-Oxford oven.

Then, there's the Gurney-Oxford Economizer, the greatest single improvement in stove-making of a decade. The drafts are all on the chimney, regulated by one handle. Notch No. 6 will keep the fire down to a veritable spark between meals. Notch No. 1 brings it back to life, and the oven to the desired temperature. Don't buy a stove for looks only. Don't buy it simply on price. Buy it for what it will do; how it will cook; how it will last; the satisfaction it will give. The Gurney-Oxford from every standpoint is a capable stove for 3-times-a-day satisfaction and economy.

Bible is Proving Great Educator

Handsomely Illustrated Edition Given to Readers is Particularly Valuable.

In these days of honoring the memory of illustrious men who have gone before by celebrating the anniversaries of their natal days, or by setting aside special holidays in their honor, one is likely to overlook other important anniversaries.

Last year marked the three hundredth anniversary of the authorized version of the Bible. This event is now most fittingly celebrated by presenting the New Illustrated Bible to our readers. This The Intelligencer is doing in its great education distribution, and today's certificate is printed on another page of to-day's issue. The entire plan is fully explained thereunder. Turn to the certificate; clip it at once, and you had better present it as soon as possible, for this edition will not last long at the rate they are going.

This Bible is actually needed in every family, no matter how many Bibles may be already possessed. By its use children will learn the habit of Bible reading, being attracted by the wealth of graphic illustrations, so full of meaning to the child mind. Young men and young young women will find inspiration in the subjects which are illumined by this superb gallery of art. Even the best remembered texts shine with renewed radiance in the light of these eye teaching pictures.

One does not need to belong to church to acquire knowledge and fully enjoy this magnificent volume. In itself it is an educational work of rare value, for the illustrations portray scenes and clearly set forth historical facts that are interesting as well as instructive to all.

Present your certificate to-day and be among the favored ones.

Entitles bearer to this $5.00 Illustrated Bible

If presented at the office of this newspaper, together with the stated amount that covers the necessary EXPENSE items of this great distribution—including clerk hire, cost of packing, checking, express from factory, etc., etc.

MAGNIFICENT ILLUSTRATED $5 Edition of the BIBLE (like illustration in announcements from day to day) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin bible paper, flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. 6 Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount EXPENSE Items

The $8 ILLUSTRATED BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5 book, except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. 6 consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount EXPENSE Items

Also an Edition for Catholics

Through an exclusive arrangement, we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

MUST DESTROY BRITISH FLEET

The Only Way, Pantaleoni Thinks, to Avert Germany's Ruin

ROME, Oct. 26—Signor Pantaleoni, a leading Italian economist, examining the probable financial situation of the belligerents at the end of the war, considers that Germany and Austria, whether vanquished or victorious, will be ruined. Unless Germany destroys the British fleet Germany will have lost her colonies, her predominant commercial position in China, and her trade with America.

Great Britain will be all right in any case unless her fleet is destroyed. She will have German trade and German colonies. Her mines and factories will be uninjured. She will be a still greater colonial power and also a great military power as soon as her army is ready.

Scott Liked Work Pressure.

Scott, who was poet, novelist, lawyer, too, would have been greatest of all as journalist. Listen to this from his journal for Feb. 15, 1826: "Yesterday I did not write a line of 'Woodstock.' Partly, I was a little out of spirits. * * * Partly, I wanted to wait for some new ideas. * * * Partly, I was a little too far beyond the press. I cannot pull well in long traces, when the draft is too far behind me. I love to have the press thumping, clattering and banging in my rear. It creates the necessity which almost makes me work best. Needs must when the devil drives." * * * There is the very spirit of journalism, and that devil surely is the printer's devil!—London Standard.

RESIGNED TO LONG WAR.

Ex-President Fallieres Says France Is Not Discouraged.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—That the war is only beginning is the opinion expressed by Armand Fallieres, ex-President of France, in an interview published by the newspaper France de Bordeaux, says a despatch to the Havas News Agency from the French temporary seat of government.

"Months and months," M. Fallieres says, "will be required to overcome the military power of the enemy, but this does not produce discouragement in France. Our country has acquired the new virtue of constancy in effort.

"We shall certainly be victorious, for without reckoning our ardent patriotism and our inexhaustible moral and material resources, we have on our side Russia and Great Britain, with her strength and her tenacity, and Belgium as well as Servia; and, finally, we possess the moral support of entire humanity, which loves the ideal of liberty."

ASSASSINS SENTENCED.

Austrian Enquiry Into Death of Archduke and Wife Ends.

SARAYENO, Bosnia, Oct. 29.—(Via Amsterdam to London.)—Judgment was passed yesterday on the assassins of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir apparent to the Austro-Hungarian throne, and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg.

Gavrio Prinzip, the actual assassin, escaped with a sentence to imprisonment for 20 years. Four of the conspirators were sentenced to death by hanging, one to life imprisonment, two, including Medeljo Gabrinovic, who threw a bomb at the archduke but which did not explode, to 20 years, one to 16 years, one to 13 years, two to 10 years, one to seven years, and two to three years.

The other defendants were acquitted.

Villages Shattered.

LONDON, Oct. 29. — The Times' correspondent in Belgium wires the following:

"Observation from a British captive balloon has revealed how effective has been the fire of the British warships on Ostend, Middlekerk, Lombaertayde and other coast villages. Not a single wall remains standing in the villages of Westkerke, Slype and Novis. Several other villages are also in ruins. All this damage was caused by the artillery of the British ships."

Masses of Troops Easily Seen.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The correspondent of The Daily Mail in Paris, in a despatch to his paper, gives a copy of the German order on avoiding aeroplanes. It says:

"According to the report of aeroplane observers, our troops are very easy to discover in spite of their grey uniforms, because of the density of their formation, while the French know how to protect themselves perfectly from aerial reconnaisance."

Nova Scotia Changes Gift.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The War Office has informed the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada, that as it has been found impracticable for the Government of Nova Scotia to make the proposed gift of $100,000 tons of coal to the Home Government, His Majesty's Government has accepted the offer of $100,000 which will go to the Prince of Wales' fund for the relief of distress.

PRINCE MAURICE KILLED.

Youngest Son of Princess Henry of Battenberg Dead In France.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Prince Maurice of Battenberg, a cousin of King George, and a son of Princess Henry of Battenberg, has been killed on the battlefield in France. He was an officer of the King's Royal Rifle Corps. Prince Maurice was the first member of the British royal family to be killed in the present war. It was reported that the prince was not actually killed on the battlefield, but that he died afterwards from wounds received in an engagement.

Prince Maurice Victor Donald of Battenberg was the youngest son of Prince Henry of Battenberg, who married Princess Beatrice, a sister of the late King Edward. The prince was the brother-in-law of King Alfonso of Spain. He was 23 years of age, and since 1911 had been a second lieutenant in the King's Royal Rifle Corps.

BOTHA DEALS SWIFTLY WITH REBEL LEADER

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The following official statement was issued last night regarding the rebellion in the Union of South Africa:

"Gen. Botha reports that he left Rustenberg (a district in the west part of the Transvaal colony) on Tuesday morning and proceeded in the direction in which Gen. Christian Beyers, with his commando, was supposed to be. He came in touch with Gen. Beyers' men in the forenoon and drove them in headlong rout the whole of the day and captured eighty of them, fully armed.

"In the fighting which took place towards the end of the pursuit one of Gen. Botha's men and several of Beyers' commando were wounded.

"When the report was made, the pursuit was still in progress."

The greater part of Africa has been drawn into the conflict. It is reported that the Germans have invaded Angola, one of Portugal's African possessions; that there has been fighting on the borders of the German and British colonies in that continent and that the British and the Germans have been having more skirmishes.

The invasion of Angola was not unexpected, for Portugal had declared her intention of helping the allies, and, in view of the possibility of a German attack on her colonies, had sent reinforcements to her garrisons. Portugal, if the report of the German invasion is true, is the nineth nation to be drawn into the war, and there is still danger of others following.

ALLIES RICH IN MEN

Britain and France Have 2,500,000 Soldiers Drilling.

There Are Now a Million and a Half Men in Great Britain and Lord Kitchener Has Issued a Call For Another Hundred Thousand—France Announces a Reserve of a Million Being Drilled in Camps.

LONDON, Oct. 29. — The British army on rolls and drilling in the United Kingdom, now amounts to approximately one and a half million men. Of this total about 800,000 men belong to what is termed "Kitchener's Army"—men who have responded to his two calls for 500,000 soldiers to serve three years, or for the duration of the war. About 600,000 belong to the territorials, while the remainder are enrolled with the special reserves, so-called, or with the regular army, and have seen service previously.

The territorials are considered the flower of the force, as a great majority of them belong to the middle and upper classes, and are men accustomed to athletic pursuits. Both physically and mentally they are considered by military men to be about the finest body of its numbers ever assembled under arms.

The Canadian and other overseas contingents are not included in this total.

Lord Kitchener issued an urgent appeal yesterday for 100,000 more men. He says the War Office machinery, which was somewhat clogged by the sudden creation of a new army of 500,000, is now reorganized. The minimum height for men has been reduced to 5 feet 4 inches, and the age limit raised to thirty-eight.

All fear of the numerical strength of the allies being insufficient to check the invaders are set at rest by a statemen of Gen. Cherfils, who says hat France still has in reserve more than 1,000,000 men who have not been under fire. He declares that the number of volunteers is so large that there is no immediate use for all of those who wish to enlist. It is known that every drill sergeant who can be spared from the fighting line is hammering such of these volunteers as are accepted into fighting units. Great concentration camps are located at many points in southern France.

CANADIANS FOR BOTHA.

Force May Be Sent To Aid In Crushing De Wet's Revolt.

OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—While no official communications have passed on the subject, it is considered here not at all improbable that Canadian troops may be sent to South Africa to help put down the rebellion in which Generals De Wet and Beyers with their followers have now joined, as well as to uphold British arms against the Germans in Southwest Africa. Canada could send a considerable force of mounted infantry such as are needed in that country. There are thousands of men in the West who are eager to go to the front, and would probably be just as willing to fight for the British cause in South Africa as in Europe.

The greatest difficulty in sending early assistance to Premier Botha and his Government would be that of providing the equipment. This would be rushed with all speed, however, once a decision were made, and if the present trouble were prolonged, as in the former war, the Canadian forces would be in time to render effective aid.

Cargoes To Go Secretly.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29. — Steps were taken yesterday by Secretary McAdoo to prevent information relating to outgoing cargoes outbound from ports of the United States getting to belligerent nations through agents in this country. The Secretary sent the following instructions to customs collectors:

"Until further directed you will refrain from making public or giving out to any other than duly authorized officers of the Government information regarding any and all outward cargoes and the destination thereof until thirty days after the date of the clearance of the vessel or vessels carrying such cargoes."

Belgians Defeated Germans.

PARIS, Oct. 29. — A Mavre despatch to The Matin reports that M. Tombeut, vice-governor-general of Katengain, Belgian Congo, announces that Belgian troops, commanded by Resident Commissioner Henry, completely defeated the Germans at Kisenie, on Lake Tanganyika, which lies between Belgian Congo and German East Africa.

German Bomb Annoys Swiss.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—A Havas News Agency despatch from Belfort says that a German aeroplane which flew over the fortress of Belfort on Friday and into Swiss territory dropped a bomb which fell on Switzerland. Much irritation, it is added, was caused there against Germans by the incident.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Altho wheat showed strength for most of the time today prices melted rapidly in the last half hour of the session. The turn in favor of the bear side was due to selling by speculators, who found the market temporarily without support. Heaviness ruled at the close, which varied from ⅝c to ¾c under last night. Corn finished unchanged to ⅛c higher, oats off ⅛c to ¼c, and provisions strung out from 35c decline to a rise of 22½c.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Oct. 28.—That the British Government in its purchase of war materials intends, whenever possible, to secure goods made within the empire, was demonstrated yesterday by an incident at the local purchasing headquarters.

At the Windsor Hotel, among other callers upon Frederick Stobart, British war office representative, were representatives of two American firms. After stating their object in calling they were met pleasantly but firmly with the remark that:

"As far as possible all the business to be given out will go to Canadian firms. It would, therefore, be wasting your own time as well as ours for you to talk over these orders. Canadian houses will be looked after first; if we cannot secure anything here we will advise you."

CHEESE MARKETS.

MADOC, Ont., Oct. 28.—On today's cheese board 600 boxes of cheese were offered and all sold at 14⅝c.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Oct. 28.—On today's cheese board the offerings were 1150 boxes of colored, 14⅝c being bid, with no sales.

Over 5,000 hogs have been slaughtered in Essex and Kent Counties since the outbreak of the present epidemic of hog cholera, the worst in the history of the district.

Prof. Kalmus and a number of students are conducting experiments at Queen's University for the Government, to ascertain the quantities of potash in the feldspar in Frontenac County.

Announcement that the Iron Cross had been bestowed upon the King of Bavaria and the King of Wurtemburg by Emperor William because of the bravery of their soldiers was made yesterday.

Two Japanese steamers have been blown up thus far and a third damaged, while engaged in removing German mines, several thousand of which were laid off the German possession of Kiaochau.

James W. Gerard, the American Ambassador to Germany has succeeded in securing from the German Government the lifting of the embargo placed upon 1,000 tons of potash destined for America for the glass factories.

Cosmo Cartwright, aged 32, graduate of Queen's University in mining, and a son of Rev. C. E. Cartwright, a former chaplain of the penitentiary, is dead at Kingston. He was a nephew of the late Sir Richard Cartwright.

A Daily Mail special from Flushing says: "The German losses on the Nieuport-Dixmude line are estimated at 16,000 killed and 30,000 wounded. During Sunday 400 vehicles loaded with wounded soldiers passed through Ostend."

Battle In North a Massacre.

GENEVA, Oct. 29.—(Via Paris.)—Telegrams received in Basle, Switzerland, Tuesday night from Cologne and Coblenz declare that the war on the German right flank from Lille to the North Sea has become a massacre. During the last six days, it is declared, many thousands of Germans have been killed or wounded.

Long trains containing wounded continue to pour into Cologne, Duesseldorf and Coblenz, and the Red Cross doctors and hospitals in these places are overwhelmed, it is stated.

FERRY SERVICE

Next spring, when navigation opens, will see another change as to the placing of steamers on new lines. It is said the steamer Aletha, which for several years has plied between Kingston and the Bay of Quinte ports, has been selected to do other work next year as a ferry down the St. Lawrence river a few miles below Quebec. —Brockville Times.

KEEP THURSDAY, NOV. 5 CLEAR

Mr. W. S. Herrington, K.C., the brilliant Historian of Napanee has kindly consented to deliver an illustrated lecture on Belgian and the Seat of War, and the origin and progress of the war, in the City Hall on the evening of Thursday November 5th. Appropriate music—solos and choruses—will be rendered and realistic views (including some of our own Belleville boys) will be shown. While this evening's entertainment is under the auspices of the Women's Canadian Club the members of which on presentation of membership cards will be admitted free, the general public will be asked for a contribution of twenty five cents admission, and the proceeds will be entirely devoted to the Patriotic Fund. Mr. Herrington has addressed crowded audiences at Napanee and Kingston. The cause is worthy. Give it and the able lecturer a bumper house. Remember the date, Thursday, November 5th.

RESISTANCE IS BROKEN

Russians Secure Decisive Victory in Battle in Poland.

After Four Days' Fighting South of the Pilitza the Russians Have Inflicted a Severe Defeat on Austro-German Army—Enemy Fall Back In Disorder From Radom—Berlin Admits Having a Retreat.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 29.—The following official communication was issued yesterday from general headquarters:

"In the battle which has been in progress for four days south of the Pilitza river, in the forests on the line extending from the Bialogura (Bialobrez) to Glowaczow, Policzna and Janowlee, our troops have inflicted upon the Austro-German forces a severe defeat. Between the Pilitza and Glowaczow the heroic efforts of our troops definitely broke down on Oct. 26 the resistance of the 20th corps and the reserve guards corps of the Germans.

"On the centre, after fighting of an extremely desperate character, we succeeded in establishing a firm foothold on the border of a forest in the region of the Villages of Adamoff, Severinoff and Marianoff.

"On the left wing we captured by assault a defensive position established at Policzna and enveloped a portion of the Austrian troops near Berdzeje.

"On the night of Oct. 27 the enemy's corps fell back in disorder towards the line between Edlinsk, Radom and Ilja. We captured both cannons and prisoners.

"On the right bank of the Pilitza, on the front between Iejoff and Novomiasto, the fighting continued with the same desperation.

"In Galicia the battle is raging along the whole front of the River San. We have taken an additional ten officers and 500 men.

"South of Przemysl our troops are advancing at certain points.

"In East Prussia the enemy has violently bombarded our positions in the operations in the region of Dakalarjevo. Repeated attacks have been repulsed.

"The success which we have won to the south of the Pilitza, and the result of which was the retreat of the enemy on the main front, is of the very greatest importance."

Berlin Admits Defeat.

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—(Via Amsterdam and London.)—The German and Austrian troops in Poland, according to an official announcement issued in Berlin yesterday, have been forced to withdraw before fresh Russian forces advancing from Ivangorod, Warsaw and Novogeorgievsk, after having repulsed all former Russian attacks.

The official statement continued: "At first the Russians did not follow, and the withdrawal of our troops took place without difficulty. The reserve troops will change their formation according to the situation."

Radom Is Taken.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The correspondent of The Times at Warsaw has this to say of the campaign in Russian Poland:

"Radom, 57 miles south of Warsaw, was taken after a hard struggle, and large bodies of Russian cavalry occupied Lodz, 75 mile ssouthwest of Warsaw, yesterday, after considerable resistance."

why more and more people quit tea and coffee and use—

POSTUM

Once convinced that tea and coffee are actually harmful to health, few parents would give tea or coffee to their children, or drink it themselves.

What proof more convincing than the unnatural aches and pains that many tea and coffee drinkers suffer?

What proof more conclusive than the scores of expert medical and scientific opinions against tea and coffee?

Brain, Stomach, Heart, Liver and Kidneys are the first organs to be affected. Sometimes it shows in headache; often in nervousness, indigestion or heart disturbance; frequently in biliousness or disturbed vision.

Stop both tea and coffee ten days and use POSTUM

This pure food-drink made of prime wheat and a small per cent of wholesome molasses, has a delightful, snappy flavor and is absolutely free from the tea and coffee-drug, caffeine, or any other harmful ingredient.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c pkgs.

Instant Postum—needs no boiling. A teaspoonful of the soluble powder stirred in a cup of hot water makes a delightful beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

Grocers everywhere sell both kinds, and the cost per cup is about the same.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G.,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorised publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—64388.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.—Unauthorised publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—30690 dtf

SEIZURE OF LIQUOR MADE AT PORT WELLER

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 29.—Special—Although Port Weller has no liquor license there has been evidence of considerable drinking in the locality, and it is asserted that men under the influence of liquor have left the place after acquiring it during hours not possible to obtain it in licensed districts. This afternoon County License Inspector King paid a visit to the new port. Charles Kasstodt, Andrew Zebrin, Bell Greviskoch and Mike Sonz, alleged keepers of blind-pigs, have been summoned to appear before the magistrate here to-morrow.

HUMAN ATROCITY PROOFS

Worse Than the Iroquois of a Century Ago--Girls' Ears and Boys' Fingers Severed

OTTAWA, Oct. 28.—In view of the many incredible stores which have been published as to the mutilation of Belgian refugees by the Germans, a letter just received in Ottawa would seem to be ample verification.

The letter was received by Mr. A. G. Hutchins, of 19 Creighton street, this city from his mother, in which the writer states they now have three little Belgian refugees at their home in Preston, Rutlandshire, a section which has opened its doors to many of the homeless. Mr. Hutchins' mother's guests are one little girl and two boys, the ears of the little girl having been cut off, while the mutilation to the boys is in having had all their fingers severed. The writed of the letter pathetically remarks that her charges are doing exceedingly well, but the sight of a soldier causes the children to run to shelter of the house screaming with terror.

Got No Credit For Gold Deposit

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The British Foreign Office today gave a correspondent the following reply to the Hamburg-American Line's allegations that gold destined to pay travellers' checks held by Americans was seized by the British Government.

"No gold or credit balance belonging to the Hamburg-American Line has ever been commandeered or seized by His Majesty's Government."

It was also learned at the American Embassy that early in August representation was made to the British Foreign Office to know if money alleged to be on deposit to the credit of the Hamburg-American Company at a joint stock bank could be paid out to Americans holding the company's travellers' checks and return passages, and that the Foreign Office replied that upon investigation it had discovered that no balance exists to the Hamburg-American Company's credit, and consequently the question did not have to be decided.

Three weeks ago the Directors of the Hamburg-American line in New York sent out a signed statement to the effect that the fund to meet the travellers' checks and refunded for passage tickets to American travelers had been sent from Hamburg to the London office. This money has been seized in the bank by the British Government and confiscated in spite of the protests that it belonged to citizens of the United States.

An official of the line said last night that recently a clerk from the London office arrived in New York and told how the funds were seized in London by the Government, and this was confirmed, it was said, by Ludwig Nissen, who investigated for the American Relief Committee in London, and who has tried to get the money released and failed. No specified amount was mentioned in the statement given out by the Directors in New York.

THE REDINGOTE.

The revival of the redingote, so becoming to many figures, is heralded in this smart model and promises to be very popular this winter. There are many women who look their best in a plain well-tailored suit in which line is the noticeable feature. Such a suit is shown above. The high fur collar and cuffs lend it that air of smartness that so often makes a simple suit really distinguished in appearance. The underskirt is narrow and made of silk.

Special Inducements From The Dressmaking Parlors

YOUR NEW SUIT, COAT OR DRESS CUT AND FIRST FITTING FREE

DURING THE MONTH OF NOVEMBER we will cut and give the first fitting free on any Suit, Coat or Dress Material bought in the store that sells at $1.00 a yard or upwards. This is an offer that has no precedent in the Ritchie Store. When one considers that in the cutting and first fitting lies the style and success of your garment, you will undoubtedly make haste to take advantage of this very liberal offer, especially when we tell you that the cutting and fitting will be done personally by Miss Peterson, our capable dressmaking artist, and one of the best in her line. Although this offer will be good for the entire month of November, we would advise ladies to make the selection of their Suit, Coat, or Dress Material at once, while there is still a large and varied selection to choose from.

REMEMBER! This Offer Is Good On Any Material That Sells At $1.00 And Upwards.

GRMEANS ARE LEARNING

Use Bayonet More Freely, and the Shooting Is Improving

NORTHERN FRANCE, Oct. 29.—(Special.)—The Belgian soldiers tell me that the German infantry no longer appear to fear the bayonet charges, and make a far greater use of the bayonet themselves than formerly. Their rifle shooting has also improved. These are indications that they are learning from the allies as the war advances. At Ostend the Germans have forced and looted freely all the large houses that have remained unoccupied. They compelled most of the shops to open as usual.

$5,000,000 SENT BY MAIL

Gold Shipped from Philadelphia Mint to Boston Sub-Treasury

BOSTON, Oct. 28.—Five million dollars in gold came by parcel post to the United States Sub-Treasury in Boston to-day from the mint in Philadelphia. This was the first shipment of money by the Government by way of the parcel post system. The bags of gold were received in the South Station by Supt. Johnston of the United States Railway Mail Service, and a crew of four clerks. It took them several hours to unload the gold on to a regulation postal screen wagon, which carted it across the city to the Boston Federal Building.

It has been the custom of the Government to ship its money by express, but this experiment of sending it by parcel post has proved successful, and it is not improbable that the Treasury Department will use the mails from now on for this purpose.

Chances in the military uniforms throughout the world show a growing tendency to protect the soldier rather than making him a target.

Professor Has Good Conceit of Germans

"We are Morally and Intellectually Superior Beyond all Comparison"

KAISER LIGHT OF WORLD

Nation Sacrificies Its Noblest to Fight Russian Beasts, English Mercenaries, Belgian Fanatics

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Daily Chronicle publishes a translation of a letter written by Privy Councillor Dr. Adolf Lasson, professor of philosophy at the University of Berlin, to a friend in Holland. He says:

"For montns I have not written to a single foreigner; foreigner means enemy—dum probatur contarium—until the contrary is proved. No one can remain neutral to the German state and people. Either you consider it the most perfect creation that history has produced up to now, or you acquiesce in its destruction; nay, in its extermination.

"A man who is a German knows nothing of Germany. We are morally and intellecutally superior beyond all comparison as to our organizations and our institutions.

"Wilhelm II., deliciae generis Humani—(the light of the human race) —had in his possession a power with which he was in position to smash everything; yet [illegible] has always protected peace, justice, and honor. The greater his successes, the more devout and humble he has become."

"Our army is the epitome of German excellence. We must sacrifice our dearest, our best, our most noble, to fight with Russian beasts, English mercenaries, and Belgian fanatics. The French are the only opponents at all comparable with us.

"There shall be no peace until the three mischief-plotters who would not let Europe rest are completely subjugated. We want peace and safety for ourselves in order to be able to guarantee them for others. We wish to carry on untiringly our work of culture and peace.

"We have nothing to apologize for. We are no bully state. We threaten no one so long as we are not attacked. We do good deeds to all people. Louvain was not destroyed—only the houses of murderers. The cathedral of Rheims is not destroyed—the French caused the damage.

Woe Unto The English!

"England acts in politics as if we lived in the eighteenth century. Germany has taught the world how to carry on war and politics in a conscientious and proper manner. England will come to naught; France can still be saved, let us hope, but Russia must no longer be on our frontier. This time we will have a clean slate.

"Our real enemy is England. Woe unto the English. God is with us and the just cause."

The professor, dealing with Holland in another letter, says: "The kingdom of Holland lives an easy life at our expense. It lives on its old reputation and its old money bag, in complete historical nullity. Holland is a mere appendage to Germany, living a comfortable existence in dressing gown and slippers, taking little trouble and little thought. Holland is perfectly free as to its sentiments, but any action that might be hostile to the German Empire would have most dire consequences.

"We Germans have little esteem and less respect and sympathy for the Holland of the present day. Holland in its isolation sinks more and more into the dull narrow-mindedness that is the mark of small sects. Without its hold-on Germany, it would have long ago disappeared.

"God be praised that the Dutch are not our friends. We live in the free breath of history, and have nothing in common with this miserable bourgeois sentiment of theirs. We Germans have no friends anywhere, because we are efficient and morally superior to all. Those who cannot attain our moral strength are afraid of us and think us dangerous. We are the freest people of the earth, for we obey, and our law is reason."

MOBILIZATION BEGINS AT KINGSTON MONDAY, NOV. 2

Over Half the Required Number of Volunteers Have Already Enlisted from the Various Regiments

KINGSTON, Oct. 29.—It was officially announced at the militia headquarters on Wednesday morning that the men from the 3rd division, who have volunteered for overseas service, would commence to assemble in Kingston on Monday, Nov. 2nd.

Orders have been sent out to the officers commanding the different corps to have their men ready to leave for Kingston on Monday. Any of the corps who have not the required number of men by that date can send additional recruits to Kingston at a later date.

As soon as the men arrive in Kingston they will be quartered in the Armouries, the barracks and the cereal mill building.

On Tuesday morning a number of carpenters, employed by Campbell & Wright, contractors, commenced the work of putting up the bunks. Although the work was only commenced on Tuesday morning at nine o'clock 20 bunks were ready for use by the men of the 14th regiment on Tuesday night.

It has been arranged that 480 bunks will be built at Artillery Park barracks. The bunks are three deep. A mattress is supplied to each man. The barracks building, which is divided into four separate parts, will be well heated.

It is expected that about three or four hundred men will be quartered in the cereal mill, while the remainder will be put up at the armouries. The work of putting up the bunks will not require very long.

As soon as the volunteers arrive in Kingston they will be put under hard training under the direction of officers who have been selected to accompany the battalion. The work will be a great deal more thorough than what the first contingent received. The use of the bayonet will be taught to far greater extent.

Although the call for men was only sounded a few days ago the officers in command of the corps report that the response has been very good. Out of 1,000 men required the officers have been able to sign up about 650 men up until Tuesday noon, which is certainly a good showing.

The response from the officers has been so great that the commanding officer of the divison is experiencing difficulty in selecting the most qualified men for the position.

FRANCE'S BOY SOLDIER

Twelve-Year-Old Fought in Trenches at Namur.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—A [illegible] in the Petit Parisien says that he was challenged by two sentinels at the entrance to a village, one of whom was was surprised to see was a mere child, wearing the regulation uniform of a cuirassier. When questioned, the boy told the following story, which seems to justify his claim to be called the youngest soldier in France:

"I am twelve years old. My name is Paul Waterlin. I used to live at Creil, where I was a Boy Scout. Not wishing to live alone after my father, who is a non-commissioned officer in the 72nd artillery, went to the front—my mother has been dead a long time—I hid in a troop train which took me to Namur. There I picked up a wounded man's rifle and fought in the trenches. After that Col. de B—— of the Cuirassiers sent for me. He said I had done well and might stay with his regiment. He let me keep my rifle, and ordered that a horse be given me. Since then I have been through the battles of Denain, Meaux and the Marne, and I am going north very soon."

When asked how he liked the soldier's life, the boy said it was much better than living in houses, which many people who wished to adopt him tried to persuade him to do.

"At the end of our conversation," says the writer, "he lit a cigarette I proferred, blew a big cloud of smoke into the air, and cantered off, sitting on his horse with true soldierly smartness."

Tore Out the Ship's Bottom

Manchester Commerce Sank in Seven Minutes

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Additional details of the disaster to the steamship Manchester commerce which was sunk by a mine off the coast of Ireland yesterday, show that with a full crew of 44 the vessel was outward bound for Montreal, with a full cargo, when twenty miles by a quarter east of Tory Island she struck a mine. The ship's bottom was torn out, and she sank in seven minutes. One lifeboat got clear, and 27 members of the crew jumped into it. The captain tried to float a second lifeboat, but failed, and he with thirteen men perished. The chief officer, who leaped from the stern of the sinking ship, said that a terrific explosion tore the bottom out of the ship and she plunged bow on into the sea. He was rescued by the life-boat, which sailed for 42 miles before being picked up by the trawler Fleetwood near Blackpool. It is understood the cargo was not imported.

The Admiralty had instructed shipping that it should not pass within 60 miles of Tory Island, which is on the main trade route between Manchester and Canada.

NO PLACE FOR LIQUOR

Col. Hodgins Won't Have Canteen at Training Quarters

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 28.—Colonel W. E. Hodgins, officer commanding the First Military Division, declares that whiskey and military training cannot mix, and has decreed that there shall be no canteen at the training quarters here for the western Ontario regiment being prepared for the second contingent. Colonel Hodgins to-day ordered the rejection of a Galt volunteer, slated for the rank of Quartermaster-Sergeant, and a soldier of experience, who got intoxicated while off duty, and was landed in the police station.

SIGNALS OF DISTRESS

Canadian Press Despatch)

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Signals of distress have been sent up since last night off Whitby, on the Yorkshire coast, from a steamship believed to be the Rohilla, a British vessel of 70,000 tons being used as a hospital ship. The gale blowing, however, has caused such seas that the launching of life boats has been impossible.

Thinks Farmers Should Help Feed the Soldiers

Saskatchewan Man Makes a Novel Suggestion in Letter to General Hughes

FORAGE HORSES AS WELL

Would Call on Every Farmer Throughout Provinces to Give One Sack of Wheat and Oats

OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—The suggestion by a western farmer, born in the United States that every Canadian farmed be required to help feed the soldiers and horses of the Canadian expeditionary force has been received by the Minister of Militia.

Mr. S. B. Whitney, of Bruno, Sask., has addressed a communication to General Sam Hughes, in which he advocates such a course. The letter is as follows:

"Let me make a suggestion. Could you not make a draft on every resident farmer in all the provinces that they must help feed our soldiers and horses that have gone to the front to defend this land of shinshine.

"I think that no farmer is too poor to give, say, one sack of wheat of good grade and one sack of oats. I am a poor farmer with a large family, born in the United States, and have been in Canada five years. I would like to see my proposition in effect at an early date. Let me know how it could be done Let every farmer deliver to the the elevator a sack of each on a specified day, take receipt for same from agent to the Government. Make a demand that nothing less than Third Northern be accepted, this grain to feed men and horses."

COMPELLED TO WITHDRAW FROM LOW COUNTRY

PARIS, Oct. 30.—This afternoon's official announcement says the German forces which had passed over the River Yser had been compelled to withdraw, owing to inundations of low country accomplished by the Belgian army. Retreating the enemy suffered from atrillery fire. Violent attacks by Germans yesterday on the French and British corps advancing east and northeast of Ypres were repulsed and the advance continues. The British near La Brassee resumed offensive and regained the ground which they had lost to superior numbers, and at other points the British repulsed attacks of Germans, inflicting severe losses. Elsewhere engagements have been unimportant. The allies have almost everywhere made progress.

GREEK TROOPS ON THE MOVE

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Despatches from Paris last night indicate little change at the front. A Rome despatch states that the landing of twelve thousand Greek troops in Albany and the occupation of the southern part of the country has created great excitement.

It is stated that Great Britain and France will not support Greece in this move. A despatch from Havre says the Belgian Parliament will meet there in November.

BELLEVILLE CHEESE BOARD MEMBERS ENTERTAINED

Eighth Annual Banquet Given by Mr. J. Elliott of the Standard Bank—Helpful and Patriotic Addresses by the Host, Mr. J. W. Johnson, M. P. P., Captain Thompson, H. F. Ketcheson, and Others

The eighth annual banquet tendered to the members of the Belleville Cheese Board and other friends by Mr. John Elliott, the genial and popular manager of the Standard Bank, in this city, was held yesterday afternoon in the Anglo-American Hotel, and as usual, it was an unqualified success. The attendance was such as to fill the spacious dining room to overflowing and compelling a number to be sent to Hotel Quinte for their dinner. Mr. J. Harte, who conducts the well known Anglo-American Hotel, provided a most sumptuous repast, which all present thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, B.A., who has, since the inception of these annual events, occupied the position of toast-master, filled that position in his usual affable and admirable manner.

Mr. Elliott occupied the seat at the head of the table, and associated with him were Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., for West Hastings, Rev. Canon Beamish, Rector of St. Thomas' Church, Rev. Dr. Baker, Principal of Albert College; Mr. H. F. Ketcheson, President of the Belleville Board of Trade, and Captain Thompson, who is connected with the Provincial Department of Agriculture. Around the festive board were prominent yeomen of this section of the country.

After all present had done ample justice to the good things provided, a toast list was carried out. The addresses given were of a high order and patriotic in sentiment. This part of the proceedings was opened by the singing of the National Anthem, the accompaniment being played by Mrs Col. Campbell.

Mr. O'Flynn said that whilst it was a pleasure to greet all present and for him to preside for the eighth time over these annual gatherings, there was a feeling of solemnity, owing to the fact that Great Britain was at war. Canada, he was proud to say, was doing her share, and had already sent a large contingent of soldiers, and others would follow so long as the Motherland required them. (Applause) He referred to Mr. Elliott as not only a capable bank manager but one who took a great interest in agricultural matters and especially the cheese industry. He was indeed a most genial host and the Standard Bank made no mistake when they seat him to Belleville. The speaker then read a number of telegrams and letters from parties expressing regret at being unable to be present.

The Veteran Song was then rendered by Mr. E. V. Ilsey, of Trenton in a manner that captivated all present.

The toast of the host was next proposed.

Upon rising to speak Mr. Elliott was most cordially received by the company and he responded to the toast in his usual appropriate manner. He said it was a great pleasure for him from year to year to welcome his friends, the members of the Belleville Cheese Board. He regretted that all could not be accommodated. His uppermost thought was how could he compensate his many friends who had been so kind to him. Their kindness had prompted him to do more for the Belleville Cheese Board than he had been able to do in the past. He referred to his trip to the Motherland this summer and the pleasure it was to visit the three isles—England, Scotland and Ireland. Great Britain today was at war because she was defending the weak against the strong. Today Great Britain was honored as she never was before by the world. Canada has sent her sons and even her daughters to give their lives if necessary for the Motherland. In referring to the cheese industry Mr. Elliott said that in the old land Canada stood well and no part of Canada was greater than the Bay of Quinte district. At the Ontario Government office in London, Belleville was to the fore as was also the cheese sent from this district. Great Britain was equal to the present occasion and she has guaranteed protection to the shippers and no trouble in this respect has ensued. Without the substantial aid of the British navy upon the seas where would shipping be? In this respect is has helped the cheese industry, as cheese, if it could not have been shipped, would have been lower in price than it is today. In referring to farming in general the speaker said the farmers could produce more. The farmers in this district can increase their stock and farm products. If money is needed to assist farmers the Standard Bank is prepared to assist the farmers rather than loan money for the investment in real estate. In concluding his address Mr. Elliott stated that whilst in England he did what he could for the immigration of farm help to this district and especially those who were prepared to work for the former. Some have already come out here and he instanced circumstances where they had saved money since coming here. Keep these good men upon the farm. He would do all he could for the development not only of the city but this district. (Loud applause.)

Mr. A. M. Chapman sang that well known and popular song, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," and all present joined in the chorus.

"The Parliaments of Canada," was proposed and responded to by Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., who spoke as follows:

Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., responding to the toast of the Parliaments of Canada, referred to the recent short session of the Dominion Parliament called to vote the money necessary to defray the cost of sending the first contingent to assist Great Britain in the war, when the political lines of cleavage were obliterated:

"Then none were for a party,
Then all were for the state;"

and, following the example of the Dominion, all the Parliaments of the Provinces were contributing nobly to the Empire's cause.

This dinner, tendered by Mr. Elliott to the representative men engaged in the cheese industry, the greatest interest possessed in the Bay of Quinte District, is a notable evidence of the prosperity prevailing in this section of the Province.

"Business as Usual," is the motto that has been adopted throughout Great Britain and Ireland, that part of the British Empire nearest to the battlefields; and the bankers, the business men, the farmers and the manufacturers of Canada have also heartily adopted this motto and are putting it into practice. Such a decision on the part of Canadians proves the courage, the confidence and common sense characteristic of our people and is fully justified.

The outlook inspires confidence that the war will not be protracted. Every portion of the British Empire is contributing to effect that great purpose—England, Scotland, Ireland, Canada (English and French speaking), India, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the Islands of the Seas are represented in the titanic struggle, aided by the armies of France, Russia and Japan, and the arrogant enemy that wantonly projected itself through Belgium to get at France and capture Paris is retreating.

German commerce on the seas has ceased, her boasted navy is afraid to come out in the rain, her mercantile marine is tied up, her manufacturing industries are crippled and her vast export trade of goods "made in Germany" is dead. British shipping, protected by the invincible British navy, is scarcely affected; it is now as safe to travel from Canada to England and ship the product of our farms to the English market as it was before the war started.

Canadian export trade has been stimulated by the war and prices for the producer have increased; wheat is 25 per cent. higher, cheese is bringing over 15 cents a pound at the factory, the crops gathered in have been better than the average, and agriculture, the country's greatest asset, is in a prosperous condition. The banks are making as much money as they ever did, the railways are as busy as at any previous period and the merchants are doing well. There is a slight lull in manufacturing, but the manufacturers are realizing that the exclusion from Canada of goods of German origin will bring to them such opportunities for expansion as never existed before, and they are taking advantage of the situation to meet the demand that will arise.

From the facts related, it is reasonable to predict that before long the trade of Canada will have reached a greater volume than at any previous period of the country's history. In that condition lies our encouragement. The opportunities for doing profitable business will be co-extensive with the volume of trade.

Individuals are going about their daily avocations; "Men are going down to the sea in ships and doing business in great waters," the trade routes in the North Atlantic and in

Cruiser Makes Long Stay at Honolulu

Geier's Action in Remaining Fourteen Days Creates Delicate Situation

24 HOURS IS THE LIMIT

State Department at Washington Says Japan Has Not Requested That Vessel be Interned

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—A somedelicate, though not necessary difficult situation may arise out of the asylum sought by the the small German cruiser Geier, in the American harbor at Honolulu. The Geier is an armed vessel of a belligerent. Under the terms of The Hague Convention concerning the rights and duties of neutral powers in naval warfare, the Geier is not supposed to remain at Honolulu more than 24 hours, except through stress of weather or for reasonable repairs. The neutrality proclamations issued by President Wilson at the beginning of the war also established a similar 24-hour period. Geier has now been using the naval base at Honolulu as a harbor of refuge for fourteen days, which is already a period longer than is usually allowed armed vessels of belligerents in neutral ports without taking them into custody to be interned. There were intimations that Japan had, or was about to ask that "appropriate measures" be taken by the United States Government requiring the Geier to leave within 24 hours or consent to be interned. This report could not be verified in official circles in Washington last night.

Acting-Secretary of State Lansing was asked whether any agreement had been reached or sought by Japan with the United States for the interning of the Geier. He replied that no such request had been submitted, and that the matter had not been discussed by the Japanese Ambassador. From another official source it was learned that the Geier had not yet been interned. Naval officers who would execute any orders given by President Wilson or the State Department for interning the Geier would not discuss the case last night because with them it is a rather delicate subject.

Improved Plan Of Local Postoffice

Interior Up-To-Date in Every Particular--Is Now One of the Finest in Dominion

With the extensive improvements and additions to the interior fittings of the local post office, Belleville can boast of one of the handsomest and most modern Federal Buildings in the Dominion, including, as it does, a perfect system for receiving and delivering the ordinary mails and parcels, with a remodelled apartment for registered letters, money orders, and savings bank deposits.

The interior, which has been changed throughout, is finished in oak, the several departments, containing all the latest appointments, sleeping quarters for the night staff, a pleasant recreation room, and a hundred and one new features added such as are found in a first class Government postal institution. The postmaster's private office contains every convenience, and the box system is changed for the better.

The stamp office, formerly in a corner, now occupies a more central position, and the registered letter, money order, postal savings bank, and parcel post windows are at the outer corner, facing on Bridge and Pinnacle streets, the general delivery window remaining in about the same position as formerly, the plan as a whole making as business-like appearance as could be desired.

The revolving doors at the two main entrances give the structure a prosperous air, while the Pyrofugent flooring laid by Mr. Joshua Lang, lends a finishing touch that is pleasant to note. The wood work was done by The Berlin, Ont., Hardware Company, and is a credit to that firm. In general the new equipment will tend to more rapid service on the part of the staff, which will be appreciated by our people. Belleville should be proud of its post office as it now is, and Postmaster Gillen is to be congratulated upon the improved conditions.

A candidate for mayor in another city promises a lower tax rate if he is elected. A common promise, commonly unfulfilled.

BATTENBERG RESIGNS

Prince Louis Is Victim of Suspicions of Jingoists.

Feeling Against Germans Found Object of Attack In First Sea Lord of the British Admiralty Because He Is of the Ruling Family of Hesse — Decided To Get Out of Range of Criticism.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—It is officially announced that Prince Louis of Battenburg has resigned as First Sea Lord of the Admiralty.

Prince Louis Alexander of Battenburg, personal aide-de-camp to King George, as well as First Lord of the British Admiralty, of late has been the object of undeserved, but severe criticism from certain British sources—not on account of any fault of omission, or commission, but because of his German nativity. While not a breath about anything he has done or said that can reflect on his loyalty to the British cause has been uttered, there are, nevertheless, certain British "jingoes" who think it is detrimental to the cause to have him continue as First Sea Lord, now that there is war with Germany. It is because of this attitude of a minority that the prince evidently has decided to stop the shafts of criticism by getting out of range.

Prince Louis of Battenberg is a vice-admiral and personal aide de camp to the King. He was born at Gratz, Austria, in 1854, the eldest son of Prince Alexander of Hesse. He married his cousin, Princess Victoria, daughter of Louis IV., grand duke of Hesse and of Princess Alice, Queen Victoria's daughter. He was naturalized a British subject and entered the royal navy in 1868.

Prince Louis of Battenberg served in the Egyptian war, was director of naval intelligence, second in command of the Mediterranean fleet, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, commander of the third and fourth divisions of the home fleet, and Second Sea Lord. He was appointed First Sea Lord in 1912.

In 1905 he was the guest of the Canadian National Exhibition Association in Toronto.

Baron Fisher To Succeed Him?

LONDON, Oct. 30. — The Times says it understands that Baron Fisher, admiral of the fleet, will succeed Prince Louis of Battenberg as first Sea Lord of the Admiralty.

BIG GUNS WON DAY.

Admiralty Reports on Result of Work of Monitors.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The Secretary of the Admiralty makes the following announcement:—

"The British naval flotilla continues to support the allies' left, and since the morning of Oct. 27 the fire of 12-inch guns has been brought to bear on the German positions and batteries.

"Reports received from shore testify to the effect and accuracy of the fire and its galling character.

"Wednesday and the day before the enemy brought up heavy guns and replied vigorously to the fire of Admiral Hood's ships. The vessels received only trifling structural damage. Yesterday the opposition from the shore has practically ceased, and the preponderance of the naval gunners seems to be established.

"The casualties have been very slight, but one shell, exploding on the destroyer Falcon, killed one officer and fifteen men. One killed and several wounded are also reported from the light cruiser Brilliant, and eight were wounded on the Rinaldo.

"The enemy's submarine have also been reported seeking an opportunity to attack the bombarding ships, which are covered by British destroyers."

A special to The Globe says: Monitors and the torpedo craft have frequently, by proceeding up the rivers and canals, got at such close range that the crews used rifles at the Germans. Recently the Germans had some heavier guns in action, but the speed of the warships resulted in their sustaining practically no damage, the naval guns being fired whilst the ships were proceeding at high speed, which makes the results achieved all the more notable.

INDIANS FIRED BUSH.

Daring Orientals Brought Disaster To German Artillery.

LONDON, Oct. 30. — One of the most stirring incidents of the recent fighting concerns the British East Indian troops, all of whom would seem to be on the front. A wounded English officer who reached London yesterday says a few Indians a couple of nights ago slipped forward through the grass to a German detachment protecting a supply train and several batteries. With the stealth of jungle creatures they came upon the sentries of the foe and strangled one after another of the outposts. Then they set fire to the thicket in which the artillery and supplies were concealed. A fierce attack immediately followed, preventing any effort to extinguish the blaze. When it was burning fiercely the Indians suddenly fell back, and almost immediately there was a series of terrible detonations as the ammunition wagons blew up, scattering death in every direction. The Germans in the vicinity of the spot were almost totally destroyed. This officer says that the British commanding the Indians have great trouble in restraining their men when once their blood is up and the excitement of the chase gets hold of their fierce natures. They are for rushing the Germans in and out of season, going forward with wild shrieks, which strike consternation into the opposing ranks. Their audacity is said to have amazed even the British and French regulars, who for three months have battled night and day.

If you have that depressed feeling it's more than likely that your blood is out of order—impoverished or poisoned.

There is only one thing that will alter your present condition—that's to restore your stomach to normal health and strength. For a weak or diseased stomach cannot make good blood. If your digestion is bad your food will not make the good blood which nourishes body, brain, heart and nerve.

AN INTERESTING ANNIVERSARY BELLEVILLE BOYS PARTICIPATING

Fifteen Years Ago To-day Canada's Troops Sailed for South Africa--Names of Belleville's Volunteers--Lord Lorne's Letter to Local Resident

On the 30th October 1899. Just fifteen years ago today the First Canadian Contingent sailed from Quebec to Cape Town, and our Belleville boys were present at Paardeberg, at Bloemfontein, at Pretoria, at Ladysmith and other places, made immortal by deeds of heroism and forced marches of endurance. In this connection it will be interesting to read the Regimental Orders that were issued and none will ever forget the farewell given four soldier sons on leaving Belleville on their first Imperial Overseas Service. The medals now worn, were worthily won, as will be the medals and honors to be won in the present great conflict in which Canada must bear her full part and bear it worthily. The disquieting reports from South Africa just received give to this anniversay a new significance.

Headquarters,
15th Batt. A. L. I.
Belleville, Oct. 31 1899

Regimental orders by Lt. Col. Pontons Commanding. Details of duties for week commencing 30th inst.

Orderly officer—Lieut. Hawkins.

Next for duty—Captain Stewart.

1. The commanding officer congratulates the various companies of the Battalion upon the very creditable parade of the 23rd inst. The honor thus paid to the representatives of the Battalion, who volunteered for the South African Contingent was due to, and was appreciated by each and all of them.

2. The following members of the XV Batt. A. L. I. were duly examined, accepted, and enlisted in the Special Service Battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment, and on Monday the 30th inst. they sailed from Quebec via S. S. Sardinian under convoy of H.M.S. Crescent for South Africa.

Lieut. G. G. Hulme.
Sergt. Walter Mills.
Col. Sergt. J. McNair
Lance Sergt. E. Fry
Private George Phillips
Private Frank Lynn
Private A. Bolyea
Private Charles Gibson.
Private A. S. Large.
Private H. H. Jones.
Private R. Cunnington.
Private R. McCoy.

and Private Geo. Tilley, and M. M. Stewart as members of the Battalion.

4. Each member of the Battalion received from the City of Belleville £4. 0. 0. sterling in gold, and the commanding officer deposited with Major Rogers commanding D. Co. R. C. R. a draft for £30. 0. 0. for a sick and wounded fund for the members of this Battalion to be drawn on in case of casualty. Members of the Battalion, officers, and non-commissioned officers and men, are urged to use all influence posible to have this sum further supplemented, so that remittances may from time to time be made to Cape Town for the purpose of securing all possible comfort and protection for absent comrades in time of peril hardship and trial.

5. The commanding officer voices the feeling of all ranks of the Battalion and of all citizens in this record for the splendid spirit displayed by those who volunteered for this Special Imperial Service, thus enabling this Battalion, on this Historical occasion, to contribute to the Royal Canadian Regiment a quota of efficient men larger in proportion than any other city of this size in Canada, and the commanding officer desires for the information of all ranks to record how much our comrades were touched by the enthusiastic farewell received in Belleville, and the personal God Speed which it was the privilege of several officers representing the whole Battalion to give to them at the Historic Citadel of Quebec.

By order
Robert A. McGuinness Capt.
Actg. Adjt. 15th Batt A.L.I.

Subsequently in December 1899, Brigade Sergt. Major W. H. H. Ponton, Corporal John W. Miller and Private Horace Gillespie enlisted from the XV Battalion in the 2nd Royal Canadian Regiment for service in South Africa.

Headquarters
XV Batt. A. L. I.
Belleville, Ont.
January 8 1900

2. The following letter has been recently received from the Marquis of Lorne, the honorary Lieut.Col. of the Battalion.

Kensington Palace W.
London, Dec. 21, 1899.

My dear Colonel Ponton,

Very many thanks for your kind note telling of the quota sent by the Argyle Light Infantry to South Africa. I am certain that Canada will enter to the full into the conflict for fair rights for all under the flag in South Africa. It is a cause in which all the Empire, and not all the Empire only, but all lovers of freedom throughout the world are interested. The conduct of the Transvaal government would not have been possible but for the extraordinary ignorance of its constituents, the majority of whom never see a newspaper, and really believe probably in very many cases that the line of repression and exclusiveness they themselves took, would be taken by any other government which prevailed over them. It is too late in the day to try to stop use of the English tongue or limit the area of British freedom in British colonies, although they may be successful for a time in putting these in danger or jeopardy. We are all very proud of the way in which Canada is acting. May you have a good Christmas and may we all have a happier New Year.

Believe me, dear Colonel Ponton,
Yours faithfully
"LORNE."

Also at other dates Lt.-Col J. Biggar (Red Cross Commissioner in South Africa) Sergt. Instructor Albert Beattie (who died at Bloemfontein), E. T. Austin and the late Edgar Geen—making 21 in all.

AUTOMOBILE CAUSES DEATH OF HORSE

At a few minutes before six o'clock last evening, an accident occurred on Bridge street, near the post office. Mr. James McCartney, of Picton, was driving along the side of the street when an automobile came up behind him and in attempting to pass struck the vehicle. The result of the collision was that the vehicle was damaged, and the horse attached to it was rather violently thrown to the pavement, with the result that the horse fractured its right leg between the knee and fetlock. Although every effort was made to save the unfortunate animal it proved futile and subsequently it was destroyed by a veterinary surgeon. The horse was a valuable one, and was only yesterday purchased by Mr. McCartney from Mr. Arthur McCoy of this city. The proprietor of the automobile, who resides outside the city, gave his name to Mr. McCratney, and was apparently much concerned over the unfortunate occurrence.

the South Atlantic are free and safe for British commerce; the greatest thing on this planet is the British Navy; it is not only accomplishing all that has been mentioned but it is giving security to the title deeds of every farm and homestead in Canada and is preserving us from pillage and Prussian insolence and tyranny. The navy has been invincible since the reign of Elizabeth, when it drove the would-be Spanish invaders back to Spain; it is ubiquitous; "Take the wings of the morning and fly to the uttermost parts of the earth," there you will find ships of the King's navy protecting British commerce and the lives of British men; it is amphibious also, it is now projecting itself from the sea on to the land by its great guns.

No Canadian will ever forget the Great Armada that convoyed the Canadian troops from the St. Lawrence across the ocean to the ancient and historic port of Plymouth.

In conclusion Mr. Johnson made an appeal; he said "The men who are fighting, shedding their blood and laying down their lives for US leave their women and children a sacred trust to the nation. Let each man, secure at home, sacrifice something for them through the patriotic fund.

Mr. W. H. Wrightmeyer sang a song entitled "The Admiral's Broom," which was well rendered.

The "Agricultural Department of the Ontario Government" was proposed and most acceptably responded to by Capt. Thompson, who is connected with this department, and especially with the immigration part. In his opening remarks the speaker paid a great compliment to those present by stating that, travel where you will, you will never see a better or more capable lot of men. His work was chiefly in the line of immigration and he had in the past and would in the future while in office do all he could to have the best of immigrants sent out to Canada. Of the 45,000 who emigrated last year from various parts of the old country, 39,000 had made their homes in Canada. He would do all he could to persuade immigrants to come to Canada. The percentage that had not made good was small. He advised farmers to procure their help now so as to have it when spring work commences. Another reason why he would urge this is the fact that the present war, which is by no means over, would to a considerable extent militate against emigration, and in the spring it may be difficult to procure necessary help. It will pay the farmer to have more help and produce more from the farm. In referring to the war Capt. Thompson said that when this war was over the Motherland would have a preference and Canada would be one of the colonies to share in that preference. Ultimately Britain would win and even the farmers had helped nobly towards the desired end. Great Britain rules the waves will still be sung. (Applause). In concluding, Capt. Thompson paid a tribute to Mr. Elliott, that he was not only a great asset to the city but to the County of Hastings.

Mr. Isley was called upon and rendered a patriotic selection.

At this juncture Mr. O'Flynn was compelled to retire and before he left cheers were given for his son, Capt. O'Flynn, Lieut. R. D. Ponton, and the other Belleville and Hastings boys who are at the front.

Mr. Elliott took charge of the remainder of the proceedings and proposed the toast of the Belleville Cheese Board.

Mr. J. W. Haggerty, President of the Board, in responding said on behalf of the Board he desired to thank Mr. Elliott for his hospitality in entertaining them. On the local Board the best of harmony prevailed between the salemen and buyers.

Mr. D. J. Fairfield, Secretary of the Board, said he was proud to do honor to his friend, Mr. Elliott. He said that Belleville had the best cheese

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items For Busy Readers.

APPARENTLY A MISTAKE

It was reported to the police last night that a team of horses had been left standing in a yard all day in rear of a Front street place of business. The animals were taken care of and the owner subsequently turned up. It appears that the whole affair was a mistake, and the animals had been looked after and fed.

SERVICES APPRECIATED

Mr. J. D. Fairfield of this city, who is the Government agent for the placing of emigrants, has received a communication from an emigrant he placed, which is most encouraging. Mr. W. H. England, an Englishman, was placed by Mr. Fairfield with Mr. C. B. Bailey, a yeoman who resides in Rawdon Township. Mr. England in his communication, not only eulogizes Mr. Bailey and family for their many acts of kindness, but also sincerely thanks Mr. and Mrs. Fairfield for their consideration and attention to him. He reports that he is doing well and is fast becoming proficient in farm work.

PROPOSED NEW HALL

Mr. Walter Alford of this city, was in Picton on Wednesday, consulting with a committee of the Town Council in reference to the building of a new town hall in that place.

Chances in the military uniforms throughout the world show a growing tendency to protect the soldier rather than making him a target.

CANADIAN FINANCES

An important announcement, the full significance of which is not appreciated by the general public, was made by Hon. W. T. White, Finance Minister, a few days ago.

Mr. White's announcement was to the effect that financial arrangements had been made to meet the war expenditures of the present fiscal year, through the Bank of England, which will make advances to the Canadian Government from time to time as required for naval and military purposes. This means that the Government will have no difficulty in financing so far as the war is concerned.

The completion in this satisfactory manner of the financial arrangements for the war expenditure will tend greatly to improve the general situation in Canada. If Canada had been obliged to raise by domestic issues any substantial part of our war expenditures the funds now available through the banks for the credit needs of the country would to that extent be diminished, to the serious detriment of the entire community.

The credit for this arrangement is due largely to Hon. W. T. White, who conducted the negotiations with the Bank of England through Hon. George H. Perley, as the representative of the Government in London. It has been fortunate, indeed, for Canada that she has a Finance Minister of the experience, ability and energy of Hon. Mr. White. Canada has passed and is passing through conditions without parallel. When the war broke out, creating absolutely new business and financial conditions, and endangering the whole fabric of the commercial world, the situation was critical, both in Canada and abroad. Mr. White was not dismayed in the least, but took hold with a strong hand, and, thanks to his prompt and energetic action, what might have been a serious panic was averted, and normal business conditions were maintained. Mr. White's handling of the situation restored confidence, and this confidence in his ability to face any emergency and to successfully bring Canada through a critical stage of her history is steadily growing.

Having guided the country safely through the preliminary panicky stage of the war by means of emergency banking measures, Mr. White was faced with the problem of restoring business between Canada and Great Britain. Exchange became so high it was impossible to ship grain or products. Shipping was at a standstill and commerce was paralized. Owing to the difficulty of negotiating exchange exporters were unable to ship to England. Wheat blocked the seaport elevators. Mr. White then arranged to get as trustee to hold gold for the Bank of England, thus restoring normal rate of exchange. The effect was at once felt, and with England in control of the sea, "business as usual" soon became the motto again in the two countries. The third problem Mr. White had to arrange was the question of financing the war, and this has now been settled by the present arrangement with the Bank of England.

"I WAS A NERVOUS WRECK

When I Began Taking Vinol."
Mrs. Clayton's Letter Should Interest Every Weak, Nervous, Rundown Woman.

Louisville, Ky.—"I was simply a nervous wreck, and in a weak, run-down condition when a friend asked me to try Vinol. I did so, and received so much benefit from the first bottle I decided to keep on taking it, and as a result I have gained in health and strength right along. I think Vinol is the best medicine in the world for a nervous, weak, run-down system and for elderly people, and I cannot praise it too highly for what it has done for me."—Mrs. W. C. CLAYTON, Louisville, Ky.

There are hundreds of men and women in this vicinity who are on the borderland of nervous prostration, overworked, run-down and nervous. We ask every such person to call at our store for a bottle of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil. Vinol is not a patent secret nostrum, but an honest, tried and true body builder and strength creator of world-wide fame, delicious and easy to take.

Our guarantee to return your money if Vinol does not benefit you should give you confidence to try it.

GOOD TIMES AND WARM SMOKE STACKS

Good times are bound to come back to the world and to this country. But good times don't come by any meandering of fat kine after lean ones. They are not controlled by blind cycles now forecasted by people like Madame Thebes. They are not phantoms that wait for the rise and fall of the real estate booster, they have nothing radically to do with the price of land. They have still less to do with the policy of any government. All the world needs to keep good times all the time, is good crops over most of the world, plenty of people getting what they earn for their labors, and the placing of the red god Mars on the retired list.

Crops come naturally. The crops of 1914 are on the whole more profitable in this country than in 1913, or any of the fat years of the last decade. We have in this country a larger army of efficient, industrious people than ever we had. We have more factories than ever. We have more railways and steamships. We have all the machinery for keeping the times good without resorting to poetry and witchcraft. All we need in Canada to keep this machinery operating for our benefit is for the people to stand behind the machinery. The factories of Canada were built primarily to satisfy the home market. They represent capital enough to build Britain'as navy three times over. That investments is practically owned by the people of Canada because when it is operating at full strength it maintains good conditions in the country. Slacken up on the smokestacks and you lessen not so much the supply as the demand. The good times that depend on warm smokestacks are entirely in the hands of those who now and hereafter buy goods made in Canada.

RETURN OF CONFIDENCE

That the first feeling of industrial depression has passed away is the statement issued by the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board. An investigation shows that there is no material difference in the number of employed than in former years, and in many cases there has been a marked increase in the amount of the pay roll.

Several industries have been greatly stimulated. The milling industry, paper mills, textile industries, boot and shoe concerns, saddlery and harness manufacturers were never so busy as at present. In many large factories double time is being worked to furnish the articles required by the increase in trade.

The British Government, and also the French and Russian Governments, are placing orders for war supplies amounting to millions. For our own troops many millions must be spent to properly equip them. All these orders have been placed, and the various industries have been greatly benefitted. Most of the agricultural implement concerns have reopened, and are preparing to supply the certain demands for next year's trade. The industrial depression has passed, and future prospects could not be brighter.

The cessation of railway construction has deprived many laborers of work. If the Government's Good Roads policy had not been blocked by the Liberals these men could have found employment constructing better highways for our farmers. Several million dollars would have been available for this purpose. The Liberals prevented the laborers from receiving this employment, and the farmers from securing modern highways to their markets.

CURRENT COMMENT

We gather from the Winnipeg Free Press that it is treason now to suggest an election, while it was high patriotism to appeal to the country against building Dreadnoughts for the Imperial navy. These Liberals are now penitent, hence they deserve commiseration.

Inland Revenue figures for the month of September issued Wednesday show a falling off, despite the augmentation of the duties. The total revenue was $1,566,661, as against $1,886,040 in September of last year.

There was a revenue of $421,690 from spirits, $208,193 from malt, and $809,915 from tobacco.

It is apparent that the war is causing people to drink less than was their custom previously.

The success of the British government in cornering the sugar supply has resulted in a reduction of 60 cents per 100 pounds in the price. This makes the retail price seven or eight cents for granulated, depending upon the grade. Had the government not gone into this business, sugar would have been by this time very much of a luxury, so far as the price was concerned.

Buffalo Express: "An elaborate edition issued last Sunday marked the 150th anniversary of the Hartford Courant. It is the boast of the Courant that it is the only newspaper in the United States which has been printed continuously without a change of name since 1764. In its prosperity is reflected the quality of the Courant."

WAR NOTES

The correspondent of the London Times in northern France sends the following regarding the fighting in Belgium under Tuesday's date: "The German losses on the Nieuport-Dixmude line are estimated at 16,000 killed and 30,000 wounded. During Sunday four hundred vehicles loaded with wounded soldiers passed through Ostend.

In the dim glare of the burning bushes some of the enemy threw down their arms and pleaded for mercy. No quarter, however, was given on either side. The work was too desperate for that. Bayonet and bullet did their work and the enemy was driven back on Roulers. A battery and several machine guns were captured and thousands of prisoners were taken, including a general and several other officers."

A Dutch trawler reports that the tugger Vlaardingen struck a mine forty miles north of Ymuiden, a seaport of Holland, according to an Amsterdam despatch to the Reuter's Telegram Company. The crew and ship were lost.

The spy mania has all of England in its grip. Every member of the London Stock Exchange is now searched for bombs before going into the strong rooms. It is feared, evidently, that some person hostile to England will blow up the institution.

The astonishing prowess of the Russians was again admirably demonstrated during the period of taking up positions for the latest fighting. One column, marching to get around the flank of the Germans, covered 130 miles in six days.

Globe: A list of members of the 10th Royal Grenadiers chosen for the second contingent gives their nationality as follows: English 79, Irish 15, Scotch 6, Canadian 18, United States 1, Australia 1.

Isn't it a trifle absurd to speak of a body of soldiers so constituted as a Canadian contingent?

London Chronicle: Belgian statesmen can rest assured that Britain will not abandon the struggle till all the wrongs of their country are righted as liberally as they can be, and her territory and independence are fully restored to her, with solid guarantees against future aggression.

Why Britain Is At War
The Causes And The Issues

A Conflict Of Ideals

The conflict of ideals which is at stake in the war appears very clearly in the conversations between the British Ambassador at Berlin and the German Ministers on the day when war was declared (Aug. 4). The Ambassador asked again if Germany meant to respect the neutrality of Belgium. The Foreign Secretary "at once replied that he was sorry to say that his answer must be No, as, in consequence of the German troops having crossed the frontier that morning, Belgian neutrality had already been violated." The Minister explained that it was "a matter of life or death." The Imperial Government had to "strike some decisive blow as early as possible," and therefore "had to advance into France by the quickest and easiest way." The Ambassador next saw the Imperial Chancellor who held England solely responsible for the war, "just for a word, neutrality, a word which in war time had so often been diregarded, just for a scrap of paper Great Britain was going to war." The Ambassador replied that to her it was a matter of life or death to keep her compact. The Chancellor said, "But at what price will that compact have been kept? Has the British Government thought of that?" "I hinted to his Excellency as plainly as I could," writes the British Ambassador, "that fear of the consequences could hardly be regarded as an excuse for breaking solemn engagements."

The German Government, by their deeds in Belgium and by the words above quoted, have plainly avowed their principles": that a pledge to respect a little nation's neutrality is "just a word"; that military expediency knows no law; that a powerful military State is entitled to "hack its way through" a small nation, whose neutrality it had bound itself to respect; that it may pillage and plunder any such nation which presumes to defend itself. In short, that there is no Right, but Might. On the maintenance of the opposite principles, for which Britain stands in this struggle, depends every hope of saving the rule of mere brute force and militarism.

The issues being thus vital to the civilization of the world, and to the freedom and integrity of Great Britain and of the British Dominions, "let us be sure," as the Prime Minister said, "that all the resources, not only of this United Kingdom, but of the vast Empire of which it is the centre, shall be thrown into the scale." And let us bear ourselves through the struggle in the spirit of Abraham Lincoln's War Motto: "With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right—let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up this nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and orphan; to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace."

CONDITIONS DESPERATE.

Belgian Authorities Fear Violence of Starving Countrymen.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—"It is feared that in their desperation the hungry people will attack the authorities. This would cause serious loss of life." So stated Captain T. F. Lucey, representative of the American commissions for relief in Belgium, in a telegram sent to Herbert C. Hoover, chairman of the commission, from Rotterdam yesterday. Captain Lucey added that he had been told by representatives of the National Relief Committee that in Brussels, Charleroi, Liege, Namur, Mons and Dinant, 3,000,000 persons were being fed by charity and that only four days' supply of flour was on hand. In the vicinity of Liege, conditions were more desperate than elsewhere, if possible. There the necessaries of life were urgently needed.

The message concluded:

"You may be convinced that any statement you have received or heard has underestimated conditions in Belgium. Great danger is threatened. To avoid it you must get flour to the people and get it at once."

French Bulletin Says Progress Has Been Made at Several Points.

PARIS, Oct. 30.—The French War Office in its official communication issued last night says: "There is no important news to report, according to the latest information received."

The French War Office issued the following communique yesterday afternoon: "During the day of yesterday (Wednesday) we made progress at several points along the line of battle, particularly around Ypres and to the south of Arras.

"There is nothing new on the front between Nieuport and Dixmude.

"Between the Aisne and the Argonne we took possession of some trenches occupied by the enemy, and not one of the partial attacks undertaken by the Germans resulted successfully.

"We advanced also in the forest of Apremont."

LITERARY NOTES.

BECK'S WEEKLY

Beck's Weekly, edited by Edward Beck, the man who employed the Burns Detective Agents to unearth graft in the Quebec Legislature, and published in Montreal, is a unique publication and one that is growing in favor throughout the country. While devoted, primarily, to the promotion of honesty in the administration of public affairs, it is by no means obsessed of one idea, but is made up every week of clever cartoons and pictures, stories humorous sketches and a department of intelligent is somewhat caustic comment on Canadian affairs. Among its contributors are several of the best writers and artists in Canada. It furnishes one of the most appetizing week-end collations of information, discussion and entertainment to be obtained anywhere. The price is $2 per year, and the publishers will be pleased to send a sample copy upon request. Address Beck's Weekly, 355 Craig Street West, Montreal.

German Submarines at Sosbrugge.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 30—(Via London.)—A despatch from Sluis, Holland, to The Handelsblad asserts that parts of several submarines have been sent from Germany by railway to Sosbrugge, on the Belgian coast, where they will be put together and the boats then sent against the British fleet off Ostend. Strict secrecy, according to the Sluis correspondent, surrounds the German movements in Belgium.

Britain Offered Aid.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 30—(Via London.)—The Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Couranet says it learns upon good authority that the British Government offered Holland pecuniary assistance for the relief of Belgian refugees in the Netherlands. Holland declined, saying she would bear the burden herself of a duty spontaneously undertaken.

"War or Jail" Policy.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 30. — Police Magistrate J. C. Judd is adopting a "war or jail" policy in a number of drunkenness and vagrancy cases. A local man arraigned for insobriety yesterday morning was given the ultimatum and promptly enlisted for active service.

The LAPSE of ENOCH WENTWORTH

Dorcas ran lightly up the steps. The cafe, shabby and weather-beaten outdoors, was bizarre inside. At the farther end a daub of painted canvas attempted to create the illusion of sunlit fields. Against it rose a theatrical apple tree. A hundred electric lights blazed inside crimson apples on its widespread branches. Under it, at a huddle of tables, people were dining vociferously. The place shrieked its antagonism to the civilized ceremony of feeding. Humanity dug its elbows into one another while it handled knives and forks, and screamed its conversation. The rooms reeked with a hundred odors of highly-seasoned food and tobacco smoke. It was a bewildering blend of light and smells and noise. Dorcas followed Merry through the labyrinth to a small table in a distant corner, hedged about with palms.

"I come here time and again," confessed Merry after they were seated. "I love the place; the crowd is so interesting. People let themselves loose in a coop like this; they enjoy life frankly."

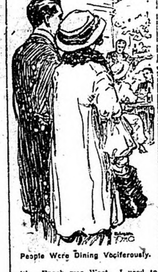
"I should think they did." Dorcas laughed gaily.

Across the room a party of college lads were humming a ragtime song in utter inharmony to the orchestra's music. Corks were popping amid the rattle of dishes and silver while laughter in a hundred tones, and the languages of all the old Latin races, were blended in the strange babel.

"It's a droll little world," said Merry.

Dorcas pulled off her gloves and sat smoothing them between her fingers.

"I remember," Andrew gazed about him in a reminiscent mood, "one season I was tied up with a summer production, and it was horribly lonesome in New York. There was not a soul in our company I wanted to fraternize with. Enoch was West. I used to come here night after night and work myself into a light-hearted mood. I had a part I hated. I did not go on until the second act, so sometimes I stayed here until half-past seven. The place waked me up. I got into a queer humor while watching people. Before it wore off I used to dash to the theater, as one acts when you are overpowered with sleep, and try to get to bed before you go wide awake again. Usually I don't have to hammer myself into the disposition for work. When I am cast for some role that makes one fairly snort with impatience, it is horribly hard to feel like it. If I get a human character, I love it."



People Were Dining Vociferously.

"Like 'John Esterbrook'?"

"Yes, like 'John Esterbrook.' Miss Dorcas," Merry went on eagerly, "I went tramping yesterday—alone. I found myself within sight of another state before I pulled up. I was—heaven knows how many miles from anywhere. I thrashed things out with myself. I'm going to make 'John Esterbrook' the biggest thing that has struck New York in years."

Dorcas laughed. She felt foolishly happy.

"I am so glad," she said.

"It's up to me to do the best I can; I owe it to you," there was grim determination in Merry's voice; "to you and Oswald, he's a prince of a good fellow; now Alice Volk and the child come into it."

"And yourself."

"Yes, myself. If I succeed, it means retrieving more than you imagine."

"And you will confess you wrote the play?"

"Not—yet."

"Why?"

"Miss Dorcas," Merry's voice had a tone of entreaty in it, "I want to ask one thing of you. I ask it because your faith in me is so great and uplifting. Drop the authorship of the play. I cannot explain. I cannot fight the thoughts you have of me. You said once, 'I believe in you.' Do you remember?"

Dorcas looked at him with steadfast eyes and nodded.

"Go on believing. It's the kindest thing you can do for me, and—for Enoch."

Their eyes made a compact though no word was spoken.

They lingered over strange dishes that came and went. Food seemed merely a circumstance, an excuse for being alone and together. They felt curiously isolated, for the noise made a retreat for them as silence does. A sudden lull fell on the babel of sound. The orchestra, which had rested for a few minutes, began again—not one of its long overtures, but a prelude to the florid music in an Italian opera. Through the murky atmosphere a woman's voice shrilled out with rare sweetness.

Dorcas rose to her feet for a second, searching for the singer; then she seated herself with her back to the table. The crash of dishes, the rattle of silver, and the popping of corks continued, but tongues were stilled except for one voice. It was singing the tremendous aria from "Ernani." The girl drew a long breath as the last note died away into silence then she turned eagerly to Merry.

"Who is she?"

"I'll tell you in a minute."

She turned again to look at the singer, who stood crushed into a narrow balcony which was crowded to discomfort by a piano and four musicians. The woman was absurdly fat and absurdly gowned. Years ago, in the palmy days of a concert tour, she had swept upon the platform in a robe of burnt orange velvet splashed gorgeously with silver lace and scintillating embroidery. It had seen years of service, then grown tawdry, unfashionable, soiled, and grotesquely queer. It reminded Dorcas of the stately door in its last stage of shabbiness. The woman's straw-colored hair was gathered into a ridiculous pompadour. Across the dining room, through murky waves of tobacco smoke, the girl could see careworn wrinkles about the woman's eyes. The vivid scarlet of her cheeks was pitifully false, false as the whiteness of her vast, bare shoulders. Again she began to sing, something which came thrilling from the wonderful throat with perfect coloratura. She threw back her head and tilted her face till Dorcas saw only the profile. For one moment the gross lines disappeared; instead came a glimpse of beauty and picturesqueness, a dignity which belonged to the days of youth and power, the royal days of a singer.

The room rang with an encore, then came a shriek of command. "Dance!" shouted the group of students in a corner.

"Oh!" cried Dorcas piteously. "oh! how can they do it?"

The musicians huddled themselves and their instruments closer together, indifferently as if it were part of every night's program. The pianist struck a few bars of some tinkling thing in a musical comedy, then the singer began to sway her huge body. There was no space for her feet to move. She sang to the accompaniment, but the physical effort made her wheeze. The orchestra dashed into a tripping chorus, and the enthusiasm of the guests waxed high. Cheers were intermingled with laughter and screams of derision.

"Oh!" cried Dorcas, "oh! the shame of it!"

The singer sank in a chair exhausted, then she rose and pushed her way down from the balcony. Dorcas watched her with a pitiful gaze. Perspiration was washing white streaks through the patches of rouge on her cheeks.

"Who is the woman?" she asked.

"Twenty-five years ago her name was famous from one end of Italy to the other. When she went to Genoa to fill an engagement the whole town turned out to meet her, the shops closed, and it was a public holiday. The people pelted her with flowers and screamed themselves hoarse in a welcome. She was the star of the Bellini in Naples. She sang in Paris and London. She came here, grew sick and could not fill her engagements. A manager went back on her, she lost what money she had, friends deserted her, she came down to—this."

"Oh, the poor soul!" Dorcas' voice was a whisper.

"Her's was an unusual case," said Merry. "She is only fifty-three now, so I've heard. It makes you realize into what a short bit of our lives fame is crowded—if fame comes to us. The has-beens in our profession are an army, a pitiful army. Unless one has a home and some one in it to cherish and love, the lonely days of old age are—" Andrew laughed cheerlessly. "Well, I never think of them."

He stretched out his hand to intercept a boy who wandered between the tables with a tray full of crimson roses. He laid a bunch of them before Dorcas. She buried her face in the cool petals.

"Shall we go?" asked Merry.

As they pushed their way through the maze of crowded tables they passed a woman who sat dining alone. She wore an orange velvet gown, and a shabby lace scarf covered her naked shoulders. Dorcas paused for a moment, laid her hand upon the woman's arm, and spoke a few words in Italian. The singer looked up and put a grimy, ring-bedizened hand upon the girl's fingers. Merry stood watching them. The woman looked very old and faded under the white glare of the electricity, but her face grew eager and tremulous while she poured out her soul in her own language. Dorcas took one rose from the cluster in her arms and laid the rest of the fragrant blossoms beside the singer's plate.

"You'll forgive me for parting with your flowers?" she whispered as she rejoined Merry.

"I'm glad you did it. Once upon a time stage bouquets were a worn-out sensation for that woman; today I guess she is showered with roses about once in a blue moon."

Dorcas paused near the door to nod good-by to the singer, who sat gazing after them with her chin buried in the red roses. Suddenly Dorcas turned to Merry. Her face had grown white, and she put her arm within his. He clasped it with a strong grip, but neither of them spoke. At the same moment they had caught sight of Enoch Wentworth. He was seated in an alcove at a small table hedged about with palms. Zilla Paget sat facing him. Enoch's hands clasped one of hers which lay upon the table. They were engrossed in each other.

Dorcas stopped abruptly when they reached the foot of the steps. "Oh,!" she whispered appealingly, "Andrew, save Enoch from that woman!"

CHAPTER XIII.

A Sealed Bargain.

Wentworth sat in a small room at the theater, which he had appropriated as his own. It led directly off the box office. He was glancing over a heap of press clippings when the door opened and Merry walked in.

"Good morning." There was a surprised glance on Enoch's face while he spoke.

Andrew nodded a response, then he drew a package of manuscript from his pocket. Wentworth's eyes turned on him curiously while he flattened it out on the table before him. No unnecessary courtesies passed between them.

"I rewrote the scene as you suggested," said Andrew carelessly.

"That was good of you." In his surprise Wentworth showed an impulsive friendliness. He stretched out his hand for the manuscript.

There was no cordiality in Merry's face. He glanced quietly through the written sheets.

"You count this change in the play a necessity?" he asked brusquely.

"I guess that's what it might be called." Wentworth's voice was impatient, and a frown chased across his face. "Oswald's been asking for it this morning. When a quiet fellow like him makes up his mind to have a thing; he's apt to be confoundedly insistent."

"Then you want it?"

"Certainly."

TURK ATTACKS RUSSIA CRUISER BOMBARDS PORT

Another Cruiser Arrives at Novorossyak on the Black Sea and Threatens Bombardment, But Finally Withdraws—Greeks Invade Albania and Now Control the Corfu Channel—Rome Is Aroused.

LONDON, Oct. 30. — A despatch from Theodosia, Crimea, via Petrograd, says:

From 9.30 o'clock to 10.30 yesterday morning a Turkish cruiser with three funnels bombarded the station and city, damaging the cathedral, the Greek Church, a pier and some sheds. One soldier was wounded. A branch of the Russian Bank of Foreign Commerce caught fire. At the conclusion of the bombardment the cruiser left in a southwesterly direction.

Another despatch from Novorossyck, Caucasia, says:

The Turkish cruiser Hamidieh, which arrived here yesterday, demanded the surrender of the city and the Government properties, threatening in case of refusal to bombard the town. The Turkish consul and officials were arrested. The cruiser withdrew.

Theodosia (formerly Kaffa) is a Russian seaport on the southeast coast of Crimea, about a hundred miles northeast of Sebastopol, by which it is connected by rail.

Novorossyak is on the northeast coast of the Black Sea and is the capital of territory of the Black Sea. It is almost directly opposite Theodosia, at a distance of about 120 miles.

The despatches would indicate that the cruiser that attacked Theodosia is the Breslau, one of the two German cruisers recently interned in the Dardanelles and later purchased by Turkey. The Hamidiel is said to be the Turkish name given to the other cruiser, formerly the Goeben.

With Turkey in the war zone it is likely that other nations will now cease to remain neutral. Greece, Roumania and Italy may join in the fray and add to the fighting strength of both sides. Turkey, since the Balkan war, has allowed German officers to reorganize and train her army, while a British flag officer and six junior naval officers reorganized the navy. In addition to the two German cruisers interned, and since manned and sent to sea, Turkey in 1910 had three battleships, two protected cruisers, three gunboats and fourteen torpedo boats. A 23,000-ton battleship building in England has been taken over by the British Admiralty.

Her army is a more efficient machine. In peace time it has a first line of 180,000 men, and second line and reserves number 140,000. The Turkish troops are good fighters. Roumania has an army of about 300,000, while Greece can put a quarter of a million men into the field. Italy in addition to her fleet, has an army of about a million men.

Italy, Roumania and Greece will fight on the side of the allies if they decide to go to war. Bulgaria has been weakened by the Balkan campaigns, and shows no disposition to withdraw from her present attitude of neutrality. Her army numbers about 400,000 men.

Greeks Control Corfu Channel.

ROME, Oct. 30.—The report that Greece has landed 12,000 soldiers at Santi Quaranta, thus taking possession of the southern part of Albania, which gives them entire control of the Corfu Channel, is causing a profound impression in Rome. As this step on the part of Greece was strongly opposed by the London conference, it is generally believed in Italian political circles that Greece will not be supported by Great Britain and France.

BIG BATTLE DECIDED.

Russians Have Taken Second Great Step In Eastern Campaign.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 30.—The Russians have won another great victory which marks in all probability the penultimate stage of the struggle between the Slav and Teuton. The German-Austrian armies operating from their northernmost position in about the same latitude as Warsaw down to well south of the River Elbhanka have been broken in two. The northern part, which was defeated a week or more ago in an attempt to march into Warsaw, is still fighting desperately north of the River Pilitza. South of the river Grand Duke Nicholas has inflicted a heavy defeat on the enemy, who is in full retreat, leaving a gap between the two main groups of armies equal to one day's march.

This victory portends the defeat of the group of armies north of the Pilitza, since these two will now have the Russians on their right flank. Indeed, Russian cavalry and horse and gunners are probably already in the rear of the northern forces.

The victory has been won by four days of the severest fighting on a front extending from Bialobrzeegi, on the River Pilitza, twelve miles west of the Vistula, southeastwards through Glovachev and Politchna to Ianovatz, on the left bank of the Vistula, opposite the village of Kazimerieff. The length of this front is 42 miles.

The two theatres of the main struggle are divided by the River Pilitza, which flows into the Vistula from the west, twenty-eight miles south of Warsaw.

North of the Pilitza the Germans were by Sunday driven from fifty to seventy miles back from the line of the Vistula. The greater part of this area is covered with thick forests, traversed in all directions by tracks, which at this time of year are clay sloughs.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

Nathan Mackie, aged 33, of Mackie & Taylor, lumber contractors, has been drowned in Black Bay, near Port Arthur.

Archbishop Langevin, who has been indisposed for some time past, has left for Montreal, en route to Texas, to seek a cure.

Crown-Prince Wounded?

ROME, Oct. 30.—(Via London.)—It is reported here that the German Crown Prince has been wounded while leading an attack on Verdun.

The Swedish steamer Ornan, from Portugal for Gothenburg, Sweden, hit a mine Monday in the North Sea and sank off Cuxhaven. Five members of her crew were drowned.

December 4th has been chosen as the date for the citizens' banquet to Hon. W. H. Hearst at Sault Ste. Marie, in celebration of the Algoma man's succession to the Premiership of the province.

Mrs. James Romain and Tony Demarco were committed for trial yesterday at North Bay by Magistrate Weegar for incendiarism two weeks ago, when the home of Mrs. Romain was destroyed by fire.

A Madrid despatch alleges that one of the German 42-centimeter cannon, on their right wing in France, exploded as the result of an excessive powder charge, and that the gunners and 250 men were blown to pieces.

A Petrograd despatch to The London Times states that the British and Russian Governments have agreed to a mutually advantageous exchange of combatant and technical forces, the details of which will be announced later.

She Wants Marriage Annulled.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Mrs. Harriet C. Jackson, 70 years old, testified yesterday in a suit to annul her marriage to Frank D. Wright, of Toronto, Ont., aged 45, that Wright hypnotized her and obtained $15,000 from her soon after their marriage.

She said Wright told her he was "one of the immortals" and that she would be destroyed if she did not marry him. She averred that Wright married her under the name of Jackson.

Battleship Sunk?

PARIS, Oct. 30. — It is reported here this morning that a first-class British battleship has been sunk by a mine.

The name of the battleship is not reported. The news is unconfirmed.

WOULD BAR CHIROPRACTORS.

Ontario Physicians and Surgeons Demand Restraining Legislation.

TORONTO, Oct. 30. — Physicians and surgeons of the province, with their legal counsel, went before Hon. W. J. Hanna yesterday to urge that the chiropractors now operating in Ontario be restrained from erecting a college and establishing their practice by the training of students. Arguments were put forth to show that the whole medical profession was opposed to any such move. On the other hand, the chiropractors urged upon the Minister the increase in numbers of their doctors and the demand for a training school. The arguments on either side were not new to the Provincial Secretary, the case having almost become a hardy annual, and again his decision was deferred. It will be remembered that Sir James Whitney at one time spoke of establishing a medical commission, which would deal with this matter among others.

Change In Names of Corps.

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—It was announced officially yesterday that the three battalions being raised in Montreal for the second contingent, and which have heretofore been designated as "French-Canadians," "Gunn's," and "Fisher's" battalions, will in future be known as the Twenty-Second, Twenty-Third and Twenty-Fourth battalions.

The French-Canadian battalion under Lieut.-Col. Gaudet will be the 22nd Battalion Royal Canadians, Lieut.-Col. F. W. Fisher's command will be the 23rd battalion and Lieut.-Col. Gunn's will be the 24th battalion.

German Report Denied.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Official denial was given in London yesterday to the report sent out from Berlin, Oct. 27, saying there had been sanguinary encounters between the British garrison and Indian troops at Alexandria, Egypt, and that a court-martial held at Alexandria had sentenced 30 men to death.

This German report was from official sources. It was declared yesterday to be an entire fabrication, the best proof of which was found in the fact that no Indian troops are stationed at Alexandria.

Bomb Kills Women.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—German aeroplanes yesterday sailed over Dunkirk, dropping two bombs. A woman and child were killed.

Two bombs were also dropped at Bethune, west of La Bassee. The first failed to explode, but the second fell in a group of women in the market place, killing nineteen and wounding forty others.

Eighty-Six Sank With Russian Ship.

TOKIO, Oct. 30.—The officers and 84 seamen on board the Russian cruiser Jemtchug were killed when the German cruiser Emden torpedoed and sank her in Penang harbor.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Notwithstanding that wheat ruled lower most of the time today, considerable strength developed the last hour owing to belief that export dealings in flour as well as wheat had resumed great size. The market raised firm 1-8c to ½c above last night. Corn gained 1-4c to ½c net, oats finished 3-8c up, and provisions irregular, varying from 10c decline to a rise of 7½c.

Ontario flour—Winter, 90 per cent. patents, $4.50 to $4.70, Montreal or Toronto freights, in bulk, nominal.

Cornmeal—Yellow, 98-pound sacks, $2.65 to $2.75.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 29.—Wheat prices opened 1-2c lower to 1-2c higher. Oats were unchanged to 1-8c higher, and flax 1-4c to 5-8c higher. following the opening there was a sharp break to the extent of 5-8c on No. 4, and 3 3-8c on other months, caused by heavy selling in Chicago and Minneapolis, and heavy primary movement.

Local receipts, while not heavy, are improving; 375 cars inspected yesterday as against 1300 cars last year, and in sight were 360 cars. The decline at noon was 1-2c to 1 3-8c from opening points. Later it was claimed considerable export sales had been worked on the break, one firm doing around 150,000 bushels, and other houses a similar quantity. Flax options made a gain of two cents to 7 1-8c, which is a feature, prices in this commodity having been on the down trend for some weeks.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Oct. 29.—The demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat continues poor, and cables were weaker again today at a decline of 1½d per quarter, but as prices in the Winnipeg market were also lower sales of a few loads were made for November shipment. The trade in grain on spot was quiet, but the tone of the market is firm, as there is no pressure on the part of holders to force sales at present.

Flour continues quiet both for local and export account, and the demand for millfeed is limited.

In baled hay the feeling is strong and higher prices are looked for in the near future.

Butter is steady with a fair local trade passing, but the cheese market is quiet. Eggs are active and strong.

CHEESE MARKETS.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 29.—On the cheese board today the offerings were 1050 boxes white and 25 colored, and the sales were 460 at 14⅝c and 380 at 14⅝c.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 29.—At today's cheese board the offerings were 1330 boxes colored and 820 of white. The sales were 305 colored and 280 white at 14¾c.

VANKLEEK HILL, Ont., Oct. 29.—There were 596 boxes of white and 125 boxes of colored cheese boarded and sold on the Vankleek Hill cheese board today. The price offered was 14⅝c.

GOVERNMENT TO INQUIRE.

Report of Concrete Beds on Isle of Orleans Not Taken Seriously.

OTTAWA, Oct. 30. — The alleged presence of concrete platforms deeply embedded in the ground at a point on the Isle of Orleans, dominating the citadel of Quebec and the entrance to the St. Lawrence, has been brought to the attention of the Militia Department. It is stated that a German company has been manufacturing concrete blocks at St. Jean, on the island, and the report is to the effect that gun platforms have been constructed for howitzer siege batteries. It is further stated that the same company has a concrete plant at the head of the lakes at Port Arthur, in the vicinity of the grain elevators.

The Department is not inclined to treat the matter very seriously, though it will be investigated. It is pointed out that in order to get guns on the island, the Germans would have to silence first the Levis forts, in which case Quebec would be at their mercy without the necessity of siege. It is not contemplated that such an event will occur.

Women Workers as Patrol.

LONDON, Oct. 30. — In order to help soldiers observe Lord Kitchener's injunction to be no more than courteous to women, the National Union of Women Workers has undertaken the duty of patrolling the territory outside the sentry lines. The services of the women police is gladly accepted, since the army authorities complain that the soldiers are being lured from Lord Kitchener's ideal by women camp followers.

Meantime an effort is made to increase camp diversions, such as concerts, and to provide other means of diverting the men.

Beyers Has Fled.

LONDON, Oct. 30. — A Reuter despatch from Cape Town, Union of South Africa, says that Gen. Botha, commander of the defence force, reports that the rebel Gen. Beyers' commandoes have been scattered and are not likely to reunite. Gen. Beyers has fled in an unknown direction.

Gouge Wounded Man's Eyes Out and Cut off Hands

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 29.—Further evidence in connection with alleged German atrocities is contained in a letter just received by A. E. Screeton, of this city, from a brother in London, England, who declares that he found a friend of his, a British soldier, in a London hospital, with both eyes gouged out, and both hands severed at the wrists, the work of German soldiers while lying wounded on a battlefield in France.

RETURNED FROM CAMP

Senator H. Corby, Messrs. Charles Corby of New York, J. V. Jenkins, Stewart Robertson, Walter Lingham, Stanley Carman, and Clifford Walker, returned last evening from an enjoyable outing at Corby Camp, on Great Westmacott Lake. His Worship Mayor Wills also returned with the party, whom he has been visiting since last Saturday. All look well and hearty after the excellent hunting and fishing.

Make Good Use of Those "Eye Gates"

Many Things Heard and Read That Are Not Appreciated Until Seen.

It has long been said that "seeing is believing." The ear is not to be depended on. It could be committed for heresy at any time. It cannot believe all it hears and on that account often takes the wrong side of the question. It is never quite sure of anything. But the eye sees and knows. It seldom errs. It is accurate. Its judgment is dependable. The things which make the deepest impression on the mind are those that are seen; things that pass to the mind through the "eye gate" becomes the main channel of information.

The pioneer of all learning is the eye. Young and old alike ask questions about what they see. Publishers of modern literature take advantage of this and use illustrations, so that the main points of the story or article may be impressed upon the minds of readers through the "eye gates" and thus be permanently established.

In selecting a Bible to present to its readers The Intelligencer found several that set up the claim of being illustrated, but, upon investigation, they were shown to merely contain "pictures" placed at random in the volume. In the illustrated Bible which we selected every illustration is in its place. Besides being in its place, it portrays the subject matter which it accompanies and makes clear—illuminates it—gives to it an added interest and an educational value. It matters not how many or what kind of Bibles you may have in your home, the illustrations in The Intelligencer Bible give to it an individuality that at once makes it the only real reference book in any collection of Bibles.

The Illustrated Bible distributed by The Intelligencer is bound in genuine limp leather, stamped in gold, printed in large readable type on a fine quality of paper. It contains educational helps, marginal references, self-pronouncing text and colored maps. With the six hundred magnificent illustrations which were prepared for this work at an expense of $50,000, are also full-page plates from the world-famous Tissot collection, so it becomes a work of art not to be excelled.

For a short time The Intelligencer will distribute this grand educational work to its readers, and everybody in Belleville and vicinity should avail themselves of this rare opportunity. The educational certificate is printed elsewhere in to-day's issue. Clip it now, before you forget it.

Annual Meeting Of Rifle Club

The annual meeting of the Belleville Rifle Association was held last evening in the police court room and was largely attended. Mr. H. Sneyd, President, occupied the chair and made an admirable speech, as did also Col. Lazier in reference to the object of the Association.

It was unanimously decided to make a grant of $20.00 to the captain, Mr. J. Douch, for his untiring efforts in coaching the members and bringing it up to its present state of efficiency.

The Association, as shown by the balance sheet, is in a most flourishing condition, the membership now being over one hundred.

The second annual prize distribution and smoking concert will be held at the 34th Battery Armouries on December 2. The officers elected were as follows:

President—M. Sneyd, Esq.

Captain—J Douch.

Vice Captain—W. J. Andrews.

Secretary Treasurer—D. J. Corrigan.

Assistant Secretary—A. Harman.

Committee—Jas. Thompson, W. Ridley, A. J. Stewart, A. D. Harper, P. McL. Forin.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

Can be Held, if Desired, on New on New Year's Day

Belleville can have its municipal elections on New Year's day if it so desires. A recent enactment by the Ontario legislature permits nominations on the 23rd of December with polling on the first of January. Before this, however, can happen the council must pass a bylaw not later than the 15th of November, and the by-law shall remain in force from year to year unntil repealed. The privilege of New Year's, an election day, is now extended to any muncipality that feels inclined to take advantage of this new statute.

The question of taking advantage of this new regulation is open for discussion, and electors might take it upon themselves to express their opinion to members of the council. If the people are so inclined there is ample opportunity for the passage of the by-law.

DEATH ROLL

GILBERT DELONG

Died in Belleville, yesterday, October 29th, Mr. Gilbert DeLong, aged about 88 years, a descendane of the grand old U. E. Loyalist stock. He was born in Prince Edward County, where he lived the most of his life, but of late had lived in the city. He was respected, and beloved by all who knew him. He was born of Quaker parents, but was converted over fifty years ago, being the first converted in the first revival held in the village of Hillier. He was a class leader from then until the Union. His home was always open for visiting ministers; always remaining steadfast. His wife preceded him to the tomb some twenty-eight years ago. He leaves to mourn his loss loss two sons, George of this city, and John of Prince Edward County, and three daughters, Mrs. J. G. Davison, Alberta; Mrs. F. C. Aman, of this city; and Mrs. (Capt.) E. McMullen, of Vancouver, B.C., besides sixteen grandchildren and about fifteen great grandchildren.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G.,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

Belleville Cheese Board Members Entertained

Board and the best cheese in the country was made in this district. In referring to immigration the speaker said that he as the local Government agent had already placed 150 immigrants this year; and the majority were doing well. For twenty years he had been Secretary-Treasurer of the Board and he was proud of the position.

Mr. H. W. Wrightmeyer sang "The Death of Nelson."

"Belleville Board of Trade" was the final toast proposed.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson, President of the Board, replied in a most felicitous manner. He said he was grateful to Mr. Elliott for the privilege of being present at the banquet and enjoy his hospitality. He, in company with Mr. Elliott, visited the old country this year. Mr. Elliott is appreciated in business circles in this city and he is also appreciated by the old country business men in the large centres. His reputation is well known there and he is highly respected and honored. Mr. Ketcheson referred to the fact that he, and Mr. Elliott and Mr. C. J. Bowell were in the city of London the night Great Britain declared war against Germany and the scene was a memorable one. The populace was so dense that traffic was not only impeded but completely stopped on some principal streets. The people went before Buckingham Palace and sang heartily the National Anthem and our beloved King presented himself. How he is loved and revered not only at home but abroad. At the present time politics were eliminated. Lord Kitchener, that great General, although a Conservative, had been called by a Liberal Government to take command as Minister of War. We will by God's help win. A year hence we may meet when all is at peace; if not, we are in this war to win. Some one has got to lose and it will not be the British Empire. (Loud applause).

Mr. Wm. Balcanquel spoke briefly, eulogizing Mr. Elliott for what he had done for not only the city of Belleville, but for the cheese industry of this district.

Mr. Elliott returned his heartfelt thanks to those who had attended the banquet, to those who had taken part in the singing, to Mrs. Col. Campbell, the accompanist, and to the press.

The pleasing function was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Recently the various cheese factories which are represented on the Belleville Cheese Board, gave the proceeds of one day's make of cheese to the Patriotic Fund, which amounted to $3,988.50. The factories and the amounts realized were as follows:—

C.F. Order No. 22760
THE BOARD OF RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS FOR CANADA.
Monday, the 26th day of October, A. D. 1914.
H. L. DRAYTON, K.C., Chief Commissioner.
S. J. McLEAN, Commissioner.

IN THE MATTER OF the crossing of the Kingston Road by the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway, in Lot 33, Concession 1, Township of Sidney, County of Hastings, and Province of Ontario, authorized by Order of the Board No. 12057, dated October 20th, 1910.

File No. 3878.308.

UPON the hearing of the matter at the sittings of the Board held in Belleville, May 1st, 1913, in the presence of Counsel for the Canadian Northern and Campbellford, Lake Ontario and Western Railway Companies, the City of Belleville, the petitioners, the evidence adduced, and what was alleged; and upon the report and recommendation of the Chief Engineer of the Board——

IT IS ORDERED

1. THAT THE SAID CROSSING BE PROTECTED BY GATES OPERATED BY DAY AND NIGHT WATCHMEN; detail plans of the layout to be filed within thirty days from the date of this order for the approval of an Engineer of the Board.

2. That the cost of installing, maintaining, and operating the gates be borne and paid one-half by the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway Company and one-half by the Campbellford, Lake Ontario & Western Railway Company.

3. That, pending the installation of said proposed gates, all train movements be flagged over the crossing day and night; the cost of the flagmen to be divided equally between the said Railway Companies.

Special Inducements From The Dressmaking Parlors

YOUR NEW SUIT, COAT OR DRESS CUT AND FIRST FITTING FREE

DURING THE MONTH OF NOVEMBER we will cut and give the first fitting free on any Suit, Coat or Dress Material bought in the store that sells at $1.00 a yard or upwards. This is an offer that has no precedent in the Ritchie Store. When one considers that in the cutting and first fitting lies the style and success of your garment, you will undoubtedly make haste to take advantage of this very liberal offer, especially when we tell you that the cutting and fitting will be done personally by Miss Peterson, our capable dressmaking artist, and one of the best in her line. Although this offer will be good for the entire month of November, we would advise ladies to make the selection of their Suit, Coat, or Dress Material at once, while there is still a large and varied selection to choose from.

REMEMBER! This Offer Is Good On Any Material That Sells At $1.00 And Upwards.

NEW DORMITORIES OPENED AT INSTITUTE FOR DEAF

Premier Hearst and Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, Perform Opening Ceremonies--Addresses Given by the Distinguished Visitors and Others

Hon. Wm. H. Hearst, who was selected as Premier of Ontario following the recent death of Sir James P. Whitney and Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education for the Province, were yesterday in this vicinity. The occasion of the visit of these distinguished gentlemen was the formal opening of the girls' and boys' dormitories erected in connection with the Ontario School for the Deaf. Shortly before the noon hour the visitors arrived

THOMAS MANLEY & SON, CONTRACTORS

by special car attached to a regular train over the line of the Canadian Northern Railway and disembarked at the Institution depot. Here they were met by Dr. Coughlin, Principal of the school and a guard of honor, composed of the Cadet Corps of the school who showed much proficiency in marching. The Premier and Minister were escorted to Dr. Coughlin's residence, where lunch was partaken of. Mrs. Hearst and Mrs. Pyne accompanied the party, as did also Mr. C. W. James, Private Secretary to Hon. Dr. Pyne.

After lunch the party, in charge of Dr. Coughlin, visited the two dormitories. The main entrance to the girls' dormitories was unlocked with a golden key by Hon. Dr. Pyne, and the boys' dormitory was unlocked with a golden key in the hands of the Premier. Others in the party, including ladies, were Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Hon. H. Corby, Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., and Rev. Dr. Baker, Principal of Albert College. The buildings were closely scrutinized and every part of them visited. All were delighted with the dormitories and their internal arrangements. In the girls' dormitories the Premier and Hon. Dr. Pyne were ushered into a room where some of the pupils were assembled, and were most cordially received. After a minute inspection of the buildings had been made the guests repaired to the main building and two classes composed of girls and boys gave evidence of their abilities to not only distinguish colors and ariticles but also articulated in a manner that was marvelous to those who were privileged to be in the class room. This was a feature of the visit that was not only interesting to all but in reality was a revelation. The Premier, the Minister and the ladies were especially gratified.

The distinguished visitors were then conducted to the dining hall, which was filled with invited guests and a number of the children of the school. A platform had been erected and the hall was most appropriately decorated for the occasion. In addition to the Premier and Minister, others occupying positions on the platform were: Dr. Coughlin, Principal of the School, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Hon. H. Corby, Mayor Carter, M.P.P., of Guelph, Mayor Wills, Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., Revs. Canon Beamish, A. L. Geen, A. R. Sanderson, Dr. Baker and Mr. F. E. O'Flynn. In the audience were many prominent residents of the city and vicinity.

The proceedings were opened by an appropriate prayer, offered by Rev. Dr. Baker. Dr. Coughlin then read the following address:—

To the Honorable W. H. Hearst, M.P.P., Premier of Ontario.
To the Honorable R. A. Pyne, M.D., LL.D., M.P.P., Minister of Education.

Honorable Gentlemen:

On behalf of myself, the staff and pupils, I desire to express to you our sense of the great honor conferred upon us by your visit to our School—an honor all the greater, Mr. Premier, because this is one of your first official acts since you became First Minister of the Province. We are glad to have this early opportunity of extending to you our hearty congratulations upon your rapid advancement in positions of responsibility and trust in the Government of the Province, and especially on your recent elevation to the highest and most honorable position in the gift of the people of Ontario. We feel confident that the best interests and the highest welfare of our great Province could not have been placed in more worthy hands.

It gives us very great pleasure, indeed, to welcome you both to our School on this, to us, very important occasion; a welcome which is extended with equal heartiness to Mrs. Hearst and Mrs. Pyne, whose presence with us to-day we very greatly appreciate. The fact that, amid the pressure of your many duties and responsibilities, you were willing to take time for this visit is evidence of the personal interest you take in the welfare of our pupils, and gives us assurance that we shall always be able to count on your sympathetic co-operation and assistance in everything that pertains to their advancement. We wish on this occasion to express to you, and to the other members of the Government, our great appreciation of the splendid new buildings which you have provided, and which you have just done us the honor of formally opening. No more beautiful, commodious and comfortable residences for pupils can be found on the continent, and they will stand as an eloquent and lasting tribute to the generous and progressive spirit that prompted their erection.

To you, Dr. Pyne, we are under a very special and very great debt of gratitude for the many favors we have received at your hands, and any words we could use would be inadequate to fittingly express our sincere appreciation of the kindly consideration we have received from you throughout your term of office as Minister of Education. During that time very great advances have been made in the work of educating the deaf. The standard of attainment has steadily advanced till, at the close of the last session, our senior class successfully passed the High School Entrance examination. These pupils, who to-day are to be honored by receiving their diplomas from your hands, were, by your kindly permission, allowed to return, and this year are taking up a course of study practically identical with the first-year work in the High Schools. This, while the most important, is only one of the many improvements that have been made under your regime. The number of teachers on the staff has been greatly increased, thus enabling us to lessen the number of pupils in a class, without which our advanced work could not have been accomplished. The oral method of instruction has been introduced, with very satisfactory results so far, and with prospects of still greater success in the future, when it shall have become thoroughly established in all the grades. The name of the School has been changed so as to properly denote its character as a purely educational institution, and the Compulsory School Attendance Law of the Province has been made applicable to the deaf. While the moral and mental development of our pupils has thus so greatly advanced, their physical welfare has also been safeguarded in every possible way. The outstanding evidence of this is the erection of the two new residences, to which reference has already been made, which will ever be a monument to your progressive spirit and earnst solicitude for the best interests of the children of Ontario. We assure you, sir, that the pupils of our School heartily appreciate all that you have done for them and are deeply grateful to you and to the Government for the generous way

Edison at Key Bothers Operator

Quick Complaints Come That "Boy on the Wire is Gumming Things up"

DETROIT, Oct. 30.—Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, who has been visiting scenes of his boyhood in this section of the State for the last week, took a trip to Port Huron yesterday, and once more tried his hand at the operator's key. He even went so far as to take the ware from a newsboy, and sell them among his friends.

As a boy Mr. Edison sold papers and worked as an operator for the same railroad over which he traveled to Port Huron yesterday. His last trip, however, was in a special train engaged for him by his host, Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer.

As the inventor passed through Mount Clemens he stepped into the telegraph operator's office, and tapped off a mesasge to his children in New Jersey. The message was interrupted, however. The Mount Clemens operator turned to Mr. Edison with a smile and said:

"An operator on the line is complaining. He says there is a boy on the wire, whose practicing is gumming things up."

It is not known what the complaining operator said when he was told that Thomas A. Edison had caused the trouble.

At Port Huron Mr. Ford insisted on equipping his host with all the necessary equipment of a news butcher.

Mr. Edison appeared to take keen delight in the situation, and was soon selling fruit and candies to his friends. Gum brought as high as 50 cents a package, and when the inventor stepped off the train he poured the proceeds of his day's business into the hat of a grinning porter.

Montreal Soldier Killed in Belgium

William Cockhill, Victim of a German Shell

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—William Cockhill, of Montreal, was killed at Lille, France, while on active service. Messages to that effect were received here and made public today.

Cockhill had been a chauffeur in the employ of Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, and went with the Canadian overseas expeditionary force, having joined the mechanical transport section of the army service corps as a driver. The majority of this part of the contingent at once proceeded to the continent and joined the allied army to serve in the transport section. At Lille, a shell struck the car Cockhill was handling, and the gas tank exploded, the driver being instantly killed.

A sister received official notification of the death of Mr. Cockhill. Mr. Cockhill was married two days previous to his departure from Monteral.

FROM THE WAR ZONE

Special to the Intelligencer.

OFFENSIVE MOVEMENTS BY GERMAN TROOPS

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Official announcements say yesterday was marked by a general offensive movement by the Germans along the entire front from Nieuport to Arras and by violent attacks at other points on the line of battle. Between Nieuport and La Bassee there was alternate advance and retreat, while between Arras and La Bassee all the German attacks were repulsed with heavy losses to both. The Allies lost ground to the south of Ypres but gained to the eastward of that point. In the regions of the Aisne, the Woevre, Chaulnes and Souain, the Allies have gained ground.

CAVALRY APPARENTLY HEADING FOR EGYPT

Reports from Cairo say strong Turkish cavalry divisions have arrived at Akabah on the Red Sea, two hundred miles south of the Suez Canal, apparently headed to invade Egypt.

ALLIED SITUATION IS NOW EXCELLENT

LONDON Oct. 31.— A despatch from Paris last night says the news from the front is excellent. Some points of extra strategic importance have been occupied by the Allies, and progress continues all along the line.

TURKISH TORPEDO SINKS RUSSIAN GUNBOAT

The Russian gunboat Donetz has been sunk by Turkish torpedo boats off Odessa.

A HOLY WAR IS NOW ANTICIPATED

A despatch from Athens says there have been great demonstrations in Damascus in favor of a Holy War against the Christians, and especially against Great Britain.

CRUISERS CAPTURED

LONDON, Oct. 31.—An unconfirmed despatch to the Post from Sydney, N.S.W., says the German cruisers Scharnhorst and the Gueseaan have been captured as the result of the failure of their coal supply.

FIRES DESTROY MUCH PROPERTY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

REVELSTOKE, B.C., Oct. 31.—An incendiary fire set in three places last night destroyed the forest mills, saw and planing mills and the Lardeaux Hotel at Comaplaix, with a loss of $250,000.

BELGIAN MONARCHS ARE ON THE FIRING LINE

King and Queen Hearten and Help the Soldiers--Direct Work of the Organization of Hospitals and Ambulance Corps--King Albert in a Simple Field Uniform Mingles with the Troops

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Special—Hugh Gibson, Secretary of the United States Legation at Brussels, returned from a special mission to Havre, whither he went from London for the purpose of conferring with the Belgian Government, during which he visited the King and Queen of the Belgians on the firing line at Dixmude, having thrilling experiences witnessing the actual fighting. One incident of the trip was a shell bursting nearby, killing eleven men. On account of his diplomatic status Gibson was precluded from discussing much of what he saw, including the military operations.

He first visited the Belgian Government officials at Havre, then at the instance of the Belgians themselves he proceeded to Belgium, and there was received by both the King and Queen, neither of whom has ever left Belgian soil, and neither of whom intends doing so until it is absolutely necessary. Also neither believes that such necessity will ever exist. The King and Queen are doing heroic work according to Gibson.

The King in simple field uniform is in the trenches constantly directing operations and talking with his men, whose enthusiasm is always aroused by the King's presence, which stimulates their spirits and keeps them fighting. The King shows no fear whatsoever, and keeps at the very front. The Queen is no less brave, she, too, venturing into the perilous zone. She is in charge of the organization of hospitals and ambulance corps, which pick up the wounded. She takes an active part in the work, knowing much of the manner of treating the wounded, being the daughter of an eminent surgeon, and having devoted study to medicine. She is at all times within the sound of the great guns, and, while Gibson was talking with her, the windows rattled with the explosion of the great guns of the British Dreadnoughts lying off shore and bombarding the German positions. Often the Queen goes up to the firing line while directing the wounded. Both the King and Queen evince great interest and grateful appreciation of the American efforts to afford relief in stricken Belgium. Gibson returns to Brussels in a few days.

Guardians Needed In Some Cases

Judge Choquet Administrator for Two Recipients of Patriotic Fund Relief

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—Not the least of the troubles with which the members of the relief committee of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Patriotic Fund have to contend, is the supervision, in extraordinary cases, of expenditure of the money appropriated for the assistance of the families of those who have gone to the front. Fortunately, such cases are extremely rare, but there are half a dozen beneficiaries whose allowances have to be administered. Judge Choquet is the guardian in two cases, and four of the lady visitors act for this number of others who have shown that they are not capable of putting the money received to the uses for which it is intended, if left to themselves.

"I am afraid," said Miss Helen Reid, the secretary of the relief committee, "that we shall have to add another to our list. She was in here today, and while she always addresses me as 'Dearie' her very frankness, not to speak of an aroma of ardent spirits which always envelops her, warns us that she had better be protected against herself. Her home, if so it may be designated, is at the top of a wooden rookery, and not easy to get at but when our visitors call, they generally find the door barred and no amount of knocking will bring her to appear. I asked her once how she explained this, and she relied, cheerfully: 'Why, shure, dearie, as meself that might be after lyin' down with a drop too much of the liquor in me, and you wouldn't be expecting that I'd be showing myself to a rale lady in that condition.'"

In addition to the case of the bogus soldier whose wife obtained relief while he remained at home, which is in the hands of the Crown Prosecutor, twelve other matters are engaging the attention of lawyers who have volunteered their services to the committee, mainly disputes with landlords whose claims appear to be questionable.

Transferred to Save His Life

OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—To save his life from Hindu enemies the government is transfering Immigration Inspector Malcolm Reid from Vancouver

Mr. Reid had charge of the government forces at Vanvoucer, which held four hundred Hindus at bay on the Komagata Maru for two months and then sent them back to Asia.

When the boat left it is said some of the Hindus domiciled in Vancouver swore vengeance, and declared vendetta upon all concerned. Three men have already been assassinated. One of them, Mr Hopkinson was Mr. Reid's assistant, and two others were Hindus in the government service.

Twice attempts have been made on Mr. Reid's life, and each time he has narrowly escaped.

He is now in Vancauver protected by guards and will be quietly moved east.

There is much speculation as to whether the conspirators will then end their efforts at murder or if their vengeance will seek Mr. Reid whereever he goes.

Going to Help The Belgians

PARIS, Oct. 30.—The Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs reported at a Cabinet meeting held to-day that measures have been taken jointly by the Spanish and American Ministers at Brussels, in agreement with the German authorities, to import food for the Belgian population.

The necessities of the situation required that this work, begun in the capital, be extended throughout the whole country, the Foreign Minister declared.

At the same meeting the Premier presented complaints that exporters of Barcelona were unable to collect debts due from citizens of belligerent countries on account of the proclamation of moratoriums.

KILLED AND INJURED IN TRAIN WRECK

(Canadian Press Despatch)

BINGHAMPTON, N.Y., Oct. 31.—Unofficial reports issued from the Lackawanna Ry. office here say two persons were killed and fifteen hurt when train No. 32 was thrown over an embankment this morning. The wires were thrown down and communication interrupted.

THE RED CROSS SUPPLY COMMITTEE MAKES A HIT

Last Evening's Event Resulted in a Large Attendance and Gratifying Financial Returns--The Many Booths and What They Contained -Living Pictures and the Midway--The Stage Programme

The event at the Armouries last evening, under the auspices of the Red Cross Supply Committee of the Patriotic Association, was a splendid success in every particular, delighting the hearts of the hundreds who attended, and reflecting high credit upon Mrs. (Dr.) McColl, the convenor of the financial committee, Mrs. J. A. McFee, the ticket secretary, and Miss Helen Wallbridge, the publicity agent, who labored so faithfully with others to bring about the gratifying returns of the occasion.

The immense drill apartment was a veritable bower of beauty, with handsome booths, individual in their construction, surrounding the room, and, as the brilliant lights were turned on in the evening, the effect was beautiful beyond description, and as the numberless patrons filed in, the gasps of delight were visible, with expressions of approval on every hand. It was, in a word, the event of the season, and each lady connected with the arrangement has reason to feel proud with her share in the great plan.

The booths appeared to vie with each other in beauty, the variety of designs fitting the nature of articles on sale, and the aptness with which the attendants caught the patronage of the assemblage was an interesting part of the occasion. Each counter was covered with supplies of its kind, and the financial results must have gone into the hundreds.

First, and to the right of the entrance, was the governed by The Triangular Club of boys from the Y.M.C.A., those in charge being: Mrs Yeomans and Miss Mary Yeomans (ex-officio); Ernest Taylor, Local Work Director; Wendell Johnson, George Merriman, Ford Edwards, Greer Roberts, John McGie, Fred Deacon, Jack Marshall, Clement Sneyd.

The booth was prettily arranged, and contained everything conceivable in Hallowe'en novelties, which went like hot cakes, leaving a large space to be replenished for to-night's trade.

Next came the

HOME MADE BOOTH,

Convenor, Mrs. McCarthy; assistants, Mrs. E. Guss Porter, Mrs. Stewart Masson, Mrs. Hyman, Sr.

The articles in stock were home-made bread, cake, pies, pickles, jams, soft drinks, everything, in fact to satisfy a healthy stomach.

The booth itself was an attraction with its black and yellow canopied top, at the highest point of which stood a big black cat, while beneath the howler stood a woman with a broom, ready for action. This trading point proved very popular throughout the evening.

THE CANDY TABLE

Literally covered with everything in its line.

Convenor, Mrs. J. R. Smith; assistants, Miss Rathbun, Miss Doyle, Miss Gladys Vermilyea, Miss Doris Vermilyea, Miss Helen Lazier.

THE TEA ROOM

In all its daintiness, with best of liquids available, and a palatable sandwich, or whatever might be desired.

Convenor, Mrs. Hurley; assistants, Mrs. W. Lingham, Mrs. H. Sneyd, Mrs. Stewart Robertson.

Attendants, Miss Helen Fraleck, Miss Jessie Fraleck, Miss Margaret Johnson, Miss Mabel Phippen, Miss Jessie McGie, Miss Amy Wallbridge.

Glad To See Turks In War

Armenian Says There Are 100,000 Christains In Turkish Army

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Spoken to with regard to Turkey's entry into the war, Mr. Levon Babayon, a prominent Armenian resident in Toronto, said Albanians, Macedonians, Armenians and Greeks in Toronto were delighted at the idea, because they realized it would mean Turkey's overthrow.

There were about 100,000 Christians in the Turkish army, but they would join the allies at the first opportunity. The only Turks likely to uphold Germany would be the Macedonians. In view of the fact, therefore, that Turks in the city are Armenians or Albanians, they will not feel it their duty to leave the city. There are not many Macedonians in the city and very few in the Dominion. There is no consular representation for Turks in Toronto.

Canadian Student is Under Arrest

LONDON, Oct. 30.—News has been received at the Foreign Office that Winthrop P. Bell, a student at Gotingen University, and son of a well-known merchant at Halifax, N.S., is under military arrest for creating a disturbance. It is believed that Bell headed a demonstration of other British students at Gottingen.

Fears Bourassa Taint May Spread

KINGSTON, Ont., 30.—The fact that the Political Science Club of Queen's University has asked Mr. Henri Bourassa to address its members and that that gentlemen has accepted for November 20, has stirred the editorial wrath of The Daily Standard, which to-day comes out in a trong editorial against Mr. Bourassa and against his presence in the University at this time of national stress.

After setting out that Mr. Bourassa proposed as his subject "The national observance and respectability of Canada" The Standard, declaring that it does not propose to "enter into a discussion of the question of what earthly or possible connection there can be between Bourassa and the respectability of Canada" proceeds to condemn Bourassa bitterly for his almost disloyal utterances and declares that the invitation should be withdrawn or, failing that, that the University authorities should refuse to permit the lecture to be held in the University halls lest others might be affected by the Bourassa taint.

PENSION BILL IS PLANNED FOR CANADIAN VOLUNTEERS

OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—A pension bill will be introduced by the Government at the coming session of Parliament, providing for a generous pension scheme for all Canadian volunteers killed or disabled in active serv.cei There is a pension act now on the statute books, but it is inadequate to meet present requirements. The new act will probably provide for a pension of at least half of the amount of pay drawn by the men on active service, this corresponding to the United States pension act, and being considered higher than in Great Britain or France, where the amount granted is only three-tenths of the active service pay.

In the case of the South African war Canadians were granted the regular British pension, which was paid by the Imperial Government. In the present war Canada is assuming all obligations of pay, equipment, maintenance and pensions for the Canadian troops.

The question of pensions for the men of the permanent force, including the members of the civil service connected with the Militia Department, will be dealt with in a general civil service pension bill, which it is understood the Government has now under consideration.

Hollowe'en Party

At the residence of Mrs. F. Herity, Lewis street, last evening, a Hallowe'en party was given by her daughter, Miss Marie, and her son, Master Max Herity. The young people present thoroughly enjoyed themselves in games, etc. All who attended were costumed and some of them were unique in design. Those in costume and the characters represented were as follows:—

Marie Herity—a nurse.
Mabel Harrison—Britannia.
Anna O'Neil—Fairy Queen.
Mabel Woodley—Red Cross Nurse.
Helena Stocker—Dutch Woman.
Beulah Ketcheson—Fairy.
Keitha Wooton—Fairy.
Marjorie Ostrom—Gipsy Girl.
Annie Adams—Bohemian Girl.
Nancy Latta—Harem Girl.
Gerald Morton—Pink Lady.
Harold Woodley—Highland Laddie.
Fred Woodley—Dude.
Russel Woodley—Dude.
Stanley Minns—Mexican.
Roy Bird—Dude.
Bob Bateman—Dude.
Wilbur Bateman—Teddy Bear.
Max Herity—Pirate.
Sam Herity—Pyjamas.

A prize was offered for the best costumes worn, and Miss Annie O'Neil captured the prize for the girls and Master Russel Woodley the boys' prize. Mr. Allison, the judge had no easy task in deciding who were entitled to the prizes. During the evening a sumptuous repast was partaken of and at midnight the enjoyable evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem. Mrs. Herity and members of her family were voted ideal hosts.

HIGHER TEA PRICES PREDICTED

In London, Calcutta and Colombo teas are fetching average higher prices today than they have for twenty-two years, with prospects of the market going still higher. The crop has been large, but quality poor, and the sinking of the steamships "Diplomat" and "City of Winchester," with nine million pounds on board has more than acted as a set-off to the the large crop

Secretary.

A Fair Example

The following letter tells of the promptness with which this Company settles its claims. It is a fair example of our methods:

Gentlemen,—

It is with much pleasure that I am able to write you instructing you that I have received today payment in full of $1,000, for the risk held on my late son, Freddie Clayton Gerow, who lost his life on the 13th of September through an unfortunate accident in the Bay of Quinte near here. The proofs of loss were prepared by my solicitors on Saturday the 26th inst., and I received payment this 30th day of September. You can readily understand the relief that payment of this amount affords me at this very critical time and goes a long way to relieve the anxiety which I otherwise would feel if payment had been delayed.

Yours truly,
MRS. EMILY GEROW.

FLEETS IN CONFLICT

Turkish and Russian Warships Battling in North Sea.

Bedouins Are Massing on the Egyptian Frontier as a Result of Turkey's Entry Into the War and Situation In Southern Europe Is Complicated — Odessa Has Been Shelled and Civilians Killed.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Rome says:

"It is reported from Constantinople that a battle between Turkish and Russian fleets is in progress off Odessa.

A despatch, however, received in Vienna from Cairo and forwarded to London by the correspondent at Amsterdam, of the Central News Agency, says that the entire Turkish fleet is reported to have left the Black Sea in which Odessa is an important grain port. It is also said that strong Turkish cavalry divisions have arrived in the neighborhood of the Gulf of Akabah on the Red Sea about 200 miles from the Suez Canal.

A despatch from Amsterdam says: "It is reported that scout vessels of the Turkish fleet have been observed at the entrance of the Gulf of Suez. The vessels are equipped with wireless apparatus.

Reports to Lloyd's agency in London yesterday were that the Russian gunboat Donitz was sunk by a Turkish torpedo boat in a raid on the forts of Odessa on Thursday and part of the crew drowned. The Russian steamers Lazareff, Willaz and Whampia, and the French steamer Portugal were damaged by shell fire and a number of sailors killed or wounded.

The suburbs of Odessa were shelled and some civilians killed. Some American property was damaged.

It was also stated that the Russian Ambassador at Constantinopel has been withdrawn and Russian consuls ordered to leave Turkey.

The Berlin newspaper, Zeitung Am Mittag, published yesterday what purports to be an official communication from Constantinople. It states: "Russian torpedo boats attempted to prevent the Turkish fleet leaving the Bosphorus and steaming into the Black Sea. The Turkish ships opened fire and sunk two of the Russian vessels. More than thirty Russian sailors, saved by the Turks, were made prisoners. The Turkish fleet sustained no losses."

In anticipation of the possible invasion of Egyptian territory British Ambassador Mallet, acting under instructions from his Government, has plainly informed the Grand Vizier that if the Turks cross the frontier it would mean war with the entente powers.

A clamorous mob surrounded the Turkish Embassy at Petrograd, manifesting against Turkey. The people were restrained from violence by mounted gendarmes.

Earlier the same mob paraded the streets with bared heads, singing and cheering. They called the orchestras out of the hotels and demanded that they assist by playing the national anthem. The excitement in Petrograd is the greatest since the declaration of war against Germany.

Now that Turkey has cast the die the most important news from the near east is the unrest among the Bedouins, who are reported to be massing on the Egyptian frontier. At Damascus, in Asiatic Turkey, great demonstrations have been held in favor of a holy war against Christians, with Britain as the particular enemy.

In Russian circles the Turkish outbreak is regarded as of more vital concern to Britain than Russia owing to the religious sympathies which the Turk may excite among his co-religionists of India and Egypt. Egypt has been described as "the meeting place of East and West, a jumping-off place in which Imperial forces can be concentrated for action in Europe, in India, in eastern Asia, or in South Africa. Recently German shipping in the Suez Canal excited suspicion, and the Khedival Government, acting under British advice, ordered the vessels to clear.

The canal could easily be blocked by the sinking of one or several mercantile steamers, or by the blowing up of some of the locks. All these contingencies have engaged British attention, and precautions have been taken to prevent German secret agents doing any damage to this important strategical waterway.

Petrograd accepts the situation quietly, and disclaims any idea of aggressive warfare against the Turks. Russia asserts her intention merely to protect Russian interests around the Black Sea from attack.

English newspapers take an equally philosophic view of Turkey's action, and express the belief that, while the military situation will not be greatly changed, Turkey in Europe is doomed to extinction. Unless Bulgaria joins the enemies of Turkey an invasion by land of European Turkey is impracticable, according to British observers, and the warfare will be naval. The Turkish navy, assisted by the former German cruisers Goeben and Breslau, is considered here to be far more formidable than her army, which is said to be inefficiently equipped and poorly fed.

Italy To Act For Russia.

ROME, Oct. 31. — Turkey's attack on Russia without a declaration of war is causing a serious impression, as it is generally taken to mean a further extension of the war and also its indefinite prolongation.

On the request of the Russian Government the Italian Government has instructed the Ambassador of Italy at Constantinople to protect Russian subjects and interests.

We are admonished to love our enemies, but it doesn't mean that we should forget our [illegible]

An Easy Way To Stop Head Noises

GOOD ADVICE FOR THOSE WHO FEAR DEAFNESS

Men and women who are growing hard of hearing and who experience stuffy feeling of pressure against their ear drums, accompanied by buzzing rumbling sounds in their head like water falling or steam escaping should take prompt and effective measures to stop this trouble. Head-noises are almost invariably the fore-runners of complete or partial deafness and most people suffer from them constantly. Sometimes these head noises become so distracting and nerve racking, with their never ceasing "hum" they drive the sufferer almost frantic and complete nervous breakdown and even violent insanity have been known to result.

Thanks to a remarkable scientific discovery made recently in England it is now possible to almost instantly lessen the severity of these headnoises and in a very short time to completely and permanently overcome them. With the disappearing of the head noises, the hearing also greatly improves and very frequently can be restored to normal. This English treatment is known as Parmint and can be easily and safely self administered at home. Leading druggists in Belleville and vicinity now have it in stock. Get from your druggst 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength) and mix it at home with ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar. Stir until dissolved and hearing improves. Parmint is used double strength in this way not only to reduce, by tonic action, the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian tube and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum but to correct any excess of secretion in the middle ear and the result it gives are both remarkably quick and effective.

How Thin People Can Put On Flesh

A NEW DISCOVERY

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Omit the flesh cream rub-ons. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "stay there" fat should be the net result. Sargol charges your weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles—gives the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of the body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food and prepares it for the blood in easily assimilated form. Thin people gain all the way from 10 to 20 pounds a month while taking Sargol, and the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a scientific combination of six of the best flesh-producing elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and J. S. McKeown's Drug Store and all other druggists in Belleville and vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back.

New Dormitories Opened at Institute for Deaf

in which they have provided every possible facility for their education and welfare; and we are all proud to know that, when the further plans for remodelling this main building have been carried into effect, we will have an educational establishment for the deaf which will be second to none in America.

In closing, let us assure you, sirs, that we will not be content with a mere verbal expression of our gratitude for the many kind favors we have received from you, but will strive to manifest our appreciation by putting forth even greater efforts to give our pupils the best possible education and training, and thus fit them to become intelligent, industrious and respected citizens, able to act well their part in whatever sphere in life they may be called upon to fill.

W. J. CAMPBELL
MISS G. LINN
GEO. F. STEWART

The Ontario School for the Deaf,
October 30th, 1914.

Premier Hearst in rising to respond was accorded a most hearty reception and he delivered a most earnest and patriotic address. He said he appreciated from the bottom of his heart the reception which had been accorded him and his colleague. It had not been a duty but a privilege to come to the School and see the wonderful things which were being accomplished. In referring to his position as Premier of the Province of Ontario, the banner Province of the Dominion, he said he only hoped that he would be able to perform his duties so as to merit the respect and esteem of all. The late lamented Premier, Sir James P. Whitney, was a man whose memory is revered. He gave the best that was in him for the people of not only this Province but the Dominion and he has left behind a great and glorious record. His monument could be described as one that was for the betterment of the people. The speaker said he had just taken up the reins which Sir James had dropped and he recognized the responsibilities of his position and the duties devolving upon him in directing the destinies of this great Province. His desire and aim would ever be to give to the Province clean and upright government. In referring to the School the Premier said the work being done was miraculous, and to the Principal, Dr. Coughlin, much credit was due. It should be the first care of any Government to see that the children are educated. We desire to educate the children on the lines of morality and truth. Teaching them what is right should be the supreme thought. This was the idea he desired to see inculcated in the boys and girls of this land of the maple leaf. He was delighted with the new buildings. His colleague, Dr. Pyne, Dr. Coughlin, the architect and builders were to be congratulated. They were second to none in the Province, if not on the continent. As to improving the main building, he could make no promises now. We have to curtail capital expenditure, but the Hon. Minister of Education would get all he could for educational purposes. The work he had seen demonstrated in the class room was a God-given work. These boys and girls of our land appeal to us and they call upon us to provide for them the best that can be provided. We will ever endeavor to make this Institution the best it can possibly be made. God bless you all in your work. He was proud of the boys of the school who in their red coats had provided a guard of honor. What a privilege it was to be born in this country and under the Union Jack, a flag that stands for liberty and wide-world freedom. It also stands for sacrifice. Men today were dying for the flag. That is the flag we delight to honor, it is the emblem of liberty and justice wherever it goes. The British Empire can never go down or its glory dim. We are at present travelling through a day of darkness, but a brighter and more glorious day will dawn and a greater empire will it be in the future than ever it has been in the past. Let us be courageous and put forward a bold front to the enemy and that proud and grand old flag will ever be unfurled to the battle and the breeze. The hand that holds it aloft is the Omnipotent Hand and the sun will never set upon it. (Loud applause). In concluding the Premier said he was delighted with the progress made at the School and he hoped it would continue in its march of progress. As the days go by may the school go forward to greater achievements. He thanked Dr. Coughlin and the committee for the kind references in the address to Mrs. Hearst and Mrs. Pyne. (Applause.)

Hon. Dr. Pyne said it was a great pleasure for him to be present on such an occasion. He was proud of the magnificent buildings which had been erected. He had realized what a calamity would have happened had a fire broken out in the main building with the dormitories above, and hence the erection of the new building. The Hon. speaker paid a tribute to Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., whom he characterized as a worthy member and one who had been persistent for the erection of the new dormitories. The Minister deemed it a great honor to have the privilege of coming to the School with the Premier, Hon. Mr. Hearst, who had taken the place of the late Sir James Whitney, Ontario's grand man. The present Premier was the right man in the right place. The address presented was full of thought and embraced much. In speaking of educational matters the Minister said that there had been much advance in education, which was now compulsory up to a certain age. He considered that the term formerly applied to the School, namely, the Deaf and Dumb Institution, was a misnomer, and he had caused an Act to be passed changing it to the Ontario School for the Deaf. Although compulsory education may be applied in the case of a deaf child it is not done, and is not necessary, for all are anxious to obtain an education. They gravitate to this School. The education sentiment aboard in the Province is shared by the parents of the deaf as well as others. Education was progressing rapidly and is progressing in this school. Good buildings and equipment were necessary, but a good Superintendent and good teachers were most essential. That education was highly prized in this city was evidenced by the fine school buildings which have been erected. The idea of having cadets in the school was splendid. A boy is better by being a cadet or a scout. In referring to the war, and especially Germany, the Hon. speaker said that while that country was regarded as a great educational centre, one man's education seemed to have been neglected, and that man was the Kaiser, who was nothing less than a despot. Of the result of the war there was no doubt. Before closing Hon. Dr. Pyne said this was a great industrial age, and he hoped to see added to the School other lines of industrial training that is not there today, and the School made more perfect. He congratulated Dr. Coughlin and the children of the School. The girls and boys were charming in their presence. He thanked all for the address and the reception which had been tendered the Premier and himself. He hoped the School would go on and prosper. (Applause).

Eight bright girls were then brought upon the platform and signed in a most exquisite touching manner "Rule Britannia."

Hon. Dr. Pyne then presented diplomas to the following girl pupils who had succeeded in passing up to High School work: Evelyn Hazlitt, Dorothy Hazlitt, Marie Gorelamy, Mariel Kennedy, Mona McFarlane, Gladys Sours, Drusilla Buchan, Isabel Barker.

Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., was called upon and spoke briefly. He said the institution was established here 45 years ago when Hon. Sanfield McDonald was Premier of the Province. During that time many able men had been in charge of the ship of state, but none better qualified than the present Premier. He was delighted that the Prime Minister was present. Sir James P. Whitney has passed away and another has taken his place. He was proud of the fact that the mantle of Sir James had fallen upon Hon. Mr. Hearst. In referring to the new buildings Mr. Johnson reminded Hon. Dr. Pyne that the main structure needed improving. He spoke in an eulogistic manner of Hon. Mr. Hearst, and said the high ideals of the Prime Minister must appeal to all irrespective of politics and he appeals to all classes of Ontario. The Prime Minister is the product of the northern part of the Province. The speaker said he believed that the great future of this country is in the north land. He was proud to pay his fealty to the new King of Ontario. Sir James P. Whitney is dead but his memory will always live, and the gentleman following him will give good government to this Province. We welcome him here today, and also the Hon. Dr. Pyne, and Mrs. Hearst and Mrs. Pyne. The wish is that they may come here often.

Mr. T. W. Reeves of Toronto, President of the Deaf Association of Toronto, a former well known pupil of the School, spoke briefly, and his remarks were interpreted by Prof. Coleman. Mr. Reeves said he was pleased to be present and pleased at the progress made at the school. He was proud of the new buildings and Hon. Dr. Pyne was the right man in the right place. The deaf all over Ontario mourned the death of Sir James Whitney and hoped Hon. Mr. Hearst would walk in the footsteps of the late Premier, who was a friend of the deaf.

This completed the speech-making, and the pleasing function was brought to a close by reciting a verse of the National Anthem by the pupils of the school, who did themselves credit.

The addresses delivered were interpreted to the pupils by Prof. Coleman and Mr. Campbell.

A dainty luncheon was provided for those who desired to partake of it.

Hon. Mr. Hearst and Hon. Dr. Pyne were then driven to their car and left via C. N. O. R. for the Queen City.

NOTES

The boys' dormitory was erected by Messrs. Manley & Son of this city, and was in every respect worthy of their skill as contractors. It is an up-to-date structure, reflecting upon their ability as builders. A complete report of the boys' dormitory will appear in Monday's issue. The contractor and his son, Mr. Thomas Manley, Jr., certainly did excellent work and are worthy of the highest praise.

Owing to the change in the time table of the C.N.O.R. the programme designed at the ceremony in connection with the opening of the dormitories had to be curtailed. For this reason Dr. Coughlin Principal of the school, was compelled to shorten the programme, much to his regret.

THE GOVERNMENT'S POLICY

The recent opening of the interior storage elevators, built by the Borden Government at Saskatoon and Moose Jaw, illustrates in a striking manner the expeditious way in which public enterprises have been undertaken and carried out since September, 1911, when the new order of things was instituted.

When the Borden Government came into office it was not committed to the interior storage elevator policy. Knowing that a serious grain handling problem had to be solved in the Prairie Provinces, it set itself to obtain the best advice procurable on the subect, resolutely deciding to provide a solution at whatever cost. The various bodies of organized farmers in the Prairie Provinces had, on many ocacsions, endorsed the policy of building storage elevators, which fact inclined the Government to view it with favor. Then the Grain Commission, the best body of its kind in the world (incidentally called into existence by the Government) recommended the elevators. This involved the expenditure of many millions of dollars, for the Saskatoon and Moose Jaw elevators alone have cost about $2,500,000, and several others have yet to be built.

These elevators were promised this fall. That promise has, in every particular, been fulfilled. Not only have the elevators been built in record-breaking time, but they are to-day actually handling large quantities of grain.

In passing, it may be said that they possess the best equipment to be found in any part of the world. In short, they are the last word in elevator construction. In years past, when threshing operations were delayed by rain, or the snow came early, thousands of dollars were lost through damp grain. With the splendid hospital equipment possesed by these elevators, losses of this nature will, in future, be almost unknown. Losses through unfair grading and dockage will also be a thing of the past.

Nothing better demonstrates the Borden Government to meet the requiremnts of Western agriculture than its elevator policy. What is more, the rapid carrying of it into effect shows, moreover, that the Borden Government does more than talk about and promise a policy. It not only adopts a policy, but it supplies the means for the practical and successful operation of it. On what purely prairie enterprise did the Laurier Government ever spend $2,000,000?

So adequate and satisfactory has the Government's policy with respect to Western grain handling been that to-day there are practically no grievances arising out of it. The big problems have been solved so thoroughly that Canada has now one of the most satisfactory grain handling systems in the world. If new grounds of complaint arise, if any farmer has a grievance, all he has to do is to place it before the Grain Commission. If grounds for complaint are found to exist a remedy is provided in quick time. In this respect Western Canada is away ahead of the Western States.

AN ANTIQUATED POLITICIAN

During the course of a recent interview in Winnipeg Hon. "Joe" Martin, who recently left the Liberal party in Great Britain, because he could not get along with Premier Asquith, announced that he would re-enter Federal politics, and, at the request of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, would take a prominent part in the Western campaign, the policy of the Liberal party being approximately one of free trade. So far as one could judge, it would be almost the same as that contained in the tariff plank of the celebrated Ottawa platform on which the Liberals went to the country in 1896, and incidentally fooled the farmers.

It is quite a while since Hon. "Joe" Martin, who, by the way, has quarrelled with every party he ever belonged to, lived in the prairie provinces. He was once a power in Manitoba, but in the long ago. And what a change has been wrought in the prairie conutry since he went on the shore of the Pacific! When he he left Winnipeg it was a city of not more than 60,000; now it has three times that population. Regina, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw, Calgary and Edmonton, which now number their people by the thousands, then had only a few hundreds. The change in Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton has been marvellous, the first named city now ranking as one of the leading manufacturing centres of the Dominion. All the other cities mentioned have manufacturing enterprises of greater or less extent, and are strongly protectionist in opinion. They are extremely unlikely to pay much attention nto the old-time doctrines of Mr. Martin, which were embraced by him when population in the prairies was very small.

The future of these cities depends very largely upon the securing of industries. But the chances of them getting such will be much reduced if Hon. Mr. Martin's policy were to be carried into effect. The people residing in these communities well known this to be truth. They realized it in 1911, which explains why almost all of them went Conservative.

Hon. Joseph Martin belongs to a former generation in Canadian politics. He is living in the past. He has announced a policy which, while it may have been adapted to conditions that existed in the West during the early 90's, would be much out of place to-day. If he goes preaching the doctrine he has announced he will find his words falling upon deaf ears. The prairies of to-day are not the prairies that he once knew so well.

CURRENT COMMENT

Sir Wilfrid being in opposition, it was impossible to show him that "when Britain is at war Canada is at war."

Monetary Times: "Is it not about time that President Wilson gave Ambassador Count von Bernsdorff, at Washington, a bun, a glass of milk and a railroad ticket"

An exchange suggests that some day governments will appoint editors for their blue books. Any publishing house that issued valuable volumes in such hodge-podge style would be bankrupt within a month.

Carranza's denunciation of Villa and Sulzer's repudiation of Kozma suggests the same thought—that if true, they should have been uttered before Carranza, in particular, seems to be as lacking in humor as in honor.

Rather than give the public an article of poorer quality, the Eddy Company have slightly raised the price of their matches, etc. The advance does not nearly cover the increased cost of raw material. But it helps some. The Eddy Company feel sure that Canadians will willingly pay a little more for articles of their usual high standard of quality..

Another Shipment To Supply Demand

Great Distribution Rapidly Taking Up First Allotment, But More on The Way

Somebody asked, "When is it going to end?"

"Why, it's just begun," is the answer.

Referring of course, to The Intelligencer's distribution of the greatest Bible ever published. It did look for a while as though some of our readers would have to be disappointed, but additional shipments are now on the way and everybody will be supplied in time.

The Intelligencer recognizes the fact that there are numerous "illustrated" Bibles offered to the public. But they contain merely pictures of Biblical scenes taken at random from various sources and inserted without regard to subjects or chapters. Some New Testment scenes are nserted in the Old Testament and vice versa. Thus they entirely lose their educational value. In this Bible there are more than 600 illustrations printed with the type, so that they make plain the verse which they accompany. Those who are not familiar with the Bible will catch many a new meaning aided by these illustrations. Then this Bible also contains full page color plates from the wonderful Tissot collection, each of which has been selected with the same object of explaining the accompanying text matter. So with all respect to other Bibles, the fact remains that this is the only really illustrated Bible.

No difference how many other Bibles you may now have, this one explains and makes clear the many subjects illustrated; and even though you may have no religious beliefs, such a work will be found an invaluable aid to education.

In addition to the educational helps, the copious marginal references and the beautiful colored maps, every proper name in this Illustrated Bible is separated into syllables and marked for pronunciation, being treated the same as in a dictionary, so that mispronunciation is impossible. This is one of the most important features of this great work and is of immense value to both young and old who find it difficult to pronounce Bible names.

Don't wait, but bring in your certificates and get your Bible. To-day's certificate in printed on another page.

INGENIOUS PLAN TO ATTACK BRITISH NAVY WITH SUBMARINES

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 29.—A despatch from Sluis, Holland, to The Handelsblad asserts that parts of several submarines have been sent from Germany by railway to Zeebruge, on the Belgian coast, where they will be put together and the boats then sent against the British fleet off Ostend. Strict secrecy, according to the Sluis correspondent, surrounds the German movements in Belgium and all railway communication to eebrugge, Knocke and Bruges is interrupted. Bicycle and motor traffic is also forbidden. A map in the office of the German commander at Bruges shows a straight line from Mariakerke, running south, beyond which no civilians are allowed to go.

According to an Antwerp telegram to the Rhenania Transport Company of Mannheim, some of the ships sunk in the port of Antwerp by the troops of the allies have been raised and the river is again navigable. An inventory of the goods in the raised vessels is being made. The Antwerp Government has invited bids for the raising of the remainder of the sunken ships.

HOW TO PRONOUNCE NAMES OF THE WAR ZONE

Foreign names occurring in war despatches may be divided into three classes. First, those which have an English form or which are so familiar that they have a recognized English proncunciation English pronounciation.

A second group is made up of names which have different forms in languages other than English. In such cases the French form is usually more familiar to American readers. Such are Aix-la-Chappelle (Aachen in German), Mayence (Mainz in German), Liege (Luttich in German), Thoinville (Diedenhoffen in German), or Montreux-Vieux, which is Alt-Munsterol in German.

Tipperary for Brenstroff

Ambassador Beats Time to English Marching Song at the Ritz

Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador at Washington, probably did not realize it but for a few minutes on Tuesday at lunch hour he was beating time to the strains of "It's a Long Way to Tipperary."

It happened in the lobby of the Ritz-Carlton. The Ambassador was talking energetically to a man, and, as usual, when strongly moved, he accompanied his words with a succession of short, rapid gestures. Just as he was in the midst of his exposition of his subject the band in the Palm Court, which is on the other side of a screen, began to play the British marching song.

The Ambassador's hand noticeably moved up and down with the music. However, this did not continue long; so that it is not likely the incident will be made the subject of diplomatic conversations.

EDISON GREETS OLD COMRADES ON GRAND TRUNK

Inventor, fifty years after recalls his Experiences as News Agent and Telegrapner.

Mr. Thomas A. Edison, the electrical wizard expresses himself as delighted with the trip he made this week to the scenes of his boyhood days. Mr. Edison travelled in a special train over his old route between Detroit and Port Huron on the Grand Trunk Railway System, the run on which he was employed fifty years ago as a train news agent. The long years of hard work and brilliant success served only to bring out the more clearly in the inventor's memory the incident of the past and the men who took part in them—his companions in the news business.

Accompanying Mr. Edison were Mr. Henry Ford of Detroit, Mr. A. B. Atwater, Assistant to President of Grand Trunk Railway, Mr. U. E. Gillen, General Superintendent Western Lines, Grand Trunk.

The special train stopped en route at Mount Clemens, where Mr. Edison first learned telegraphy, after giving up his position as news agent. Here Mr. Edison went into the railway telegrahp office and sat down at the keyboard and personally sent a message to his children at West Orange, telling them of his visit to the place where he first became acquaintad with the working of the wires.

At Port Huron he met his boyhood chum, Julius McMartin. Mr. Edison lived across the road from McMartin and taught him how to send and receive telegraphic messages. After a recital of some of their escapades Mr. Edison remarked to his friend "yes we were bad boys then."

As the faces of the old-time friends passed in review Mr. Edison called many by their first name. One of the most striking greetings was that accorded to Judge William E. Mitchell, who is 98 years of age, and still engaged in the practice of law. Mr. Edison sold papers to the Judge when he was a boy, and as he grasped the hand of his friend and took him by the shoulder, he said: "Judge Mitchell, I remember you when I was a boy. I sold you papers and you were then a gray haired man, but you are just as active. Judge, you've got my goat.

Mr. Edison was well pleased at the venerable jourist's reply; "its true, Mr. Edison, we are getting old but you and I still have much to do."

MAY RAISE EMBARGO ON WOOL IMPORTS

Canadian Manufacturers Hindered in Filling War Contracts

OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—It is expected that an Imperial Order-in-Council will be passed this week raising the embargo on the exportation of raw wool. Negotiations were in progress between the two Governments and the British authorities agreed to raise the embargo, provided the wool was used for military goods re-shipped to a British country. The necessary order will be passed at once. The scarcity of wool is a serious matter to Canadian manufacturers, who have been handicapped in their ability to tender for British war contracts.

ADVERTISE IN THE INTELLIGENCER

The LAPSE of ENOCH WENTWORTH

By ISABEL GORDON CURTIS

Author of "The Woman from Wolvertons"

COPYRIGHT 1914 BY F. G. BROWNE & CO.

"I sat up until daylight to write this. It's an improvement on the other act; I can see that myself. Oswald will tell you, I think, that it carries out his ideas exactly. Before I hand it over I want to make a dicker with you."

Wentworth stared at him blankly. "A dicker?" he repeated. "Is it money?"

"Money!" Andrew's face grew harsh with scorn.

"What is it then?"

"I was dining last night at Colgazi's. I—"

Wentworth's face grew suddenly scarlet, then it whitened.

"I saw you there." Merry's voice was relentless. "I don't know a blessed thing about the Paget woman, for or against her. I do know this, though: every man who has lived among good women knows she is not fit company for—your sister for instance."

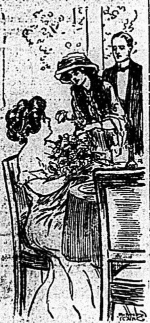
"Who said she was?" snarled Wentworth. "I had not thought of throwing her into my sister's society. Dorcas would not have to tolerate even a passing acquaintance with her behind the scenes if I had my way."

"She is not fit to be seen with a decent man."

"You give me the credit then of being—a decent man?" sneered Enoch.

"To a certain limit—I do."

"Well, what do you want?" Wentworth turned an apprehensive glance upon him.



Her Face Grew Eager and Tremulous.

"I want you to promise, before I turn over this manuscript, that you will have nothing to do with Zilla Paget except in a business way."

"Why, are you interested in her yourself?"

"My God, Enoch!" Andrew stuffed the roll of paper in his pocket and jumped to his feet.

"Here, sit down. I want this affair straightened out—now."

Merry did not answer. He walked across the office and stood beside a table where a litter of photographs lay. He picked one up carelessly and glanced at it. It was an exquisite portrait of Dorcas. Her eyes gazed into his with a straightforward look which was characteristic of the girl.

"Will you tell me," there was stern demand in Wentworth's voice, "will you explain why you are so concerned about my morals?"

"I don't care a damn about your morals," answered Merry contemptuously. "I was thinking about your sister. I am still fool enough to believe that you have some decency left. I will hand over this act, rewritten as you want it, when you promise to have nothing to do with Zilla Paget."

When Merry stopped speaking he took a seat opposite Enoch and waited for a reply.

A visiting card lay on the table. Wentworth picked it up and tore it into halves. He sat tearing and retearing it in perfect silence. When it was reduced to fragments, he gathered them into the hollow of his hand and dropped them in the waste basket; then he looked across at Merry.

"That was Miss Paget's card," he said harshly. "I'm through with her."

Merry took the manuscript from his pocket, laid it on the table before Enoch, and walked out.

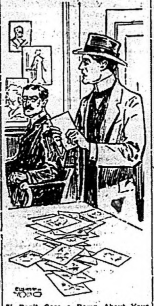
A few minutes later Enoch opened the door which led into the box office. A young man sat beside the window.

"Dingley," he said, "I have locked the outside door. Don't let a soul in on me. I can't see Mr. Oswald even. Tell him I am busy, writing."

Wentworth locked the door of the office, sat down in his big chair, and picked up the manuscript. He read it rapidly, slipped a blank sheet of paper into a typewriter, and began to copy it with slow deliberation. When it was finished he read each typed page carefully. He tacked them together and rose to his feet. He began to search the office rapidly with his eyes, then he turned to a wash-bowl in the corner. He crushed into a loose bunch each of the sheets which held Merry's writing and touched the paper with a match. It leaped into a red blaze. He watched it carefully, poking the sheets over with a paper knife until each one fell away into a shivering back ash. When every spark had died he turned on a faucet, and the light ashes were swept down the waste pipe. He rubbed a speck of grime from his hands and opened the box office door. Oswald sat on a high stool beside the window.

"Here is the second act," said Wentworth brusquely. "I imagine it will suit you. The changes are exactly what you suggested."

"Oh, splendid!" Oswald's voice was cordial. "I'm ever so glad you felt like it. You will say yourself it is an improvement."



"I Don't Care a Damn About Your Morals!"

"I hope so." Enoch spoke listlessly. "And, Dingley, while I think of it, send a message back to Miss Paget. Ask if I can see her now, in her dressing-room for a few minutes." He turned to Oswald. "I must explain to her the change we're making. Better have the part copied at once; it must be put into quick rehearsal."

CHAPTER XIV.

The Opening Night.

Dorcas stood motionless in the wings, with Merry beside her, leaning against a table. The curtain had fallen on the third act of "The House of Esterbrook." The girl's body throbbed from head to foot, and she felt as if the emotions of a lifetime had been crowded into that single hour. There was a babel of noise behind the scenes; in front the applause sounded like a tempest. At intervals the handclaps died away as from weariness, only to begin again with tremendous vigor.

"Come," said Merry; "we must go out again."

"Again?" whispered the girl.

"Yes," Merry smiled; "this time the two of us alone."

"The two of us?"

"The two of us—alone." There was a low, tender thrill in Merry's voice.

He took her hand and led her out upon the empty stage. The curtain was lifting slowly. From where she stood she saw Enoch standing in the wings. His face was flushed with excitement. The audience looked to the girl like a blur of color and human forms. The people swayed forward eagerly, and the applause became uproarious. A voice cried, "Speech! Speech!" It began to come insistently from the back of the house. The cry was taken up by men and women everywhere in the audience. Dorcas turned to Merry. Oswald was beckoning to him from the wings, but the actor shook his head.

"I could not make a speech tonight if my life depended on it," he whispered, and the curtain descended slowly.

A new cry came from the clamorous house. Some one was shouting for the author. Dorcas laid her has upon Merry's arm.

"They want you," she cried.

He smiled and shook his head.

She heard Oswald urge Enoch to go in front of the curtain. The noise in front grew louder. The girl flew across the stage and put her hand upon her brother's shoulder.

"Enoch," she pleaded in a whisper, "take Merry with you and explain."

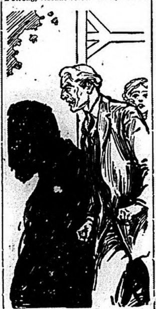
Wentworth left her without a word. Oswald and the stage manager beckoned to him from the wings. She took a few flying steps as if to hold him back, then stopped. Merry had called her. She paused, staring into his eyes with terror.

"Enoch must not go out there alone," she protested in a low voice. "He must not do it. You should be with him. It is the last chance he has to make restitution. He will never, never do such a thing as this!"

"Listen," she heard Merry's whisper clearly through the din. "Dear, it does not matter. What does anything matter? The play is a success. You believe in me. I did it—for you. What do I care about the people out there? They are nothing to us."

"Oh!" cried Dorcas, "oh, I will go and tell them myself. They must know!"

She darted toward the edge of the drop curtain, then she stopped. A silence had fallen, not only upon the house but behind the scenes. Stage hands who had been dragging properties about stood motionless. A shiver crept over the girl. She felt Merry lay his hand on hers with a steadying clasp that seemed to quiet her. She could hear Enoch speaking. He had a strong, vibrant voice. Every one behind the scenes was listening and understanding except herself. His voice grew blurred as faces in the audience had been. She turned to glance at Merry. Once a look of consuming hatred flitted across his face, and his lips grew pallid as gray ashes.



A Look of Consuming Hatred Flitted Across His Face.

Dorcas pulled away from his clasping hand and ran to her dressing-room. She was choking with sobs. She felt her fingers tingle where Andrew had touched them, and there was a look of terror in her eyes.

Alice Volk sat waiting for her in the dressing-room. Little Julie jumped to her feet when Dorcas entered. The girl did not speak, but clasped the child to her bosom.

"Alice," she whispered, "help me to dress as soon as you can. And Julie, ask Dugald to get a carriage. I want to go home."

The woman kissed the girl's neck as she unbuttoned her gown. "It has been an awful strain. I know all about it—but Miss Dorcas, your future is made."

The child returned in a minute. "Mr. Wentworth has a carriage ordered. Dugald says will you go with him?"

"No," cried Dorcas; "tell Dugald I'll be ready in ten minutes. I am going home alone."

Merry stood waiting at the stage entrance when she went out. He had heard Julie deliver the message. "Good night, Miss Dorcas," he said. "Sleep well. Remember, everything is all right. I owe it to you, I owe you more than you understand. You made good tonight; the papers will tell you so in the morning. Good night. God bless you!"

"Good night." The girl shivered for a moment. It was intensely cold, and she drew a fur coat close to her chin. The cabman drove quickly, for the streets were emptied of vehicles. Along Broadway the theaters were dark.

Jason stood waiting to open the door when the girl ran up the steps. His dusky old face was one grin of delight. He had just returned from the theater and was growing impatient for the triumph of a homecoming.

Save Them from Drink and Unemployment.

Many men drink who desire to stop the habit. Whiskey, however, has undermined the constitution, inflamed the stomach and created a craving that cannot be denied. He must have help.

Samaria Prescription will stop the craving, steady the nerves, build up the general health, and makes drink actually distasteful and nauseous. It is tasteless and odorless, and can be given with or without the patient's knowledge, in tea, coffee, or food. It has cured thousands in Canada, and restored happiness to hundreds of homes.

Read what Mrs. ——, of Hull, says:

"It is four months to-day since I started to use your remedy. I followed the directions and had the best of results. One week after I started using your remedy the patient stopped drinking, and has not drunk a glass of liquor since. I hope you will accept my heartfelt thanks. Hoping God will bless your remedy wherever tried, I remain,

A FAMILY REMEDY FOR MANY YEARS

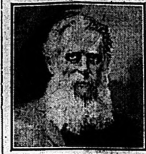
Used "Fruit-a-tives" With The Best of Results.



GEORGE McKAY Esq.

KIPPEN, ONT., June 17th, 1913.

"I have been using "Fruit-a-tives" as a family remedy for many years. They are the best medicine I have ever tried. "Fruit-a-tives" do me the most good—they never gripe and their action is pleasant.

"I have used them for Indigestion and Constipation with the best results, and I heartily recommend them to anyone similarly afflicted.

These troubles have left me completely and I give "Fruit-a-tives" full credit for all this. A nicer pill a man cannot take."

GEORGE McKAY.

The enormous demand for "Fruit-a-tives" is steadily increasing, due to the fact that this wonderful fruit medicine gives prompt relief in all cases of Indigestion, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Rheumatism, Chronic, Headaches, and Neuralgia, and all Kidney and Bladder Troubles.

BRITISH DESTROYERS SINK GERMAN VESSEL

PARIS, Oct. 30.—Special—A squadron of British torpedo-boat destroyers has sunk in the Adriatic a German steamer which had been converted into a cruiser, according to a despatch from Barcelona to the Havas News Agency.

The Barcelona correspondent explains that this news appears in Publicidades, a Spanish newspaper published at Gibraltar. The British destroyers rescued 86 members of the crew of the German vessel.

GALT'S FUND REACHES TOTAL ABOUT $42,000

GALT, Oct. 30.—Special—The Galt Patriotic Fund has now reached a total of about $42,000. The final returns have not yet been made, so that it is impossible to announce the exact figures. The total represents a contributioni of about $3.50 per capita, and appears all the more liberal when it is known that all subscriptions are payable within one year, no two-year subscriptions having been taken, as is the case in many other places.

ARMY CHAPLAIN'S EXPERIENCES

In a letter from an Army chaplain at the front which has been published in the Morning Post he says: "I have been able to do a fair amount of spiritual work. It is remarkable how at such as this men look for it. If ever human nature showed that at bottom the consciousness of God is in it, it is at times like this, when men cannot tell what the day will bring. I have been able to hold Communion, and wish you could see the officers and men in big circles, not such ones as one sees in time of peace, but hundreds. And round the camp fire where they can be lighted, we hold evening service and sign hymns, 'Abide with me' 'Lead Kindly Light,' and 'Holy Father in thy Mercy,' which goes so tune they don't know. A great deal tune they do not know. Well, a great of good is done, and the desire and response of all shows that the work done has been good. Our men are wonderful, but the Germans—well, if the way they carry on here in any criterion of how they would carry on if they got to England, God help us, for no one else could. England is waking up, I see, but the full extent of the need cannot be driven home too deeply.

Copeland's Cure For Consumption

WINS CONFIDENCE BY ITS WONDERFUL CURATIVE POWERS.

MR. W. R. COPELAND,

Dear Sir—Now that I am well and strong again, I write to state that the fact I am alive today witnesses to the merit of your medicine.

My doctor, a specialist, said that I had the worst kind of consumption and that it was impossible for me to live. He gave me only eight to ten days before the disease would terminate fatally. He also said that it was no use in treating me, as I was too far gone.

I was left to die, but a friend of mine told me about your medicine, and procured me a bottle. Without much hope, I tried it. It did wonders. First the weakening perspiration stopped and the food I took stayed in the stomach. After a second bottle, I commenced to regain my appetite and was up in a few days of the time that the doctor said I would die. Five weeks later I was at work and have been working ever since.

I wish everyone could know the worth of your medicine, especially those afflicted with consumption as I was, for I undoubtedly owe my life to its use. I will at all times cheerfully answer any correspondence, and you are at liberty to publish this letter if you think it will help to recommend your medicine to others. I remain, Gratefully yours,

DAVID WARNOCK, Street Car Conductor,
202 Withrow Ave., Toronto.

The remarkable power of this medicine marks it as one of the greatest discoveries of this century. Its work is only just started, but it is safe to say that its reputation will grow world-wide.

It is a blessing, as all who have used it testify. To the real "down-and-out" consumptive, the chronic sufferers from bronchial and lung troubles—it is something more than a blessing. To them it means the difference between happiness and misery, and sometimes life instead of a grave.

It is a medicine that is honest. No false claims are made for it. It is good, most beneficently good for the ailments specified above. These, even consumption, it will tackle, fight and OVERCOME. If you have a bad cough or cold—take this medicine. If you are a consumptive—take this medicine, for a greater medicine for consumption has NEVER BEEN KNOWN. If you are troubled with bronchitis and can't sleep at night for coughing—take this medicine. Your trouble will become a memory. If your throat or lungs are in any way weak or sensitive—take this medicine—and they will become strong and normal.

Cavities heal under its benign influence. Congestion is freed by its action to remove phlegm until the lungs are clear and work naturally without pain or distress. Emaciation, night sweats, poor appetite, inability to retain food in the stomach—all these effects of disease are mastered and the system built up under its curative and nourishing powers.

Ask your druggist, or send direct to us. Price, $1.00 per bottle. Testimonials of many others can be had on request.

The Fruit Orchards of Penticton

PENTICTON (in the Okanagan Valley, British Columbi) is a place that smiles on the traveller on his arrival, calls him back the moment he has left it—and keeps calling. The raising of fruit is a kindlier task than the tunnelling of the mountains.

There seems a tendency for miners to become like moles. The coal-getters seem to gather some of the blackness of coal into their lives. They who mine for silver lead are brighter. Though, in the words of the old-time cow-men, they, too, are "defacers of the bosoms of Nature," some of the hard brightness of sparkling galena seems to be in them; there is all the difference in the world between the coal towns and the silver towns.

But fruit growers get something on them like the bloom on a peach. A life led in giving water to fruit trees—just enough, not too much—in protecting them from parasitical flies—a fruit-grower's life, all lived in the sunshine and the dry, clear air, with a tremendous blue sky overhead, and sandy yellow roads winding through his scented world among the hills, is nearer the ideal Lafcadio Hearn would surely have loved Penticton, and in words like jewels would have told of the ripples on the lake, how they are like thousands of little wavering mirrors flashing and flickering with as many colours as an opal. He would have delighted in the golden and silvery pennons of dust fluttering after the rigs driven, or ponies ridden, in and out of town. A white sternwheeler comes to Penticton long after dark, and sheds the strong rays of a search-light shoreward, so as to illume the landing—incidentally lighting up the world in the most witching way. Even the mere dollar-pursuer must enjoy these things; for, surely, the happy child and the artist are in every man, neither to be throttled even by the struggle to make a living, nor quite exiled, without even brief returns, by the lust to make a living enough for a hundred rational men.

They have their worries at Penticton—as elsewhere—but if worry must come to man it is not a bad plan to make the scene of it as pleasing as possible. Colour is a great thing. And here there is colour. For me, I could spend days just loafing in Penticton, seeing people ride in to the stores and hitch their spirited ponies to telegraph poles while they are shopping; listen to the lake splashing; hear the pitter-patter, in the dust, of hoofs of the ponies.

The Okanagan Indians, south of the town, a cheerful band, have not lived in vain among the colour of this "dry belt" land. They have learnt the colour-schemes taught by the yellow sands, the blue skies, the russet bands of timber along the higher hills. The blue handkerchiefs on their heads; their big, glistening ear-rings; their dusty yellow moccasins; their variegated shawls—these splash more colour on the place when they come gliding into town in their buggies, with perhaps a piebald pony and a milk white one running in harness.

Change is busy here. Ten years ago the talk was all of steers and horses—now it is of irrigation and fruit. Over the hotel dinner-tables men tell each other not how many baskets they have shipped, but say, "Pshaw! I had to throw away half a ton for want of shipping facilities!" But whether this is merely a Western picturesque method of saying that the harvest is good, or whether it is literal, I know not.—By Frederick Niven, author of "Hands Up."

WILL PROLONG WAR.

Turkey's Action Complicates Situation and Widens Scope of Conflict.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The complications of the European war have been increased by the entrance of the Turkish empire into the conflict on the side of the Teutonic allies. Following the Breslau's exploit in bombarding Theodosia, Russia, Turkish destroyers have sunk the Russian gunboat Donets in Odessa harbor and damaged three Russian and one French merchantmen.

No official declaration of war has been made, but Turkey's action seems to make it probable that the area of conflict may be greatly widened and the issues complicated. The Balkans, whence sprung the present European conflict, present such a network of hostile interests that Greece and the other Balkan nations may easily be drawn into the vortex.

Greece it is believed will likely be the first state now neutral to throw her weight against the Ottoman army. Bulgaria holds a remarkable position. She is bound to Russia by racial ties and to Great Britain by obligations for financial support in the last war. But her interests and sentiments are violently hostile to Turkey and Greece.

An attempt to invade the Caucasus on one side and Egypt on the other is the program military men think the Turkish army is likely to endeavor to carry out. Turkish forces have been gathering recently in Syria and Palestine, but a march across the Sinai peninsula will be a hard one, because the country is virtually a desert. The English papers are confident that the protection of the Suez Canal against a raid and of Egypt against invasion are well provided for. They recognize that the addition of Turkey to the belligerent forces probably will prolong the war and increase its horrors. They say that this means that Great Britain must raise more men. How long Italy can remain aloof is a question being asked by the newspapers.

Allies Occupy Edea.

PARIS, Oct. 30. — A despatch to the Havas Agency from Bordeaux says:

"A report received from Gen. Dobell, commanding the French forces operating against the German Kamerun, equatorial West Africa, says that two Franco-British columns occupied Edea Oct. 26, after serious fighting, in which the allied troops showed great bravery.

"Edea is an important railroad station on the Salanga, 90 miles from the coast."

HOSPITAL SHIP LOST SINKS IN SEA GALE

While on Her Way to a Belgian or French Port to Care for Wounded British Vessel is Driven on Rocks of Yorkshire Coast and Broken In Two — All the Women on Board Are Saved.

WHITBY, Eng., Oct. 31.—The loss of life on the British hospital ship Rohilla, which crashed on the rocks of the Yorkshire coast near here before dawn yesterday, is a matter of doubt to-day. It is believed at least 100 perished. The vessel, however, is a total wreck, having broken in two, while lifesavers on shore were shooting lines and trying vainly to make one fast to the ill-fated ship.

Bearing physicians, nurses and hospital supplies, the Rohilla was on her way to a Belgian or a French port to succor the wounded, when she was driven ashore. It is understood that all the women on board were saved, including one who was a survivor of the Titanic disaster. The fate of the physicians is uncertain, as is that of the captain and the crew. The total number of people on board is not definitely known, but some estimates place it at 200.

When the stricken vessel broke in two, eight men could be seen from the shore clinging to a piece of wreckage from the afterpart of the ship, and it is assumed that they were swept to their death in the boiling sea.

Rain was falling in torrents, a gale was blowing and the seas were mountainous when the vessel hit the rocks. Distress rockets immediately flared above the Rohilla, attracting the coast guards, but as the sea continued violent it was possible to launch only two boats from the shore. These boats brought back all the people they could carry.

Most of the ship's boats were crushed in the attempt to launch them, and only one got away bearing a handful of survivors. Even these had to be dragged upon the beach, as the boat capsized in the breakers.

For four hours members of the crew and others could be seen clinging to the rigging, their plight becoming more desperate as the tide rose. In an effort to reach them the lifesavers shot many rockets. Then at 8.30 o'clock the inevitable came—the ship's back broke.

It is believed that most of those on board perished. Eleven physicians were among them, it is said.

Loss In Penang Harbor.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 31.—Out of a crew of 335 men on board the cruiser Chemtchoug, destroyed in Penang Harbor by the German cruiser Emden on Oct. 28, 85 were drowned and 112 of 250 saved, sustained more or less serious wounds. This information is contained in a despatch to the Russian Board of Admiralty from Penang.

The Emden came into the harbor at full speed and by virtue of her general appearance and the Japanese flag flying at her mast, she was taken to be a vessel of the Mikado. It was five o'clock in the morning when the daring marauder steamed past the forts and proceeded toward the Chemtchoug, firing a torpedo at short range which struck the Russian vessel near the bow.

The guns of the Czar's warship immediately opened fire but before they could effect any damage on the Emden a second torpedo struck from the German went home and the Chemtchoug began to sink. The invader then made a dash for the Straits of Malacca and, in passing, fired a third torpedo at a French destroyer, which sank at once. It has not been learned whether the crew of the latter was lost.

FISHER IS RELENTLESS.

New First Sea Lord Will Not Be Squeamish About Mines.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Fred. T. Jane, naval author and journalist, whose intimate acquaintance with naval matters makes his statements authoritative, writing in The Evening Standard, says that under the Fisher naval administration "we may expect a rapid curtailment of the rights of neutrals to come and go as they please in our waters."

"Ruthless, remorseless, and relentless," the writer says, "was one of Lord Fisher's war maxims in the old days. We may look for short shrift from him for any German captured who has achieved results by using any flag except his own. It will probably be a case of hang first and inquire afterwards, and if public opinion or the Cabinet object let them object."

Mr. Jane suggests that the humanitarian element in the British Cabinet has hitherto interfered in a question like that of mine-laying, and he says that Lord Fisher will not permit such interference.

BRITISH REPEL ATTACKS.

Violent Assaults Delivered by Germans on La Bassee Canal.

PARIS, Oct. 31. — The following official communication was issued last night by the French War Office: "In Belgium, according to the latest advices, there is nothing to report in the region of Nieuport or Dixmude.

"On our left wing the enemy has directed violent attacks against the front of the British troops, and on the two banks of the La Bassee Canal without obtaining any success.

"There has been a recrudescence of activity in the region of Rheims and along the heights of the Meuse at the south of Fresnes-on-Woevre."

The War Office issued the following statement yesterday afternoon: "On the extreme left inundations brought about by the Belgian army in the lower valley of the River Yser have compelled the forces of the enemy which had passed the river to withdraw. They are subjected to a violent cannonade by the Belgian and French artillery during their movement of retreat.

"The Germans endeavored yesterday to deliver very violent counter-attacks on the French and British army corps which were progressing to the northeast and east of Ypres.

"At the end of the day our troops had, notwithstanding, continued their forward movement in the direction which had been assigned them, and had also taken possession of various points of support.

"The British troops, assailed at several points north of La Bassee by superior forces, [illegible] the offensive with energy and reconquered to a considerable extent the territory yielded to the enemy. At several other points on their line of combat the British troops repulsed the attacks of the Germans, inflicting important losses.

"On the remainder of the front there has been no general action, only partial offensive movements on our part, as well as on the part of the enemy. We have made progress almost everywhere, notably before certain villages between Arras and Albert, upon the heights of the river bank of the Aisne, upon the heights right bank of the Aisne, down stream from Soissons, and here and there along the Meuse to the north of Verdun."

ATTACK ON TSING TAU.

Allies Opened General Assault Early Friday Morning.

TOKIO, Oct. 31. — It is officially announced that a general attack was opened at dawn yesterday on the German position at Tsing-Tau. The shelling of the fortress continues at this hour. The spirits of the allied troops are said to be high.

The Emperor's birthday is being celebrated to-day.

LONDON, Oct. 31. — The Official Press Bureau announces that an Indian contingent has joined the British and Japanese forces operating against the Germans before Tsing Tau, China.

Hungary Exhausted; Weary of War.

LONDON, Oct. 31. — Rumors are again current in London to-day that Hungary, weary of a war in which she has nothing to gain, would welcome a chance to quit.

It is suggested also that Servia soon may be compelled to retire within her own borders and assume a purely defensive role in consequence of the national exhaustion resulting from the fighting of three campaigns in as many years.

HINDU TO HANG.

Mewa Singh Says He Shot Official For the Sake of His Countrymen.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 31. — Mewa Singh, the self-confessed slayer of Immigration Inspector Hopkinson, was yesterday morning tried and found guilty of murder and sentenced to be hanged on January 11. He made no denial of the offence.

A lengthy written statement was made by the accused, in which he protested that the shooting of Bhag Singh and others in the temple had burned into his soul. He alleged that late Inspector Hopkinson had tried to get him to swear falsely to secure the freedom of Bela Singh, charged with the temple shooting, and protested that he gave up his life for what he believed to be a righteous cause in the hope and belief that the sacrifice would benefit his fellow-Hindus in Vancouver.

A Woman's Right To Health

No Reason Why They Should Suffer From Backaches and Headaches.

To every woman belongs the right to enjoy a healthy, active, happy life, yet nine out of ten suffer, often in silence, from splitting headaches, torturing backaches, violent heart palpitation or some other of the many evils that follow anaemia, or bloodlessness.

That is why one sees so many women with pale, thin cheeks, dull eyes and drooping figures—sure signs that the blood is out of order. All suffering women should win the right to be well by refreshing their weary bodies with the new, rich blood so speedily and so surely as Dr. Williams Pink Pills for Pale People. Through this medicine thousands of tired, suffering women have found new health and strength. Mrs. James Drost, Chipman, N. B. says: "For years I did not know what it was to be entirely free from headache or backache. My hands were cold and clammy all the time. It was difficult for me to get my work done, and to walk even a short distance would leave me completely worn out. My life was one of constant worry and I thought I would never be better. I was doctoring all the time but without a bit of benefit, and finally the doctor stopped giving me medicine as he said he could not help me. Do you wonder that I was in despair. My mother urged me to take Dr. Williams Pink Pills, but I said "what's the use, medicine can't help me." However, my husband got six boxes of the pills and to please him I began to take them. By the time I had finished them I undoubtedly had improved and there was the signs of returning health in my cheeks and hands. My husband thought thought the improvement so great that he got another half dozen boxes, and before these were completed I was enjoying such good health as I had not had in years, in fact, I was a well woman, and have since enjoyed the best of health. I sincerely feel that I owe my life to Dr. Williams Pink Pills, and shall always recommend them to all sick people."

You can get these pills at any medicine dealer, or they will be sent by mail, postpaid for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Too Cold For Suicide.

KINGSTON, Oct. 31.—George Redden, a youth, tried for the fourth time to take his life Thursday night when he went to the Cereal Company's wharf and jumped into the river. The cold water made him change his mind, and, clinging to the wharf, he called for help. A watchman pulled him out and handed him over to the police. He was fined $3 and costs in the police court yesterday for being drunk and disorderly. Two weeks ago he took an overdose of laudanum and was saved by a doctor, and before that he drank carbolic acid. On another occasion he jumped in front of an automobile which was traveling at a fast rate of speed, but received only minor injuries.

Explosion an Accident.

MONTREAL, Oct. 31. — The supposed bomb outrage in the tenement block on Frontenac street, which resulted in the instant killing of a Russian inmate, Peter Dishtara, and the deaths the following morning of Mrs. Morris Jurinsky, one of the tenants whose limbs had to be amputated as a result of the explosion in the tenement, was declared by the coroner's jury yesterday to have been an accident, and not a crime.

The jury, however, could not decide as to the cause of the explosion, whether it was due to dynamite or gas.

Another Zeppelin Over Paris.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 31. — According to The Frankfurter Zeitung, a Swedish paper published at Gothenburg, declares that on Wednesday of this week a Zeppelin dirigible balloon flew over Paris and dropped six bombs on the city. Three of the missiles, according to this account, did considerable damage, killing eight persons and wounding several others. French airmen, the newspaper adds, attacked the Zeppelin, but without success.

Berlin Threatening Reprisal.

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—(By wireless to Sayville, L.I.)—Germany has notified Great Britain, through American Ambassador Gerard in Berlin, that if German civilians in England, excepting those against whom there are grounds of suspicion, are not liberated by Nov. 5, all British subjects in Germany will be similarly arrested. The feeling on this subject in Berlin is high.

Naval Casualties Light.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—An Admiralty statement issued last night gives the casualties of the British flotilla operating off the Belgian coast. The statement is dated Oct. 30, and reports one man as having been killed on board the sloop Rinaldo, one man dangerously wounded and eleven men wounded. None of these are officers. Five men previously reported as missing from the monitors Severn and Humber have rejoined their ships, according to the statement.

Fighting In East Africa.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. — In a brief message yesterday from Consul Hays, the American Government learned of the complete interruption of communication between the British island of Zanzibar and Dar es Salaam, a port on the east coast of German East Africa. Mr. Hays, at Zanzibar, cabled north by way of British East Africa. This was believed to indicate a renewal of activities between the German and British colonial forces.

SPIES AS BOY SCOUTS.

Germans Have Thus Obtained Access To Military Areas.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—German spies disguised as scout-masters, and in some cases, even as boy scouts, a correspondent learns, have been giving considerable trouble to the military authorities recently, although it is understood that this latest espionage scheme so far has gleaned little information of value to the Kaiser's General Staff. The Home Office and Sir Robert Baden-Powell have been co-operating to stamp out the spies' activities along this line, and already many arrests have resulted.

A notice posted at the Boy Scouts headquarters in Victoria street, however, shows that at least one German secret agent is still roaming about in the uniform of a British scout-master. The scouts are directed to watch out for this man, a full description of whom is given, and who is characterized as "a dangerous international spy." His method appears to be to visit strategical military points, ostensibly performing the scout-master's duties, but really supplying sentries with liquor which he apparently hopes will lead them to divulge secrets, or at least permit him to enter forbidden places. He is considered the most daring of all who have adopted this form of disguise. At present the Boy Scouts have access to many areas, such as military camps and closed ports barred to the ordinary public. There is grave peril in alien enemies donning Baden-Powell's world-famous uniform to satisfy their illegitimate curiosity with regard to British armaments.

Seizing German Property.

PARIS, Oct. 31. — A court order was issued yesterday confiscating the chateau of the Princess Hohenlohe, near Brest. The property of 20,000 firms and 100,000 individuals is expected to be seized as a result of the Government's new policy of sequestrating all property belonging to alien enemies.

Peace Proposals Denied.

LONDON, Oct. 31. — "The report that Germany has made peace proposals to France, offering special concessions, was repudiated yesterday by the German Consul-General at Amsterdam as completely unfounded," says a despatch from the Amsterdam correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Co.

Italy's Premier Better.

ROME, Italy, Oct. 31.—The health of Signor Salandra, the Italian Prime Minister, was much better yesterday, his temperature being normal. He hoped to be able to go to the Foreign Office to-day and preside over the meeting of the Council of Ministers.

DEATH OF A BOY

George Brown, a boy eleven years of age, who was a ward of the True Blues Orpharage at Picton, died at the hospital here yesterday afternono, after being ill for some days. The body, after being prepared by Tickell & Sons for burial, were today sent to Picton for interment.

BIG POTATOES

Miss Annie Fleming of 68 1-2 Cedar street, this city, has received from her brother, Mr. Thomas Fleming, of Ivanhoe, Ont., two immense potatoes measuring respectively 19 x 14 and 16 x 11 inches in circumference, one weighing 2 1-4 pounds, and the other 1 1-2 pounds. They are a smooth surfaced vegetable, and apparently of a mealy nature. This does not look like a potato famine in Hastings County.

Red Cross Supply Committee Makes a Hit

Mrs. Stewart Robertson poured tea last evening, and Mrs. Col. Lazier will pour this evening.

ICE CREAM

The finest to be found on the Continent, and ample in quantity for all demands.

Convenor, Mrs. J. G. Meagher; assistants Miss E. Panter, Miss M. Green, Miss K. Woodley.

HOT LUNCH

An admirable stopping place on the trip around the room, with refreshments of the most dainty nature.

Convenor, Mrs. W. J. Brown, assistants, Mrs. Robert Symons, Mrs. B. Lucas, Mrs. F. Andrews, Mrs. W. Adams.

FLOWER BOOTH

Convenor, Mrs. Col. L. W. Marsh; assistants, Mrs. W. S. Clarke, Mrs. T. E. Ketcheson, Mrs. T. Daley, Mrs. Finnegan, Mrs. Barlow, Mrs. Modeland, Mrs. Holton, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Blagrave, Miss Ketcheson, Miss Agnew, Miss Ponton.

This beautiful booth, decorated with apple blossoms, was principally the work of Miss M. Campbell, and noted for its delicacy of design, spaciousness and popularity as a place of rest.

THE PATRIOTIC BOOTH

was one of the most beautiful of the series, and the headquarters for flags; arranged with the National Emblems, at the top centre of which were neatly displayed Prince of Wales' feathers. The design as a whole was very handsome and patriotic.

Convenor, Miss Green; assistants, Miss Bird, Miss Stewart, Miss Ponton, Miss Faulkner, and young ladies of the flag staff.

FORTUNE TELLER

A white tent, with boughs, and owls, beatles, etc., sticking to the canvas, with "L'Incognita" over the entrance. It was a weird looking place, typical of the business carried on. It proved, however, a place of interest, and well patronized. The gypsie in attendance went after the business, and got it.

GRAB AND FRUIT BOOTH

Here was a point where one could obtain anything desirable in the form of a grab or graft, from a chance in a horse race to an apple. It was an extensive and busy place, and the attendants were kept busy throughout the evening. How many lost their pile on the horse races we have not learned.

Convenor, Mrs. (Dr.) Dolan; assistants, Mrs. D. M. Waters, Mrs. J. S. McKeown, Miss McLean, Mrs. A. Gillen, Mrs. S. Lockwood, Mrs. W. A. Dolan, Miss Panter, Miss Blanchard, Mrs. Chapman, Miss Dolan, Miss Bess Dolan, Mrs. W. B. Deacon, Mrs. J. W. Kinnear, Mrs. W. C. Mikel, Mrs. Corlaw.

POLLY ANNA CLUB

Conducted by twelve trim ladies, twelve years of age, apt and busy. This club has been in existence for a year. Meets every Friday with Mrs. R. J. Graham, and are doing much work in the line of benevolence. The articles in stock were a variety of novelties, cheap for cash. Mrs. R. J. Graham, Mrs. C. J. Bowell and Mrs. Alex Ray were particularly interested in this booth. The young ladies were: Grace Graham, Evelyn Deroche, Carrie Yeomans, Helen Reid, Marion Clarke, Helen Springer, Audrey Mikel, Jean Evans, Helen McKeown, Esther Wagner, Helen Brown and Marion Chapman.

LIVING PICTURES

The living pictures, displayed in the lecture room, up stairs, proved an attractive apartment. The figures, apparently thrown upon the canvas, yet in reality a living being, varied in subjects, including famous personages, scriptural scenes, were fairly entrancing. Many of Belleville's young ladies appeared to marked advantage, little Ida Parker and Angus McFee as the Belgian girl and boy receiving prolonged applause. It should prove one of the most liberally patronized sections of the event this evening.

THE MIDWAY

Under the direction of Mrs. A. P. Allen.

Here is where anything in the line of chance could be found. You were admitted free, but if anything was left in your pocket when you went out you were accounted a lucky being. Note the modes of attraction:

Fish Pond—Mrs. Wallace Robb, Miss Alice McGie, Miss Anna Wallbridge.

Raffles—Miss Robertson, Miss McCarthy, Miss Allen.

Wheel of Fortune—Mrs. J. V. Doyle.

Fortune Tellers—Cards, Mrs. M. Watson; Palmistry, Mrs. Rogers; Piano, Mr. K. Ross.

The apartment was crowded during the entire evening, and from what could be learned—Mrs. Allen would not commit herself—the income was fabulous. Take a look in this evening. Nothing can interest you more. As The Intelligencer scribe left the room a large Plymouth Rock rooster in a box was brought in, to be raffled off to-night.

THE STAGE PROGRAMME

The evening's special programme, for which a spacious platform had been prepared, was by no means the least interesting, as much creditable talent was displayed and the characters well trained.

THE CADETS

under the direction of Major Barragar, covered themselves with glory; the manouevres were carried through without an error.

LITTLE YELLOW TOTS

These beautiful little ones, sixteen in number, attired in yellow crepe paper, with quaint bonnets of like material, the gown ornamented with the proverbial black cat, went through with an excellent ribbon dance, which called for liberal applause.

HIGH SCHOOL GLEE CLUB

composed of about forty young ladies, was a pleasing item, the Sailor's Hornpipe, by Miss Harriett, McIntosh; Highland Fling, by Claire Coughlin, and an Irish Jig by Anna Hogan, being especially pleasing, the whole concluding with "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," by the company, in step to the music. The children in a musical sense were finely trained by Mrs. (Dr.) McColl, Mrs. Albert Johnstonen teaching the step.

THE EXCELSIOR QUARTETTE

composed of Messrs. Mouck, Wrightmeyer, Stallworthy and Dulmage, was well received.

CADET DRILL

By the West Belleville boys, under the direction of Major Barragar.

THE BLACK CATS

Eight young ladies, attired in black, yellow neck scarfs, and black caps dwindling away to a peak at the top, with brooms, to which were attached black cats, was a unique and pretty closing drill, well carried out.

From the beginning to the end the first evening of the Red Cross Committee's venture was an unqualified success, and all who participated are to be congratulated upon its originality, smoothness of precedure, and financial returns.

It will be all repeated this afternoon and evening, when there will be no question as to the large attendance.

The Salvation Army Band discoursed pleasing music throughout the evening.

MUCH FALL WHEAT SOWN IN ONTARIO

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—Ontario, according to the estimate of the Minister of Agriculture, has sowed one million acres of fall wheat more than she has ever sowed before, which is more than double the last year's acreage of 727,000. The yield of 1914 was estimated at 15,000,000 bushels "Ontario," says Hon. James Duff, "will have a wheat crop should the conditions be favorable, the like of which she has never before seen."

Chances in the military uniforms throughout the world show a growing tendency to protect the soldier rather than making him a target.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.--Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—30690. dtf

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Preemption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G.,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—64388.

Turkey is Doomed

Signed Death Warrant for European Status

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The Times editorial says the Allies are quite ready for Turkey and have been ready for her for a long time. "All preparations for the Turkish advance been made by Great Britain in Egypt along the banks of the Suez Canal and in the peninsula of Sinai. Greece, too, is ready, and more than ready, as Turkey may soon discover. By her foolish yielding to the instigations of Germany Turkey has pronounced her own doom. The Ottoman Empire in Europe will soon be a thing of the past.

Since the turks have resolved upon their own destruction, we do not regret their appearance in the rank of combatants. Their acts of war means that when this mighty struggle is over Europe will be rid of two factors, which for more than sixty years have been the chief menaces to the peace of the Old World. We shall get rid of Prussian militarism, and we shall simultaneously get rid of the Turks in Europe. The people of Syria, of Arabia, and of Mesopotamia will also be freed from the blighting influence of the Turks, and the Ottoman race will be relegated to the obscure valleys of Asia Minor, from which it a long time ago emerged.

"These may sound like large assumptions but they will be proved by events. The world will never submit to the extension of Prussiam domination, but the appearance of Prussian-Turkish domination in Europe, and the near and middle east, would more than mean the extinction of civilization as we have shown it. The Allies will not sheath their swords until both ambitions have been crushed beyond any risk of re-appearance.

THE NEW RUSSIA THAT MEETS GERMANY

Swift Motor Transports And Sober Soldiers Signs Of A Great Change—Well-Clad Giant Infantry—Their Modern Equipment Lacking in no Respect—Note on the Spy System in East Prussia

VILNA, Russia.—For a fact as great as Russia one needs a symbol by which to apprehend it. For me, till now, the symbol has been a memory of Moscow in the Winter of 1905, the Winter of revolution, when the barricades were up in the streets and the dragoons worked among the crowds like slaughtermen in a shamble. Toward that arched gateway leading from the Red Square into the Kremlin came soldiers on foot, bringing with them prisoners dredged out of turmoil two armed men to each battered and terrified captive, whose white and bloodstained face stared and startling and ghastly between the gray uniform greatcoats. The first of them came to the deep arch, in whose recess is a lamplit shrine; I stood aside to see them go past. The soldiers were wrenching the man along by the arms, each holding him on one side; I recall yet the prisoner's lean, miserable face, with the suggestion it had of dissolute and desperate youth; and as they came abreast of the faintly-gleaming ikon in the gate they let him go for a moment. His dazed eyes wandered up to the shrine; he was already bareheaded, and with a shaking, uncertain hand he crossed himself in the intricate Russion fashion. The soldiers who guarded him, too—they shuffled their rifles to a convenient hold to have right hand free; they crossed themselves and their lips moved. Then they were through the arch and out upon the snow within the wall, and once again they had hold of their man and were thrusting him along to the prison which for him was the antechamber of death.

That was Russia then. Prisoner and captors, soldiers and revolutionaries, blinded and bewildered by the rush and dazzle of affairs, straining asunder yet linked, knitted into a unity of the spirit which they neither understood nor questioned.

Another Russia Today.

But a week ago, on those still dreary lands which border the Prussian frontier, there was evidence of a Russia that has been born or made since those hectic days in Moscow The Germans who had forced Gen. Rennekampf to withdraw to the border were making an attempt to envelop his left wing: Their columns issuing from the maze of lakes and hills in Masurenland came across the border on both banks of the little River Amulew, and fell upon him. There is a road in those parts that drifts south along the frontier, an unmade, unholy Russian road, ribbed with outcrops of stone, a purgatory to travel upon till the snow clothes it and one can go by sledge. Away to the southwest, beyond the patches of firwood and the gray, stepley rolling land, there toned the far diapason of artillery; strings of army transport, Red Cross vehicles and miscellaneous men straggled upon the road.

From beyond the nearest shoulder of land sounded suddenly some gigantic and hoarse whistle, an ear-shattering roar of warning and urgency. There was shouting and a stir of movement; the wagons and Red Cross vans began to pull out to one side; and over the brow of the hill, hurling into sight, huge, unbelievably swift, roaring upon its whistle, tore a great, gray-painted motor lorry, packed with khaki-clad infantrymen. It was going at a hideous speed, leaping its tons of weight insanely from rock to ridge to traffic-churned slough in the road; there was only time to note its immensity and uproar and the ranked faces of the men swaying in their places, and it was by, and another was bounding into sight behind it. A hundred and odd of them, each with thirty men on board—three battalions to reinforce the threatened left wing—a mighty instrument of war, mightily wielded. It was Russia as she is today, under way and gathering speed.

At Rennenkampf's headquarters at Wirballen, where formerly one changed trains going from Berlin to Petersburg, one sees the fashion in which Russia shapes for war. Here, beneath a little bridge with a black and white striped sentry box upon it, its muddy banks partitioned with rotten planks into goose-pens, runs that feeble stream which separates Russia from Germany. Upon its further side, what is left of Eydtkuhnen, the Prussian frontier village, looms drearily through its screen of willows—walls smoke-blackened and roofless, crumbling in piles of fallen brick across its single street, which was dreary enough at its best. To the north and south, and behind to the eastward are the camps, a city-full a country-full of men armed and equipped; the mean and ugly village thrills to the movement and purpose. On the roof of the schoolhouse there lifts itself against the pale Autumn sky the cobweb mast and stays of the wireless apparatus, and in the courtyard below and in the shabby street in front there is a surge of automobiles, motor cycles, mounted orderlies—all the message-carrying machinery of a staff office. The military telephone wires loop across the street, and spray out in a dozen directions over the flat and trodden fields; for within the dynamic kernel to all this elaborate shell is Rennenkampf, the Prussia-Russian who governs the gate of Germany.

Here is the brain of the army. Its limbs go swinging by at all hours In battalions and brigades, or at the trot or at the walk, with a bump and clank as the gun-wheels clear the ruts. It is the infantry that fills the eye—fine, big stuff, man for man the biggest infantry in the world.

A Sober Army.

Their uniform of peaked cap, trousers tucked into knee-boots and khaki blouses is workmanlike, and the serious middle-aged officer truding beside them are hardly distinguishable from the men. They have not yet learned the use of the short, broad-bladed bayonets; theirs are of the old three-cornered section type with which the Bulgarians drove the Turks to Chataldja; but there is something else they have learned. Since the first days of the mobilization that brought them from their homes there is not a man amongst them that has tasted strong drink. In 1904 the men came drunk from their homes to the centres; one saw them about the streets and on the railways and in the gutter. But these men have been sober from the start, and will perforce be sober to the end.

Of all that elaborate and copious machinery of war which Russia has built up since her failure in Manchuria there is nothing so impressive as this. Her thousand and odd aeroplanes, her murderously-expert artillery, her neat and successful field wireless telegraphy, even her strategy, count as secondary to it. The chief of her weaknesses in the past has been the slowness of her mobilization. Germany with her plans laid and tested for a mobilization in four days, could count on time enough to strike before Russia could move. She used her advantage to effect when Austria planted the seed of this present war by the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina; she was able to present Russia in all her unpreparedness with the alternatives of war in twenty-four hours or accepting the situation. But this time it has been different.

At Petrograd one sees how different. Hither from the northern and eastern Governments come the men who are to swell Rennenkampf's force. Their cadres, the skeletons of the battalions of which they are the flesh, are waiting for them—officers, organization, equipment, all is ready. The endless trains decand them; they swing in leisurely columns through the streets to their depots, motley as a circus—foresters, moujiks in fetid sheepskins, cattlemen and rivermen, Siberians, tow-haired Finns, the big gamut of the races of the Russia, all big or biggish, with those impassive, blunt-featured faces that mask the Russian soul, and all sober. No need now to make men of them before making soldiers; no inferno at the wayside stations and troop trains turning up days late. It is as if, at the cost of those annual 780,000,000 roubles, Russia had bought the clue to victory.

West beyond Eydtkuhnen, under the pearl-gray northern sky lies East Prussia. Hereabouts it is flat and fertile, with lavish, eye-fatiguing levels of corn land stretching away to Insterburg and beyond to Konigsberg's formidable girdle of forts. Here are many villages, and scattered between them innumerable hamlets of only two or three houses, and a small town or two. Most of them are empty now; the German army that leans its back on the Vistula's fortresses has cleared this country like a dancing floor for its work. It has rearranged it as one rearranges the furniture in room whole populations have been transported, roads broken, bridges blown up, strategically unnecessary villages burned. Nothing remains on the ground that has not its purpose assigned—not even the people, and their purpose has been made clear for some time past. The Russians have been over this ground already, and fell back from it after their defeat between Osterade and Allenstein. Their advance was through villages lifeless and deserted and over empty roads; the retreat was through a country that swarmed with hostile life. Roads were blocked with farm carts; houses along their route took fire mysteriously signaling their movement and direction, and answered from afar by other conflagrations; bridges that had been sound enough before blew up at the last moment. What the Belgians were charged with, and their country laid waste for, all East Prussia is organized to do daily as an established and carefully schooled auxiliary to the army.

German Civilians as Spies.

A few days since there arrived a prisoner, driven in on foot by a mounted Cossack, sent back by the officer commanding the reconnaissance party which had captured him. He came up the street, shuffling at a quick walk to keep ahead of the horse and the then sinister Cossack—an elderly farmer in work-strained clothes, with the lean neck and pursed jaws of a hard bargainer. In all his bearing and person there was evident the man of toilsome life who had prospered a little; in that soldier-thronged street. In his posture of a prisoner with the Cossack's revolver at his back, he was conspicuous and grotesque. His eyes, under the gray pent of the brows were uneasy, and through all his commonplace quality and his show of fortitude there was a gleam of the fear of death that made him tragic. He had been found on his farm doing nothing in particular. It was out of simple general suspicion that the Rusian officer had ordered him to be searched. The result was the discoverey of a typewritten paper, given precise instructions as to how a German civilian in East Prussia must act toward the enemy—how to signal movements of infantry, of cavalry, of artillery; how to estimate the numbers of a body of men, and what to say if questioned, and the like—a document conceived and executed with true Prussian exactitude and clearness a masterpiece in the literature of espionage.

For him there was no hope; even The Hague Convention, which permits minelaying, does not protect spies, however earnestly and dangerously they serve their country. He passed, always at the same forced shuffle of reluctant feet, toward his judges and his doom.

BRIBE OFFERED TO FRANCE TO DESERT THE ALLIES

Kaiser Through His Advisers And Agents Attempts To Make Indirect Overtures To Influential Frenchmen Regarding Terms Of Peace

PARIS, Oct. 30.—(Special.)—For combined audacity and trickiness nothing within my knowledge equals the attempt which the Kaiser, through his advisers and agents, has made during the last few days to separate France from her allies and enable the German Government, while posing before the outer world and her own people as earnestly desirous for peace, to pursue the war with hopes of success at present non-existent.

Suing for Peace?

Briefly, information has been conveyed to certain influential Frenchmen who were expected to act as intermediaries, that the German Imperial Government recognizes the quality of the stand made by the French armies, that she has never regarded France as her principal enemy in this struggle and is ready to make peace on terms not merely honorable but generous for the Republic. These terms would include the transfer to France of Metz and the neighboring portion of Lorraine and perhaps also of at least part of Alsace, Germany to retain Antwerp and part of northern Belgium.

I need say nothing of the spellbound astonishment with which this proposition, brought, it is true, not through official, but through commercial and financial channels, yet with apparent authority, was listened to,

German Had Woman's Hand In Pocket

Fingers Were Covered With Rings, with Diamonds and Other Jewels

SHERBROOKE DOCTOR'S STORY

Latter Is In London Hospital And Personally Saw Evidence Of Atrocities

SHERBROOKE, Que., Oct. 29.—A prominent citizen of Sherbrooke has received a letter from his brother, who is a doctor in one of the London hospitals, in the course of which he refers to the German atrocities in Belgium. He says:

"We expect about 700 patients from Antwerp at our hospital to-day. There are sure to be some sorry sights.'

"One German wounded at our hospital was in delirium when brought in. All the time he was calling out in German, "my hand, my rings." The doctors could not understand what he meant till they searched his great coat In the inside pocket they found 27 diamond rings loose, 12 brooches in gold and stones, and one lady's hand absolutely smothered in diamond and other rings. He belonged to the Crown Prince's army. Other soldiers of the German army were also found to have similar spoils on them.

"At the London hospital where there are a lot of German wounded, they reckon to have confiscated one thousand and five hundred pounds worth of pillaged jewellery.

"At our hospital we have about nine hundred pounds worth."

$3,000,000 IN GOLD FOR BRITISH NEEDS

Chicago Figures It Has Made a Lot Of Money Out Of This War

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—To date it is said that foreign orders for clothing, trucks, harness, tinned meats and the like in Chicago and the neighborhood amount to between seven and eight million dollars. Purchasing agents of the British and the French Governments are in the field, and the former has $3,000,000 gold in a local bank to pay for purchases. The meat packers are said to have enough European orders on hand to keep them running full time for a year.

William G. Bruce, secretary of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' Association, is authority for the statement that the knitting mills of that state are swamped with military orders. Coarse fur coats, harness, shoe and light tonnage auto trucks are among other Wisconsin commodities being sold abroad, he said.

HAD MERCIFUL IMPULSE

Submarine Commander Almost Spared the Cressy

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A letter from an American official in Germany tells of an interesting conversation with Lieut. Weddigen, the commander of the submarine which sunk the British cruisers Aboukir, Cressy and Hogue, and, according to reports in German papers also the cruiser Hawke.

Lieut. Weddigen almost spared the Cressy, feeling strongly against sending this last ship to the bottom, because it was the only thing to save the men from the other cruisers, who were struggling in the water.

Lieut. Weddigen said that through the periscope of the submarine he observed both the other ships sink, with the Cressy alongside for rescue. The havoc appalled him, and he almost determined to let the Cressy stay afloat. He was about to leave the periscope and retire, when his second in command, who was also shocked, reminded Weddigen: "You know we have four navies fighting us."

Thereupon Weddigen went back to the periscope, made his observation, and sent the torpedoes which finished the Cressy.

Chances in the military uniforms throughout the world show a growing tendency to protect the soldier rather than making him a target.

After Patent For Famous Specific

Druggists and Physicians Would Pre-Empt Prof. Ehrlich's Recipe

OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—(Special.)—No fewer than six medical men and druggists from various parts of the Dominion have applied to the Dominion Patents Office for permission to preempt the German-held patent for the preparation of the famous "606" specific. The preparation is the discovery of Prof Ehrlich of Berlin, and the name of his Japanese assistant, Hata, is sometimes applied to it. The chief ingredients of the specific are arsenic and free mercury, the exact quantities of each being an important factor in its admixture. The extremely dangerous nature of the preparation unless properly mixed may deter the Government from entrusting the patent to anyone but a skilled druggist, and the applications are still under consideration.

ZEPPELINS ARE COMING

Some Have Passed Westward Over Hasselt

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 29.—No firing was heard at Sluis to-day up to noon from the great attlefield on the Belgian coast. The enormous number of German wounded is causing great embarrassment. The Germans have bought $7,000 worth of wood in Ghent for the purpose of building a huge temporary hospital.

Near Ostend, the Germans are said to have erected a gigantic tent of fireproof canvas as a hangar for airships. In connection with this report should be read the news from Hasselt, that between Sunday noon and Monday evening seven Zeppelines passed westward. Hasselt lies on a straight line drawn from Dusseldorf or Cologne to the Belgian coast.

MECHANIC GETS $4,000.

Compensation for Damages From The Hamilton Steel Co.

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—(Special.)—Philip Johnston was awarded $4,000 damages from the Hamilton Steel & Iron Co. by a jury in the Civil Assize Court yesterday for injuries, received from steel plates falling on him in December last. Johnston was a mechanic's helper, receiving $24 per week, and under the compensation allowance by the old workmen's act the Judge fixed the damages at $3,500, and costs.

20 YEAR SENTENCE GIVEN TO SOCIETY

He Would Have Been Lynched in Southern States, Says Chancellor

HAILEYBURY, Oct. 30.—(Special)—At the Criminal Assizes to-day, with regard to Henry Price, a negro, charged with criminal assault, the Chancellor, Sir John A. Boyd, said that had the crime been committed in southern sections of the United States the populace would undoubtedly have taken the case into its own hands and lynched the prisoner. As it was, he would be sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment. Price, who was undefended, went to a section foreman's house and begged and received a meal from his wife. He afterwards committed the offence. An Austrian took him into Cochrane and gave him into custody at the point of a rifle.

LAND FOR BELGIANS GOVERNMENT SCHEME

Official Confers with Citizens of St. Thomas to Secure 50 Ten-Acre Plots

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 30.—(Special.)—J. P. Bryce of the Dominion Government Immigration Department is in St. Thomas conferring with citizens with a view to securing about 500 acres of land, the object being to have the same cut up into ten-acre plots, on which to place some of the Belgian refugees.

IF GASOLINE SELLS, SO DOES ICE CREAM

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—(Special.)—"You have broken the law, but I will dismiss the case. I a man can sell gasoline on Sunday he can also sell ice cream," said Magistrate Cohen in the Police Court yesterday afternoon in dismissing Joseph Shipman, charged with breach of the Lord's Day act. Shipman admitted that he sold the ice cream, but the Magistrate would not convict.

UNITED STATES PRESS ON GERMAN AMBASSADOR'S TALK

New York World Wonders What Imp Tempted German Ambassador to Talk of Invasion

The New York Herald in a short editorial says:

"Just what Count Bernstorff can hope to gain by spreading in this country the suggestion that Germany may attack and occupy Canada it is difficult to understand. Can he imagine that Americans are so enamored of German 'kultur,' as exemplified in Belgium, that they would welcome its appearance on this continent?

"It would seem that the first rule of a German diplomacy bending its energies to create a favorable American public sentiment would be to let that particular 'sleeping dog lie.' If there is one thing more calculated than any other to make Americans give ear to the foolish talk of those persons who would have the United States break its neutrality and give all its aid and comfort to the Allies, it is the picture Count von Bernstorff paints of German armies 'hacking their way' in Canada.

"Dr. Dernburg, second in command of the German publicity propaganda, rushes to the fore with the assurance that Germany's love for the Monroes doctrine is so great that it would never contemplate the invasion of Canada. Can Dr. Dernburg expect the American people to attach any more value to his assurances than the German Government does to its treaties?

"The only possible effect of Dr. Dernburg's disclaimer is to focus attention on the von Bernstorff picture—and to make Americans do a lot of thinking."

The New York World Says:

"What imp of perversity tempted the German Ambassador to raise the issue of the Monroe doctrine and assert Germany's right to invade Canada?

"It is true that technically there is nothing in the Monroe doctrine that would necessarily interfere with the landing of German troops in Canada, provided Germany did not try to hold territory. That is a matter that would have to be determined by circumstances. It is one of those cases in which, as Secretary Olney said: 'Our fiat is law.' But why should Count Von Bernstorff undertake to discuss the question at all?

"As long as the British Navy is afloat, Germany has no more chance of invading Canada than she has of invading the moon. For all practical purposes the Ambassador might as profitably discussed the advantages of Mars as a signallying station to direct the fire of the German heavy artillery in the siege of Petrograd. Politically, we can think of no other question which is more certain to arouse American suspicion and irritation than this.

"The German attitude toward the Monroe doctrine has always left a great deal to be desired from an American point of view. German political writers have habitually treated the Monroe doctrine as a piece of contemptible Yankee impudence, and this is rather a dubious occasion for a German diplomatist to raise hypothetical questions as to the extent and application of the Doctrine in a hypothetical campaign against Canada.

"Should German troops ever invade Canada, the application of the Monroe doctrine to the specific case will be defined in Washington, not in Berlin."

The New York American sarcastically says:

"If the German Ambassador really holds the theory, it would have been the part of diplomacy for him to keep it discreetly to himself. It will not add to his popularity in this country.

"We trust the Count will not supplement his interesting remarks on Canada and the Monroe doctrine with the proposition that should Germany wish to invade Canada the Belgian precedent would afford ample justification for marching her troops through New England."

The Journal of Commerce Says:

"It can hardly be deemed a tactful suggestion of the German Ambassador that there would be no violation of the Monroe Doctrine if Germany should land troops in Canada, inasmuch as that British Dominion is participating in the war against the German Empire by furnishing men and supplies to the British army.

Probably the Monroe Doctrine would have nothing to do with the case, and perhaps there would be no breach of that extremely indefinite and uncertain thing, international law, or any violation of anybody's neutral rights. Nevertheless, it is hardly conceivable that Germany should take any such step as invading Canada or any other part of the western continent.

"Monroe Doctrine or no Monroe Doctrine, belligerent rights and neutral rights or not, it would be the most inexpedient thing conceivable."

MAY SHORTEN HOURS FOR LIQUOR SALES

Government May Take Power to Curtail License Hours During War Depression

In view of what is conceded will be a hard winter, with the prospect of much unemployment and suffering, The Toronto Globe is informed that the Provincial Government is considering the advisability of following the example set by the Government in Britain and curtailing the hours for selling liquor.

The matter has been brought to the attention of the Provincial authorities in many ways, and while there is now no authority that will permit the Executive Council to interfere with the present hours of sale in shops and hotels, it is likely that advantage will be taken of the present occasion to vest this power in the Cabinet. That will mean, where circumstances warrant, that the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may on proclamation, having regard to extreme and emergent conditions, curtail the hours of sale of intoxicating liquors, or even suspend, for the time being, the retail sale.

Arrested for Working Wireless

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—Three Germans were to-day arrested in a house on Hollis street, where they were operating a wireless installation. The wireless antennae were not operated from a pole or mast as usual, but to escape observation were trailed out of a third-story window and concealed amid some vines.

Winter Clothing For the Fleet

The following letter from Lady Jellicoe apepared in the London Tmes on Monday, October 12th.

To the Editor of The Times.

Sir: There is a very prevalent idea about that the Navy have enough winter comforts. I beg to state such is not the case. Only yesterday my husband wrote, "Although the Admiralty are providing extra warm things for the Fleet, it won't be nearly enough, and every helmet, glove, or stocking that you can get will be most welcome." Sir John also writes what the men badly want are sea-boots and oilskins.

"I suggest that all comforts, such as muffers, jerseys, gloves, etc., be sent to the Navy League 47, Grosvenor Square, or to the Needlework Committee of the Primrose League, 64, Victoria Street, S.W., who will gladly forward them immediately to His Majesty's ships as they come in, and I will gladly receive subscriptions at 29, Sussex Square, W., to buy the much-needed sea-boots and oilskins and forward them immediately to the Fleet.

Yours truly,

(Sgd) GWENDOLINE JELLICOE

29, Sussex Square, Hyde Park, W.,

Mr. Justice Hodgins, 9 Dale Avenue Toronto, will, if necessay, undertake to forward anything which may be sent in for the purpose mentioned in Lady Jellicoe's letter.

RESERVISTS CANNOT USE NEUTRAL SHIPS

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Morning Post announces that the government, after having consulted its allies and neutral powers, has decided to disregard the Declaration of London of 1909. This means the cancellation of permission for reservists of belligerent nations to travel unmolested in neutral ships.

How the "Economizer" Works

EVERY Gurney-Oxford Range is equipped with an "Economizer."

This is the most important stove invention of recent years, and is not to be had on any stove but the Gurney-Oxford.

Think of its convenience; instead of having a number of dampers to regulate, you have only one. Move the handle of the Economizer in one direction and the fire is checked and maintained at a low ebb. It does not go out, but it consumes least possible fuel. If a bright, hot fire is wanted, another turn of the handle produces it, quickly and surely.

The convenience and efficiency of the Economizer is not equalled by the damping arrangements on any other stove.

And the arrangement of the flues in a Gurney-Oxford is remarkable.

The oven is enveloped in heat—every inch and corner gets an equal share of heat.

The heat goes up or down steadily and evenly. It never fails to cook successfully.

And the Gurney-Oxford Grates present an extraordinary large surface to the air. This means perfect combustion, a bright, intense fire. The coal is entirely burnt. It does not smoulder without giving off heat, half stifled to death.

Let us demonstrate these features of the Gurney-Oxford. The purchase of a stove can mean so much in comfort and economy—or extravagance and disappointment—that it is a serious thing to buy the wrong stove. The Gurney-Oxford never disappoints.

What Saved the Home.

In the American Magazine a man who has had twenty-five years' matrimonial experience says that he and his wife were growing farther apart and constantly quarreling. The family would have been wrecked had it not been for two things, which he describes as follows:

"First was the baby—a healthy, charming child—to whom we were intensely devoted. For months the baby was about the only subject we could agree upon. The other safeguard was our sense of humor. I have since thought that no two persons should marry unless one or the other has a sense of humor. With us the sense of humor usually came to the rescue at the most trying times. One or the other of us would be struck with the ludicrous feature of our quarrel and laugh, and pretty soon we made up."

A Mannish Lady.

An eccentric lady who was a source of great amusement to the then Prince of Wales in those earlier years was Lady Sophia Macnamara, who is described in "On the Track of the Great."

She was the most independent woman I have ever met—robust and breezy, wont to wear a hat of the kind we christened the "hard boiled egg"—an uncompromising looking plain straw hat, such as men wear, without any decoration whatsoever. Of an evening she used to sit next the heir to the British throne, listening to the music, wearing her "hard boiled egg" and smoking a big cigar, and when that was finished she would light and smoke a second. One couldn't help admiring a woman who was so absolutely indifferent to conventionalism.

A Necktie For Fish Bait.

Cigarette papers trailed in the manner of a "spinner" seem a queer bait for mackerel, but navy men have used cigarette papers with deadly effect in Dover bay. You can, in fact, catch mackerel with anything bright when they are on the run. Perhaps the best of all baits for them is a strip of skin cut from one of their captured brethren.

A piece of tin or lead foil is effective, and I once knew a man who came back from mackerel fishing without a vividly colored necktie that he rather fancied. It had made an excellent lure for the fish. Is it that the mackerel is conscious of his own brilliant coloring and therefore will take any bait with a gleam about it?—London Standard.

Simplicity In Higher Life.

The higher we rise the simpler we become. There is a childhood into which we have to grow, just as there [illegible] is a childhood which we must leave behind; a childlikeness which is the highest gain of humanity and a childishness from which but few of those who are counted the wisest among men have freed themselves in their imagined progress toward the reality of things.

Restoring Colors In Carpets.

If a carpet is almost all wool the color may be brightened or wholly restored if washed with a pail of water containing three gills of ox gall. If necessary to use fresh ox gall procure it at the butcher's, cut it into small pieces, cover with warm water and allow it to soak for several hours. Dilute the liquid and wipe the carpet off with it. It makes a lather and should be rinsed off with clear water.

FLOUNCES FOR FALL.

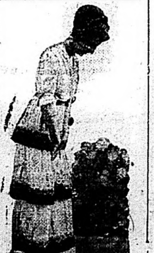
Fashion Now Favors Them For Semidress Costumes.



PRETTY AFTERNOON GOWN.

The vogue of flounces is prettily illustrated in the gown pictured here which is a charming creation of voile with the skirt covered by three deep flounces, rose embroidered and bordered by bands of black velvet. It is a suitable gown for mademoiselle and may be duplicated in any one of a half dozen materials.

CONVENIENT DARNING OUTFITS

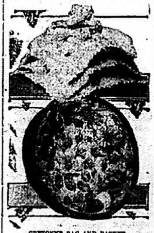
Three Tiered Bag and Well Fitted Basket For the Mender or Fancy Worker.

It is not too early to begin planning for Christmas. The two useful little articles illustrated here would make splendid gifts for the thrifty housewife who has mending to do or for the maid or matron who loves fancy work. The bag shown above is fashioned of squares of cretonne. Two of the squares are lined with plain material and stitched together at the edges. Three of these sections are then fastened together by cutting out the centers, fastening them there and attaching a ribbon covered embroidery hoop to the top opening. Little pockets may be attached to the compartments inside the bag for the accommodation of sewing or fancy work materials. There is of course a ribbon hanger attached to the bag, by means of which it may be conveniently carried about.



CRETONNE BAG AND BASKET.

The little basket shown is an imported darning basket, which is lined with flowered cretonne and provided with all the implements required for darning successfully. These include a darning egg and emory pincushion, reels of darning silk and cotton and wool and a pocket for needles. The basket might be duplicated in raffia or by any one who has skill in basket making, or it may be purchased ready made and, after being lined with cretonne, fitted up with the required articles.

Too Much of a Breakfast.

Even Peacock's generous ideas of suitable provisions for a breakfast were surpassed by a London host who entertained J. L. Motley. Aug. 3, 1867, Motley writes to his daughter: "I went to the last breakfast of the season of the Philobiblon society, given by Mr. Turner, a collector of rare books. Beginning with coffee and tea, we ended with sherry, champagne and maraschino; fish, cutlets, rotis, salads, game, puddings and ice going on meanwhile in regular order. If you asked me what I did I can only say I opened my ears to the animated and intellectual conversation and my mouth, not to eat, but to gape and gasp and wonder at the prodigious consumption of victuals at that hour of the day. When I reflected that all those people would lunch at 2 and dine at 8 I bowed my head in humiliation, and the fork dropped from my nerveless grasp."—London Chronicle.

Looking Down From High Places.

Why do you feel giddy when you look down from the top of the house or even from the upstairs porch? Just because it's so high, eh? That's true, but it's only half the answer. You know, of course, that your power to keep your balance on your feet depends largely on your vision or sight. When you walk in the dark you stumble and bump against things because you are not used to walking without seeing. It's the same when you are away up above the ground and cannot see familiar things in their familiar places. Your eyes play you tricks, you seem to lose your balance, and your head feels giddy and your steps are uncertain. If you practice long enough you can learn to walk without seeing, but until you have learned that lesson be careful when you climb to high places.—Wisconsin State Journal.

Prince of Piedmont, Heir to Italian Throne.

Prince Humbert, heir to the Italian throne, better known by his official title as Prince of Piedmont, was born ten years ago. In the early summer he embarked on the man-of-war Puglia with a naval tutor for a cruise in the Mediterranean. Heretofore the young prince has spent his summers with his mother and three sisters, but he wants to be a sailor and therefore went to sea. Doubtless his sail was of short duration, as conditions in the Mediterranean are anything but peaceful. The naval training of the Italian crown prince is a departure from established custom of the house of Savoy, for since the time of its founder, Umbertus I, in 1032, all heirs of the house have been brought up as soldiers.

Tactful Dam Builder.

In speaking of the river regulations of the ancients Sir William Willcocks, the noted English engineer, said: "Cyrus the Great controlled the Gyndes, a tributary of the Tigris, in a truly original manner. Babylonia was already peopled, and lands were needed for his Persian troops. The Gyndes discharges 40,000 section feet and runs thirty feet deep in a sandy and mobile bed. He could build no regulator, so he dug thirty canals, divided the waters of the river among them, closed the river by an earthen dam and completely controlled it. As he could never have induced his wild soldiers to dig these canals for any useful purpose, he took advantage of the fact that his favorite horse had been drowned in the flood and urged his soldiers to dig the canals and dissipate the waters of the river in such a fashion that it could never again drown a horse."

AN ESCAPADE IN ADVERTISING

How an Auto Was Sold

By GEORGE FREDERICK WILSON

Copyright by Frank A. Munsey Co.

When the price of automobiles became such that their purchase became common among men of means Harvey Williams bought a single seat runabout.

During the first year of possession he made almost constant use of the machine. Then the novelty of the thing wore off, and in the five following years he seldom rode in it. After that the modern and speedy touring car became the vogue. Harvey once more came under the spell of the automobile craze and quickly decided that he must have a touring car.

Rich as he was, he concluded that his was not the wealth to foster two motors. He was determined to sell the runabout.

So Harvey advertised it for sale and waited a purchaser. He waited two weeks, and yet none came. The end the third week brought a probable yer.

'Now, what I want in a machine is eed," this individual began. "I can't arvey wavered between truth and ssible sale. If he gave its speed fifteen miles an hour truth would mph, but the opportunity of a sale ld be lost.

Vell—er—you know our city ordice is very strict as to speed, and I never given the auto a trial on country roads. But, say, it makes city limit speed of ten miles very y. Oh, yes, very easily!"

Jm! Then you don't know its exspeed?"

—it was guaranteed to make thirmiles easily in an hour," Harvey ed in a very weak tone of voice.

'rove it and I'll take the auto off hands," said the man. "You've to show me."

low can I prove it to you? Do want to take a trial spin?"

o. I haven't the time. Bring me lute proof of its speed and I'll the machine without further ado."

e three days following this conation Harvey spent in vain atts to hatch some scheme that d successfully deceive the probapurchaser. As mentioned before, Attempts were in vain, and on the of the third day he gave up in air.

the morning of the fourth day he a friend in the street, and the d inquired about his success in sing of the runabout. Harvey him all.

y well. Now, can you spare a couple of hours tomorrow forenoon?"

"I think I can arrange it."

"Good! Call for me here at 9 o'clock in your runabout."

Promptly at the hour designated Harvey drew up before the Bearinger building, and Howardson clambered into the seat beside him.

"What is the thing's absolute limit of speed, Mr. Williams?" Howardson inquired.

"It will make eighteen miles in an hour, but it is an awful strain on the engine."

"Take a given speed of eighteen miles per hour and a policeman to determine the speed, and his imagination will make it thirty miles. Now, when I say the word give it the limit."

They rode throughout the business district for a half hour, and then, when the streets were thickest with traffic, Howardson gave the order, and Harvey pushed the lever to the last notch.

Up and down the main thoroughfares the machine sped, creating turmoil in its wake. Policemen shouted their warning, but the men heeded them not.

Harvey would have liked very much to comply with the city speed ordinance, but Howardson urged against it. Finally one policeman, with the city's interest more at heart than any they had yet met with, ran out to intercept them, dodged in time to save himself, then ran on behind, secured the license number and jotted it down in his notebook.

It was then that Howardson advised less speed.

"Take your runabout home now, Mr. Williams, and keep both it and yourself under cover. When a policeman calls to place you under arrest your wife must tell him that you are not at home. You will get a letter. Bring it to me before you take further action."

The policeman called at noon, and Mrs. Williams observed her husband's instructions.

The afternoon mail brought Williams a letter from the chief of police. With trembling fingers he tore open the envelope, read the letter through and then dressed for the street. A half hour later he stood before Howardson.

Howardson smiled.

"Mr. Howardson," Harvey began, "how did you know that I would get a letter from the chief of police?"

"It is evident that you were never arrested before for speeding. They always follow this course when a prominent person is not found at home when the policeman calls. Let's read what it says."

It opened with the usual salutation and proceeded:

"You are under arrest for breaking the city ordinance relative to the speed of automobiles. I have in hand all necessary evidence to prove that you were in the automobile at the time and acting as chauffeur. You were going at a speed of not less than thirty miles per hour, and this, too, in the heart of the city's business district. You can avoid further trouble by remitting at once the amount of your fine, $25."

"Excellent, excellent," Howardson exclaimed in a tone of delight. "If he had not been so particular as to estimating the speed we would have been put to the necessity of demanding it of him. Call the estimable gentleman over the telephone and tell him that you will send the check by the next mail."

Williams did so.

"I have already notified the probable purchaser to call here, and if I mistake not this is he at the door."

The door opened, and the probable purchaser walked into the room. After a few moments of desultory conversation the chief's letter was handed to him, and he read it through.

"The noon edition of the News contains an account of this escapade," he remarked. "I'll take the runabout."

Williams had come to the office in the motor, and the purchaser, having written out a check to Harvey's order, took immediate possession of the machine.

"Mr. Howardson, you are indeed a specialist extraordinary in advertising!" Williams cried, holding out his hand when they were once more in Howardson's office.

"Thank you, Mr. Williams. Let me assure you that you need have no uneasiness regarding our little stratagem. Our friend will not dare speed above ten miles within the city and twelve in the country. I doubt if he has much relish for the paying of fines. However, should he ever have occasion to test the auto's speed and find it not above eighteen miles per hour you can truthfully say that you had always thought this speed was its limit until the chief of police informed you differently. Write a check for $25, payable to the order of the city, and I will type a letter to the chief to go with it."

This is the letter that fairly dumfounded the chief of police:

"Your communication received. I am unable to state at which I am the more surprised—your charge that I was speeding over the limit or the fact that the old auto would go over eighteen miles per hour, a fact of which I was heretofore doubtful. I have disposed of the auto, and as speed was the first and most essential requisite I was able to produce unimpeachable evidence that the machine possessed this quality. Thanking you for the unsolicited favor, I take great pleasure in handing you the inclosed check in full payment of my fine."

Harvey Williams put $2,500 with the money paid him for his runabout and purchased a machine that would do fifty miles an hour when pushed to its utmost. The first time he went out in it he was so delighted with its performance that he gave every other auto on the road his dust. Coming to a curve, he failed to slow up sufficiently, skidded down a bank, ruined his machine and was thrown into a muddy stream, thus getting his deserts for his dishonesty.

Failing to Break Line Germans Prepare For New Effort.

Troops Are Now Being Massed Between Yser River and Ypres-Hazebrouck-St. Omar Road—French Win Decisive Engagement North and East of Ypres—Every Point Shows Advantage for Allies.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The German attempt to cut through the allied line between Nieuport and Dixmude frustrated, the invaders are making preparations to attempt a movement against Boulogne rather than Dunkirk and Calais. This is evidenced by the massing of troops believed to number 350,000 men in the region between the River Yser and the Ypres-Hazebrouck-St. Omar road. The Duke of Wurtemburg is in supreme command, and the new assault may begin at any moment.

Whatever the next effort of the Kaisers' leaders, it is manifest that the coast campaign, which started with the capture of Ostend, has come to a poor end. The Yser was an impassable barrier, with British and French warships spreading destruction in the ranks of the foe whenever they came within range. Wednesday a big British battleship arrived off the Flanders coast, and by means of its 12-inch guns was able to rout the Germans further inland than was possible with the guns of the lighter vessel.

It is owing largely to the fire of the fleet that the next German assault will be made well beyond the farthest range of even the heaviest guns.

However, the German concentration on the new line of operations is not being made without resistance. Reports from Ypres say that the French won decisive engagements yesterday north and east of that town. In the same zone the Germans lost ground both Wednesday and Thursday. Heavy rains have rendered the discomfort of troops on both sides almost unbearable. Canals and rivers in all of northwestern France and western Flanders are overflowing their banks, and it is practically impossible to move heavy artillery for the present. For this reason the German efforts to fortify the coast line southward from Ostend has not made much progress. It is true that big guns are now planted at Zeebruge and further east, but as yet they have in no wise troubled the allied fleet. There is a persistent rumor of Zeppelin sheds being built at Ostend.

At every point the situation favors the allies, in spite of grave losses, and all the stress of the three months' campaign. South of Arras, French columns yesterday dislodged the Germans from favorable positions, which they took a couple of weeks ago as the initial success in their move toward the coast. This victory is regarded as important.

There are many reports of German reinforcements numbering 200,000 men to be brought from the Russian front for the effort directed at Boulogne. But whatever the extent of German reinforcements, it is declared that the allies are prepared to meet them man for man. French mobilization is now complete, and Gen. Joffre is showing the capacity to produce fresh troops whenever needed.

In the vicinity of Apremont fresh gains are reported to have been made by the French. Pressure on the lines of the German Crown Prince in that region continues to bend back his front. The complete isolation of St. Mihiel is almost effected, and the French hold strong positions in the Argonne forest. On the Aisne there was bloody fighting yesterday, and a number of trenches held by the foe were taken in a series of bayonet charges.

In a despatch from Flushing, the correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Co. says: "There has been a slight advance by the allies toward Ostend. The British are occupying two villages which they carried by bayonet charges. A Bavarian battalion refused to fight and surrendered."

Telegraphing from northeastern France, a correspondent of The Central News says: "The situation around La Bassee is being carefully watched. The Germans have adopted the tactics which proved so successful at Antwerp. They are apparently endeavoring to drive a wedge into the allies by sheer weight of gunfire.

"North of Lille all continues well, though the Germans have brought up powerful reserves.

"The Belgians once more are in the thick of the fray."

EMDEN DESTROYS WARSHIPS.

Russian Cruiser and French Destroyer Sunk By German Craft.

TOKIO, Oct. 30.—The British embassy hears that the German cruiser Emden, flying the Japanese flag and disguised by the addition of a fourth smokestack, entered Penang, a British possession in the Straits Settlements, and fired torpedoes which sank the Russian cruiser Jemtchung and a French destroyer.

The Emden's entrance into the waters of Penang was audacious. She came in under the guns of the fort, and after sinking the cruiser and destroyer escaped through the Strait of Malacca. The fate of the crew on board the Jemtchung is not yet known here.

Merchant vessels belonging to the belligerent nations are taking refuge at Colombo, Ceylon.

On Tuesday the Emden was reported as having sunk a Japanese passenger steamer bound for Singapore.

Bureaus For Aliens.

OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—Bureaus for the registration of Germans and Austrians under the new order-in-council will be established in Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Halifax, St. John, Quebec, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Regina and Vancouver.

Inland Revenue figures for the month of September issued Wednesday show a falling off, despite the augmentation of the duties. The total revenue was $1,566,661, as against $1,886,040 in September of last year.

Street Arabs at Play in a New York Park.

Lined up, ready for a trial of speed, in East River park, New York city, are these three little barebacked boys. Their lack of clothes is not so much because they have no shirts as because they had just emerged from a swim when the idea of a foot race was proposed. So they determined to make the trial without the impediment of useless apparel. That was when the camera man caught them. Beside them stood a policeman, who cannot be seen in the picture, and he gave the word "Go." It was a short race and quickly over, and doubtless the speediest lad won. But of that the photographer has no record. They all were far ahead of him at the finish line.

Story of the Colors.

Nearly every one thinks that red is a lucky color. It means love, courage and victory. The red stripes in our flag mean bravery.

The god Thor chose it for his color and sent red streaks of lightning through black clouds to show that he was more powerful than the darkness.

Some Indian chiefs paint their faces red when they are victorious in battle.

Green is the color of the early spring. Some people call it a magic color because they think it is the color of the fairies, who do not like people to wear it. Green is the national color of the Irish, who admire it very much, but the Scotch do not like to wear it because they think it brings bad luck.

Yellow is the sign of the sun because it is bright and pure. The Chinese hold it sacred and use it for charms against disease. In Egypt it is the color of mourning and death because the leaves get yellow before they fall from the trees.

Blue is the color of the clear sky, the water and the ocean. With the druids it was a holy color. It is the sign of affection and truth. The blue in our flag stands for truth.

Black is absence of color, and some say white is a combination of all colors.

Riddles.

Why is a man just imprisoned like a boat full of water? Because he requires bailing out.

Why is a bald head like heaven? Because it is a bright and shining spot and there's no parting there.

What constitutes a genuine frontier costume? The outskirts of civilization.

Why are quinine and gentian like Germans? Because they are two tonics (Teutonics).

Why is my cup of tea stronger than yours? Because it is all my tea (almighty).

What is that which is invisible yet never out of sight? The letter S.

Why is a comprehensive action an affectionate one? Because it embraces everything.

If a man saw his sister fall into a well, why could he not rescue her? Because he could not be a brother and assist her too.

Which are the two most disagreeable letters if you get too much of them? K N (cayenne).

Birds In the Bible.

There are more than forty species of birds spoken of in the Bible. We recall the frequent references to doves, several kinds of them being mentioned. David was hunted as "a partridge in the mountains;" he was "like a pelican in the wilderness," so forlorn did he feel. Again, "I am as a sparrow alone on a housetop;" "As for the stork, the fir tree is her home." Who will not recall the words "wings of the morning," "wings of a dove," "wings of the wind," "wings of the Almighty?"

The Old Woman.

There was an old woman who lived in a hat.
She had a bulldog and a fat tabby cat;
She gave them some broth and a piece of rye bread
And patted them both and sent them to bed.

We are admonished to love our enemies, but it doesn't mean that we should forget our friends.

One of the things that makes a man conceited about his wisdom is the lack of it.

A PLEA FOR FATHER.

A Well Known Writer Presents His Case Tellingly.

Albert Payson Terhune makes a plea for the much abused father of the family in his article in the Pictorial Review, entitled "A Halo For Father."

It was at a vaudeville show. Vaudeville shows reflect the soul of the man in the street; not his brain—his soul—the thing he feels with. A damsel with a furry voice was singing a sobful ditty. Its refrain ran much like this:

Take good care of mother, lad, when I'm dead and gone!
Be good to her and shield her from all pain.
Revere her silvern head,
For after she is dead
You will never know a mother's love again.

From the gallery arose audible sniffs, amid the whirlwind of applause. Even in the self contained orchestra section more than one white handkerchief frisked.

Every one there had had a mother, strangely enough.

The next act was a comedy sketch, during which two weirdly appareled men sang in unison a song with the ensuing refrain:

Dad, dad, dad,
The poor old worthless geezer!
The fuss we've had
With that old patience teaser.
He lacks the spirit of a mouse.
'Most any one can down him.
We let him hang around the house—
It's cheaper than to drown him.

Again emotion swept the gallery, this time in the form of unextinguishable laughter—the laugh on dad.

"I wonder," suggested a born fool after the show, "what would have happened if they'd switched the sentiment on those two deathless lyrics, if they'd sung sobbily about father's silvern head and the angels whispering blessings to him and then if they'd called mother a 'worthless geezer' and said they let her hang around the house because it was cheaper than to drown her!"

No one answered the born fool, not even according to his folly, largely because every one knew just what would have happened in such an impossible case as the shifting of the two songs.

The audience at first mention of father in the transposed lyric would have begun to chuckle. And before two lines of the denatured mother song could have been delivered the hissing would have led to something like a riot. That is the answer.

Why in vaudeville, which is a mirror, distorted if you like, of life and of life's opinions, is mother a signal for handkerchiefs and father for howls! Why in plays, in books, in real life, is there a halo around mother's head, while father goes haloless to the grave!

Audiences, book and theatrical, are prepared to accept willingly and naturally the cruel father, the demon father, the clown father. He is part of their daily literary and dramatic diet. They swallow him with ease. He is predigested.

What would they do if the cruel mother, the demon mother, the comic mother, were served to them? There is no need to think up a reply, for she is never served to them. And until an era of yet unborn originality and honesty arrives she never will be.

The Hallway Beautiful.

The entrance hall and stairway usually give a stranger his first impression of one's home. Because one lives in an old fashioned house is no excuse for these being ugly. Observe how attractive the narrow stairway and little hallway pictured here have been made. The walls are covered with plain, heavy cartridge paper. The stairs have been stained and polished to match the wood trimmings. The lower hall floor is stained and polished, but almost entirely covered by soft oriental rugs. A little taboret at the foot of the stairs holds a vase of flowers. On the wall are simple pictures in narrow wooden frames.

SIMPLE YET ATTRACTIVE HALL.

Testing Eggs.

A simple way to test eggs is said to be to make a brine by dissolving two ounces of salt in one pint of water. Place the eggs in this. An egg laid the same day will sink to the bottom, an egg laid the previous day will not sink quite to the bottom. An egg three days old will float just under the surface, and an older egg will float on or above the surface.

Keeping Hair Ribbons Smooth.

To keep children's hair ribbons from mussing cut a piece of cardboard six inches long and four inches wide. Roll the ribbons on this every night after removing them from the hair. This will save frequent pressing.

"I have noticed that."

"And her color schemes are horrid."

"Aren't they? By the way, she has cut me too."

Quite Safe.

"Aren't you afraid you will be married for your money, Harry?"

"What! I?"

"Sure."

"Not much."

"Why?"

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Established customs are, of course, respectable—and deadly dull.

Remorse doesn't do any good, but it can render one vastly uncomfortable, so avoid it.

Success is a beautiful thing—when it is ours.

Sometimes we know less about ourselves than we do of any one else.

Cold weather, it may be, is helping the ice trust, and maybe it is putting its high price schedule out of business.

An old fashioned winter certainly ought to be accompanied by old fashioned ability to enjoy it.

A man must either make way for himself or get out of the way of others.

Some people thirst for knowledge, even if it is dry.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

WHEN nursing a grouch is a man's constant occupation he should be made to vary it by playing nurse to a strong, sturdy, self willed baby.

Some men are civilized simply because their mothers spanked them sufficiently.

We always feel that friends who are really fond of us have good taste to recommend them.

Goodness itself can't help a man who won't help himself.

Being young isn't the excuse and apology of an old fool.

Of course we all like an old fashioned winter, but we don't care to have it get too old on our hands.

Quality is what most of us want, and that without at all interfering with quantity.

An Occasional Treasure.

The perfect wife is one who will
Not ask a fellow for a bill,
Who takes what money he can spare
And doesn't cause him any care,
Who always keeps her temper sweet
And fixes things that he can eat,
One who is busy all the while
And always meets him with a smile.

She's not extravagant in dress.
She spends a trifle, sometimes less,
For garments, yet she looks as neat
As any lady on the street.
And you should see her hats, handmade,
That put to shame the Paris trade,
And if each year she cannot get
A new one she will never fret.

Her temper is as smooth as ice.
She offers only sage advice,
And if it isn't taken, why,
She does not in a passion fly.
She has no hammer in her kit,
But just some steels with which to knit.
Nor does she hang across the gate
And gossip till the hour is late.

She keeps her husband's underwear
At all times in the best repair.
She doesn't gad about and try
To mash some smooth and wealthy guy.
In short, she is a model and
A credit to her home and land.
But, oh, it must a trial be
To live with her, you will agree!

Information Wanted.

"Marriage may be defined as a compromise."

"Is that so?"

"Yes."

"Well, tell me one thing."

"A dozen."

"Only one. Who does it compromise?"

Eminently Practical.

"I suppose you are in favor of a tariff."

"Sure. What is it?"

"Oh, protection for infant industries."

"Shoes and overcoats and things like that?"

Careless Fellow.

"Why don't the girls like him?"

"He makes love easily."

"I should think that would suit them."

"But he isn't a bit exclusive about whom he gives it to."

One For the Horse.

"He needs it."

"What?"

"Plenty of horse sense."

"Who does?"

"The man who owns and runs an automobile."

Easy Matter.

"How do you tell tainted money from the pure article?"

"Quite easily."

"Yes, but how?"

"Ownership determines it."

Honestly Won.

"Where did old Scroggs get the title of judge? Was he ever on the bench?"

"Oh, yes; for years."

"Whereabouts?"

"The bench in the park."

Not Very Much.

"I always sympathize with the under dog."

"Do you?"

"Yes."

"Did he ever notice it?"

Right, Oh!

"There is this about that man"—

"Well?"

"He need never fear being buried alive."

"Dead one now, is he?"

Descriptive.

As to the language that we use,
It doesn't always fit,
For, speaking of the lawyer's brief,
It isn't brief a bit.

Made Him Think of Pie.

"Don't mince matters. It makes me sick."

"Ah, I see—dyspeptic."

Experienced Husband.

"See my new hat. Isn't it dear?"

"I presume so. Your hats usually are."

Of Course.

"Why is a pretty girl pretty?"

"It makes the others so mad."

$5.00 Illustrated BIBLE

Our big Bible shipment has arrived, and we are ready to present to each of our readers one of these handsome Bibles—illustrated as never before attempted—in exchange for six free certificates of consecutive dates and the amount expense items as stated under the illustrated Bible Educational Certificate printed daily on another page.

It is possible to embellish a book without actually illustrating it. This Bible is not merely embellished; it is truly and accurately illustrated. Some Bibles contain pictures; but there is none by which the individual texts are actually illuminated, as though in the touch of inspiration. Comparison is impossible, for our new Bible stands alone—there is no other kind. Therefore, praise of this superb new book means no disparagement of the many excellent editions published heretofore.

600 Text Illustrations - 16 Colored Plates

This Bible is not a mere picture book. It is a genuine high art production, worthy of the 20th Century. In addition to the world-famed Tissot pictures in color, there are 600 illustrations, all exact copies of original paintings and drawings, which constitute the most wonderful gallery of Scriptural art in existence to-day. To this branch of the work, and at enormous cost, were called the greatest of living artists, and it is to their intelligent conception of the work, and to their masterly skill in the portrayal of Bible scenes that the superiority of this Bible over any yet produced is mainly due. Every picture is an eloquent sermon on these everlasting truths.

Either of the Bibles Offered Will Be Mailed to Any Address for the Six Free Certificates, the Amount Set Opposite the Style Selected and 23 cents Extra for Postage.

It matters not how many Bibles you may now have, you will Also need this ILLUSTRATED BIBLE which illuminates—i. e. "throws light upon"—the particular text selected for illustration, and is beyond doubt the most beautiful edition of the Bible ever published

Magnificent Illustrated $5 Edition of the Bible (like illustration) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world-famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin Bible paper, flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. Six Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount Expense Items

The $3 Illustrated BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5.00 book except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. Six consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount Expense Items

ALSO AN EDITION FOR CATHOLICS

Through an exclusive arrangement we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

PURITY OF THE AIR.

An English Scientist Attacks Our Theories of Ventilation.

Crowther, the English scientist, attacks one of the most cherished of our hygienic notions with a logic that compels respectful attention. His contention is that efficient ventilation does not depend upon the chemical purity of the air. The attempt should be to secure motion, coolness and dryness rather than to displace one body of air by another.

He denies that there is a toxic organic substance in the atmosphere as the result of human exhalations and challenges those who disagree with him to their proofs, as the existence of such poisons has never been scientifically demonstrated.

The lungs, according to him, are never filled with air some of which has not been exhaled. Inhalation follows so closely upon exhalation in normal breathing that [illegible] of the air that has just left the lungs is invariably drawn back into them.

Exhaustive experiments show that the amount of air thus returned is from 1 to 2 per cent in persons remaining quietly indoors. It is from 4 to 10 per cent in those asleep in bed. There are certain sections of the respiratory apparatus, moreover, the nose and the larger bronchi, in which exhaled air always lingers. It thus appears that the air in the lungs is always heavily contaminated with their own excreting gases, even in outdoor life, and the dead spaces make it certain that this contamination will not decrease.

It is not worth while, so the doctor argues, to pay much attention to the small amount of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, therefore, and if the air is kept in motion and not permitted to become too moist or warm the necessary ends of ventilation will be subserved.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

ATMOSPHERIC PRESSURE.

Changes That Come When the Barometer Falls an Inch.

Few persons have any idea what tremendous changes in the atmosphere are indicated by such a rise or fall of an inch in the barometer.

A cubic inch of mercury weighs a half pound. When the mercury falls an inch a weight of one ton is removed from every 4,000 square inches of surface. This is a ton for every area five and one-quarter feet square. If your house, for instance, is 25 by 40 feet, with an area of 1,000 square feet, a load of about thirty-six tons is lifted from the roof every time the barometer shows an inch fall—that is, a thirty-six ton load would be lifted if the house were air tight. But as air presses in every direction there is as much of a push upward against the roof from below as there is of a push downward from above. So the roof actually feels no effect from the removal of this heavy load.

In the same way a man of average size would be relieved of a weight of about a ton and a half if there were no air chambers in the human body.

It has been figured that a fall of an inch in the barometer over a territory 400 miles square removes a weight from the surface of the earth of 100,000,000,000 tons. If this were loaded on freight cars, twenty tons to the car and thirty cars to the train, more than 260,000,000 trains would be required to move it. If each train were 500 feet long they would stretch out in a line more than 25,000,000 miles long.

The only noise that accompanies this great transportation feat is made by the wind, which does considerable roaring in the course of such violent atmospheric changes.

The Worst Quarter of London.

What is the most disreputable bit of London? A writer in the London Sketch asked this question of a policeman the other day. He said, "The quarter round about the Harrow road."

It appears that there are byways in that region in which no policeman dare venture unless accompanied by a brother officer. Bermondsey, too, is pretty bad. But Wapping, once the haunt of hooligans, has become comparatively respectable of late.

Pigeons' Eggs.

The two eggs laid by a pigeon almost invariably produce male and female. Some curious experiments as to which of the eggs produces the male and which the female have resulted in showing that the first egg laid is the female and the second the male.

Knew Him.

"Tommy, run up and tell your sister I am here, will you?"

"Aw, what's the use? She knows it, 'cause when she saw you comin' I heard her say to mother, 'Dear me, there comes that empty headed idiot again!'"—London Telegraph.

Out For Tea.

Maid—I'm sorry, but Mrs. Jiggs is out for tea. Plebeian Friend—The idea! With all her money I should think she'd have everything sent.—Buffalo Express.

Fountain Pens Old.

If fountain pens have not attained perfection in the present day it is not because their youth warrants their indiscretions, for, according to a writer in the Pall Mall Gazette (London), this form of combined ink reservoir and pen has been in use for over 300 years. E. S. Bates in his "Touring In 1600" shows, he says, that travelers wrote with them at that time. In the following century they appear to have been in common use, a dictionary published in 1754 defining "fountain pen" as "a pen made of silver, brass, etc., contrived to contain a considerable quantity of ink and let it flow out by degrees. To use the pen the cover must be taken off and the pen a little shaken to make the ink run more freely." British patents were obtained for fountain pens in 1809, one being granted to Joseph Bramah, of Rock fame and another to F. H. Foelsch for a stylographic as well as a fountain pen.

Why It is the St. Lawrence.

The St. Lawrence river owes its name to the accidental conjunction of the festival of St. Lawrence with the day upon which the first explorer imagined he had discovered the river. Jacques Cartier in 1534 heard from the natives of the Magdalen islands of a mighty stream threading the continent to an unknown source, and it was while testing this legend that he sailed up the gulf until he could see the land on each side. In the following year he made a bolder expedition with three ships and the blessing of the Bishop of St. Malo. He sailed past Rimouski and on to Quebec, then known by the Indians as Stadacona. Here the fleet anchored. The French, however, failed in their efforts to colonize the country until a century had passed, largely owing to their high handed treatment of the Indians.—London Chronicle.

Needed It.

"What are you doing these days?"

"Taking the rest cure."

"Were you as bad off as that?"

"Yes."

"What had you been doing?"

"Listening to my wife."

To Compel It.

"How are you getting along with Miss Emeline?"

"I can't get her to take me seriously."

"Why don't you try saying something funny?"

Level Headed.

"It is so hard to keep going."

"It is?"

"Yes."

"Then why do you keep going?"

"It is much more difficult to stop."

Certainly.

"Which would you rather?"

"What?"

"Marry for love or money?"

"Both."

What Was the Difference?

"What do you expect will become of you?"

"Me?"

"Yes, you."

"Didn't you know I was married?"

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Established customs are, of course, respectable—and deadly dull.

Remorse doesn't do any good, but it can render one vastly uncomfortable, so avoid it.

Success is a beautiful thing—when it is ours.

Sometimes we know less about ourselves than we do of any one else.

Cold weather, it may be, is helping the ice trust, and maybe it is putting its high price schedule out of business.

An old fashioned winter certainly ought to be accompanied by old fashioned ability to enjoy it.

A man must either make way for himself or get out of the way of others.

Some people thirst for knowledge, even if it is dry.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

WHEN nursing a grouch is a man's constant occupation he should be made to vary it by playing nurse to a strong, sturdy, self willed baby.

Some men are civilized simply because their mothers spanked them sufficiently.

We always feel that friends who are really fond of us have good taste to recommend them.

Goodness itself can't help a man who won't help himself.

Being young isn't the excuse and apology of an old fool.

Of course we all like an old fashioned winter, but we don't care to have it get too old on our hands.

Quality is what most of us want, and that without at all interfering with quantity.

An Occasional Treasure.

The perfect wife is one who will
Not ask a fellow for a bill,
Who takes what money he can spare
And doesn't cause him any care,
Who always keeps her temper sweet
And fixes things that he can eat,
One who is busy all the while
And always meets him with a smile.

She's not extravagant in dress.
She spends a trifle, sometimes less,
For garments, yet she looks as neat
As any lady on the street.
And you should see her hats, handmade,
That put to shame the Paris trade,
And if each year she cannot get
A new one she will never fret.

Her temper is as smooth as ice.
She offers only sage advice,
And if it isn't taken, why,
She does not in a passion fly.
She has no hammer in her kit,
But just some steels with which to knit,
Nor does she hang across the gate
And gossip till the hour is late.

She keeps her husband's underwear
At all times in the best repair.
She doesn't gad about and try
To mash some smooth and wealthy guy,
In short, she is a model and
A credit to her home and land,
But, oh, it must a trial be
To live with her, you will agree!

Information Wanted.

"Marriage may be defined as a compromise."

"Is that so?"

"Yes."

"Well, tell me one thing."

"A dozen."

"Only one. Who does it compromise?"

Eminently Practical.

"I suppose you are in favor of a tariff."

"Sure. What is it?"

"Oh, protection for infant industries."

"Shoes and overcoats and things like that?"

Careless Fellow.

"Why don't the girls like him?"

"He makes love easily."

"I should think that would suit them."

"But he isn't a bit exclusive about whom he gives it to."

One For the Horse.

"He needs it."

"What?"

"Plenty of horse sense."

"Who does?"

"The man who owns and runs an automobile."

Easy Matter.

"How do you tell tainted money from the pure article?"

"Quite easily."

"Yes, but how?"

"Ownership determines it."

Honestly Won.

"Where did old Scroggs get the title of judge? Was he ever on the bench?"

"Oh, yes; for years."

"Whereabouts?"

"The bench in the park."

Not Very Much.

"I always sympathize with the under dog."

"Do you?"

"Yes."

"Did he ever notice it?"

Right, Oh!

"There is this about that man"—

"Well?"

"He need never fear being buried alive."

"Dead one now, is he?"

Descriptive.

As to the language that we use,
It doesn't always fit,
For, speaking of the lawyer's brief,
It isn't brief a bit.

Made Him Think of Pie.

"Don't mince matters. It makes me sick."

"Ah, I see—dyspeptic."

Experienced Husband.

"See my new hat. Isn't it dear?"

"I presume so. Your hats usually are."

Of Course.

"Why is a pretty girl pretty?"

"It makes the others so mad."

After one or two more big naval battles in Europe, the American navy without a single ship, will be the strongest in the world.

Illustrated BIBLE

Our big Bible shipment has arrived, and we are ready to present to each of our readers one of these handsome Bibles—illustrated as never before attempted—in exchange for six free certificates of consecutive dates and the amount expense items as stated under the illustrated Bible Educational Certificate printed daily on another page.

It is possible to embellish a book without actually illustrating it. This Bible is not merely embellished; it is truly and accurately illustrated. Some Bibles contain pictures; but there is none by which the individual texts are actually illuminated, as though in the touch of inspiration. Comparison is impossible, for our new Bible stands alone—there is no other kind. Therefore, praise of this superb new book means no disparagement of the many excellent editions published heretofore.

600 Text Illustrations - 16 Colored Plates

This Bible is not a mere picture book. It is a genuine high art production, worthy of the 20th Century. In addition to the world-famed Tissot pictures in color, there are 600 illustrations, all exact copies of original paintings and drawings, which constitute the most wonderful gallery of Scriptural art in existence to-day. To this branch of the work, and at enormous cost, were called the greatest of living artists, and it is to their intelligent conception of the work, and to their masterly skill in the portroyal of Bible scenes that the superiority of this Bible over any yet produced is mainly due. Every picture is an eloquent sermon on these everlasting tl.s.

Either of the Bibles Offered Will Be Free Certificates, the Amount Set Opposite the Style Selected and 23 cents Mailed to Any Address for the Six Extra for Postage.

It matters not how many Bibles you may now have, you will Also need this ILLUSTRATED BIBLE which illuminates—i. e. "throws light upon"—the particular text selected for illustration, and is beyond doubt the most beautiful edition of the Bible ever published

Magnificent Illustrated $5 Edition of the Bible (like illustration) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world-famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin Bible paper, flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. Six Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount Expense Items

The $3 Illustrated BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5.00 book except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. Six consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount Expense Items

ALSO AN EDITION FOR CATHOLICS

Through an exclusive arrangement we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

PURITY OF THE AIR.

An English Scientist Attacks Our Theories of Ventilation.

Crowther, the English scientist, attacks one of the most cherished of our hygienic notions with a logic that compels respectful attention. His contention is that efficient ventilation does not depend upon the chemical purity of the air. The attempt should be to secure motion, coolness and dryness rather than to displace one body of air by another.

He denies that there is a toxic organic substance in the atmosphere as the result of human exhalations and challenges those who disagree with him to their proofs, as the existence of such poisons has never been scientifically demonstrated.

The lungs, according to him, are never filled with air some of which has not been exhaled. Inhalation follows so closely upon exhalation in normal breathing th[illegible] on of the air that has just le[illegible] lungs is invariably drawn back [illegible] them.

Exhaustive experiments show that the amount of air thus returned is from 1 to 2 per cent in persons remaining quietly indoors. It is from 4 to 10 per cent in those asleep in bed. There are certain sections of the respiratory apparatus, moreover, the nose and the larger bronchi, in which exhaled air always lingers. It thus appears that the air in the lungs is always heavily contaminated with their own excreting gases, even in outdoor life, and the dead spaces make it certain that this contamination will not decrease.

It is not worth while, so the doctor argues, to pay much attention to the small amount of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, therefore, and if the air is kept in motion and not permitted to become too moist or warm the necessary ends of ventilation will be subserved.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

ATMOSPHERIC PRESSURE.

Changes That Come When the Barometer Falls an Inch.

Few persons have any idea what tremendous changes in the atmosphere are indicated by such a rise or fall of an inch in the barometer.

A cubic inch of mercury weighs a half pound. When the mercury falls an inch a weight of one ton is removed from every 4,000 square inches of surface. This is a ton for every area five and one-quarter feet square. If your house, for instance, is 25 by 40 feet, with an area of 1,000 square feet, a load of about thirty-six tons is lifted from the roof every time the barometer shows an inch fall—that is, a thirty-six ton load would be lifted if the house were air tight. But as air presses in every direction there is as much of a push upward against the roof from below as there is of a push downward from above. So the roof actually feels no effect from the removal of this heavy load.

In the same way a man of average size would be relieved of a weight of about a ton and a half if there were no air chambers in the human body.

It has been figured that a fall of an inch in the barometer over a territory 400 miles square removes a weight from the surface of the earth of 100,000,000,000 tons. If this were loaded on freight cars, twenty tons to the car and thirty cars to the train, more than 200,000,000 trains would be required to move it. If each train were 500 feet long they would stretch out in a line more than 25,000,000 miles long.

The only noise that accompanies this great transportation feat is made by the wind, which does considerable roaring in the course of such violent atmospheric changes.

The Worst Quarter of London.

What is the most disreputable bit of London? A writer in the London Sketch asked this question of a policeman the other day. He said, "The quarter round about the Harrow road."

It appears that there are byways in that region in which no policeman dare venture unless accompanied by a brother officer. Bermondsey, too, is pretty bad. But Wapping, once the haunt of hooligans, has become comparatively respectable of late.

Pigeons' Eggs.

The two eggs laid by a pigeon almost invariably produce male and female. Some curious experiments as to which of the eggs produces the male and which the female have resulted in showing that the first egg laid is the female and the second the male.

Knew Him.

"Tommy, run up and tell your sister I am here, will you?"

"Aw, what's the use? She knows it, 'cause when she saw you comin' I heard her say to mother, 'Dear me, there comes that empty headed idiot again!'"—London Telegraph.

Out For Tea.

Maid—I'm sorry, but Mrs. Jiggs is out for tea. Plebeian Friend—The idea! With all her money I should think she'd have everything sent.—Buffalo Express.

Fountain Pens Old.

If fountain pens have not attained perfection in the present day it is not because their youth warrants their indiscretions, for, according to a writer in the Pall Mall Gazette (London), this form of combined ink reservoir and pen has been in use for over 300 years. E. S. Bates in his "Touring In 1600" shows, he says, that travelers wrote with them at that time. In the following century they appear to have been in common use, a dictionary published in 1754 defining "fountain pen" as "a pen made of silver, brass, etc., contrived to contain a considerable quantity of ink and let it flow out by degrees. To use the pen the cover must be taken off and the pen a little shaken to make the ink run more freely." British patents were obtained for fountain pens in 1809, one being granted to Joseph Bramah, of lock fame and another to F. H. Foelsch for a stylographic as well as a fountain pen.

Why It is the St. Lawrence.

The St. Lawrence river owes its name to the accidental conjunction of the festival of St. Lawrence with the day upon which the first explorer imagined he had discovered the river. Jacques Cartier in 1534 heard from the natives of the Magdalen islands of a mighty stream threading the continent to an unknown source, and it was while testing this legend that he sailed up the gulf until he could see the land on each side. In the following year he made a bolder expedition with three ships and the blessing of the Bishop of St. Malo. He sailed past Rimouski and on to Quebec, then known by the Indians as Stadacona. Here the fleet anchored. The French, however, failed in their efforts to colonize the country until a century had passed, largely owing to their high handed treatment of the Indians.—London Chronicle.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

CHANGE OF ANGLE.

YOU may have noticed that the man
For law has great respect
And wants to see it all enforced,
Though fortunes should be wrecked,
Unless in getting these results
He tumbles in its net,
And then he isn't quite so sure
It's safe on that to bet.

If he can see his neighbor trimmed
In very proper style
Because he cracked an ordinance
He's pretty apt to smile,
But when the tall policeman comes
And says, "Old man, you're it"—
At such officiousness as that
He almost throws a fit.

It all depends, as you may guess,
On where his interests rest
Just how he wants the law enforced
When brought down to the test.
The man who robs his chicken coop
The deepest dregs should drink,
But when he breaks a law himself
He thinks it ought to wink.

Though he should organize a trust
Or go in a combine,
He doesn't think the law should rise
And soak him with a fine,
But if a highwayman should say,
"Hold up your hands, old sport!"
He'd want to see the limit fixed
By some discerning court.

A Speculator.

"What is the matter with you?"
"I dunno."
"Let me give you a pill."
"What is it good for?"
"I dunno."
"Then why should I take it?"
"If you don't know what ails you and I don't know what this pill is good for it seems to me that the two would go well together."

Paradoxically.

"He has money to burn."
"Indeed!"
"You bet."
"And does he burn it?"
"Never."
"Why?"
"He wouldn't have it if he did.

Hard to Please.

"It is so hard to pay a compliment to a fat woman."

"Tell her she is getting so thin that she ought to call a physician."

"No; she would know that was flattery."

"Then say that she is all wool and a yard wide."

Best of All.

The golfing girl is pretty,
There isn't any doubt.
In country or in city
She turns all heads about.

The skating maid is charming
As o'er the ice she darts.
It really is alarming—
She breaks so many hearts.

These maidens all are fleeing
And never are at rest.
We cannot help agreeing
The hired girl is best.

Their Usefulness.

"Many fools get into trouble."
"I have noticed that myself."
"What is the good of them?"
"Other fools help them out."

No Use For Them.

"I am always looking out for cheap things."

"Well, when I run across cheap people I always avoid them."

Infant Perception.

"Ma, are you and pa one?"
"Of course we are."
"Then does that make yourself two?"

Justified.

That she should cackle as she does
Occasions no surprise.
No wonder that she makes a fuss
When eggs are in the skies.

Unpleasant.

"I should hate to be always right."

"Why?"

"It puts one in such disagreeable company."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Getting a living is the first impulse with the most of us, and we are prone to think that the end justifies the means.

You can't be everywhere all the time. That is the reason you often get talked about.

Making money is the easiest way to earn a living.

There are lots of people who become hopelessly mediocre from their much talking.

A doctor's orders seem good, sensible and much to be desired as long as it isn't you to whom they are applied.

A beauty doctor may get rich, but she doesn't do it trying to be beautiful.

Being a good fellow has its drawbacks, but if it didn't the forward impulse would soon cause it to lose sight of him.

A poor author is like a cheap printing press; he wastes a lot of ink, but never succeeds in making a good impression.

SAVING THE PLAY

Actors Are Often Called Upon to Exercise Quick Wit.

SOME CURIOUS EXPERIENCES.

Rose Eytinge Once Extemporized the Entire Part of Lady Isabel in "East Lynne"—How John Brougham Made a Hit Without His Leading Lady.

Quick wit has saved many an embarrassing situation, turned many a seemingly disastrous failure into success. Politics, literature, courtesy, all are served by quick tongue and ready word.

Actors, as well as business men, have special use for quick wit, so often do they need help out of a difficulty during the play. A college performance was saved from wreckage by one of the young actors.

One of the cast, a boy easily upset, had just given his line, "All I need is an advertisement," when half of his stage mustache fell off.

"Oh, no," said the ready youth beside him, seeing his embarrassment; "what you need is a hair restorer."

And under cover of the laughter the victim had a chance to recover himself.

It was surely the same readiness that enabled Rose Eytinge to go through one of the most extraordinary experiences any actress ever had. In San Francisco she was once asked to fill Mary Anderson's place at short notice, appearing with the local stock company. The play was to be "East Lynne." By singular chance, no prompt book could be found, nor could they secure a copy of the novel. Miss Eytinge protested that it would be impossible for her to play, as she had never so much as seen the piece. That fact they refused to believe. Moreover, to add to her difficulty, though all the company claimed to know the old drama backward, no one seemed to have an idea of the lines she, as Lady Isabel, would have to speak.

"Oh, that'll be all right," said John McCullough, the manager, to whom she appealed. "Just you sob and look sorry, and it will go."

So Miss Eytinge, rather than cause the loss of closing the theater, went on totally unprepared to act in an absolutely unfamiliar play.

Tom Keene, the Archibald Carlisle, instructed her in the proper emotion from scene to scene. "Now she's a jealous cat, a jealous cat," he would whisper. "Now she's kitteny." "Now she's sorry she was such a fool." "Now she wants her young ones." "Now she up and dies."

The performance seemed to cause entire satisfaction to the audience, and McCullough, as he generously handed over half the receipts to the heroine of the hour, declared, "Well, you may have had to vamp that part, but I've often seen it played with less soul."

The story of an experience demanding similar readiness of wit is told of John Brougham, the early American comedian and playwright. On one occasion, when his own clever burlesque, "Pocahontas," had been billed and the house sold out in advance, the leading actress left without warning to take another position in Baltimore. The audience had assembled before her absence was discovered by the manager and star. As it was that play or nothing, Brougham, who was famed for his witty impromptu speeches, went before the curtain and suggested giving the piece without Pocahontas. He recalled the old story of the actor who played Hamlet so execrably that on the following night the tragedy was given with that character omitted by request.

"Now, if 'Hamlet' can be acted without the hero," he remarked, "why not 'Pocahontas' without the heroine? Of course you are all aware of the fact that 'Pocahontas' is a much greater play than 'Hamlet.' Even if you do not know that, I do, and I ought to, for I wrote it myself. Are you willing to try it?"

"Go ahead!" came the cries from the audience, who settled themselves back to see the result.

The burlesque proceeded as usual until the entrance music was played for Pocahontas; then, turning toward the audience, Brougham, as Powhatan, sadly began: "Ladies and gentlemen, that sweet strain is supposed to bring my daughter Pocahontas on the stage. You are already aware that she is in the city of Baltimore, and the stern law of the land will not permit a Christian, much less a savage, to be in two places at once. Thus does the law protect that most useful instrument, the alibi. However, if Poky were here she would hasten to say"— Whereupon the comedian gave her lines in exact imitation of the missing actress, keeping up the dialogue in two persons all through the play. The delighted people who were fortunate enough to be present declared that Brougham was avenged.

G. P. Huntley tells of an incident that took place at an east side theater in London. The "gods" were booing the piece and throwing chunks of bread at the performers.

At last the star came forward and said: "Now, look here! We're trying our best to amuse you. Throw bread, if you like; but," he added as he stopped and picked up a chunk, "thank heaven I'm not too proud to eat it."

The gods were vanquished.—Anna Bird Stewart in New York Tribune.

Labor conquers all things. It is idleness that is the curse of man—not labor. Nothing is impossible to industry.—Motto of Periander.

If we could only borrow money on our good intentions, poverty would soon be an obsolete word.

One man with an ingrowing disposition can put the souls of a street car full of people out of tune.

A SMALL SPRIG OF SOCIETY.

Chicago Boy Scouts of America Enact an Old Indian Legend, the Story of Chief Owassitpee—Origin of the Name Cowboy.

At Narragansett Pier, R. I., the little children of the rich find much to amuse and interest them. During the summer season their time is mostly occupied in swimming, sailing and other water sports, though they are kept under close supervision by their parents and attendants. Many of the little ones are smart swimmers and in the quiet waters of Narragansett bay find a safe place to show their skill. A particularly fearless little lady in the water is Miss Katharine Chase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Chase of New York. The camera man induced her to pose for her picture, and she very obligingly consented. The photograph here reproduced shows her to be a very sweet and winsome little girl.

MISS KATHARINE CHASE.

Boy Scouts Act a Legend.

Chicago boy scouts, who are camping at Crystal lake, near Muskegon, Mich., recently provided a novel diversion for themselves and for other vacationists who make visits to the camp from nearby resorts. The boys re-enacted one of the old Indian scenes, which, according to the legends of the locality, occurred at the site of the camp during the early days of western invasion by the white race.

The pathetic story of Chief Owassitpee of the Ottawa Indians of Oceana county, who refused to leave the shores of the White river when his people were forced north by the white invasion, because he hoped that his two sons who mysteriously disappeared while lads some day might return to him, was the subject. It was written in play form by the Chicago boy scouts and was produced amid the original sylvan scenes at the camp.

The story of the old chief recently was recalled by the finding of two skeletons and the remains of a canoe in the shifting river bed. It is believed in the locality that the skeletons are those of the missing sons. The camp of the scouts has been named "Camp Owassitpee" in honor of the dead chieftain.

Origin of the Cowboy.

A cowboy, to our modern minds, means a man who herds cattle. Yet the original "cowboys" instead of herding cattle stole them, says the American Boy. The name seems first to have been applied to a band of horsemen, part soldiers and part bandits, who fought on the British side during the Revolution. Westchester county, N. Y., was the scene of their operations, and the most of them were Tories. Because they drove away many cattle on their raids they were called cowboys. Opposed to the cowboys in their raids through the section of New York which lay between the British and American lines were the Skinners, a somewhat similar band of marauders, who espoused the Continental cause.

Boy Scout His Own Surgeon.

But for the fact that he was a boy scout himself and was accompanied by other members of that organization George Cowan, fourteen years old, of Sharon Hill, Pa., might have bled to death recently when he cut one of his great toes nearly off while chopping down a tree with a scout ax.

The blade of the ax rebounded and cut him through the shoe. Calling one of his companions, Cowan directed him how to stop the flow of blood, after which he was carried to the hospital.

"I have been a sufferer from headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all, of the so-called "cures" on the market. Some months since my attention was called to your Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a "sick" or "nervous" headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effect. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I find them a good remedy for "sour" stomach as well as headache. ## OLEANDERS OF BERMUDA.

In Summer Time They Fairly Run Riot Over the Islands.

Back in the fifties, when Anthony Trollope held a roving commission as postoffice inspector for the British government, he visited Bermuda, then practically unknown to any people save mariners. The distinguished author said some uncomplimentary things about the native Bermudians, much to their amusement, but he could not help praising the scenery of their island home and particularly the oleanders. He voted that Bermuda should be called the "Oleander Isles."

Curiously enough, Bermuda is better known as the home of the onion and the Easter lily, to say nothing of the potato and the rose, although the oleander is the most gorgeous and conspicuous shrub in the islands. Shrub is hardly the word to describe the oleander. It is readily a tree, lifting its top twenty feet in the air and growing in thickets that the island planters use as screens or windbreaks.

In summer the hedges are covered with a profusion of pink, white and crimson blossoms that last well into the autumn and make great splashes of color on the hills and at the roadside. The oleander has no enemies. Animals refuse to touch it, and the tree runs its riotous way all over the islands. Those who visit Bermuda only in winter miss the glory of the oleander blossoms and also many of the other gorgeous flowers. While there is plenty of bloom in the winter months, the array of flowers is even greater in summer.—New York Post.

MOTHER'S BAKING DAY.

Modern Conditions Make It Practically a Thing of the Past.

We do not propose either to affirm or to deny that the bakers make better bread than "mother used to make." There used to be as many kinds of mothers as there are now varieties of bakers. And comparisons are odious.

But the baker is to be hailed as one of the chief benefactors of the age, on grounds which take no account of the relative merits of bread. He has emancipated women at least one day out of the week. He has given a vast army of mothers more time to perform the duties other than those which have to do with the kitchen.

It needs no patriarch to remember what baking day used to be like. In summer's heat the stove had to be fired up to the melting point, and mother had to knead the dough until her back ached, and stick around in the kitchen lest the crust become too hard, and watch against a hundred other mischances which are to be expected when the heat releases the chemical action of the ingredients in the bread pan.

Baking day is a thing of the past in thousands of homes—at least, the old fashioned baking day is. The bread may be better or worse, but the baker is to be regarded as a benefactor in that he has practically put an end to that old roasting experience which formerly came to every woman at least one day out of seven.

A Hacendado's Revenge

A Story of the Mexican Civil War

By JOHN Y. LARNED

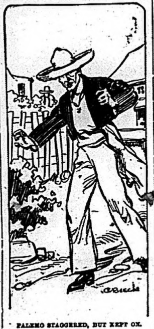
Manuel Rodrigues, a hacendado of the province of Nuevo de Leon, Mexico, one morning kissed his wife and children, mounted his horse and was about to ride away when his wife said to him:

"I am afraid to have you go. The rebels are advancing from the north, and I fear you may encounter some of them."

Signor Rodrigues sat in his saddle, thinking not of the danger to himself, but to his wife and children. There were lawless persons in the rebel army, some who had been brigands, and, as for looting conquered territory, their officers often permitted it. He did not wish to leave his family under such circumstances, but it was necessary that he should go.

"Never fear for me. I am well armed and can fight. Goodby, sweetheart. I'll surely be with you again before nightfall."

He bent down and kissed her again, then, urging his horse forward, rode away, turning, after having gone a short distance, to see his wife looking at him with a wistfulness that haunted him during the whole of his absence.



PALEMO STAGGERED, BUT KEPT ON.

Stopping now and again to make inquiries, he learned that a body of rebels under General Villa were marching toward Victoria. They were to the eastward of him and if they kept to the railroad, which they probably would, they would pass within a few miles of his hacienda. He hurried on that he might perform his journey and return as soon as possible.

Rodriguez, being sadly in need of cash, was going to collect a debt. Reaching his destination he found his debtor in possession of funds. He secured his money, and without waiting even to refresh himself started homeward.

About the middle of the afternoon, on coming to the crest of a hill where he could look down on his hacienda several miles away, he was horror stricken to see a cloud of smoke arising from among the high palm trees that inclosed his house. With a cry he spurred his horse down the declivity and had covered half the distance when he met a family of Indian peons coming from the opposite direction. Reining in his horse, he asked them for news of his family.

"They have all been murdered, senor," said the man. "The bandit Palemo, with some of his men, looted your house and burned it down with every one in it."

For a few moments Rodriguez sat paralyzed; then he dashed forward more rapidly than before.

Nearing another group of persons he reined in again to ask if Palemo and his men were still at the hacienda and was told that they had gone, taking a road leading in the direction of Victoria. Rodriguez, realizing that if he wished his revenge he must strike before the bandits rejoined the army, instead of going to the ruins of his home, struck into a path that would put him on the road the outlaws had taken. He was turning into it when he met a friend, Jose Penalez, who, having heard of the bandits' depredations, had hastily collected half a dozen of his neighbors and was going to the protection of the Rodriguez hacienda. They were all mounted and armed, and on being told of the news given by the peons joined the bereaved man, and the party, eight men in all, dashed on for vengeance.

Had the bandits ridden on without stopping for more plunder they would doubtless have joined Villa's army before being overtaken. But Rodrigues and his men passed house after house where the owners were bemoaning the loss of their valuables, and in some instances, where there had been resistance, there were smoking ruins. Now and again they stopped for a few moments to make inquiries.

What robbery might have failed to effect pulque achieved. On nearing a hamlet the pursuers asked a man on the road the whereabouts of the bandits and were told that they were drinking the national beverage in a saloon not half a mile beyond, one of seven houses that made up the town. Penalez, who was naturally cooler than Rodriguez, asked how many bandits there were and was told that there were six. Rodrigues gave this information to his friend, to whom he looked for leadership.

Up to this moment Rodriguez had been so filled with fury that he had considered nothing but an attack on the destroyers of his house without taking into account their numbers or surroundings. A complete change now came over him. Turning a bend in the road, he saw ahead the pulque house which he had been told contained his enemies. A desire seized him to make the house a fire for roasting them alive. To do this he must corral them, and to corral them needed coolness to meet their efforts to escape. He reined in his horse and gave his orders.

The point of attack was about an eighth of a mile from any of the other houses in the hamlet. Rodriguez directed Penales to take half the men, break to the right through covering trees and, approaching the saloon, deploy and surround it on the west, while Rodrigues with the remaining force executed the same maneuver on the east. The house was on the road at the lowest point between two gently sloping declivities, with scattered trees 200 or 300 yards from its front and rear.

When the two wings of Rodriguez's little army got into their respective positions, each forming a semicircle about the pulque house, the bandits were still drinking within. The first knowledge they had of their danger was the collapse of one of their number, who was standing near a window, raising a cup of pulque to his mouth. His fall was accompanied almost simultaneously by the crack of a rifle. Every man started to his feet.

The shot had been fired by Rodriguez, and during the ensuing fight whenever a bandit exposed himself to one of the attacking party the latter would call Rodriguez's attention to the fact and Rodriguez would pick him off. But Palemo, telling his men to keep from exposing themselves, through a crack reconnoitered the field and, though he could see no one, surmised that he was surrounded. But of the strength of those attacking him he was ignorant, for Rodrigues and his men were concealed behind trees or in bushes.

Rodriguez sent a man to one of the houses of the hamlet for kerosene and as much cotton bedclothing and other similar fabrics as he could collect. While his enemies were waiting for this man's return Palemo ordered his men to shoot in different directions, hoping to draw a fire which would enable him to locate the positions of his enemies and to form some estimate of their numbers. But Rodriguez gave orders that not a shot was to be returned. Then Palemo sent four men out by several different egresses, but they had scarcely exposed themselves when one fell dead and two were wounded. The fourth man succeeded in regaining cover.

The messenger who had been sent for inflammables returning, Rodriguez divided the stock between his own and Penalez's division of his force. Gathering oranges, which abounded, the men tied a bundle of cotton fabric saturated with kerosene to the fruit, inserted the end of a stick into the orange and, lighting the kerosene, swung the stick in a circle till the orange flew off and carried the burning mass against the thatched roof of the pulque house. It was not long before sufficient contact had been effected between the flames and the roof to set it afire.

The besieged now saw that they must either be burned alive or sally forth to meet an unknown force. There was no way of reaching the roof from within to put out the fire, and to attempt to do so from without would expose them to death from bullets. Palemo told his men that they would better die from lead than flames. But they were not of the kind to meet death heroically and preferred to wait for the flames rather than face the bullets. The bandit leader stepped forth alone and walked slowly forward. Rodriguez saw him and, directing the others not to fire, sent a bullet crashing into his shoulder. Palemo staggered, but kept on. Rodriguez sent another bullet into the other shoulder. Still the bandit advanced. Then Rodriguez pierced his enemy's brain, and he fell dead.

From that moment the hacendado seemed to lose desire for further revenge. Consenting that Penalez should spare the others if he chose, he mounted his horse and rode to the ruins of his hacienda.

Drawing rein among those who stood about the smoking ruins of his home, one of his friends approached him and said:

"Ah, Rodriguez, I am sorry for your loss! But you came near having a much greater one. Your wife and children are at my house. They fled on the approach"—

"My wife and children! Alive?"

"Yes. Come and satisfy them that you are safe. You have been gone so long that they fear you have fallen at the hands of the rebels."

With muttered thanks to heaven, Rodriguez dashed away, and in a few minutes he and his family were locked in one embrace.

There was a revenue of $421,690 from spirits, $208,193 from malt, and $800,915 from tobacco.

The Rivals

They Were an Old Bachelor and a Young Sailor

By F. A. MITCHEL

When John Gorman died he left his daughter Helen an orphan with no income. Richard Hunter, a bachelor friend of Gorman's, had lent him $3,000, taking a mortgage on his farm for security. Hunter did not ask for the security; Gorman insisted on giving it.

Helen Gorman was but seventeen years old when her father died and knew nothing about his affairs, but Gorman had talked with his friend about her.

"Dick," he said, "Helen at my death will have nothing but the farm, and you hold a mortgage on that for pretty near all it is worth. There's only one thing that would give me any comfort at leaving her, and that's out of the question."

"What is it?" asked Hunter.

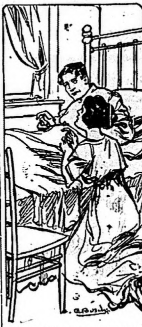
"If I could see you and Helen married before I die I wouldn't feel worried about her."

A faint flush came over Hunter's face and a light of pleasure in his eye, but it was transient.

"That can't be," he replied sadly, "on account of the difference in our ages. Helen is but sixteen, and I'm thirty-eight."

"That's not an impassable barrier. But there is another reason why I can't see my little girl provided for as I would like. She's given her heart to a young sailor."

Hunter looked grave at this and asked if the lover would not be able to take care of Helen. Whereupon Gorman told him that the youngster was wild, without ambition and would not be likely even to take care of any one, not even himself.



SANK ON HER KNEES BY HIS BED.

Gorman died without again referring to the matter. Helen had the good sense to send for Hunter and ask him to take charge of her affairs. There being no funds, he provided for her immediate wants out of his own pocket, concealing the fact from her. After her father's funeral she consulted Hunter as to what she should do. He told her that there was no income for her, but said nothing about the mortgage he held. That was at a time when the fields for self support for women were not open to them as they are now. Helen looked very much troubled.

"It seems to me," said Hunter, "that you had better be married. Isn't there some one you would like to marry?"

"Yes," was the reply, "there is. But he couldn't support a wife just yet. Besides, he is at sea all the while, and I should be left alone."

"It is a pity that I am so much older than you. I would be only too glad to provide for you as my wife."

Helen made no reply to this, and Hunter left her. At the end of every month he gave her $50. She asked him if the property had produced the amount, and he told her that it might produce the total during the year, but the income was not regular. This was saved from being a falsehood only by the word "might."

Since Brackett, the sailor, did not return—and there was nothing to be expected from him when he did—Helen made up her mind to marry Richard Hunter. He was kind to her—she did not know how kind—and she took comfort in having him for a protector. She also felt companionable with him. But she had built up an imaginary idol out of the sailor boy, and it would not crumble. Her decision to give herself to Hunter was therefore made reluctantly and after a copious flow of tears.

Hunter flushed with pleasure when she told him that she would marry him. She had made a resolution to banish young Brackett from her mind and acted a loverlike part toward Hunter so well that he was deceived into thinking that she was quite content, if not possibly happy, in her decision. But he did not hurry her, preferring that she should have plenty of time to be off with the old love before taking on a new one.

As time wore on Helen seemed to grow more and more satisfied with her decision, and at times Hunter thought he could perceive a glimmer of true love in her treatment of him. Indeed, so encouraged was he that he asked her to name the day. She did so quite willingly.

Hunter, though not sheering off so far from the truth as to leave it entirely, convinced her that she was living on her own income and when the wedding day was fixed contrived to make her believe that a windfall had come to her property, which would pay for a trousseau. This was especially pleasing to her, for nature has not yet produced a woman who would be indifferent to this accessory to her marriage. Helen made her purchases and went to work with a will in the construction of a wardrobe.

Suddenly there came a thunderclap from a clear sky. Bob Brackett returned from his voyage with a fine sum of prize money, his share of the salvage of a disabled ship that his vessel had towed into port. He burst in upon Helen, not knowing of the change that had come over her, with the news, finishing with the words, "Now, sweetheart, let us be married at once."

When Hunter heard of his rival's return he went to Helen and said to her:

"I wish you to consider yourself released and to feel perfectly free to marry the man who has returned to you."

"I have given you my promise," was the reply, "and I will keep it."

But Hunter saw that her heart was not in her words. He asked her to tell him truthfully whether he or the sailor possessed it. She tried to evade the question, but Hunter would not be put off. At last he forced her to tell the truth. Her heart had been given to Brackett, and she was unable, if she would, to take it back again.

Hunter at once withdrew in favor of his rival. With an effort he succeeded in concealing from Helen what a crushing blow had fallen upon him in his loss. One matter puzzled him. Now that another was to be her husband the fact that Hunter had been supplying her with the wherewithal to live, that he had deceived her in the matter of the windfall for the trousseau, that he held a mortgage on her farm for all it was worth, must come out. How should he break the fact to her?

Hunter was a very sensitive man. He was much broken by his disappointment, and, though he had been resolute in giving up his bride expectant, he was vacillating in the matter of how to let her know that instead of possessing property she was a pauper. Worry made him ill, and he was confined to his bed.

Helen, who, importuned by the sailor, had accepted her release and agreed to marry Brackett before he sailed again, went on with the preparations for a wedding in which there was to be a change of grooms. She seemed to regret the disappointment she had occasioned Hunter, and Brackett in order that her break with his rival should be complete proposed that a transfer of the care of her property should be made to him. Helen reluctantly consented.

Brackett went to see Hunter, whom he found in bed, and asked for an accounting of Helen's estate. Hunter was too ill to invent any more subterfuges and was obliged to make a clean breast of the matter. Brackett returned to Helen with the information that she had nothing and that all she had received had been given her by Hunter.

"I believe," added Brackett, "that the fellow has contrived to get your property into his own possession."

Helen looked at him like one dazed. Then suddenly, without a word, she went out and strode rapidly in the direction of Hunter's house. Brackett, who did not know what action she would take, watched her till she had passed out of sight, then went into the house to await developments.

Hunter was lying alone in his misery when suddenly the girl he loved hurried into his room, sank on her knees by his bed, put her arms around him and moaned:

"Forgive me."

Renewed vigor ran through the sick man's weakened body. He sat up, took the girl in his arms, and there were caresses such as had never passed between them before.

"Send some one," she said presently, "to tell him to go away."

An hour later Richard Hunter, walking with a tread that had received a powerful stimulus, appeared at Helen Gorman's home. Brackett, who was awaiting Helen's return, saw him coming. Having left Hunter a short time before ill in bed, he wondered. A dread took possession of him. Hunter came up to him and said:

"I am commissioned by Miss Gorman to tell you that she has come to a final decision between you and me and in my favor."

Brackett was thunderstruck. He made no reply for some time, then said:

"If Miss Gorman will say that to me or write it I will accept it as the truth."

Hunter drew a bit of paper from his pocket and handed it to the sailor. He read it, tore it into bits, turned on his heel and left the house.

On the evening that Hunter married Helen the returned sailor spent the prize money he had brought home in an orgy and the next day went on another voyage.

Mrs Newlywed says—

"I can't imagine how you manage to be dressed by the time your husband comes home on a wash day."

Mrs Wise Neighbour says—

"I use an Eddy Globe Washboard and an Eddy Indurated Fibreware Tub, which keeps the water hot for a long time. No fear of rust. But be sure they are Eddy's.

Buffalo Express: "An elaborate edition issued last Sunday marked the 150th anniversary of the Hartford Courant. It is the boast of the Courant that it is the only newspaper in the United States which has been printed continuously without a change of name since 1764. In its prosperity is reflected the quality of the Courant."

The success of the British government in cornering the sugar supply has resulted in a reduction of 60 cents per 100 pounds in the price. This makes the retail price seven or eight cents for granulated, depending upon the grade. Had the government not gone into this business, sugar would have been by this time very much of a luxury, so far as the price was concerned.

Once in a blue moon you run across a man who has an idea but doesn't know what to do with it.
